Steel Strike Starts With 650,000 Idle; Other Industries Hit

NEW YORK (Sunday) (UP)—Some 650,000 steel workers went on strike across the country early today against an industry which, in one way or another, affects virtually everyone in the land.

The walkout officially took effect at 12:01 a. m., although the steel mills were already at a standstill because of the necessity for cooling their giant furnaces slowly. This began two days ago.

In final statements released at midnight, both the United Steelworkers and the companies affected rapped each other for causing the strike.

DAVID McDONALD
"no need for shutdown"

NOTHING was said about a new date for efforts to work out a solution for the paralyzed industry—a mainstay for the nation's economic and military strength.

In a union statement, President David J. McDonald declared:

"The responsibility for the shutdown in steel production rests entirely with the steel companies. There was no need for this shutdown.

"There is no need for the shutdown to continue if the steel companies are now willing to act fairly and justly rather than arbitrarily and arrogantly."

He said the union stood ready at any time to negotiate a "fair settlement."

The 12 major companies closely concerned with the negotiations here — which would have set a pattern for the industry—said:

"THE ONLY proposals that the union has made have been so excessive that they afforded no realistic basis for bargaining."

Furthermore, they added, the contract proposals put forward by the companies "represents the largest increase in actual purchasing power they have ever attained."

The industry added that it, too, is ready to continue talks at any time.

Both sides said they would stand by, on call.

But persons close to the parties expressed doubt there was any chance of another get-together within a week, considering the loss of time.

President at Farm to Convalesce

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—President Eisenhower, pale and weak but in high spirits after three weeks in the hospital, arrived at his quiet farm home Saturday for "at least" two weeks of convalescence and to weigh his second-term plans.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower and two of his doctors, made the 85-mile automobile drive from Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington in two hours and two minutes. The doctors said he showed natural fatigue but displayed no signs of undue strain.

HIS LOSS of weight—six pounds—was evident, however, and his ruddy complexion had vanished after his long hospital sojourn.

The President walked very slowly when he left the hospital and held Mrs. Eisenhower's arm for support. He had a noticeable limp.

Eisenhower left the hospital three weeks to the day after some of the nation's finest surgeons had removed an intestinal obstruction which had threatened his life.

While the doctors feel the operation actually increased Eisenhower's life expectancy, it was bound to cause him to consider his political future once again. He went through a similar period of meditation early this year and decided his serious heart attack last Sept. 24 did not bar him from seeking reelection.

EISENHOWER has said nothing about his political future

Ship Crushes Docker in Harbor Fall

A 41-year-old Wilmington longshoreman was killed in Los Angeles Harbor Saturday night when he slipped and fell into the water and was crushed against a pile by a large freighter.

Joseph Strickney, 817 W. Ott St., was working on the freighter, SS Torien, at Berth 53, when, fellow workers said, his foot slipped and he fell between the ship and the pier.

BEFORE ANYONE COULD help him, shifting currents forced the big ship against the pier crushing the longshoreman against the pier support.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at San Pedro Community Hospital.

L.A.C. Says: L. A. White Elephant

Opposition by the Long Beach City Council and Chamber of Commerce should cause County Supervisors to delay further plans for the $51 million auditorium and music hall to be located in the center of the Los Angeles downtown business district. The county is already involved in building a Sports Arena on the Coliseum grounds. This Sports Arena will provide more seating capacity than the $51 million downtown project. It will cost only $8 million. Since the two projects will be in competition for many events it is apparent one of them will be a white elephant to be paid for by all county taxpayers.

Arguments favoring the $51 million project are that it will provide a building to hold large conventions such as the GOP convention, next August in the Cow Palace, in San Francisco. And yet the Cow Palace will seat only 14,900 for that event. The projected Others involved included Janice Mae Heiser, 24, (left) of Milwaukee, an off-duty stewardess on the TWA airliner, and United Flight engineer G. X. It was strewn along the bottom of a big canyon, the characteristic triple tall sections of the "Connie" virtually the only portion of the plane unscathed by fire.

A quarter-mile away, in the Little Colorado River, the brothers said they believed they spotted the wreckage of the UAL plane. The site was only about a quarter of a mile from the TWA wreckage.

If there are no survivors of the two planes, which were flying a near-parallel course after taking off from Los Angeles headed for Chicago and Kansas City, it will be the greatest commercial air disaster in nearly a half-century of flying.

"It is very likely a collision occurred," said Capt. Byrd Ryland, 1000 March Air Force Base, commander of the search operations.

At March Base near Riverside, Calif., Col. Frank Schwikert, commanding officer of the Air Search and Rescue Unit, corroborated Ryland's belief.

Schwikert said Ryland reported he talked to the Hudgins and they reported they spotted smoke about 11:15 a.m. (PDT) but thought nothing of it until they heard radio reports that two big airliners were missing.

The two planes were due to check in over Tuba City, in the heart of the Painted Desert area on the watershed of the Grand Canyon at 11:32 a.m. (PDT)—at which time their flight plans called for them to be only 1100 feet apart.

When they heard of the missing plane, the Hudgins flew back to the scene and identified the tail section of the big "Connie." This was reported to search and rescue headquarters here just before dark.

"From the amount of stuff and the distribution of it and the way the planes were demolished, it looked like there would not be any life there," Henry told Ryland.

THE AREA IS inaccessible by foot or vehicle. The Winslow search and rescue headquarters planned to enlist parachutists to drop into the area this morning at dawn.

Hudgins said the TWA wreckage lay scattered down the slopes of Chuar Butte, west of night.

Two Women Killed in 101 Crash

LAGUNA BEACH (UP)—Two women, one from Cleveland, Ohio, were killed Saturday in a three-car crash on a U.S. 101 detour north of here.

Highway patrolmen identified the dead as Alice Marie Taranpino, about 21, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Ellene Aufdenkamp, 60, wife of a former Laguna Beach councilman.

Joseph Taranpino, about 21, from the same Cleveland address, and Mary Ellen Rockwell, 21, of Costa Mesa, were reported in critical condition at a Newport Beach hospital.

Officers said Mrs. Aufdenkamp's car was involved in a collision with one occupied by the other three victims. A third car operated by Tony West, 20, South Laguna, smashed into the wreckage, but he escaped with minor cuts.

Nixon Flies Here on Way To Manila and Indochina

Vice President Nixon's plane set down at the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station for three hours Saturday night—just long enough for a quick visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Nixon.

The Vice President rushed home to Whittier to spend the brief interval with the elder Nixon and was due to leave again at midnight on his good-will tour to Manila and Saigon.

Nixon was asked upon his arrival here from a Miami speaking engagement about his last meeting with President Eisenhower.

HE QUOTED the President as saying he wished he could be making the trip because he re-

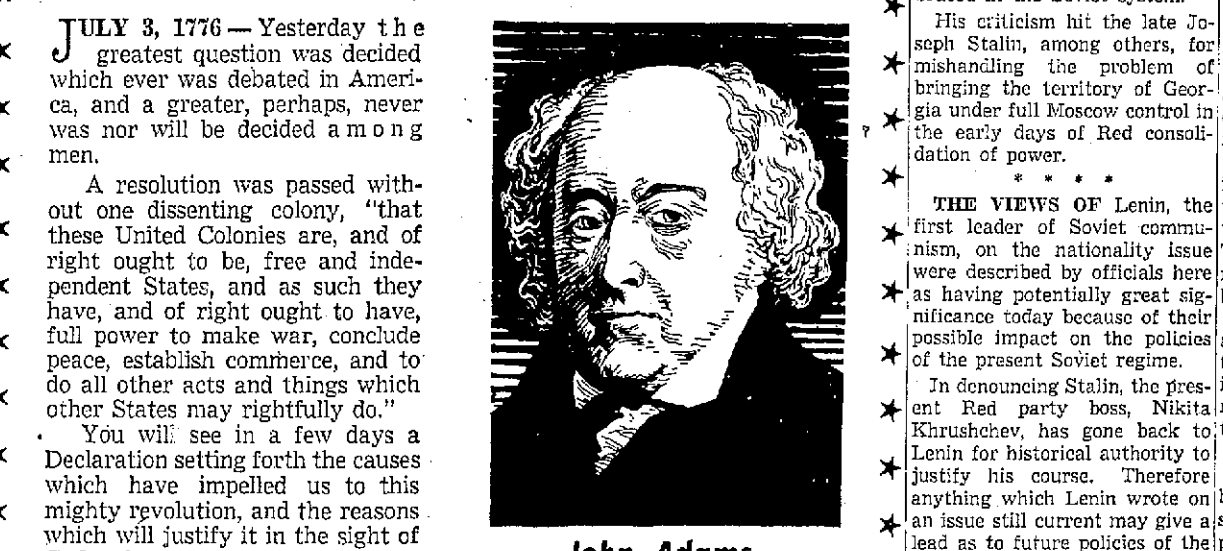

Letter to Abigail

(A reluctant Congress adopted the revolutionary measure in the form of a resolution on July 8, two days before the signing of the formal Declaration.)

John Adams

JULY 3, 1776 — Yesterday the greatest question was decided which ever was debated in America, and a greater, perhaps, never was nor will be decided among men.

A resolution was passed without one dissenting colony, "that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States, and as such they have, and of right ought to have, full power to make war, conclude peace, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which other States may rightfully do."

You will see in a few days a Declaration setting forth the causes which have impelled us to this mighty revolution, and the reasons which will justify it in the sight of God and man.

... It may be the will of Heaven that America shall suffer calamities still more wasting, and distresses yet more dreadful. If this is to be the case, it will have this good effect at least. It will inspire us with many virtues which we have not, and correct many errors, follies, and vices which threaten to disturb, dishonor, and destroy us. The furnace of affliction produces refinement, in states as well as individuals. And the new governments we are assuming in every part will require a purification from our vices, and an augmentation of our virtues, or they will be no blessings.

The people will have unbounded power, and the people are extremely addicted to corruption and venality, as well as the great. But I must submit all my hopes and fears to an overruling Providence, in which, unfashionable as the faith may be, I firmly believe.

The second day of July 1776 will be the most memorable epocha in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated, as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward, forevermore.

You will think me transported with enthusiasm, but I am not. I am well aware of the toil, and blood, and treasure that it will cost us to maintain this Declaration, and support and defend these States. Yet, through all the gloom, I can see the rays of ravishing light and glory. I can see that the end is more than worth all the means, and that posterity will triumph in that transaction, even though we should rue it, which I trust in God we shall not.

Lenin's Jabs at Stalinism Bared in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The State Department published Saturday night 18 Soviet documents, most of them still secret in the Soviet Union, showing that V. I. Lenin once scathingly denounced the "rascality" of Russian Communists in dealing with non-Russian peoples embraced in the Soviet system.

His criticism hit the late Joseph Stalin, among others, for mishandling the problem of bringing the territory of Georgia under full Moscow control in the early days of Red consolidation of power.

THE VIEWS OF Lenin, the first leader of Soviet communism, on the nationality issue were described by officials here as having potentially great significance today because of their possible impact on the policies of the present Soviet regime.

In denouncing Stalin, the present Red party boss, Nikita Khrushchev, has gone back to Lenin for historical authority to justify his course. Therefore anything which Lenin wrote on an issue still current may give a lead as to future policies of the present Soviet regime or may be used as criticism when such policies fail to follow Lenin's teachings.

Report New Russ Bid to Vatican

ROME (UP)—Roman Catholic sources said Saturday night that Russia has offered a "co-existence" proposal to the Vatican.

The sources said the riots in Poland were believed to have added urgency to the Kremlin's reported plan for a "religious peace" campaign.

auditorium is planned to seat 20,000. But it is estimated the Sports Arena—which will be ready for occupancy next year—will seat close to 30,000. Why then do the Supervisors want another structure at many times the cost?

It is apparent some very misleading estimates have been released to the public—and used in selling the idea to the Supervisors. It is stated that this $51 million project may lose only $500,000 a year. That might be a reasonable amount for county taxpayers to undertake for such a project. But a check of auditoriums and stadiums over the country indicate the cost to county taxpayers will be five or six times that amount, and probably more.

Most successful operation of its kind in the world is Madison Square Garden in New York. It is privately owned and busy with all kinds of sports events, the big circus and conventions. In 1954 its gross earnings were $398,000. The Cow Palace at San Francisco has millions of dollars of state funds invested. It has never made as much as $100,000 in any one year, not considering interest on investment or redemption of bonds. Very few other auditoriums pay their operating expenses. The Long Beach auditorium costs taxpayers some $75,000 a year.

Supervisors and the people have been told of how this new project will be financed "without using public money." A private non-profit corporation has been formed to raise the $51 million to build the project. But that private money is protected by an iron-clad lease with the county calling for return of the money with interest and a guarantee by the county it will pay any operating losses. In other words the private money is protected as much as if it were given county bonds. Any losses would be charged to all taxpayers in the county—not just to Los Angeles. The annual cost of redemption of principal and interest alone will total over $2.5 million a year. It is apparent the total Long Beach share will be in excess of $6 million.

Of great importance is how this is being done. Los Angeles voters recently turned down a $15 million auditorium project. Now this group of Los Angeles people are placing a $51 million project in its place and doing it with what is, in effect, public money—without a vote of the people. It is an example of the lease-purchase system by which public officials are bypassing the people on such fabulous expenditures. Before this one is made the Supervisors should let the people in the county, outside Los Angeles, express their views at the voter's booth.

If the Los Angeles project will not stand a long enough delay for proper study by other areas of the county, it should be killed. It was rushed through by Supervisors who had never seen the plans up until a few days before they voted approval of this vast sum of money. The rest of the county should take whatever action seems necessary to stop a taxation liability which will be for a project which cannot be justified in view of the Sports Arena already started. Supervisors just cannot justify two such structures within so short a distance of each other.—L.A.C.

Steel Strike on; Whole Nation Hit

ing the 4th of July and other matters.

TWO FINAL negotiation sessions—the last concluding just six hours before the strike deadline—blew up with each side refusing to budge an inch.

John A. Stephens, chief industry negotiator, straddled forth and told newsmen:

"We have not reached an agreement."

A moment later McDonald voiced the same statement. The strike could have serious consequences, both for the industry and the nation.

Thousands of workers in other fields are dependent on steel or steel products for earning their own livelihood.

AND PRACTICALLY every man, woman and child in the country are dependent on the industry's output in some way—from the electric toasters in their kitchens to the gasoline in their automobiles.

Some associated industries will be hard hit immediately.

Construction already has been beset by shortages in structural steel and heavy plate steel necessary for building and highway work.

The big oil industry, too, is in the same spot. It has a very small inventory and some companies have halted new well drilling.

RAILROADS will lose millions in revenue gained from hauling steel and allied products.

There was no hope for the government to move into the situation.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell said it is maintaining strictly hands off—barring a strike of great length. In that case, the Taft-Hartley law might be invoked.

Industry sources said the strike would halt about 90 per cent of the country's steel production. The other 10 per cent is produced by steel unions having contracts expiring at later dates or not affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

It was estimated that the production loss each week of the strike would be 2,100,000 tons—worth $273,000,000 at current prices.

8,000 Area Workers Affected by Strike

Long Beach and Los Angeles area steel workers were scheduled to man picket lines at four major plants in the area and a number of smaller concerns, beginning at midnight if the nation-wide steel strike got under way.

More than 8,000 area workers were expected to be affected by the strike action. Plants and the number of workers involved are: Bethlehem Steel in Vernon, 2,500; Consolidated Western Division of U. S. Steel in Los Angeles, 2,500; Columbia Steel in Torrance, 1,100; Bethlehem Fabricating plant in Torrance, 400, and miscellaneous smaller plants, a total of 1,100.

Anticipating the strike, officials at the Columbia plant in Torrance and the Bethlehem plant in Vernon ordered cooling processes started at noon Saturday.

The officials said the orders were given as a precautionary measure to avoid possible damage to nearby residents and damage to equipment which would be left untended should the strike occur.

Heavy Guns, Tanks Blast Pole Rioters

BERLIN (AP) — Polish heavy artillery and tanks Saturday night appeared to be crushing the last holdouts of a workers' bread and freedom revolt in the rubble of Poznan.

Westerners streaming out of Poznan told of tanks and artillery throwing a ring of steel around the city. A Frenchman said artillery was firing on the center of Poznan.

Meanwhile the United States, exploiting the grave troubles facing Communist rulers in eastern Europe, dramatically offered to ship thousands of tons of free food into Poland.

"The reports of serious disorders in Poznan, Poland, seem to be marked by demands by the population for bread, and we are informed of serious food shortages in Poland," Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. said in a letter to Harold Starr, general counsel of the American Red Cross.

HOOPER ASKED Starr to determine through the International Red Cross whether Poland would accept the gift.

Gunfire echoed through the streets of Poznan Saturday morning but died out in the afternoon, westerners said.

Two Portuguese businessmen said they were told from 400 to 600 Poles were killed in three days of street fighting. Warsaw Radio increased its estimate of the number of dead from 33 to 48.

The radio spoke angrily of "marks of devastation" in Poznan and indicated mass trials for ringleaders. It said an investigation of those under arrest had begun.

ONE WARSAW broadcast in the English language charged a "certain power" helped to foment the uprising by "openly supporting subversive movements in socialist countries." This appeared to refer to the United States, often accused by the Communists of such activity.

Warsaw Radio said Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz visited 31 wounded in Poznan hospitals. They were soldiers and civilians wounded in the fight against "fascist provocateurs," the broadcast added.

The radio said hospitals were jammed with the wounded. Doctors, surgeons and students of the Poznan Medical Academy volunteered their services.

The broadcast said the worst devastation was in Kochanowski St. The state security police building is here. The building was the object of the workers' wrath when the uprising broke out Thursday.

"THE BUILDING of the state security service clearly shows the marks of the fighting," the Warsaw broadcast said. "Here, four members of the service, among them a lieutenant and an ensign, were killed."

"In expert fashion, the rioters surrounded the building . . . with machinegun nests. This proves that the action was directed by people who are schooled in diversionist fighting."

Warsaw said citizens were volunteering to remove the rubble.

POLISH WORKERS launching the uprising shouted for bread, called for the Russians to leave and demanded better living conditions.

The rebels apparently were equipped with plenty of weapons at the outset.

Some unconfirmed reports said Polish troops abandoned their tanks and turned them over to the rebels on the second day of the uprising. Three Frenchmen arriving from Poznan said they saw Communist militiamen join the rebels.

SEFTON DELMAR, London Daily Express correspondent, said in Warsaw two tanks and "several units of infantry" helped workers capture the Poznan radio station Friday morning.

The rebellion "is just about over," Delmar told Merrill Mueller, NBC correspondent at Rome, in a telephone conversation.

A German businessman returning to Hannover said the shooting seemed to end after noon.

FROM SWAMP TO WHITE HOUSE?

Third Party Candidate Pogo Playing Possum

Democratic and Republican National Committees were in a dither Saturday. The announcement of a powerful third party candidate for the presidency touched off a flurry of campaign plan changes and desperate last-minute appointments.

The last-minute entry, a personable comic-strip possum named Pogo, considered very strong in the swamp areas, announced through his cartoonist-creator, Walt Kelly, that he will maintain Pogo-for-President Headquarters in Chicago and San Francisco during the national political conventions. Pogo appears daily in the Independent and Sunday in the Independent Press-Telegram comics.

NBC promises complete coverage of the Pogo Party bid. Pogo party coverage, consisting of a series of three-minute and five-minute television spots of "relief comment, spoof analysis, special campaign songs and four buckets of cigar smoke," will be picked up for national viewing whenever hulls occur on the convention floor.

The cast, headed by Kelly, will include Col. Samuel Taylor Moore, after-dinner speaker, as the typical elderly statesman; Tom Parnell Brophy, public relations man for New York University, who is cast as a ward-heeler politician; and Thomas F. X. Fitzpatrick, raconteur and host at the Artists and Writers Restaurant in New York, as chairman of the "Pogo Party."

Kelly will play a "determined and cunning game of underdog pitted against his own expert advisers."

"We hope to lull the regular parties into a false sense of security by our reported attempts to clarify the issues. Once they have laughed us off, then we will strike," Kelly explained. "However, we are not out to compete with serious democratic processes. We just hope we can provide a few smiles and a little more sense of tolerance during the difficult days of the conventions."

A party spokesman was asked what he would do if the possum were elected: "We'll cross that pretty pass when we come to it," he said.

Boy, 13, Released in Knife Slaying of Foster Sister

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A 13-year-old boy was released Saturday after questioning in the slaying of his foster sister, Carol Elaine Drennon, 14, found stabbed to death Friday on the patio of her home.

Officers said the boy, David Drennon, was released after a Saturday afternoon search of a classroom and a teacher had accounted for his whereabouts at the time of the slaying.

"We are now starting from scratch in the investigation," Prosecuting Atty. Lyndon Sturges reported after the youth was released.

"We have a few leads," he said, "but they aren't very good at the present time."

Young David, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Drennon, a well-to-do family, was held for about 20 hours. He had reported finding the body but insisted he knew nothing about the slaying, which presumably occurred Friday morning.

The girl was stabbed 30 times. Dr. David Gorenlick, a pathologist, said the wounds were about two inches deep and could have been inflicted with a pocket knife. He said the girl had not been sexually molested.

Eisenhower Resting at Gettysburg

since his operation. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told accompanying reporters that Eisenhower had not discussed the subject with him either.

Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower were smiling gaily when they left the hospital. The change of scenery was a big milestone in the President's recovery. It also was the eve of the Eisenhowers' 40th, (ruby) wedding anniversary.

They expect to celebrate the occasion at a quiet dinner to night with their week-end guests, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Leonard D. Heaton who are celebrating their 30th anniversary. Dr. Heaton, commanding general of Walter Reed Medical Center, headed the team of surgeons at the President's operation. It was he who actually performed the surgery.

The Heaton and Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, the President's personal physician, were in the motorcade from Walter Reed to Gettysburg. This permitted the two doctors to keep watchful eyes on the President.

Eisenhower rested his head on a pillow during the journey. He and Mrs. Eisenhower waved happily at Gettysburg Battlefield sightseers who cheered as the presidential car turned into the last mile to the farm.

Hagerty told newsmen the President undressed soon after arrival and lay down on a sofa bed in his first-floor den.

Dick Fiohr, a Secret Service agent and the President's driver, piloted the big White House limousine at somewhat reduced speed and tried to make the ride as gentle as possible.

Singapore Millionaire Kidnaped for Ransom

SINGAPORE (AP) — A gang has kidnaped Ng Quee Gam, a Singapore multimillionaire rubber magnate, and his chauffeur, Singapore police disclosed Saturday.

The gang is said to be holding Ng for ransom of $49,000. He and his driver were seized when they drove home last Thursday.

'Ike Not Qualified for Job'—Harriman

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. Averell Harriman, in a series of vote-hunting sessions with Iowa Democrats, asserted Saturday that President Eisenhower "is not qualified for the Presidency."

He said the President does not understand either the farm problems nor the critical factors in the cold war.

"He hasn't read a book," the New York governor said. "He doesn't read the papers. He doesn't read anything except what they put before him. So he just doesn't know what's going on."

Rosa Ponselle's Condition Good After Operation

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rosa Ponselle, former Metropolitan Opera star, was reported in "quite satisfactory" condition Saturday after an operation for a pelvic tumor at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

The former dramatic soprano, in her mid-50s, entered the hospital Thursday and was operated on Friday. A hospital spokesman said doctors pronounced the surgery a success.

Miss Ponselle, who has been living at her country home in Baltimore County, Villa Pace, has been active recently in work with the Baltimore Civic Opera Co.

Wind Spreading Los Padres Fire

SANTA MARIA (AP) — Gusty winds thwarted efforts to bring a smoldering brush fire 85 miles east of here under control Saturday and the blaze burned on through its fifth day.

The fire has now blackened nearly 4,000 acres of grazing land and light brush, most of it Los Padres National Forest. U. S. Forest Service officials had hoped to halt the blaze Saturday but winds up to 50 miles an hour sent it racing away again. A total of 384 men are on the fire front.

"He was a great soldier, but he is not qualified for the Presidency."

HARRIMAN is on a three-day tour of Iowa, North Dakota and Minnesota in search of support from national convention delegates for his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr (Okla.), a presidential hopeful himself in 1952, told the Nebraska state convention at North Platte that the GOP appears ready to sacrifice the President's health in a "reckless surge" for victory.

Describing such tactics as "hypocritical," Kerr said the Republicans' only hope is based on "an ailing, frustrated President visibly unable to cope with the demands he now has." Each time Eisenhower suffers a setback, he said, "GOP leaders brazenly chant: 'Ike is now better than ever.'"

GOV. GEORGE M. LEADER of Pennsylvania, a staunch Stevenson supporter, said in New York on his return from a tour of Europe that he feels the former Illinois governor "is far enough ahead now to win." He predicted that from "50 to 60" of Pennsylvania's convention votes will go to Stevenson. He promised to "do everything in my power" to sway the delegates to his candidate.

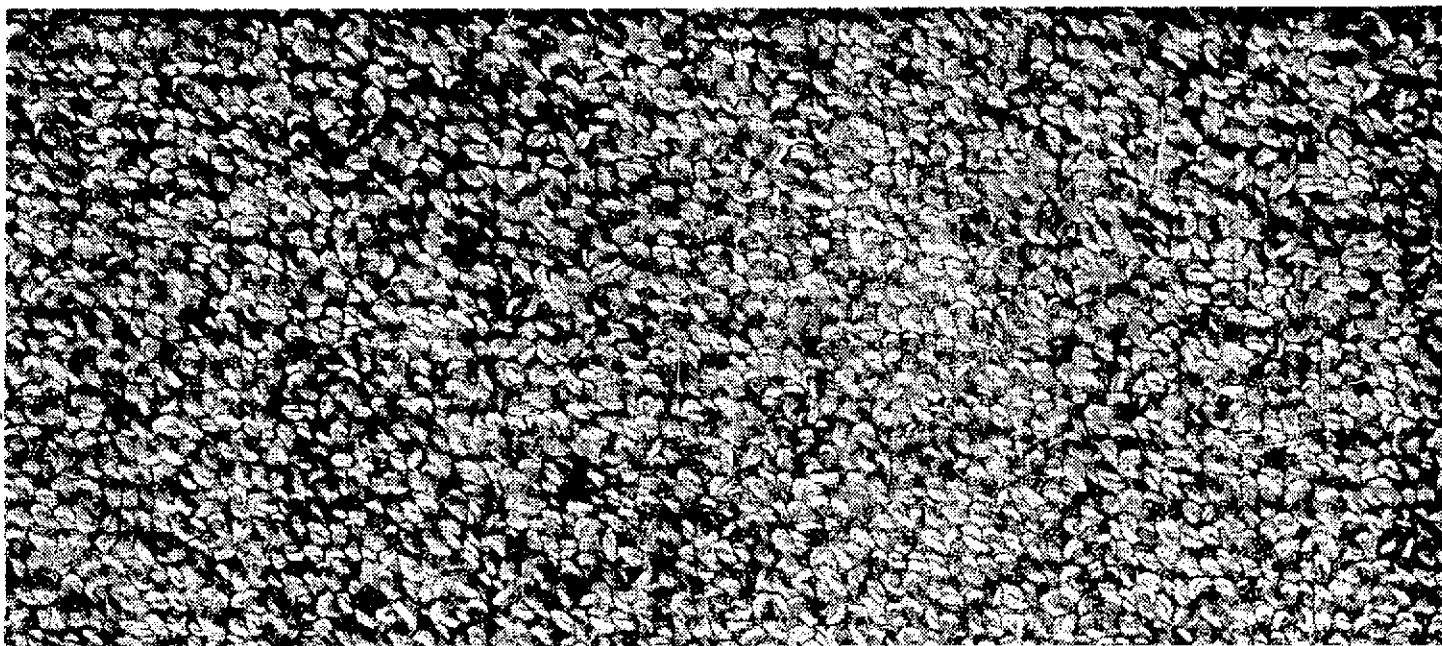

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), a powerful force among southern party forces, threw his support to Lyndon B. Johnson, Senate Democratic leader and Texas' "favorite son." He said in an interview in Atlanta that Johnson is "more in sympathy" with the South's fight against enforced segregation and the preservation of states' rights.

Russell conceded that Stevenson is out in front but said he feels Johnson has an "outside" chance to win.

the mouth of the Little Colorado River and about 45 miles due west of Tuba City, where the planes were to have checked in by radio at 11:32 a.m. (PDT).

They never checked in. Overhead, blanketing the entire Painted Desert area, the sky was filled with typical desert thunderstorms, flashing lightning and piling-up towering white thunderheads, filled with hectic turbulence, above the storms.

SCHWIKERT REPORTED radio monitors heard only a cryptic "we are going..." and then silence from the TWA craft about 11:15 a.m.

Physicians stood by "on the ready" for transportation into the area should the morning sun reveal signs of life around the wreckage. Schwikert said the search and rescue unit was figuring logistics on food and water so that they can be dropped into the scene if survivors are located.

Helicopters will scan the area at low altitude in the morning—at considerable danger to the pilots because of the terrific downdrafts in the canyons.

Ryland said it was possible the rescue teams would have to use rafts on the river to approach the scene because of the difficult terrain.

The wreckage, Ryland said, was located below a point 12 miles short of the Painted Desert Point where both planes were scheduled to make routine flight reports, but failed to do so.

"THEY WERE in the same place at the same time," Ryland said, "and we hope to find out tomorrow if both planes are in the canyon. Getting to the wreckage may be a very dangerous mission, because of the extremely rugged terrain. It may be impossible to send parachutists in, and it may be most difficult to reach the wreckage scene on foot."

"We have doctors standing by in case there are survivors," he added.

Lynn Coffin, Chief Forest Ranger for the Grand Canyon National Park, made the report to the search headquarters here.

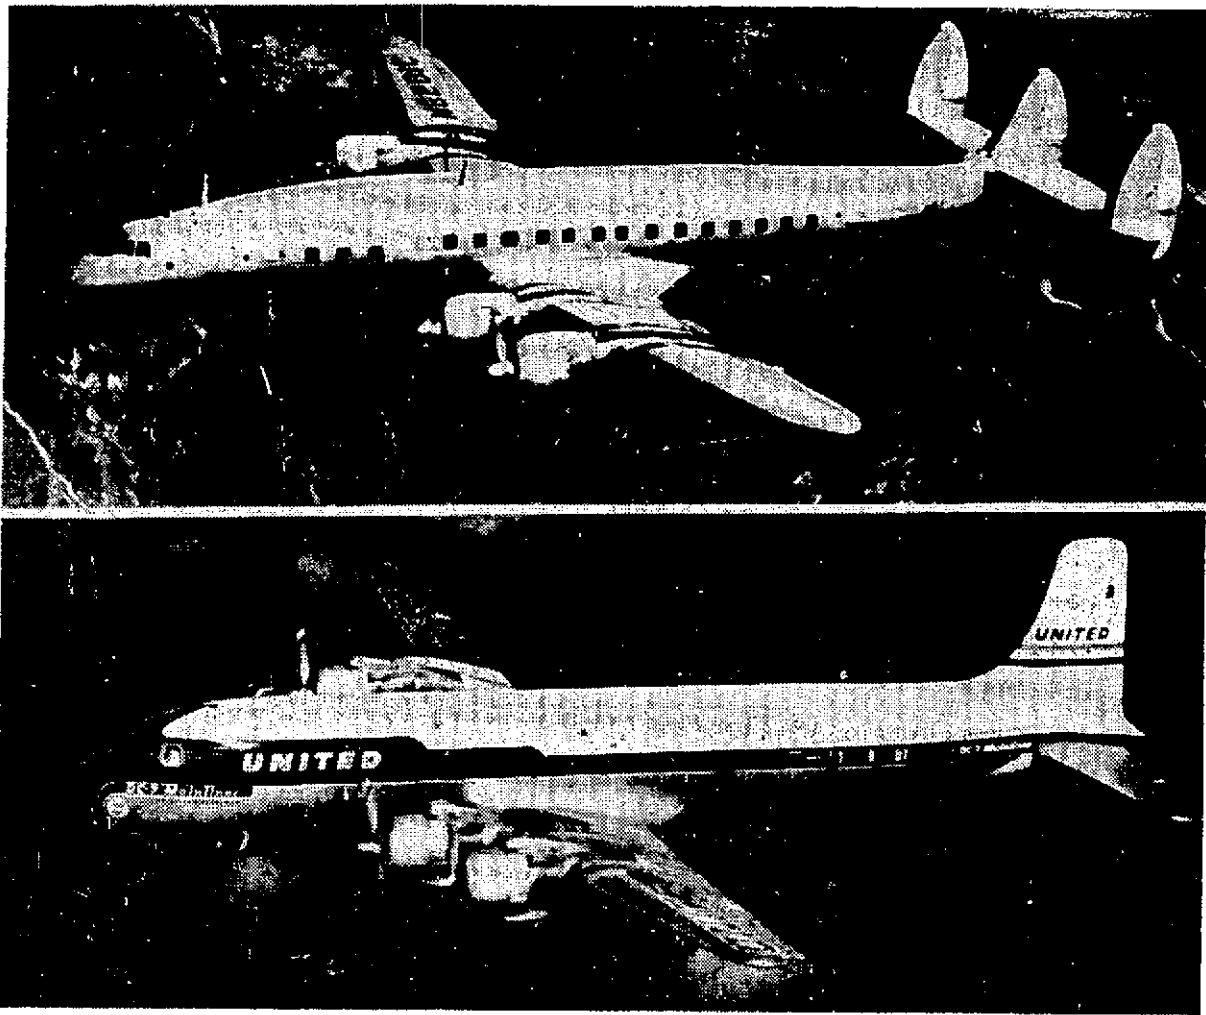

Coffin said the plane was down about 1,000 feet from the mouth of the river in the Grand Canyon. Two small fires were reported in the area but Coffin said there was no sign of life.

THE TWA PLANE, reporting in like its UAL counterpart a half-hour before they were due over Tuba City, said it was flying at 21,000 feet over severe thunderstorms. Thereafter there was silence from both planes and by sunset all hopes of safety for the planes had dwindled to near-zero.

As darkness wrapped the desert a vast search-rescue effort was halted for the night and only one C-54 from March Air Force Base in Riverside, Calif., remained aloft to retrace the flight plan of the planes, watching for fires, flares, etc., that could be plotted on a map and rechecked with the coming of daylight.

UNITED AIR LINES headquarters in Phoenix declined to confirm or deny that one of their search planes sighted the wreckage of one or both of the missing airliners in the Marble Canyon vicinity.

One report came from a flier

Sun -- Not Moon -- Makes Fish Croon

Finny Couples Find Daylight Romance Time

Sunlight—not moonlight—makes fish amorous.

Jean (Mrs. Frank) Adams, 1777 Atlantic Ave., thinks controlled sunlight has much to do with the fact that she has been able to get angel fish, Tetrazona barks, gouramis, catfish, cherry barbs and neons—they're tropical fish in case you didn't know—to breed.

Tropical fish, she explains, will breed only if they are healthy, clean, well-fed and happy.

How does one know if a fish is happy?

"It's happy if it swims animatedly and rises fast for food. If it mopes around the bottom of the aquarium or hides behind things, something is the matter."

They have to be warm to mate—the water should be 72 to 80 degrees. Says Mrs. Adams: "We find that the egg-layers are more romantic if they are struck by the early morning rays of the sun. . . See here."

She takes the visitor to her fish hatchery—where 10,000 small fry see the light of day every month.

BREEDING TANKS are lined up under a skylight. As the direct sunlight hits the tank, romance blooms, and it blooms in the succeeding tanks as the sun tarvels west.

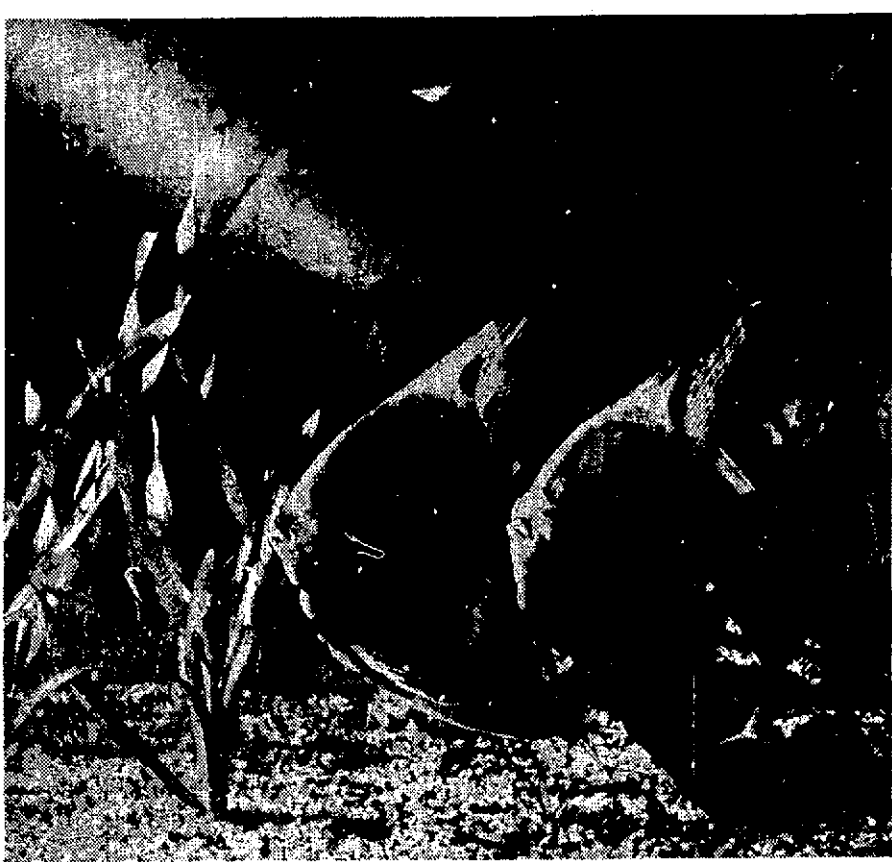

Just now Tetrazona barbs, fashionably striped fish, are in the breeding tanks. As the sun hits the tank, the male begins chasing the female whose body is heavy with eggs. He lures her into aquarium plants.

If they land on the aquarium floor, it's too bad, because Mama Tetrazona promptly eats them. But if they hang on the plants—the eggs are adhesive—they have a better chance. In about 24 hours they hatch. Hanging by an invisible thread, they look like crystal clear exclamation points. In about 12 more hours they cling to the side of the glass. By the time they can eat they are on their own.

At 10 days they begin getting their black and iridescent green stripes. By 3 to 4 months they begin spawning, and there goes a new cycle.

TROPICAL FISH produce from 500 to 3,000 eggs at a time. Nature is an optimist—or maybe she is a pessimist. Anyway, she sees that a lot of small fry are produced.

Contrasted with the sunshine-spawning fish, the neons and the scissors-tail Rasbora insist on complete darkness for romance. They will not mate and eggs will not hatch except in complete blackness.

Some fish carry their eggs on their legs. The "ghost" shrimp fish do. They are an inch or so long, so transparent that one may see their inards. They have a lot of feet—it looks like six pairs—under their bodies. They carry fertilized eggs on these fast-flying fuzzy legs. When the little "ghosts" hatch, they drop off of their mother's legs.

Halfbeaks, with lower jaws that jut out into a point, give birth to half-inch babies, about 15 at a time. Halfbeaks are surface feeders. Sometimes they fight and knock each other's beaks off.

There is no gossip in the fish world if Mama produces babies long after Papa has gone away. Milt (fertilizer) is deposited in the anal opening, where it apparently is stored. The male may be removed from the tank, and litters born for as much as a year without further help from him.

SIAMESE FIGHTING FISH are air breathers. When a male wants to mate, he blows a nest of bubbles. If a female tries to deposit eggs in the nest before it is finished to his complete satisfaction, he fights her away. When she lays the eggs, if they fall to the bottom of the aquarium, he picks them up, a mouthful at a time, puts them in

Huge Roundup of Girl Scouts Attracts 5,000

MILSORD, Mich. (AP) — It will be chicken for Sunday dinner at the world's largest and longest picnic—10 days of outdoor eating at the International Girl Scout Roundup.

Some 5,000 teen-age girls heard greetings from Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower at formal opening of the encampment Saturday. The ceremony was highlighted by mass raising of 78 flags in the central area of the big tent city.

Then the girls headed for the roundup "swap tent" which opened for a rushing business in bargain hunting. A popular spot was the Texas stand, which offered trades in miniature branding irons, rattlesnake skins and dried bluebonnet flowers.

Peter Freuchen Muffed Political Question Here

Peter Freuchen, the whiskered loquacious adventurer who Tuesday comes up for the top prize in the $64,000 Question on TV knows more about the seven seas than he does about politics.

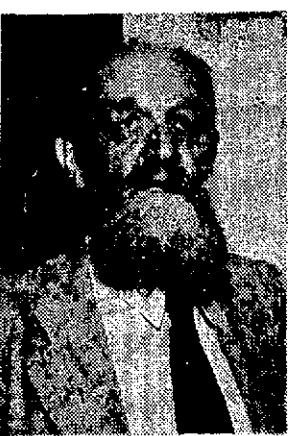

When he was in Long Beach at the first Miss Universe Beauty Pageant in 1952, Freuchen forecast that California's Gov. Earl Warren would be the Republican candidate for president.

At that time, Freuchen, Danish writer and explorer who has spent the last 45 years in the Arctic, was "covering" the Miss Universe contest for Danish newspapers.

Qualifying as an expert on the seven seas, Freuchen has answered such questions as: Where is the ocean the coldest and where is it the hottest? And how many cubic miles of water flow into the oceans daily from all the rivers of the world?

To date, he has answered every question with such detail that Hal March has interrupted him.

Freuchen encouraged the adventurers to sail on a raft from Peru to the South Seas, which led to the writing of "Kon-Tiki."

PETER FREUCHEN
Lost in Political Sea

He has written upward of 24 adventure books, including "Es-kimo," which was made into a movie with Freuchen as technical advisor.

Gas Trailer Blast Routs 50 in Homes

CINCINNATI (AP)—An ex-their five children were forced ploding gasoline tank truck from their home as the flames trailer turned a busy Cincinnati started cracking windows and street into a mass of flames Saturday morning.

Ten homes and stores caught fire and were damaged. Fifty persons were routed from their homes and one woman died of a heart attack as she was being helped to safety from her burning home. Four automobiles were destroyed in the fire.

Fire Chief Barney Houston gave a tentative estimate of $50,000 damage, but unofficial estimates ran as high as $100,000.

THE WRECK and the explosion of about 4,000 gallons of gasoline occurred as the double rig tank truck turned from State Ave. into Harrison Ave. near the end of the heavily-traveled Western Hills viaduct.

The second tank trailer broke loose, overturned and exploded, Larry Whitaker, 26, of Cincinnati, the driver, leaped to safety seconds ahead of the mass of flames.

The woman who died was Mrs. May Barnett, 52.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Vice Adm. Francis S. Low, commander of the Western Sea Frontier, retired Saturday after 45 years of Navy service.

Babysitter Finds Man, Wife Slain

MIAMI (AP)—A babysitter uncovered the murder-suicide of an unemployed insurance salesman and his physician-wife Saturday but found the couple's 10-month-old child unharmed in their blood-splashed home.

Sheriff's deputies identified the dead couple as Fred H. Kenneth, 38, and his wife, Dr. Milena Kenneth, 31, a pediatrician who obtained her degree in New York City about a year ago, just before they moved here.

SGT. RICHARD Shelton of the sheriff's office said Kenneth, reported to have been ill recently, apparently beat his wife to death with an automobile jack in the couple's bedroom Friday night, then took a fatal dose of poison. But the husband took a shower bath to cleanse the murder blood from his body before returning to the bedroom to take his own life, the deputy said.

The crime was uncovered late Saturday when a babysitter, not immediately identified, arrived at the Kenneth suburban home for a previously arranged job of taking care of the couple's infant son, John Francis Kenneth.

THE BABYSITTER became suspicious when she could not gain entrance to the home and called North Miami police who broke into the house.

Police found the unharmed child who had spent the night and most of the day in the home with the bodies of his parents.

Officers said the investigation showed that the murder-suicide came as the climax to some eight months of violent arguments between the couple.

A hypnotist will probe Miss Weiss' subconscious for the important set of numbers.

REGIONAL POLITICS

Official Returns Due Tuesday

By The Lookout

Candidates will get the final word Tuesday as to how they fared in the recent state primary.

County Registrar of Voters Ben Hite will announce the official returns, following completion of a ballot canvass that started when the last of the absentee ballots came in.

No contests in this area showed up close enough in the unofficial count to indicate the possibility of an upset when the official figures are disclosed. But there was considerable variance this year in the unofficial returns compiled from various sources, and politics will be watching for percentage changes in the official figures.

COMMITTEEMEN NAMED

Two candidates whose nomination was assured because they had no opposition in their party have already decided on their appointments to the GOP State Central Committee.

Congressman Craig Hosmer named Mrs. Ethel B. Gillis, Mrs. Jennie E. Pritchard and Albert A. Carrey, Assemblyman W. S. Grant of the 70th District selected Al Williams, Mrs. Irvin Moring and Mrs. Richard Bixby.

Cities Slate Variety of Attractions

Long Beach and nearby communities are getting ready for the Fourth of July.

A gigantic fireworks display, ending with the American Flag set piece will be fired at 9:15 p.m. Wednesday over the water from Rainbow Pier. A series of 475 aerial bursts will end with the flag.

Fired will be a number of multiple break shells, including 24 13-inch and 24 9-inch multiple break shells, 36 10-inch aerial bombs which will burst as many as six times, and 12 special multiple break shells that will break 24 times.

Celebrators can watch from the beach; either side of Rainbow Pier; from the bluff, the foot of Nu-Pike or the foot of Linden Ave.

The fireworks will be co-sponsored by the city of Long Beach and the Long Beach Amusement League.

TWO MAJOR Independence Day celebrations are scheduled for Orange County.

Huntington Beach will conduct its 52nd annual Fourth of July Parade starting at 11 a.m. The parade will form at 14th and Main Sts.

"Pageantry and Portrayal of Famous American Presidents" is the float theme. Bands and military units also will participate.

At 9:30 a.m., equestrian judging will be conducted on Lake Ave. north of Quincy St. All other judging, including selection of the winning floats, will be done in the line of march.

Roy Williams and Jimmie Dodd from Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse Club are the grand marshals. Miss Lorna Ross, Orange, is queen.

Scheduled are a donkey baseball game starting at 12:30 p.m. and a fire-hose ball game to follow.

A barbecue at 4 p.m. and fireworks afterwards will top the day's activities.

Beginning at 6 p.m., Cabrillo Beach will have a Fourth of July aquacade, with swimming and diving events, climaxed by fireworks after dark.

Fourth of July will end the six-day celebration called Neptune Days at Redondo Beach. There will be an aquacade and fireworks. A heavy cruiser will be open all day to visitors.

L. B. Playgrounds to Be Open Fourth

All Long Beach municipal playgrounds will be open, with supervisors in charge, on July 4, according to a Recreation Dept. announcement.

Independence Day will be observed as a holiday by all public school playgrounds taking part in the summer recreation program. No supervision will be provided at the playgrounds and the three high school swimming pools will be closed July 4.

Ridings No County 'Aud' Booster Yet

H. E. Ridings Jr., one of three Long Beach-area citizens invited to join the Civic Auditorium and Music Center Assn. of Los Angeles, said he planned to "learn more about the organization" before accepting the invitation.

The association is sponsoring a $51,000,000 auditorium in Los Angeles to be constructed with county tax money. Approximately $10,000,000 of the amount would come from Long Beach taxpayers.

THE LONG BEACH CITY Council and Chamber of Commerce both have objected to construction of the building in Los Angeles.

The other two invited to serve on the committee are Mrs. Elizabeth F. Hudson, president of the Board of Education, and Lloyd S. Whaley, Los Altos real estate developer.

Whaley was not available for comment, but Mrs. Hudson said she "would like to know a lot more about any such organization before I joined it."

Rail Wreck Widow to Receive $30,000

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A woman widowed by the Jan. 22 Los Angeles rail disaster will receive $30,000 in a compromise settlement with the Santa Fe Railway.

Willa McGuire, Preston Foster to Present Water-Ski-Race Prizes

At the age when most kids begin trying their legs on roller skates, Willa McGuire was learning water skiing.

Today, at 28 years of age, she has won 33 major tournaments and four international titles in water skiing and is featured star in Florida's Cypress Gardens Ski show.

"But my real ambition is to be a commercial artist," confides the blue-eyed, blond aquatic star who will reign as queen of the Grand National Water Ski Race from Long Beach to Catalina Island and back.

THE RACE WILL start at 9 a.m. July 4 from Magnolia Pier, with more than 100 water skiers competing over a 58-mile course. Actor Preston Foster, star of television's "Waterfront" series will serve as official starter.

Shortly after the start of the race, Mrs. McGuire will perform, on her "swivel" water skis. These permit her to turn completely around while being towed on the water.

The swivel skis are her contribution to water skiing.

MRS. MCGUIRE comes naturally by her talent as a natural skier.

"My dad had a boat business at Lake Oswego in Oregon," she says. "I somehow got some water skis and started in the sport."

"When I got to Holland, Mich., where the national water ski championships were being held, I was surprised to see 'jumps' on the course. I learned how to go over the 'jumps' one day and won the women's national championship the next."

260-Pound Suspect Jailed After Kidnaping Attempt

An out-of-work oil worker attempted to kidnap a young woman in an alley here early Saturday and was arrested three hours later in Anaheim.

Lloyd B. Sanders, 23, of 1206 Groton St., Anaheim, was booked for investigation of attempted kidnaping after he allegedly tried to force Lorraine Graves, 24, of 938 Temple Ave., into his car.

Officers said the 260-pound oil worker admitted the kidnap attempt.

The woman said she had just been working at a local drive-in restaurant when the suspect accosted her in an alley.

WILLA MCGUIRE . . . to Perform at Race Start

That was in 1946. She won annually from then through 1952 and again in 1954 and 1955.

She recently has written a book called "How to Water Ski" and was featured in the Cypress Gardens water skiing portion of "This Is Cincinara."

WILLA AND HER husband, a Winter Haven, Fla., boat dealer and also a water-skiing enthusiast, have one daughter—who doesn't water-ski but has her mother's ambition to be a commercial artist.

Willa will be watching Wednesday's races with interest and will help Foster in presenting trophies at 2:30 p.m. at the Villa Riviera Hotel.

THE RACE IS expected to take from 1½ to 2 hours, according to Bill Williams, chairman of the sponsoring Long Beach Boat and Ski Club.

A pool has been set up to find boats for skiers and skiers for boats, he explained. Sportsmen who need one or the other to compete in the race should contact Chris Newcomb at 6162 Atlantic Ave.

Hope Held for Girl in Coma

A neurological specialist from the University of California at Los Angeles medical school Saturday examined 15-year-old Susan Payette who has been in a coma for 31 days and said there is some hope for the girl.

Mrs. Lyle Payette, 2956 Osborn Ave., the girl's mother clasped the doctor's hand after hearing of the slight hope and said, "My prayers have been answered."

Mrs. Payette, her husband and two other Payette children, Sally, 18, and Lyle Jr., 11, have been in almost constant vigil by the girl's bedside since her heart stopped beating and she went into a coma after a tonsillectomy May 31.

THE HEART, according to local doctors, had stopped an estimated three to five minutes, before the chest was cut open and massage restored the heartbeat. It was a "one in a million" case, doctors said.

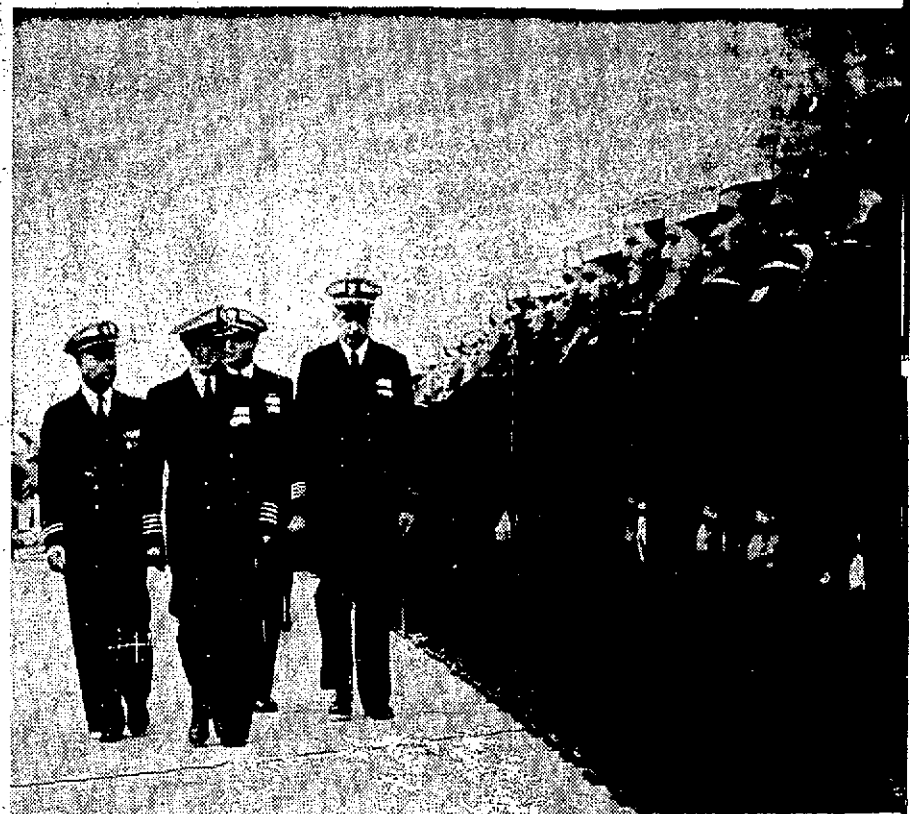

The neurological expert Saturday told Payette that it was doubtful if the girl's heart had stopped for more than four minutes.

"Otherwise," he said, "she would not be here now."

Payette, a salesman who has used all his savings and borrowed money to keep a 24-hour watch by nurses at his daughter's bedside at St. Mary's Hospital, said the specialist spent an hour and one-half with the girl and told him:

"YOU WANT THE straight facts? Here they are: I don't know how much brain damage she has suffered. I am very hopeful she will recover, but it will be a long ordeal. It is possible that she will come out of the coma in two to three weeks."

The specialist told Payette to keep the girl in the hospital. Friends and neighbors have been contributing funds to help the Payettes to meet medical expenses not covered by an insurance program.

Travelers Aid Alert to Help Gasoline Tax Boost Into Effect Here

Long Beach parents who wish to take advantage of travel service for children described on page 10 of today's Parade supplement of The Independent Press-Telegram may do so by applying to the Travelers Aid Society of Long Beach, 218 E. 1st St.

This announcement was made Saturday by Miss Elsie M. Rogers, executive secretary of the Travelers Aid Society, a Red Feather agency.

"Summer is a heavy season for all kinds of travel," Miss Rogers pointed out, "and usually represents our peak period of service for children traveling alone. There is no reason for any Long Beach parents to take unnecessary risks with their children's welfare or safety when this community supports a Travelers Aid Society which has the facilities to insure children's wellbeing if they must travel alone."

The procedure:

1—Contact Travelers Aid at 218 E. 1st St. at least a week before the departure date.

2—Bring with you (this will save you a trip later on) a letter from the persons to whom your child is going, confirming that the visit is welcome and expected.

3—Bring your child with you when you visit Travelers Aid. This will enable the social worker to judge the child's emotional maturity. One 10-year-old may be perfectly capable of managing on his own overnight; for another it may prove to be a needless ordeal.

4—Travelers Aid will note what your child is to wear for traveling and the number of the car in which he is seated. He will be shown the Travelers Aid armband and its blue-and-white lamp so he will know what to look for when he is met at the other end.

Last year 46 local children reached their destinations safely under Travelers Aid protection. There were also a few Miss Rogers pointed out, who unfortunately were sent off day from their . . . Communism homeland to this Adriatic port city. They asked political asylum in Italy.

The federal tax on gasoline went up one cent a gallon in Southern California and the rest of the nation at midnight but Long Beach service station operators reported no visible effect on Saturday's business.

Most operators said they felt the average motorist didn't think it worth while filling his tank just to gain the initial 10 or 15 cents he would save.

The gasoline tax hike is just one of the tax increases recently decreed by Congress to help finance the federal government's $32.9 billion highway building program.

Taxes were also raised on such items as diesel fuel, tires, retread rubber, heavy trucks, buses and trailers.

"My Conscience Lives With Me"

BLAMELESS, BUT ANGUISHED

'I Killed a Child'

(Editor's Note: On the eve of the deadly Fourth of July weekend a year ago, reporter Walter Froehlich of the Buffalo Courier-Express wrote down the words of an anguished, if blameless driver. Since then the story has been reprinted by the National Safety Council, handed to traffic violators in Elmira and Rochester, N. Y., translated into German. It is reprinted here as a solemn reminder to pleasure-bound motorists.)

They ask me did I see the child? Yes, I saw him. And he's all I've been seeing since. I saw him. But it was too late to stop. I was the last to see him alive. And the first to see his lifeless body limply sprawled on the pavement—a few inches from the bumper of my car.

Yes, I am the man they now call "Death Car Driver." I own the car whose pictures you saw in the daily press. And, yet, a thousand times I wish I were the victim rather than the man who killed him. For he died only once, but I a thousand deaths since then.

I saw him running out between two cars. He looked away. But yet his childish steps led into my path. I honked the horn. I kicked into the brake. I heard the tires squeal. And then the thud. I saw his little body hurled through the air and fall down flat just as my stopping wheel almost touched him once more.

I WALKED AHEAD and bent over his crumpled form. "Call an ambulance," I shouted. "Quick!" I saw the gathering crowd. They all looked at the child. And then at me.

Then came police and then the doctor. He looked first at the bloody face and form, then looked away and slowly shook his head. And then I saw the anguished features of a man—the father—and heard the desperate screams of a bereaved mother—how can I forget?

And when the scene had cleared and I had filed reports at headquarters and the police had cleared me, I stood alone and suddenly knew what I had really done.

"Could happen to any of us," a voice behind me said. I felt the sympathetic touch of a policeman's hand. "You were not speeding, nor violating any law. We preferred no charges nor did any witness charge a fault by you. The child was unattended, roaming the streets alone and you did nothing that was dangerous or wrong."

I CARRY INSURANCE, sure. But who can replace a life? Should I visit the parents? See the child laid out? Or coldly disregard the death, the bitter grief? Will the father, mother hate me? Or would they understand? A sense of moral guilt hangs over me. It punishes the driver hard and makes him all afraid to face the parents of the lifeless child, or anyone.

Remorse alone cannot clear my conscience. I was not careless, the policeman said. I was within the law. But yet, my conscience lives with me, and I with it. And, thinking that, perhaps, the slightest bit of more attention on my part could have averted this will haunt my thoughts for every hour I shall live. And no one can deliver me of this.

Dutch Princess Begins Her Official Duties as Rift Rocks Royal House

AMSTERDAM (AP) — A rosy-cheeked teen-age Princess, at times smiling through tears, Saturday began her official duties as Holland's future queen. This came at a time when a marital rift was said to be rocking the royal house.

Even as 18-year-old Princess Beatrix was formally introduced to Amsterdam's city fathers, a three-man commission of Dutch elder statesmen was under royal appointment to smooth out difficulties concerning her parents, Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard.

Describing themselves as "disappointed and hurt" at publication abroad of a rift between them, the couple jointly asked Friday for help and advice of the three-man commission.

One of the commission members made it clear privately that the purpose of their task was to get the couple to smooth out their difficulties and thus end Holland's first public royal family crisis.

He said it was hoped a solution could be found, but he added he could not deny that if a reconciliation is not reached abdication could result.

IN THAT CASE, Princess Beatrix would reign as Queen in place of her mother.

This is something the young Princess does not want to do—at least now. When she became a member of the State Council in February she said:

"I shall prepare myself for the task (of becoming Queen) which I hope and trust lies before me in a yet far distant future."

There was guarded speculation that the couple might even consider separation or divorce in case of an abdication. But in Holland, where the royal family represents the best in religious life, that possibility seemed the remotest.

Top persons in both the government and the royal house told foreign correspondents that the Queen and the German-born Prince were "poles apart" and had been so for years.

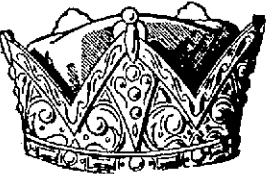

THREE WEEKS AGO the German magazine Der Spiegel told of a rift between the two over the position of Miss Greet Hofmans, a 61-year-old faith healer. Both the Queen and the Prince called in the faith healer in 1948 at a time of desperation after their youngest daughter, Princess Maria Cristina, now 9, was born partially blind.

The erect, gray-haired Miss Hofmans reportedly told the couple that the Princess "will see again. God will restore her sight completely within two years."

She was invited to live in the palace so she could be near the child.

But word was that the child's eyesight did not improve and after the Prince became concerned over the faith healer's close religious association with the Queen, he became angered and ordered her out.

There were repeated reports, which were never denied officially, that the faith healer continued to see the Queen, a deeply religious woman.

Gen. Juin Resigns His 2-Car Crash Kills Europe Defense Post Five Vacationists

PARIS, (AP) — Marshall Alments have often irritated his phomse Juin, France's No. 1 soldier whose acid public state-Saturday he is quitting as Commander of Allied Forces in Central Europe.

Rumors of the resignation have been circulating for days. A brief announcement from Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, said merely that Juin was asking to be relieved of his command Oct. 1. This will be about a month before Gen. Gruenther himself steps down.

No successor will be named immediately. The job is expected to go to a French general, since an American holds the top spot at SHAPE and British Viscount Montgomery is the No. 1 deputy.

YUBA CITY (AP)—Two auto-mobles crashed together on a slight curve Saturday, five persons died and a little girl was injured so critically she may not live.

The dead were Joseph R. Clayborn, 30, and his wife, of Drain, Ore., and Floyd R. Swartz, 63, of San Rafael, his wife, and their 24-year-old daughter, Carolyn.

Linda Clayborn, 7, daughter of the Drain couple, was under treatment at Woodland General Hospital for critical injuries. Her condition was described as poor.

The Clayborn car indicated the family was on a vacation trip to California, perhaps to visit with Clayborn's mother, Mrs. Ethel Clayborn of Rio Linda, near Sacramento.

At San Rafael, neighbors of the Swartz family said they left home yesterday morning for a vacation in Oregon.

The accident occurred about 25 miles south of Yuba City. Both cars were demolished. A highway patrolman who investigated said it didn't appear that either was being driven at excessive speed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 400,000 Englishmen will be introduced to the American hot dog, courtesy of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, at the British Food Fair, in London, from Aug. 28 to Sept. 15.

"They will be the very highest quality U.S.-type hot dogs," an Agriculture Department spokesman assured United Press in an interview.

The hot dogs, with mustard or ketchup optional for the eater—but no sauerkraut or relish—will be given away at an American exhibit at the food fair.

U.S. officials have little hope that the stunt can build the hot dog up as a formidable contender for such British favorites as fish-and-chips. Nor do they expect to see hot dogs hawked at cricket matches any time soon.

The hot dog giveaway, arranged in cooperation with the American Meat Institute, is a publicity stunt to draw attention to other U.S. food products in the exhibit, explained Ivan Harrah, an official of the Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Vice President Nixon told the convention of Lions International Saturday the free world is faced with a "painful dilemma" in rejecting the "so-called peace moves" by the leaders of Soviet Russia.

"Many nations may consider us as warmongers" when we do this, he said, but "if we accept... uncritically, we may weaken our alliances and thus invite the very war we seek to avoid."

Following his speech to the 15,000 voting delegates of the big service organization, Nixon left Miami by military plane for a 10-day trip around the world.

After a brief stop in Los Angeles for a visit with his father at Whittier, Calif., Nixon and his wife, Pat, will fly to Manila to help celebrate the 10th year of Philippine independence. From there, they will fly to Saigon, Calcutta, Arabia and Rome.

The Lions elected Clarence L. Sturm of Manawa, Wis., to the third vice presidency, the only contested major office, and under normal procedure he will move up to the presidency of the 542,000-member service organization in 1959.

Jet Shoots Down Drone With Missile

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—An F102A jet interceptor Saturday shot down an unmanned B17 drone with a Gar-1 Falcon guided missile in a practice mission over the Gulf of Mexico.

It was the first time a production model of the supersonic Convair had knocked down a drone with the rocket propelled missile. An F89H Scorpion had used one to make a similar kill last Tuesday, however.

The Delta wing Convair, flown by Maj. Robert T. Goetz of the operational test center at Eglin, was guided to the drone by a ground radar controller.

The mission was conducted under simulated air defense conditions. Maj. Gen. Robert W. Burns, air proving ground commander, said the kill was made about 40 miles off shore over the command's water bombing and gunnery ranges.

The Hughes Falcon uses its own electronic brain to seek out and destroy targets. The missile, the Convair and the Scorpion are undergoing operational suitability testing at Eglin.

Cypriot Chief Issues War Declaration

(EDITORS: United Press staff correspondent George Pipal sent a message through the pro-Greek EOKA underground to obtain this written interview with the outlawed leader of the Cyprus rebellion.)

By GEORGE PIPAL

ATHENS (UP)—Greek Cypriot rebel Gen. George Grivas issued a "declaration of war" Saturday against Great Britain.

He added in an exclusive written interview with United Press that self-determination for Cyprus would end the rebellion in the British colony.

The elusive rebel leader, who goes by the alias "Digenis," is a relentlessly hunted man, but is a wily quarry. Earlier this month the British got close enough to him to grab his shoes, beret, jacket, pistol and Sam Browne belt, but they missed Grivas. He slipped through the encircling British forces in a forest near Paphos and escaped. His men set fire to the forest. Twenty-one British soldiers died as a result of the blaze.

GRIVAS, trained by the British to lead guerrilla fighting against the Nazis in Greece, now is in hiding with a British price of $28,000 on his head.

A written questionnaire addressed to him through the Cypriot EOKA underground organization brought these replies:

Q. Does EOKA plan to achieve belligerent status and thus place its members under the acts of war—by adopting uniforms and by declaring open war against the British government?

A. EOKA has declared war against the conqueror of Cyprus; its objective is the liberation of the island from the British yoke. We will do anything to gain freedom.

Q. Has EOKA taken any actions against the British outside Cyprus?

A. EOKA is a revolution and can be found everywhere ready to claim the just right of the Cypriots and the freedom of its fatherland. We hope the occupation government will not force us to use our power outside Cyprus.

Q. Does EOKA share the view of Archbishop Makarios that the gap between the Cypriots and Britain "is not wide"? What is the present chance of closing the gap by negotiation?

A. Just a single step forward of the British government, by granting the right of self-determination plus showing good will, will be quite sufficient to "bridge the gap" and solve the problem peacefully. Existing hate between the Greek and British peoples is not yet inextinguishable.

Twining, Liu Drink Toast to Harmony

MOSCOW (UP)—U. S. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining and the commander of the Communist Chinese Air Force clinked glasses and drank Saturday night to a Chinese toast for "peace and full friendship to all the world."

Chinese Gen. Liu Xia-le, at a reception in the House of Soviet Arms for visiting foreign air delegations, rose and made the toast.

Twining, who had studiously avoided the Chinese official throughout his week-long tour, was one seat away from Xia-le.

After the toast, the Chinese clinked glasses with Deputy Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Ivan Konev, then continued down the table to Twining who was standing next to Konev.

THEY CLINKED glasses in the traditional toast gesture. The Communist general moved down the table to do the same with other Western visitors, including British Air Marshal Sir Thomas Pike.

"It doesn't mean a thing," Pike said later.

The reception, tendered by Soviet Air Marshal Pavel Zhigarev, followed a visit by the visitors to the Soviet Air Force Academy at Morina where they saw the Russians version of the American B-29 bomber.

Twining saw six of the planes parked at the airfield. The Russians call them P-4's but Twining told newsmen "nobody could tell the difference" between them and the B-29.

He drove past the planes but did not look inside.

States' Need as School-Aid Gauge Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel K. McConnell Jr. said Saturday that President Eisenhower strongly favors changing the $1.6-billion federal school-aid bill to put allocation of building funds on a state-need basis.

The Pennsylvania Republican plans to offer the proviso when the House begins voting on amendments next week. It closed two days of emotion-charged debate Friday.

McCONNELL is ranking GOP member of the House Education and Labor Committee which drafted the legislation and is Republican floor manager of it.

He said in an interview that Eisenhower "very strongly favors" his amendment which would change the Democratic-approved plan for distributing the funds.

McConnell also said that, while he has received no recent word from the White House, he "assumes" the President still is opposed to the amendment to bar school funds from racially segregated school districts.

Eisenhower has termed the Harlem Negro Democrat's anti-segregation amendment extraneous and unnecessary.

THE POWELL amendment and the fund allocation proposal are two of the major issues to be thrashed out by the House Monday and Tuesday. A southern "states' rights" attempt to kill virtually all federal requirements over distribution of the money also is expected.

A final vote likely will come Thursday after the Independence Day recess. With the Powell amendment and the bill itself cutting across party lines, few Congressmen were willing to forecast the outcome.

The bill as now drafted would give the states $400 million in federal funds for four years, on a basis of school-age population, to be matched 50-50 by state funds. This would amount to $11.30 a year per child for each state.

Oversale of Plane Seats Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is looking into an air transportation headache that is causing a lot of air-line customers to lose their tempers.

It is the problem of "overselling." That means the practice of selling 61 or more reservations on a plane that carries only 60 passengers. Somebody gets left behind.

COMPLAINTS about overselling have been increasing and have reached Congress. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) recently demanded an investigation. The Civil Aeronautics Board is quietly questioning the air lines.

A CAB spokesman told United Press that several air lines already have confessed they are overselling certain flights—deliberately.

"These air lines say it's a matter of self-defense," he added. They claim it is the only way they have to overcome the problem of "no-shows."

Nasser Back in Mid Ages, Says Mollet

LILLE, France (AP)—French Premier Guy Mollet Saturday accused Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser of suffering from "megalomania"—delusions of grandeur.

In some of the strongest language yet aimed by a high French official against Egypt, which many French feel is aiding the Algerian rebels, Mollet said, "I denounce the megalomania of Colonel Nasser."

"He hopes to line up behind himself not only the Arab world but the entire Moslem world."

"One would think oneself back in the Middle Ages. Today, Pan-Islamism is a threat to peace."

Mollet spoke at a rally of his Socialist Party which has been split over his get-tough policies against the rebel "Army of Allah" in Algeria.

The party conference will vote today on separate resolutions approving and condemning Algerian policy.

Cuban to Take U. N. Disarmament Chair

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Cuban Ambassador Emilio Nunez Portuondo becomes chairman of the U. N. Disarmament Commission Sunday for the month of July. He succeeds Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang. The commission meets Tuesday to review the work at the spring session of the five-nation disarmament subcommittee.

E. Germans to Cut Army 25 per Cent

BERLIN (UP)—Communist rously disciplined and well-Est Germany Saturday announced a 30,000-man cut in its new Army that will limit it to some 3,000 members of the total strength of 90,000 men. The government, following Russia's announced lead in military manpower reductions, said it decided to reduce its armed forces as a gesture of good will and of its intention to reach a political understanding with West Germany.

The army officially was organized last winter by proclamation. Actually, the core of the mouse-gray-uniformed military machine was present in the rig-

Some 3,000 members of the army in their Hitler-type uniforms paraded in West Berlin last May Day in defiance of the four-power occupation rules against such displays.

The government, announcing the cabinet decision to limit the 120,000-man prescribed strength of the seven-division national army to 90,000, said it was the first time the Reds even admitted they planned an army that large. No figures had been given before.

MEANEST

Robb, Beats Blind Man

NEW YORK (AP)—Edward Sobek, husky 28-year-old ex-convict, was held without bail in Felony Court Saturday. The charge: Beating up a blind man more than 70 years old and robbing him of $1.65 and a watch.

Sobek was accused of assaulting Robert Moskowitz Friday night.

"I hope it isn't so—for your own sake," said Magistrate George Postel. "If it is, no consideration will be given to you in any court or by any judge."

Japan Reports U.S. A- and H-Bomb Tests

TOKYO, Japan (UP)—Japanese scientists claimed Saturday the United States has tested a uranium-wrapped plutonium bomb and exploded another hydrogen bomb at a new high altitude in the Bikini area.

A scientific team returning from a 35-day voyage in the Pacific said it obtained plutonium 239 and uranium 237 from the atmosphere twice during the voyage.

"The ashes were very fine," the report said. "Probably the explosion was caused by using a plutonium core and natural uranium covering."

The report apparently was another reference to the "super-uranium bomb" which the group claimed earlier in a message from the Pacific, that the United States set off June 13.

The Kyoto scientists said Tuesday's pattern of shock waves recorded on Japanese instruments was the same as those registered May 21 and 28. U.S. officials have neither confirmed nor denied the Japanese claim of the hydrogen-bomb explosion on May 28.

Contempt Action Against Playwright Miller Involved

WASHINGTON (UP)—A member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities said Saturday that threatened congressional contempt proceedings against Arthur Miller are so involved the playwright may be divorced from Marilyn Monroe before his case could come to trial.

"It couldn't possibly interfere with their honeymoon," Rep. Gordon H. Scherer (R-O) told reporters. "The honeymoon will long be over."

Miller has until next Saturday to give the committee names of alleged Communist writers with whom he conferred in 1939 and 1940. Otherwise, the committee said, it will cite him for contempt of congress.

Miller refused to give the names recently when he was a witness before the committee.

NEW YORK (UP)—Honey-mooning actress Marilyn Monroe and playwright Arthur Miller drove separately to New York Saturday from their country hideaway on their first day as man and wife.

Miller and his bride acted just as secretly as they did when they slipped away from reporters Friday night to be married in the White Plains, N.Y., courthouse.

But newsmen finally tracked them down at Miss Monroe's apartment.

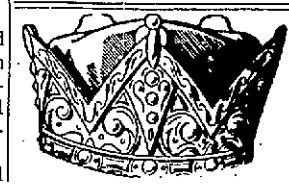

The couple apparently was here only for the day. Miller's mother, Mrs. Augusta Miller, said at the playwright's Roxbury, Conn., home that they planned to return in the evening.

Tuners' Chief Dies

PITTSBURGH (AP)—William A. Cheeseman, 68, president of the National Association of Piano Tuners, died Saturday at his home.

He was found lying on the floor of his apartment.

The couple apparently was here only for the day. Miller's mother, Mrs. Augusta Miller, said at the playwright's Roxbury, Conn., home that they planned to return in the evening.

'Jinx' Skelton Rides Faulty Plane---Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Comedian Red Skelton and 55 other passengers arrived safely Saturday from Honolulu on a big plane with one of its four engines not functioning properly. "I always ride on three engines," Skelton wisecracked as he stepped from the plane.

He referred to a similar incident recently when a plane took off from Los Angeles for Honolulu, developed engine trouble and was diverted to San Francisco.

Skelton on that occasion joked and kept the passengers in laughter.

Saturday someone asked him whether he was worried.

"I always ride on three engines," he replied. "Besides, I didn't know anything about the engine. Nobody was bothered. Someone admired Skelton's full red beard."

"I always raise a beard on my vacation," he explained.

The ex-colonel is one of three opposition leaders arrested in connection with the conspiracy which the government says was hatched in Buenos Aires by refugee members of the opposition Liberal and Pura parties, "with the collaboration of the Argentine government."

Attempt to Sabotage Rail Kills Farmhand

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—The army announced Saturday that a 29-year-old farmhand was killed Friday night during an attempt to sabotage a rail line near here—the only anti-government violence reported in the past 24 hours.

The army announcement said the farmhand, Felix Sicajay, was one of a band of saboteurs caught planting a bomb on the rail line leading to Standard Oil of California's tank farm. The other saboteurs fled when the army opened fire, and the bomb caused only slight damage to the track.

No major violence has been reported in this country since the government imposed a state of siege early Tuesday, and the situation appeared to be returning to normal.

Thousands of dollars of damage was caused as the hail smashed car windshields, shattered windows in stores, homes and churches and punctured roofs of buildings. Trees were stripped of their leaves and bark. Wheat crops were buried in four inches of ice.

Golf-Ball Hail Breaks Windows

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—The worst hail storm in 25 years slashed across southern Saskatchewan Friday night, heavily damaging grain crops.

Hailstones the size of golf balls pounded down amid howling winds, torrential rain and a wild display of lightning which knocked out power service over much of the province.

Thousands of dollars of damage was caused as the hail smashed car windshields, shattered windows in stores, homes and churches and punctured roofs of buildings. Trees were stripped of their leaves and bark. Wheat crops were buried in four inches of ice.

Sen. George Sees Aid Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Walter F. George said Saturday the Senate probably will have to compromise with a lower House figure in final action on foreign aid. He hopes the cut "won't be to great."

House and Senate conferees start work next week, probably Thursday, on reconciling differences between the $3.8 billion House authorization bill and the $4.5 billion measure approved by the Senate Friday night.

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, agreed with Senate economy advocates that the stiffest test for the global military and economic assistance measure will come in the House and Senate appropriations committees when they consider actual funds to finance the program.

Rebellion Leader Breaks His Arm

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Retired Col. Armando Monge, alleged leader of an Argentine-backed plot to overthrow the Bolivian government, broke his arm in a suicide attempt at police headquarters, it was announced Saturday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bertha Adkins, assistant to the chairman of the Republican National Committee, was appointed Saturday as chairman of the committee's special activities board.

National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said the assignment makes Miss Adkins "the first woman in either major party to attain such a position on the operational policy level."

The special activities board has subdivisions for agriculture, minorities, labor, veterans, nationalities, Young Republicans, the National Federation of Republican Women and the Women's Division of the National Committee.

Miss Adkins has been Hall's assistant since the Eisenhower administration took office in 1953. She is a native of Salisbury, Md., and a former college dean.

FRENCH LESSON

NEW YORK—"The best way to learn French," I've always heard, "is to get a French gal."

Something told me that the Beautiful Wife wouldn't quite approve homework of such a first-hand nature in my case—so I chose to study to an interview with beautiful Nicole Maurey, whom Bing Crosby has called:

"A combination of Marlene Dietrich, Rita Hayworth and a farmer's daughters."

That's the Nicole Maurey way. Maurey pronounced it when I asked her to repeat the famous Crosby appraisal. I knew I was on the right track, linguistically, when I heard her say that "mouse-ful."

Nicole had come to a studio to be photographed.

"WHAT I SHOULD WEAR?" the pretty thing asked, hauling clothes out of a suitcase. "My alligator?"

"Alligator?" I asked in surprise. "Oui, my alligator!" Nicole held up a small, tight garment known to Show Business as a "leopard," it having been named after a French aerial gymnast who presumably wore one and whose name was, of all things, Leopard.

Evidently Nicole had confused leopard with leopard, and in some way got alligator.

We progressed nicely from there. Nicole apprised me that in her new picture for RKO which she called "De Bold and De Brave," she played "de engineer."

"The engineer?" I naturally asked. The bosomy French lass kept pronouncing and chewing "engineer" over and over until it became quite clear she meant "ingenue."

Pronounced "Engenoor." "Have you ever had any trouble with English?" I asked. "I don't know the boils," she confessed.

"Hal Boyle? I know him well," I boasted. "You mean the vowels," spoke up a friend of Nicole's. "Oh yes, not the boils—the vowels!" exclaimed Nicole.

'Pal Joey' Opening in 'Theatre' July 19

Rehearsals are well under way at The Theatre, 2400 Magnolia Ave., for the first Long Beach showing of the musical comedy, "Pal Joey."

"Pal Joey" had a long Broadway run starring Gene Kelly and promises Long Beach audiences exciting entertainment along with the unforgettable music of Rodgers and Hart. Songs best remembered include "I Could Write a Book," and "Be-Witched, Bothered and Bewildered."

Appearing in the cast are Walter Buck, Oney Alvis, Jean Reeves, Lee Gayer, Carol Smith, Cathy Davis, Charlotte Galvan, Leo Friedman, Ronny Meren, Bob Sorrells, Walter Ebee, Fanny McEnroe, Roy Maiberg, Pamela Licht, Bobby Miller, Francine Storey, Les Buckner, Bill Beadle.

"Joey" will have its premiere opening on Thursday, July 19 and plays a limited run through Aug. 12.

Due to usual costs of this type of production and limited run, there will be a slight advance in price, $1.75 Thursdays and Sundays and $2 Fridays and Saturdays. Club rates are available. Box office is now open for reservations.

Workers Told, but With Discretion!

Martin Says Housing Bill Dead as Dodo

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican Leader W. Martin Jr. said the Democratic bill for public housing and make home-buying easier is "as dead as a dodo."

Authors of the measure countered that it was the only housing legislation Congress would get this year and the Eisenhower administration must shoulder the responsibility.

Each side in the House dispute over the bill accused the other of irresponsibility and both announced their firm resolution not to budge.

Without new legislation, several major government housing programs would die automatically, including public housing, college housing, military housing and the home-repair and improvement program.

A major tug-of-war between the two political parties over the measure looms in the closing weeks of Congress. With national elections only months away it could prove to be an important campaign issue.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack said the Republicans "have got to take the responsibility" if the programs are killed. Martin retorted that the Democrats control Congress and "it is their duty obviously" to offer legislation President Eisenhower can accept.

Martin reiterated that the Democratic bill is "unacceptable to the White House" and that most Republicans are "unalterably opposed" to it.

The Democratic bill would provide 180,000 new public housing units over the next three years, plus easier terms for securing mortgages under government-insured loans. Eisenhower asked for 70,000 federally subsidized housing units in the coming two years.

The Senate has passed a bill authorizing 675,000 public housing units over the next five years.

The House Rules Committee Saturday voted 5 to 4 to kill the Democratic bill which had been approved by the House Banking Committee. Four Republicans and two Democrats voted to table the measure. Four Democrats voted to send it to the floor for action.

Nehru to 'Substitute' Ireland for America

Convention of Teachers Opens Today

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The National Education Assn., claiming to be the world's largest professional organization with a membership of 630,000 school administrators and teachers, opens a six-day convention here today.

Hundreds of the more than 10,000 expected already have arrived for the 94th annual meeting, which begins with a vesper service to be addressed by Methodist Bishop Gerald Kennedy of Los Angeles.

Attending will be 5,000 official delegates from the 48 states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Alaska and Puerto Rico. This figure will be more than doubled by members of their families and convention guests.

They are taking the city's hotel and motel accommodations and hundreds will be housed in rooms in private homes, offered after an appeal by convention officials.

In addition to general sessions, 24 departments affiliated with the NEA will be holding meetings in 40 buildings.

Topics to be discussed range from federal school financing to classroom behavior of pupils. "Proud to teach" is the convention theme.

Record State Budget Into Effect Today

SACRAMENTO (AP)—You probably won't notice it, but you'll start getting a few dollars more worth of state government today.

California's record $1,800,000,000 1956-57 state budget goes into effect as the new fiscal year begins today.

Last year's $1,600,000,000 budget averaged out to governmental expenses of $121.27 for each man, woman and child in the state.

The new spending program, passed by the Legislature in March, will come to roughly $130 per person.

Most of the increase goes for the added costs of schools, mental hospitals, prisons, highways and other governmental activities enlarged by California's unceasing population growth.

But there are also some notable new features. There are funds for the start of a 41-mile-long beach and park system.

New Taxes Today, Big Benefits Follow

HIGHWAYS users start paying added taxes today to finance what has been described as "the most ambitious and far-reaching single peacetime activity in the history of man"—the national road program authorized in the highway bill signed Friday by President Eisenhower.

Motor-minded Americans are consistently strong supporters of good highways, and little grumbling is expected as the new tax program goes into effect.

By their contributions, the motorists will be providing for 40,000 miles of modern highways to be built in the next 16 years at a cost of thirty-three and one-half billion dollars. The interstate grid contemplated in the bill will link 42 of the 48 state capitals and 90 per cent of the cities of more than 50,000 population.

Whereas President Eisenhower's plan of last year contemplated borrowing money to pay for this vast project, the bill passed by Congress and signed by the President provides for a pay-as-you-ride method of financing. Most of the money will come from an increase of one cent in the federal gasoline tax, raising this tax from two to three cents.

It is estimated the program will cost the average motorist from $8 to $10 per year, with trucks up to $400 a year each. Higher taxes on tires, tread rubber, Diesel fuels, trucks, trailers and buses are provided. There is also a use tax on heavy motor vehicles.

For the first three years allocation of money to states will be made on the basis of population and road mileage. After 1959 the apportionments will be on the estimated cost of completing interstate systems in the various states.

It has been estimated by state authorities that California's share of the allotment in the next three years will approximate $367,500,000 and that in twelve years the state's interstate highway system, 2,172 miles in length, will be built to freeway standards.

There are approximately 48,000,000 privately owned automobiles registered in the United States. Buses and trucks swell the total to about 58,000,000. With this vast number of motor vehicles the necessity of adequate highways is apparent. California has done an outstanding job of highway development but in many other states the cost has been prohibitive. With millions of Americans traveling by automobile an adequate system of roads is imperative.

Adoption of the program proposed by the President is a forward, progressive and timely step from which all states and the vast majority of people will benefit in varying degrees.

Two Big Fish Stories

WASHINGTON—Most people don't consider fish very controversial. However, fish have become one of the most controversial issues both in our diplomacy abroad and domestic politics here at home.

Here are two fish stories, which happen to be true: Fish story No. 1—Revolves around Iceland where last week's elections about spell an early end of American air bases on that key outpost in the North Atlantic.

Reason behind this election was fish and a smart move by the Russians to buy up increasing amounts of the Icelandic fish catch. The United States could have done the same thing; but the American fish industry was opposed. It even urged a tariff against Icelandic fish, and the U. S. Tariff Commission proposed both a higher tariff and a quota, which was vetoed by Eisenhower.

However, U. S. purchases of Iceland's fish dropped from 25 per cent of the entire catch in 1952 to 13 per cent in 1955. Meanwhile Russia's purchases were rising from only 7 per cent in 1952 to 20 per cent in 1953 to 25 per cent in 1954 to 28 per cent in 1955.

Friendship usually follows trade. People like the country that buys their product. And with the administration not smart enough to buy up the Icelandic catch and give it, if necessary, to India, the Icelanders drifted more and more toward their best customer—Russia. That fish story is the real reason why we will have to give up a key air base.

FISH STORY NO. 2—Concerns the battle between the American fishing industry which wants to catch fish and American sportsmen who want to protect fish. After a stormy backstage battle, new Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton has done what "Generous Doug" McKay never seemed capable of doing. He has sided with the conservationists.

The battle over fish was spearheaded by a massive lobbying campaign of commercial fishing interests, aimed at breaking up the old and respected Fish and Wildlife Service. Instead, the industry wanted a new fisheries service, favorable to commercial fishing, plus a separate wildlife service to protect birds and game. This might permit more of the same overfishing responsible for the plight of the fishing industry today.

The commercial fishing lobby also figured the chance of hiking the tariff on imported fish would be better if a separate fisheries bureau was created.

On top of all these backstage maneuvers, the White House suddenly issued an order just as Eisenhower was entering Walter Reed Hospital with ileitis. Whether he knew about it can't be ascertained, but he decreed a split in the Fish and Wildlife Service effective July 1. This was exactly what the commercial fishermen wanted, and what the sports fishermen did not want.

THE SUDDEN White House move, however, was chiefly to help GOP candidates from fishing states next November, especially Governor Langlie of Washington who is running against Magnuson; Senator Duff of Pennsylvania, the Delaware shad state; Senator Kuchel of California with its sardines and tuna; and Senator Butler of Maryland with its great Chesapeake fishing waters. All face tough re-election battles.

The conservationists vigorously protested to Seaton, and the fish processors got into the act supporting the bureau split. Seaton decided to back the fish industry, but again the conservationists protested. Seaton listened patiently in a long session.

Finally he gave in: "What's your plan?" he asked. The conservationists outlined a compromise: a new Secretary of Interior for fish and wildlife, with a single fish and wildlife service raised to the level of a commission, under which would be a separate bureau for commercial fisheries plus one for sport fishing and wildlife.

"Okay, I'll accept it," agreed Seaton, promising to work for revocation of the White House order due to become effective this week.

Sen. Soaper Says:

A FATHER who has political hopes for his son had better be careful about letting him join organizations. Fifty years from now the Mousketeers may be subversive.

A BRIEF ITEM says a survey will be made of how much money Americans spend annually on hunting and fishing. These figures will be useful to the industry, and dynamite if wives get hold of them.

HERE WE GO AGAIN! The predictions of how many accidents will happen on the July 4 holiday this week are being announced now. They are making this cartoon as pertinent this week of 1956 as it was when Ding (Jay N. Darling) drew it more than a quarter century ago, for July 4 of 1930. In that quarter century accident-prevention has progressed remarkably; enough so, for instance, that automobile accidental deaths now, despite the much greater number of cars, are only what they were when Ding drew this cartoon—about 100 per day. But, despite the best efforts of nearly everyone, unfortunately July 4, 1956, will make Ding's cartoon as fitting as it was for July 4, 1930.

Hot Events Impend in Russia

WASHINGTON—What's going on inside the Kremlin? Nobody here really knows, but American intelligence sources can make some shrewd guesses.

There's a battle on. The struggle for leadership is between the former Stalin men and their opponents. Evidence of the conflict can be seen in the behavior of the Communist parties outside of Soviet Russia. Whoever still has these foreign instrumentalities of communism under control—and it looks like someone in the top ministry who handles foreign outlets of propaganda is in command—may have inspired the severest criticism of Khrushchev by the Communist groups outside Russia.

The outcry from "The Daily Worker" in New York, for example, and from Communist organs in other parts of the world is that the men in the Kremlin who stood by Stalin and didn't interfere with his cruelties are themselves to blame and must answer for their acquiescence in his crimes. It's really a political maneuver to get them out altogether.

Whenever dissension of such proportions goes on in any cabinet, there is bound to be a slowing up of certain activities and a speeding up of others.

IN THE CASE of the Kremlin, the speed-up is on the foreign propaganda side. A desperate effort is being made to win new laurels in the Middle East and in Europe. The drive is on to push the American military forces out of their bases everywhere in Europe and Asia. It has already succeeded in Iceland. The movement has intensified in Morocco and North Africa generally and trouble-making has been renewed by the Communists throughout Latin America. It looks as if the men in charge of the foreign office are seeking to establish a new prestige for domestic reasons.

Meanwhile, the infiltration policies which have been pursued with considerable vigor lately are making some headway and causing the western powers concern in France as well as Italy.

It's a mixed-up situation for the United States and her allies to analyze. For there is no certainty as to who is going to be on top next in the battle for supremacy inside the Kremlin. Whichever faction wins will be faced with internal weaknesses growing out of the fight itself.

THE NEW OUTBREAK of rioting just reported from Poland may or may not have been inspired by certain political strategists in Moscow but it looks as if the discipline usually exerted there over the satellite states has weakened lately. Hence, the people in Poland now are emboldened to take chances. Incidentally, it has always been assumed here that the overthrow of the government at Moscow would come about as a result of revolt initiated throughout the satellite states.

Perhaps soon the world will know more details as a purge of the higher-ups—maybe Khrushchev or Bulganin or both will go down—and the elevation of some new leader come to pass. Something is going on inside the Kremlin that means much to the outside world. Dictatorships work invisibly, and sometimes palace revolutions break out when the rival dictators cannot tolerate each other. It would seem that big events are in the offing.

Everything that happens in this world is a part of a great plan of God running through all time.—Henry Ward Beecher.

JOHN S. KNIGHT

It's Time for GOP to Face Up to the 'Problem' of Dick Nixon

(Mr. Knight is editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News and other Knight newspapers.)

AT THE RECENT conference of governors in Atlantic City, the 21 Republican heads of state signed a petition asking President Eisenhower to run for reelection but pointedly left out any reference to Vice President Nixon.

The official explanation, which nobody believes, was that it just hadn't occurred to them to include Nixon.

The truth is that Nixon's name was omitted by design. Gov. Fred Hall of Kansas, author of the Eisenhower petition, has quoted one of the GOP governors—quite possibly himself—as saying, "For God's sake, keep Nixon's name off of it."

So Nixon was ignored because the nation's Republican governors, with ears close to the ground and moist fingers testing the winds of public opinion, consider the young but experienced vice president something of a political liability.

BUT THE QUESTION may be appropriately asked: Why are the Republicans so self-conscious over Dick Nixon?

What is there about this affable, contemplative young man which makes him such a controversial figure?

Why do so many people say "I just don't like Nixon," without, in most instances, being able to offer valid reasons for their dislike?

As vice president, Dick Nixon has been a trusted and faithful to the President.

No vice president in modern times has been as diligent in the pursuit of his duties, nor as well informed in the science of government.

From the hour of Eisenhower's first illness, Nixon has conducted himself with admirable dignity and restraint.

There have been no "foot-in-the-mouth" statements, nor any attempts at self-glorification.

IN VIEW OF THIS record, and it appears to be substantial, why do the Republican governors and other segments of the party believe Dick Nixon has political "E. O."?

They will tell you privately, as several have told me, that they like him but Dick Nixon is "just not popular with the people."

Some folks, they say, think he is "too young." Others "don't like his looks," or remark that he "can't be trusted."

Reference is frequently made to the California campaign fund and Nixon's "corny show on television."

And, of course, Dick Nixon is extremely unpopular with Democratic leaders who resent his hard hitting campaign speeches and the alleged aspersions of their patriotism.

I venture the opinion, however, that inherent in the thinking of those who don't like Nixon for whatever frivolous reason may be expressed, is a solid doubt that he would make a good President.

And this, I submit, is the only question worthy of consideration.

MY OWN VIEW is that the Republicans are doing Dick Nixon a great injustice.

Either he is a man of presidential caliber, or he is not.

Because the Republicans have staked everything on a second term for Eisenhower, this question becomes tremendously important.

If the tergiversating Republicans, who are shying away from Nixon, feel he lacks the proper qualifications, why don't they stand up in meeting and say so?

Do they have a better candidate?

If not, the silent treatment they are giving Nixon is hurting the man who may be nominated for President if Ike doesn't run.

NO ONE IS BEING fooled by the present Republican strategy except the strategists who say every day that Ike is better in every way.

It is idle to pretend, and dishonest as well, to act as if Nixon did not exist.

It is incomparably stupid to brush him off, or wish that he might go away.

It is grossly unfair to Nixon, who has given such yeoman service to his country and to his chief, to backbite the vice president without having the courage to spend out against him in public.

For the Nixon problem, if that it can be called, is on their doorstep and the Republican leadership and the Republican leadership should come out of their dream house and face up to it.

L. A. Auditorium and Tax Problem

TO THE EDITOR:

A recent newspaper item in covering the now activated downtown Los Angeles auditorium and music center project (consistently rejected by the voters of Los Angeles City as not acceptable) brought out the point that the project, when completed would raise taxes on the adjoining property.

Civic minded business men should make a study of the general overall property tax situation within the County of Los Angeles before taking steps which might result in an increase of property taxes in any location within the county.

Civic minded business men should also determine if there is a violation of the right to private domain (land ownership) in the planned downtown L. A. City auditorium project through the condemnation of private property for the benefit of other private interest.

It is reported that after private interest completes the construction of the center, the facilities are to be leased to Los Angeles County. This move to accord the County taxpayers the privileges of footing the bills (paying the expense of running the huge center).

There is a question as to whether the present Board of Supervisors will qualify for this job.

Two recent business ventures of the Supervisors will testify as to their ability to spend money, i.e., the hospital business venture and the flower garden business venture. Both projects are adding thousands of dollars each month to the excessive high cost of the L. A. County government.

Civic minded business men should immediately direct their attention towards cutting any county spending which tends to raise property taxes and take steps to have all lavish county spending stopped.

NELL PATE.

Willow Traffic Hazard Cited

TO THE EDITOR:

Just read Ronald Smith's letter in your column concerning the traffic on Willow. I feel that this is one time that I should add my "two cents worth." I will go just a little bit farther and say that it is not only a disgrace, but a traffic hazard as well. I am sure that Signal Hill residents enjoy streets in Long Beach, and feel that the least they could do would be to fix theirs.

I called the police department of Signal Hill about this traffic hazard, and was told that all the motorists should write the council about the hazard of this street.

I would suggest that the council members take a look at Willow during the traffic hours. I am sure that they would see what we see every night—cars bumper-to-bumper from American Ave. clear through to Cherry and sometimes as far as Redondo.

Not only that, but because you know that traffic is so congested and you are trying to help the guy behind you get out of it too, you might not pause long enough at a stop sign, consequently you are halted down by a traffic cop and given a citation. But why aren't they there to get the traffic through?

JANE SMITH.

Mothers Could Help as Nurses

TO THE EDITOR:

A suggestion to help relieve the shortage of registered nurses in Long Beach area: Hire the qualified mothers of school age children for school hours only.

There are many of us who would be glad to work from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on school days with weekends, holidays and vacations with our children and husbands.

MRS. JACK WEBBENS.

Chides Council on Rabies Issue

TO THE EDITOR:

What are the gentlemen of the city council, jellyfish or men? Are they afraid of their constituents or progress?

The rabies vaccination issue may be a hot potato but give the public credit for a little intelligence.

A councilman may lose a few scattered votes for standing on his two feet but the majority would respect his courage.

How many would deny their children polio shots? Then what makes the Council think the public would oppose "inflicting" a vaccination on a dog?

File the letter, indeed!

MRS. J. K. E.

Jones Shatters 400 Meter Record

Olson Fires 69 for Lead

By JERRY WYNN

School-teacher Craig Olson presided over the championship golf class Saturday with a two-under par 69 and a one-stroke lead after the first round of the Meadowlark 54-hole Invitational.

Meadowlark was anything but a lark as only four in the field of 215 were able to master par. Oddly enough, the only one to match Olson's effort was Steve Stubbs of Santa Anita, whose six handicap placed him out of championship (scratch through four) consideration.

Tied for second place at 70 were Lakewood's long-hitting Dick Collard and Storekeeper 3/C Henry Cogger of Wichita Falls, Tex., who is playing golf hereabouts while his destroyer rests in Long Beach harbor. Equalling par were Orange County champion Fred Valenzano of Willowick and Rio Hondo's Frank Hansen, who lost two strokes with an out-of-bounds tee shot on the final hole.

The majority of the scores was painfully high. Among the major victims were Meadowlark's Johnny Tate and Jack Augsberger with 76's; Chuck Cassada, Ronnie Hughes and Bob Reed, the Long Beach City Championship finalist, at 77; Bob DeGidio at 81 and Manny Magdaleno, the 1954 SGP-Public champion, with an 84. Defending champion Neil White had a 74.

OLSON, Meadowlark's club champion, had five birdies, three bogies and nines of 32-37.

He started off roaring with birdies on the first hole, a four-foot putt after a 4-iron to the green, and the second, an eight-footer. He missed the green to bogey the fourth but came back with birdies on the fifth on a 12-foot putt and the seventh on a two-footer following another great 4-iron to the green.

UMPIRE RUN-IN

Hutchinson 'Out' 3 Days

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Manager Fred Hutchinson of the St. Louis Cardinals was fined $150 and suspended for three days Saturday in connection with a dispute with Umpire Babe Pinelli in Friday night's game with Cincinnati.

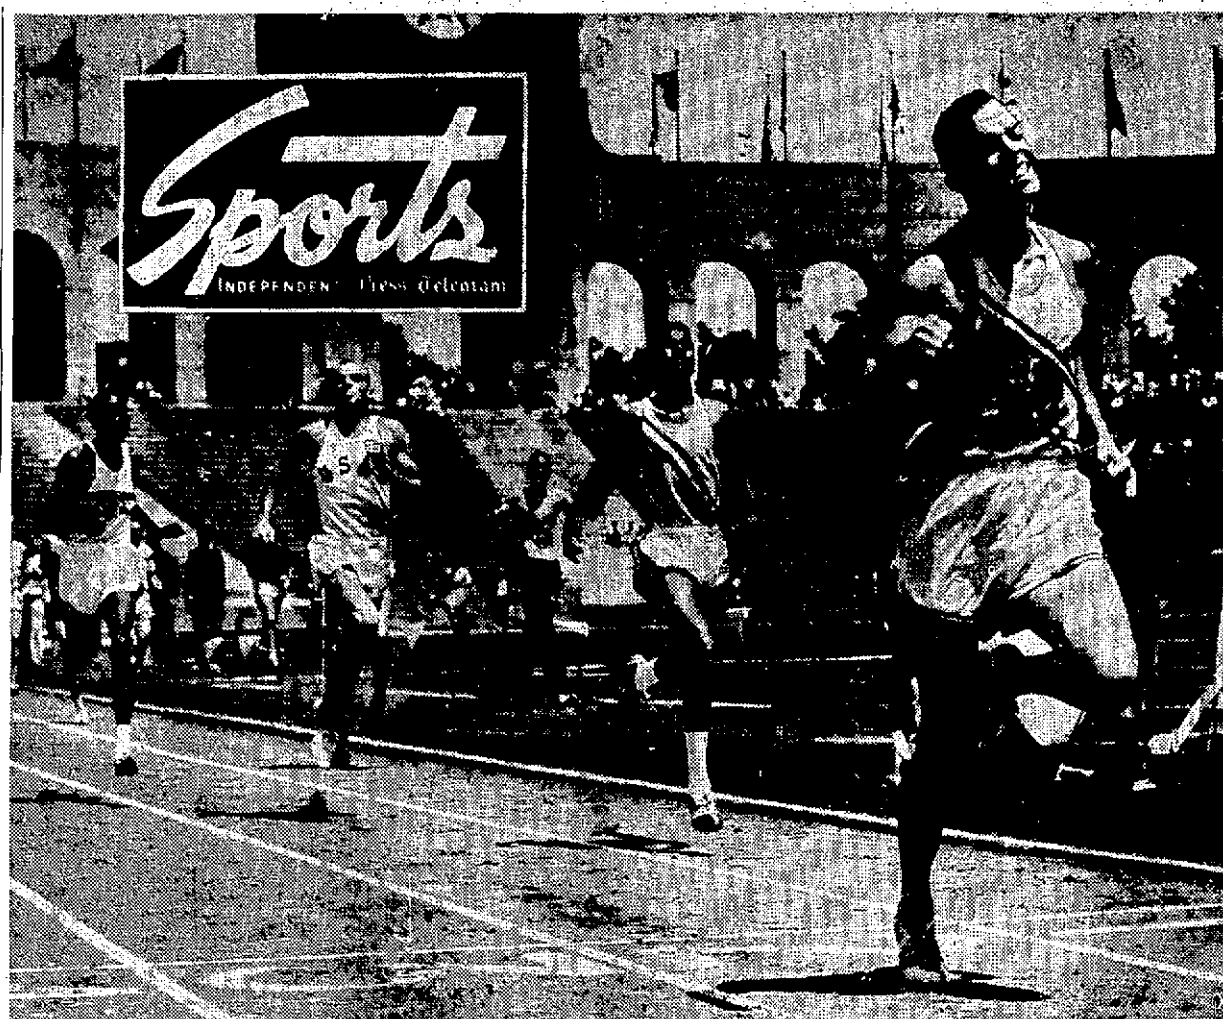

The order originally called for a four day suspension but was reduced to three days after Hutchinson and General Manager Frank Lane made what they called "strong protests."

Hutchinson denied any bodily contact with the umpire. He said he was standing in front of Pinelli and "he tried to walk through me."

UPSET IN STEEPLECHASE

Phil Coleman of Chicago Track Club leads Horace Ashenfelter (left) and Charles Jones of Iowa over water jump in 3,000 meter steeplechase. Coleman won in 9:00.3, Jones was second, and Ashenfelter, the 1952 Olympic champ and favorite, was third.

College Athletes Dominate Team

By DICK ZEHMS

The college crewcut should be the hair style for America's Olympic track and field team when it arrives in Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 3 and 4 for the 16th Olympiad.

Approximately half of the more emphatically Friday and members of the Yankee team Saturday in the Coliseum, for no less than 35 places were won Saturday in the final Olympic Trials in the Coliseum will be missing the fall campus semester. It's strictly a young man's game this running, jumping and throwing business.

Make room for a new crop of American sports heroes. The colleges of the land have spawned them. The Harrison Dillards, Mal Whitfields, and Lindy Remigino will be left at home.

And some of the campus cut-ups who expected to spend November and December in the land "down under" will be hitting the books, the Bobby Seamans, Dave Simces, Bobby Whildens, Russ Ellises and Sid Wings.

THE REST OF Uncle Sam's Olympic track squad is rather evenly divided between armed services personnel and AAU or athletic club performers. Some of them who had planned to spend late fall sightseeing in Australia between competitions will be staying home.

How important a part the college track program plays in the development of America's international athletic representatives was brought home even more emphatically Friday and Saturday in the Coliseum, for no less than 35 places were won Saturday in the final Olympic Trials in the Coliseum will be missing the fall campus semester. It's strictly a young man's game this running, jumping and throwing business.

Courtney Nips Sowell in 1:46; Whitfield 5th

By DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES COLISEUM—The United States Olympic track and field team was completed here Saturday as another sensational series of performances ranging from superior to amazing and topped by a new world record in the 400-meter dash firmly established America's 1956 spike forces as the mightiest in history.

In the feature event of the second half of the final American Olympic Trials, a crowd of 37,127 fans saw Lou Jones, swift Negro star, better his own world record in the 400-meter dash when he streaked to a 45.2 second victory.

It was the third world record established in the trials . . . two having been racked up in Friday night's action when Charley Dumas of Compton College high jumped 7 feet 1/4 inch and Glenn Davis of Ohio State slashed the 400-meter hurdle mark by nine-tenths of a second with a spectacular 49.5 effort.

JONES, FORMERLY of the University of Pittsburgh and now in the Army, lowered the 45.4 mark he set last year in the Pan-American Games at Mexico City by two-tenths of a second in leading his arch-rival, Jimmy Lee, to the tape by six yards. And he did it the hard way . . . by running in the outside lane.

Courtney wrote a new American record in the 800-meter run in the books with a brilliant 1:46.4 clocking as he whipped Arnie Sowell of Pitt by five yards and the third-place finisher, Lon Spurrier, by 10.

Sowell set up Courtney's record when he shot into the lead at the outset and set a blazing 51.7 pace through the first lap as Mal Whitfield, 1948 and '52 Olympic champion, Spurrier and Courtney trailed in that order.

Midway through the final lap, Whitfield boomed to the front and appeared to be a cinch to make the Olympic team for a third time.

But Whitfield's hopes were short-lived as Sowell came on again, followed by Courtney.

Courtney, in a furious drive with 80 yards to go, passed both of them heading into the stretch and pulled away easily. Sowell was hanging safely on to second, and the race from there on in settled down to a battle for third place with Spurrier outlasting Lang Stanley of San Jose State. Whitfield, hopelessly beaten, eased up in the final 20 yards, but salvaged fifth.

IN EVERY EVENT, the finest mark ever posted in the Olympic Trials either was equalled or bettered. Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian, who won the 100 Friday night, equaled the fastest time ever posted in the 200 meters around a curve in beating Thane Baker of the Air Force by a yard and Andy Stanfield, 1952 Olympic King, by two. There is no official world record for this event, but if there was Morrow would be sharing it today.

The 1,500-meter run produced the biggest upset of any of the track events when UCLA's Bobby Seaman and Fred Dwyer of the New York AC, who entered the race with the two fastest clockings by Americans this season, failed to make the team.

Dwyer was nipped at the tape by Cal's Don Bowden for the third and final Olympic berth while Seaman was a disappointing fifth, faltering badly 70 yards from the finish after running a strong third up to that point.

Jerome Walters, former Compton High whippet, glances back to make sure he won 1,500 meters. Walters outgunned Ted Wheeler of Iowa in stretch, while Don Bowden of California edged Fred Dwyer of the New York AC (on Bowden's left) for third. Bob Seaman of UCLA, co-favored with Dwyer, finished disappointing fifth.

AS USUAL, the pole vault was the last event to be concluded and two of the three vaulters who last represented the U. S.—Bob Richards and George Mattos—made the grade again.

Richards, '52 Olympic champ, won with a vault of 15-1 while Mattos was second with the best vault of his career . . . 14-10 1/2. Jim Graham of Oklahoma A&M won the third spot after tying with Bob Gutowski of Occidental and Ron Morris of SC at 14-8 1/2. Graham won the final berth for having the fewest number of misses.

Final crowd count for the two days was 71,253—largest ever to see the tryouts.

JAVELIN MARK BROKEN: 274-4 MILAN, Italy (UP)—Janusz Sidlo of Poland hurled the javelin 274 feet, 4 1/2 inches to set a new world record in the international four-country track and field meet here Saturday.

The old mark of 274-3/4 was set last week end by Nikkinen of Finland.

CONKED. One of the occupational hazards of a baseball career is breaking up the double play. The first-base runner is supposed to smear the defender at the keystone sack so he can't complete the twin killing with a throw to first base.

Long Beach's manager of the Amarillo, Tex., Gold Sox of the Western League, Chuck Stevens, was called upon last week to demonstrate to his young and aspiring rookies how the double killing is spoiled. Unfortunately, he couldn't anticipate the moves of the opposition.

As he roared into second base dedicated to certain destruction of the second baseman handling the play, he started to slide. As he did so, the thrower unwound an errant heave toward first base. It never arrived. It struck the "old lefthander" in the head.

Down and out went Stevens. He's been recuperating rather slowly ever since and the medics tell him he'll have to take things easy for another week. He was socked, but good.

As a result of his experience, he no doubt has but one admonition for his youngsters, which goes something like this:

"Be sure you go low into second base, but hard, to break up the double play. Only as a last resort get conked. There are better ways to break up the double play—less painful ways. Hit 'em hard, but low. Being brained isn't the smart way to play this game."

And he speaks from experience.

MILESTONE DEPT. In the years to come when Brooklyn Dodger shortstop PeeWee Reese looks back upon his major league career, he'll hold 1956 in his recollections with special reverence. This is the season he reaches two milestones.

The veteran infielder and Dodger field captain, who has spent all his major league playing time of some 14 seasons with the same club, will become a 2,000 game player and a 2,000 hit man this season.

He had 1,857 games under his belt when he started the '56 campaign. And he had 1,916 hits to his credit off big league pitching. These totals have been increased to 1,918 games and 1,977 hits.

If the old warhorse can keep going without injury, he will be due to hit the 2,000 game mark about Sept. 20. The 2,000 hit club membership card will be his in July, at the .265 batting pace he is moving this season.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals already has reached the 2,000 game level this season, as has Mickey Vernon of the Boston Red Sox.

Only one other big league veteran can reach a 2,000 figure this season. Red Schoendienst, former Card keystone sacker, now with the New York Giants, began the '56 season with 1,853 hits. If Bill Rigley keeps him working and he's on his stick, he may pick up the 147 needed to qualify. As of Saturday, he was working on his last 100. He needs 97 to make it.

TASKS. It takes a pitcher to best define his job. Tall Fred Green, Hollywood Star fireman, explains his chores with the twinkles in this enlightening manner:

"A starting pitcher must think of his job as one of nine-inning duration. Accordingly, he has to learn how to pace himself to go the distance.

"The relief pitcher is charged with more responsibility when he walks to the mound. His main job is to retire the first batter. The situation is always critical when he arrives on the scene. He either has to protect a slipping lead or has to keep the enemy from running away with the game.

"Either way, he's got to dispose of the first man he faces. This is what he is being paid for!"

KANGAROO AIDED RECORD

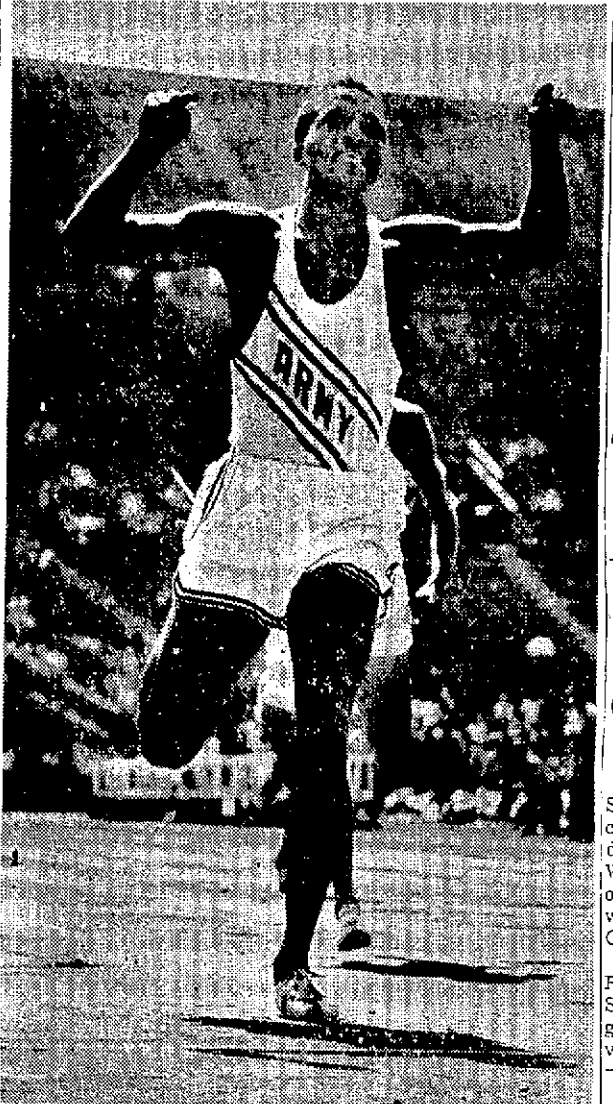

Dumas Had to Pay Own Way Into Olympic Trials

Charley Dumas had to pay $3 to get into the Coliseum Friday night to crack the seven-foot barrier in the high jump for the first time in history.

Dumas revealed Saturday that his coach, Herschel Smith, was supposed to meet him at the gate but got tied up in traffic. Dumas, a little nervous and taking no chances, paid the $3 and walked in with the paying customers.

"I thought he had cleared the seven-foot mark at a meet a few weeks ago," said his coach, "but he actually knocked the bar off with his eyebrow. That's the truth."

An interesting sidelight of Dumas' performance was the fact that he was wearing on his right foot a size 11 green shoe, made in Germany of (naturally) Australian kangaroo leather.

JONES SETS 400 METER RECORD

Lou Jones of Army breaks tape in world record shattering 400 meter finals at Coliseum Saturday. Jones was clocked in 45.2, breaking his own mark of 45.4 set in last Pan-American Games. Jim Lea and Charlie Jenkins also made U. S. team.

Just Jump to Win, Dumas Reveals

The Dumas place was a just wasn't excited about his somewhat frantic house Saturday. The phone rang constantly as well-wishers called to congratulate young Charley on being the first man ever to leap the 7-foot high jump barrier.

And where was the 19-year-old athlete? Out grocery shopping for the family.

Next to Charley, the least excited about his 7 foot 1/2 inch jump at Friday night's U. S. Olympic tryouts in the Coliseum was his mother, Nancy Dumas. "I told him earlier this week to go ahead and jump seven feet," she told a newsmen.

THE 19-YEAR-OLD Compton College freshman, returning from the shopping trip, "I told him earlier this week to go ahead and jump seven feet," she told a newsmen.

Complaint: Too Many Home Runs

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Hammering Hank Bauer of the Yankees ranks as probably the only man in baseball history who ever complained about hitting too many home runs.

Hard to believe? Well, listen to Bauer's tale of woe. "Okay," said the Yankee outfielder, frowning, "so I have hit 16 homers already, but look at my batting average. It's down around .215.

"I'd gladly take those 16 homers of mine, break them down into total bases and take them as singles instead. That would give me 64 more singles and, boy, I sure could use 'em a lot more than those homers." Bauer, whose previous high home run total was 20 last year, explains his chores with the twinkles in this enlightening manner:

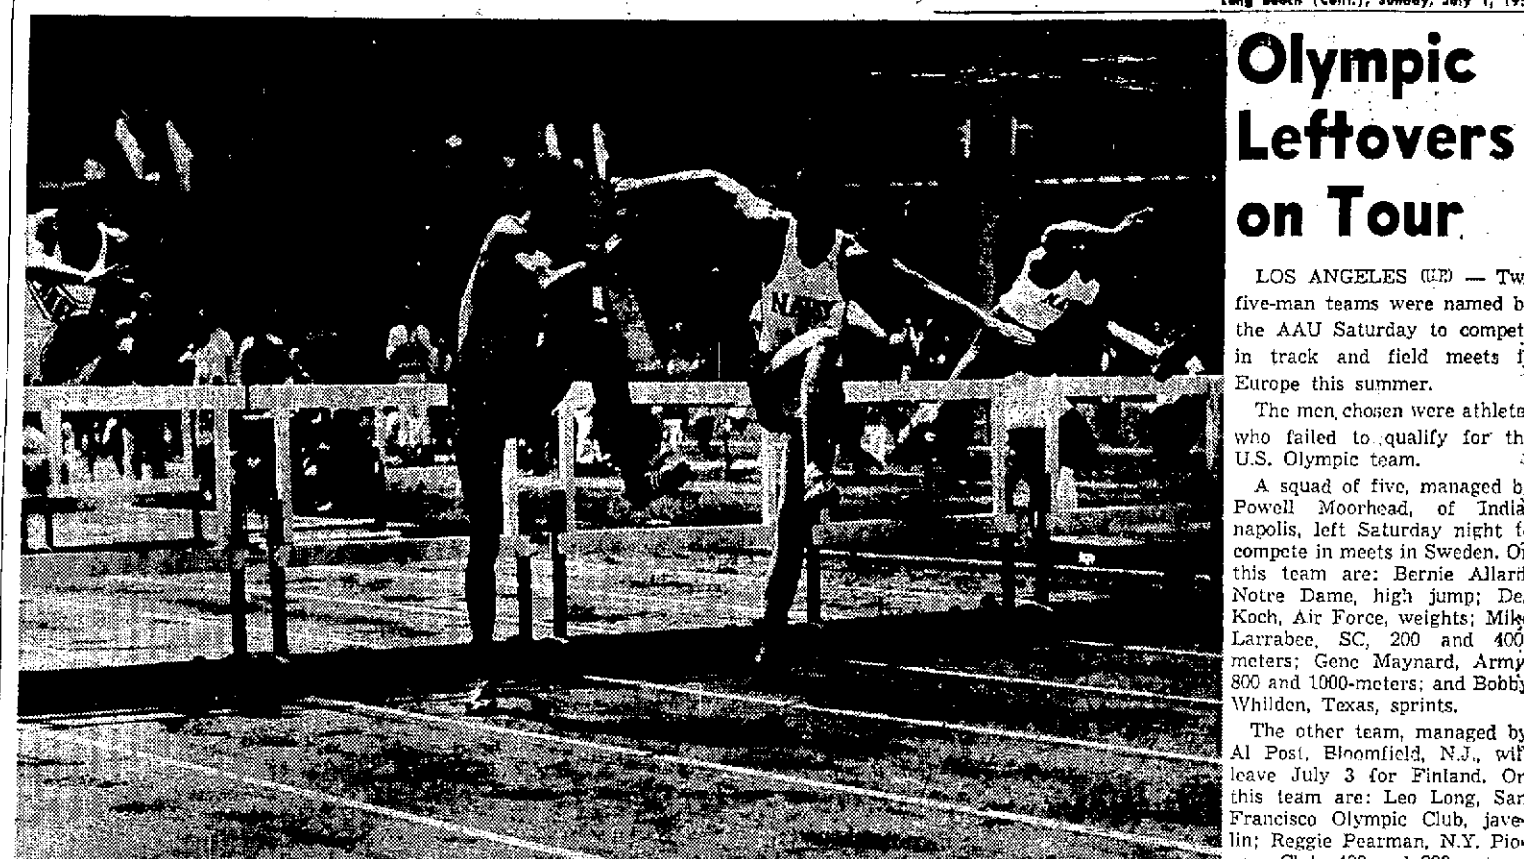

"A starting pitcher must think of his job as one of nine-inning duration. Accordingly, he has to learn how to pace himself to go the distance.

"The relief pitcher is charged with more responsibility when he walks to the mound. His main job is to retire the first batter. The situation is always critical when he arrives on the scene. He either has to protect a slipping lead or has to keep the enemy from running away with the game.

Chisox Rip Tribe, Gain on Yankees

CLEVELAND (U.P.)—Gerry Staley since he joined the White Sox, the National League Sox and his second triumph over lastoff, gave up 12 hits Saturday and pitched the Chicago White Sox to within two games of the American League lead with an 8-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Staley was rapped for Al Rosen's 10th homer and George Strickland's first, but he was given excellent support. The victory was his third without

Lemon's Home Run Tops Yanks

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Jim Lemon's three-run homer in the first inning powered Washington to a 5-1 victory over the New York Yankees Saturday while left-handed Chuck Stobbs held the league leaders to eight hits.

Clint Courtney also hit a home run for the Senators in their nine-hit attack on Johnny Kucks, Maury McDermott, Bob Turley and Rip Coleman.

The Yanks finally broke through Stobbs for a run in the seventh on singles by Hank Bauer and Andy Carey and pinch-hitter Bob Cerv's sacrifice fly.

Mickey Mantle's only hit in four trips was an eighth inning single.

Junior Gilliam, with a double and three singles; Randy Jackson with a double and a triple and Gil Hodges with a three-run homer sparked the 15-hit Brooklyn attack.

Roberts, trying for his ninth victory, was the victim of the five run uprising and instead went down to his ninth defeat.

PARTICULARS

In defending champion Jim Ferrier, Jerry Barber and Paul Runyan, the Southern California PGA Championship at Recreation Park, July 12-15, will have three of the finest short game players in the nation.

Although all have proven their capabilities on longer and tougher courses, the moderately-taxing 6,263 championship yards of the municipal links are ideally suited for them.

"This is essentially a drive, pitch and putt course for the top professional," replied club pro George Lake to our query. "If you hit your drive long and straight on most holes, you don't need much of an iron to reach the green."

"When Sam Snead shot his record-breaking 63 in his only visit here, he boomed his drives so close, that all that was left was to flip short wedges stiff to the pin."

Although Ferrier, Barber and Runyan are no Sneads off the tee, their handling of the 9-iron wedge and putter rank them right at the head of the "men to beat" class in the SC-PGA.

Ferrier is one of the acknowledged great putters of all time. He missed only three putts of five feet or less in defeating Ralph Evans and Cecil Harris in last year's Championship 36-hole semi-finals and finals.

A striking illustration of Barber's short game prowess came in the recent U.S. Open. Hitting only 10 greens in regulation figures and trapped nine times, he shot a second round 69, the second low score of the tourney.

We include Runyan as a distinct title threat because the veteran former two-time national PGA champion is currently playing in top form. His mastery of the spoon and chip shots are golf legend and his PGA title victories over Craig Wood and Snead always cited as proof positive that the good little man with the good short game can beat the good big man with the good big game.

These three are by no means the only ones in the 1934 SC-PGA field with outstanding short games. But they are three who will be hard to bet against.

WITH MALCOLM EPLEY

SANTA Fe's new high level train, which I rode to San Diego and back Friday, does something for your ego as well as your outlook.

I was reminded of horseback riding in the woods. Hiking, you feel small and insignificant among the great trees. On a horse, you get a sense of power and importance.

Just being a few feet higher seems to do it, and I got the same stimulating experience out of riding the El Capitan's upper deck, eight feet above the clicking rails.

"That's carrying the analogy far enough. Certainly the El Capitan's foam rubber seats are not to be likened to the back of a horse as regards comfort and what can happen to certain muscles of the first-time or occasional rider.

I CAUGHT the El Capitan at Santa Ana for its exhibition run to San Diego. There were a lot of other newspaper, TV and radio people on the train, among them our Southern Magazine editor, Fred Kraft. Accompanying Bro. Kraft and me were our wives, which I mention because of something which happened at the end of the trip.

First thing "different" that we noticed was that we entered our car at the center, rather than the end. Just a short step up, and we were in the luggage storage section that, with dressing rooms, comprises the "first story" of the coach car. Stairs from there took us to the high level chair compartment.

Aside from the exhilarating high level view, the most notable thing there was roominess. One can really stretch his legs from those seats, no matter how long the legs are. And there are padded leg rests and reclining backs that make contour chairs out of the cleverly designed seats.

This is fine at any time, but it would certainly be great for long travel.

WE ENJOYED dining, too, at high level. The kitchen is on the lower floor of the dining car, adding a lot of room for tables on the upper deck.

The lounge car is a double decker, and the upper room features curved glass windows connecting wall and ceiling. Bright, airy and viewful.

Modernistic decor in soothing colors, and soft music, provide pleasant atmospheric touches. It's still a train, but quite a train, one must admit. It will be on display here July 7.

WE WHISKED to San Diego at high speed, through the lovely Southland countryside and along the ocean. I don't know the rate, but we passed up the automobiles on parallel highway 101.

At San Diego we stayed aboard, and in a little while had reversed directions and were rolling northward toward the incident involving our wives that I must relate.

The trip took less time than we realized, and presently, when the train had stopped a moment or two, somebody said we were back in Santa Ana.

So we got right up and asked the car porter if we could leave from that car. Sure, he said, and led us down the stairs. He opened the middle side door and Fred and I, who were ahead as long-married husbands should be, stepped through.

JUST THEN the train started, and I mean started. My gal Jane looked startled as she stood in the door, with Verda just behind. The porter snatched up his little stool and ran madly for the rapidly departing door, motioning the gals to stay aboard. He barely made it, the train swung around the bend, and there stood Kraft and Epley, sans wives.

We went into the station and told a fellow at the ticket window that the train had taken our wives away.

"Is that bad?" he asked, then made a call to Fullerton where El Capitan was to stop. Kraft was all for starting right over there, but I insisted caution required waiting until the gals called. They might go on into L.A. or something.

But I was wrong, as usual. Presently I was called to the phone, and Jane's voice said from Fullerton:

"Why aren't you over here to pick us up?"

Aeronautic Whiz Keeps Hamburger Stand Flying

Crackup Planes Rebuilt Here, Return to Sky

By BRYAN HODGSON

Jim Conroy is probably the only man in the world who has installed wings on a hamburger stand and made it fly.

This may strike the average air-minded citizen as a rather startling accomplishment, but it was strictly a routine job for the quiet, 43-year-old president of Long Beach Aeromotive.

"The hamburger stand was a gutted C-54 plane fuselage in Kentucky," he said. "All we had to do was buy some wings in Seattle, a center wing section in Albuquerque and the landing gear in Dallas, and then ship them all here for assembly."

When Conroy and his staff of 151 skilled workers were finished, they had a gleaming, good-as-new airplane which, to date, has piled up over 5,000 hours of safe trans-ocean flying time.

"BUILDING NEW airplanes out of old parts is only one of our specialties," Conroy said. "We're equipped to do almost any job of modification or repair to anything with wings."

The plant at 2735 E. Spring St. is jammed with airplanes of all sizes, in all stages of repair, but the center of attraction right now is the fuselage of a giant DC-4 transport in the process of reconstruction.

"The plane cracked up on a

JIM CONROY... One to Go, Without Mustard

snowbank in Gander, Newfoundland. It cost over $30,000 just to ship it here, but when it's rebuilt it'll sell for more than it cost new."

On another corner of the yard, a badly crumpled DC-3 waited its turn for renovation.

"In 90 days, that plane will be flying again," Conroy said.

"Before we're through, every damaged part will be replaced as good as new. If there's any doubt, we'll make it better."

And to make doubly sure his rebuilt planes are in top shape, Conroy does his own test flying.

KEY TO Long Beach Aeromotive's booming business—now at the $1,000,000-a-year level—is the increasing use of "flying offices" by industrial executives.

"The defense program and commercial airline contracts are absorbing most of the new plane production, so used transport planes are at a premium."

"We've built some pretty plush planes for the big oil companies, and once in a while we remodel a Catalina flying boat into a flying yacht for well-heeled sportsmen."

Among his satisfied customers are John Jacob Astor, Ollman Glenn McCarthy, Rexall Drug Co. President Justin Dart and China's Gen. Chiang-kai-shek. The company also rebuilds planes for airlines in South America, and does contract repair and modification work for the Navy and Air Force.

TOURING THE construction yard, Conroy stopped to inspect each job and greeted workers by their first names.

"It's tough to get highly skilled craftsmen these days, but the men like the challenge our work presents. You've got to be really good to rebuild an airplane, and they're proud of their work."

"I sign about half a million dollars worth of paychecks a year, but they're worth every cent."

Conroy's business is all up in the air, but for pleasure he likes four wheels on the ground.

Ducking into a small workshop, he proudly displayed his pet reconstruction project—a thunderous-looking supercharged 1938 Cord roadster.

"It don't get much time nowadays to work on it," he said ruefully, pointing to the dust-covered hood.

"But if it had wings, it would be finished next week."

City Brief Will Attack Tideland Oil Suit Claim

El Dorado Park Plan Advances

By HARRY FULTON

First step in developing the 600-acre El Dorado Park along the San Gabriel River will be undertaken in the near future, according to Don Obert, city park director.

A community building to serve the Los Altos area already has been constructed at the intersection of Barrios St. and Studebaker Rd., and Obert said the city soon will award a contract for other improvements in this area.

The area will be graded, sprinklers will be installed and lawns will be planted. Parking for automobiles also will be provided, shrubs will be planted and a softball diamond will be constructed.

Development of this large regional park is just part of the $4,900,000 citywide park and recreation improvement authorized by voters last Feb. 9.

THIS BOND MONEY will be used to develop an adequate city nursery, expand the roadside tree-planting program and provide park and recreation facilities, either in whole or in part, in 29 existing city parks.

Some of the park and recreation improvement bonds are now being sold, but proceeds from the initial sale will be used primarily for design and engineering on the various projects approved. Actual construction on most major projects will not be started until next winter, Obert said.

Another project which already has advanced beyond the planning stage, however, involves improvements at the California Ave. recreation center at 15th and California. Development of a complete neighborhood playground is now under way. The recreation area has been enlarged and is being landscaped, and a children's playground and various other projects which

Mallon Case Hearing Set in L.A. Court

By GEORGE WEEKS
City Hall Reporter

The city will attempt soon to bring an end to the Mallon suit, still pending but asserted to be moot because of new turns of events since its filing three years ago.

The suit challenged the legality of the city's use of tideland oil money, acquired by grant from the state, away from the harbor and on municipal projects.

City Atty. Walfred Jacobson has announced he and special counsel O'Melveny & Myers will go before Judge A. Curtis Smith in Los Angeles Superior Court on July 10 to argue a motion for permission to file an amended answer to the original complaint.

In brief, the answer will argue that trial of the action should abate pending the consummation of a settlement implemented by Assembly Bill 77 and a subsequent stipulation, Jacobson said. After that, the city will move for dismissal of the suit as moot.

THE ANSWER, now being drafted in final form, recalls some of the curious history of the litigation in which the state Supreme Court reversed a trial court and introduced a principle which did not appear in the original pleadings.

As a result of the high court's opinion and the legislative compromise, the city has agreed to surrender to the state $120,000,000 in cash and securities, plus accruals which in future years will amount to many millions more.

The city's original position in the suit was taken "in good faith," the answer says, based on its understanding that a 1951 statute freed a portion of the tideland revenue from the terms of the trust with the state.

This understanding, it is pointed out, was shared by the governor at that time, Earl Warren, Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown and the legislature itself.

In view of the changed set of facts, the answer adds, it is the

First Post-War Fleet Review Linked to 'Mrs. Navy' Contest

Scores of Navy warships will steam through Long Beach Harbor Sept. 14 in the first fleet review held in the nation since 1937.

Navy Secy. Charles S. Thomas and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, will be on hand for the review—which will be held in connection with the "Mrs. United States Navy Contest" here Sept. 6-15. The ships will form a column off Seal Beach, sail through the breakwater and into the harbor.

The vessels will be about 500 to 1,000 yards apart in the column. Naval aircraft will fly overhead throughout the review.

Entries in the contest—sponsored by the Fleet Reserve

Assn.—are being received from Navy bases throughout the world, Beck said.

The applications are forwarded to the 34 naval commands, which will have separate contests to select a representative to take part in the Long Beach competition.

IT WILL NOT BE a beauty show, said Beck, "but a contest to select the woman who has made the greatest contribution to her husband's desire to make a career of the Navy."

The winner will receive a new car, a complete wardrobe, an expense-paid trip to Honolulu and 14 major cities and $2,500 cash.

Other features of the contest week will be a full-dress military parade through downtown Long Beach and a one-day cruise for the contestants aboard a Navy ship.

Entry Lists in Soapbox Derby Close

Judges were checking last-minute entries in the Long Beach Soap Box Derby Saturday while contestants put the finishing touches on their wooden racers.

Deadline for entries was Saturday. The number of entrants has not yet been tabulated, but it's expected to set an all-time record of more than 425, said Fred Stover, derby director.

The race, open to boys between 11 and 15, is sponsored by The Independent, Press-Telegram and Chevrolet dealers in the Long Beach area.

The junior car builders will be able to try out their racers next Sunday on the derby course—the 970-foot-long hill on Redondo Ave. north of Pacific Coast Highway. The course will be closed to motor traffic that day.

Test runs on the hill also are scheduled for Sunday, July 15, and Sunday, July 22.

The race itself will be run Saturday, July 28.

The winner of the Long Beach race will go to Akron, Ohio, to compete in the All-American Soap Box Derby Aug. 12.

Mallon Case Hearing Set in L. A. Court

city's intention to use the tideland revenue only for purposes in accord with AB 77, the stipulation and a decree still to be entered by the court.

Thus the relief sought by the plaintiffs is now without equity and is unnecessary for the vindication of their rights.

FURTHER, THE ARGUMENT continues, the plaintiffs have no legal standing in any attempt to protect the rights of the state, since the attorney general has filed a separate action which is still pending.

Atty. Charles Stratton, who represented the original plaintiff, Felix Mallon, said he will not oppose the city's motion. Opposition, if any, is expected to come from Atty. Theodore Gabrielson, who was permitted to intervene on behalf of another taxpayer, Alma Swart.

Gabrielson has indicated he may resist dismissal of the Mallon suit until his own claim for a $6,000,000 cut in the tideland revenue is settled. He has asked for that amount on the theory that he raised questions of law that resulted in the agreement to transfer $120,000,000 to the state.

She was struck by a car driven by Hugh R. Smith, 41, of 21336 Archibald Ave., Torrance.

THE MAN WHO DRIVES THE IMPERIAL

He initiates new concepts

Trends in automobiles come about much as trends in any field.

More often than not, they are initiated by men who have the imagination and self-assurance to do something different. Men whose nature is to lead, not to follow.

It is people like these who are setting today's new trend to Imperial... and it's not difficult to guess why they feel that a change is long overdue.

Imperial is the one uncommon fine car today. There is nothing commonplace about it. It has been created for those who require a motor car that is totally distinctive. If you have not already inspected the Imperial, why not do so at your earliest convenience.

We are certain that you will be pleased with Imperial's craftsmanship and the mastery of its engineering. And we think you'll also find that Imperial feels and performs more like "your kind of car." Simply go to or telephone your Chrysler and Imperial dealer, who will be happy to arrange for your Imperial demonstration.

Tele-Vues TERRY VERNON

Vesatile Frank Lovejoy, actor, has a type of assignment new to him but it's a role he should be able to play convincingly and with finesse to match that of his predecessor. Tonight at 10 on (4) he comes to TV as "Man Against Crime," a series that originally appeared with Ralph Bellamy portraying the role of Mike Barnett, private investigator.

"Man Against Crime" replaces the "Loretta Young Show" for the summer and originates "live" from Hollywood rather than on film as did the old series. In this opening show Mike Barnett tan-

He'll do "The John Huston Story" with a lot of film clips of movie stars and a few in person. To be seen are Gregory Peck, Jose Ferrer, Orson Welles, Lauren Bacall, Edward G. Robinson, Vincent Price, Billy Pearson, Burl Ives, Peter Lorre and Mary Astor.

TELE-TIPS—Jimmie Dodd, the Mouseketeer leader, will conduct a special "Talent Round-Up" on (7) at 6:30 p.m. to select some new youngsters to take places in the Walt Disney Mouseketeer troupe. Big Parking Center Opening

The new Long Beach Federal Savings Parking Center at 345 Elm Ave. will be officially opened for parking Monday, it was announced today by T. A. Gregory, president of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

The multi-tiered parking center will provide for downtown Long Beach additional parking space equal to all that available

American Ave., next door to the main post office, and to use the Parking Center free for two full hours during the opening period.

IN ADDITION to free parking, Long Beach Federal customers receive such additional services as being provided with courtesy counter checks and, if they qualify, free safe deposit boxes, he said.

The Parking Center, long a subject of interest to Long Beach sidewalk superintendents, is downtown Long Beach's first building utilizing the radical lift-slab method of construction.

Described as one of the most modern parking facilities in the nation, it has been designed to allow for shorter four-foot ramps between floor levels, and for other space saving devices.

Besides utilizing the hydraulic lift-slab method of construction, the building is also notable in that a revolutionary new casting method was used for forming the parking decks. These methods resulted in substantial savings over traditional construction methods, Gregory reports.

BIG PARKING CENTER

This Long Beach Federal Savings Parking Center, 345 Elm Ave., which opens Monday will provide the downtown with additional parking space equal to all that available on American Ave., from Ocean Blvd. to 10th St.

"This has been a very eventful year. Our Lakewood store is now in its second year of operation and we are very optimistic about future business in this entire Long Beach area."

"We feel the Long Beach area will continue to become bigger and better and offers a challenge to business to expand to keep pace."

Sukman said the Long Beach showing of business gains the past year was one of the best of many Columbia stores which are located through the Los Angeles area, Bakersfield, Fresno, Sacramento, Portland and Seattle.

Stress Quality of Centex Homes Built in Anaheim

There must be a reason why more than 13,000 families over the nation have moved into Centex residences since 1950; why Centex Construction Co. has zoomed to first in the nation in residential construction in six short years, salesmen say. In this land of free enterprise, there can be only one answer: Centex can and does offer the quality conscious home-seeker the best-planned, best-built, best-located home available.

"See for yourself," the salesmen continued. "Inspect Lincoln Park, Centex's Anaheim subdivision. Note the sturdy construction, plaster walls, hardwood floors, raised foundations, extra thick subflooring. Consider the basic soundness of the floor plans—the privacy and ease of passage through ingenious hallways, the versatility of the living areas through expert placement of folding louvered doors, sliding glass panels.

"Count the luxurious extras in ceramic tiled baths and pullmans, colored cast-iron fixtures, glass enclosed showers, plastic tile flooring in kitchen and baths, oversized closets with easy-sliding doors, built-in Copperone oven and ranges, family-sized snack bars, decorative lighting accessories, forced-air heating, 50-gallon water heaters, natural ash paneling on cabinets, walls and doors, impressively designed fireplaces with log lighters, lavish use of mirrors through-

Non-Vets Pay Only $495 Down

Terms of $495 total down payment for non-vets or vets that have used their GI rights have proven popular during the past few days at Havenwood Homes in Garden Grove, according to Bob Hauge, sales manager. He further stated that the biggest point of vantage for the average buyer is the fact that the monthly payments of $87.50 is about average, or less than minimum rental for a family of 3, thus Mr. Average Citizen can own his own home."

When asked about additional charges such as escrow costs, Art Wall, manager of Walco Homes Inc., the developer, replied, "There is no extra $495 down includes all cost including escrow charges, and the only further expenditure for the buyer is to pay his own costs for insurance on the property. This is estimated at $75 for a three-year period. Several families have already moved into their new home on these terms."

Originally there were only 35 homes and about half have been sold during the past few days. They are constructed along conventional lines; contain 3 bedrooms, 2 baths and have hardwood floors. All models have oversized garages with room for 2 cars plus space.

The homes are located in the heart of Garden Grove and the best way to reach the site is east on 7th St. which turns to Garden Grove Blvd. Turn right on Century Blvd. at the traffic light, follow Century to Verano then South one block to Trask Ave. and a left turn will place you at the site.

$64 Monthly Payment for Luxury Home

Monthly payments of less than $64, principal and interest, materialize the dream of home ownership for families with incomes of $350 a month," says Bill Lyon, Luxury Homes executive.

Priced as low as $12,350, these homes feature built-in Suburban oven and table top range, convenient garbage disposal, mahogany cabinets, sliding glass doors, forced air heating, summer ventilating systems, and many more quality features usually found only in higher-priced homes.

These 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath "Luxury Homes" offer the additional inducement of cash-free possession for veterans, while non-vets who can meet modest income and credit requirements, may avail themselves of liberal FHA terms. Government guaranteed 4 per cent loans, with 25-year first mortgages are available to all, and no second mortgages are required.

This Garden Grove "Luxury Homes" development offers 15 exterior designs. Landscaping and redwood fencing are already in. Free bus service is available to transport children to modern Orange County schools.

Located at Brookhurst Ave. and Ball Rd., these Luxury Homes are easily reached from Los Angeles via the Santa Ana Freeway, Firestone Blvd., past Buena Park to La Palma, at which point, turn right and follow the sign.

Makes Certain Ample Funds Paid for Taxes

Sun Garden Estates announced it is leading the way in the revision of loan terms to amply provide for the annual tax levy at the new 1956-57 rate.

Gilbert J. Hayes, sales agent, announced an all out effort to clearly define terms for buyers to insure against payment increases resulting from inadequate tax impound schedules. He reiterated suggestions made by the assessor's office and VA officials that buyers should make pointed inquiries about taxes before they buy.

To reach the homes drive east on 7th St. to Hwy. 39, turn right to Westminster and left 1/2 mile to model homes.

Champagne Homes Are Offered Low-Income Vet on Easy Terms

IN GARDEN GROVE

Champagne Homes provide an interior charm, as shown here, in the Garden Grove development. Vets earning as low as $300 a month may qualify for the homes.

For a limited time, former GI's with a monthly income of only $300 can now qualify to take immediate possession of a smart 3 or 4 bedroom, 2 bath, 2-car garage prestige residence in Champagne Homes, Garden Grove development of Contracting Engineers, according to Lincoln Moss of Pioneer Land Co., sales agents.

According to Moss, vets pay nothing down. However, a "good faith" deposit of $100 is requested. This will be applied against closing costs when the sale is consummated, or refunded if the veteran purchaser does not qualify.

Non-veterans, too, are proving popular prospects for these roomy, big-family California contemporary residences, Moss added, since they need only $995.50 to move in. And payments of only $80.40 per month include everything... taxes, insurance, principal and interest!

LOCATED at Magnolia and Chapman Ave. in a recently developed fashionable section of residential Garden Grove, each model was custom-designed by Smith and Williams, architects who won the 1954 National Award of Merit. Models have been imaginatively furnished by the noted interior stylist and color-coordinator, C. Tony Pereira. By special appointment they are open Saturdays from 7 a.m.

A variety of unusually flexible floor plans is offered. Each features a massive floor-to-ceiling fireplace, master bedroom suite with private bath; spacious covered patio with built-in barbecue, and a comfortable family room deliberately planned to be both the physical and psychological center of these functional homes.

Among the many other popular attractions of these fine homes is the "Carousel Room" transformed, through design ingenuity, from an ordinary garage room into a colorful fun area.

Its use is not limited entirely to relaxation, however. It can also double as a hobby room, workshop, study, extra bedroom, or even a quiet retreat.

Champagne Homes is reached from Long Beach via 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.), to Magnolia; turn left and drive to model homes at Magnolia and Chapman.

MODEL HOMES FOR SALE

Now that the last half of Katella Park's second unit in Garden Grove is ready for sale, builders and developers H. Cedric Roberts & Sons have placed the 3 model homes on the market, one of which is illustrated above. Rugs and drapes will be sold with the houses, and they are completely landscaped.

Katella Park's Trade-in Policy Attracting Buyers

The trade-in house program initiated by H. Cedric Roberts & Sons, builders and developers of Katella Park in Garden Grove, has been attracting buyers who want to get a new and larger home with the minimum of fuss and bother, it was announced.

Roberts stated that many people have found that the equity in their present home covers the down payment on a new 4-bedroom or 3-bedroom and den, 2-bath home in Katella Park.

Included in the sales price of $16,950 are a built-in and color-matched range, oven, refrigerator, washer-dryer, dishwasher and waste disposer.

Other favored features of buyers are the sliding wall between two bedrooms, the floor-to-ceiling all-brick fireplace, hardwood paneling, the separate and new idea in a utility room, the colored bathroom fixtures.

Designed by John Kewell, AIA, the homes were carefully color coordinated by Martin Kennigott.

The last half of the second unit of Katella Park is now being sold. In preparation for closing out the subdivision, the builders now have put the three model homes up for sale. The landscaping in the front yard is done in all homes, but the models are completely landscaped and fenced as well.

Guest Facilities Feature in Enchanted Park Homes

Unusual guest facilities including a complete powder room are featured in the new Enchanted Park Homes in Buena Park, Pioneer Land Co., sales agents, reported.

The rustic provincial homes, with their sweeping shake roofs and sparkling diamond-lite windows, were designed as residences which can accommodate visitors as well as growing families.

The cheerful powder room, just off the spacious living room prices are from $15,300 to $15,500. From Long Beach, drive out 7th St. to Hwy. 39, go left to ties are additional to the family's 2 regular bathrooms. Knott Ave. and right to Enchanted Park.

Enchanted Park Homes are available to veterans on low-down payment VA terms. Total prices are from $15,300 to $15,500.

From Long Beach, drive out 7th St. to Hwy. 39, go left to ties are additional to the family's 2 regular bathrooms. Knott Ave. and right to Enchanted Park.

IN HOLIDAY PARK

This is one of the models of the Holiday Park homes which drew throngs at the opening and many sales were reported. The location and spaciousness of the homes are stressed by the developers.

Holiday Park Opening Attracts Big Throngs With Many Sales

The high interest shown by visitors at Holiday Park, new development of 3 or 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes, during grand opening last weekend was reflected in the sales recorded on opening day. This was reported by a spokesman for Walker and Lee, Inc., sales agents for the Davies, Keusder and Brown, Inc., subdivision.

The exceptional location, coupled with the spaciousness and fine features of the homes themselves received favorable comment by visitors who noted the advantages of an FHA community as insurance of a quality neighborhood as well as quality construction, it was reported.

Available in either contemporary or provincial architectural designs, the homes are treated individually with such distinctions as open beam ceilings and crushed rock roofs on the contemporary models and extra-heavy shake roofs on provincial dwellings.

Also distinctive are the many uses of brick within the dwellings, including a solid brick wall with a fireplace at eye level, free-standing fireplace and barbecue and raised hearth fireplace with seating space on either side, all illustrated by the models.

ROOF AND CEILING insulation, 2 beech and ash kitchen cabinetry, ample wardrobe and storage space, utility rooms, concrete patios and formica counter tops are some of the qualities of the dwellings, which have sliding walls of glass overlooking big yards, all fenced, side and rear. Front yards are fully landscaped.

Kitchens are roomy, and are equipped with built-in Gaffers and Sattler ovens and rotisseries, top burners, Waste King food pulverizers, automatic dishwashers and Stanthony ventilating hoods.

Located on West St., just north of Chapman Ave., the homes border Garden Grove and Anaheim. Nearby are new shopping districts, schools and churches, while major transportation is easily accessible to Los Angeles, Long Beach and Santa Ana.

Priced from $16,400, the homes are available on FHA financing, with down payments of $2800. Models of the dwellings are reached, from Los Angeles, via Santa Ana Freeway, turning right on Ball Road to West St., turn left (south) on West to the homes. From Long Beach, drive out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Highway 39, turn left (north) to Chapman, then east on Chapman to West St., and left (north) to the models.

First prize for "Mrs." is a Amana freezer plus refrigerator, with two giant "stor-mor" doors, automatic food dispenser, sliced and cubed ice trays, butter keeper, vegetable crisper, all the newest innovations, and filled with foods.

The "Mr." first prizes are 5 fishing trips for two to LaPaz, Mexico, via Trans Mar de Cortes Skyliners from Tijuana, with room and meals for a week at Los Arcos hotel, and a full day's deep-sea fishing trip aboard a Ruffo Bros. cruiser.

Added prizes are 100 pairs of reserved seat tickets to Rogers & Hammerstein's musical, "Oklahoma!" in the new Todd-AO process. Winners may use their tickets at either United Artists or Egyptian Theatres.

Grandview Palos Verdes Sales Already $1 Million

Attracting more than 15,000 visitors and pushing sales past the $1,000,000 mark, the grand opening of Grandview Palos Verdes last weekend resulted in what its sponsors described as an all-time record for openings of new residential communities in the luxury home bracket.

"This steady flow of visitors, amounting to an estimated 15,000 over last weekend, represented the largest attendance ever attracted in a single week-end to a model home display in this price bracket," stated Edward K. Zuckerman and Barney R. Morris, heads of the Grandview Building Co., developers.

"It provided a powerful answer to the question of whether there is a strong continuing demand for quality homes, well located, in the Southland," added Walter W. Mansfield & Associates, sales agents.

THE MODEL home display at Montemalaga Drive and Silver Spur Road, adjoining Palos Verdes Estates, will continue open for visitors daily and Sunday, it was announced.

Mansfield commented, "It becomes evident from our sampling of visitors to the grand opening that many prospective home buyers, not satisfied with other homes and locations, have been waiting for Grandview Palos Verdes. Many of them are second-time buyers, announcing they will dispose of homes purchased in other areas to locate in this new luxury community on the fashionable peninsula."

Not until the opening of Grandview Palos Verdes, Mansfield pointed out, could veterans move into such an area in top-quality homes on 30-year 4 1/2 per cent VA terms, with down payments from $1500, including all closing costs.

CONVENTIONAL financing for non-vets, with 20 per cent down, has attracted wide interest in this group of visitors at Grandview Palos Verdes Estates, according to Mansfield.

There are 218 3- and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes, designed by two leading architectural firms—Harris & Rice, AIA, and William M. Bray, AIA—in the initial unit of the community, and ultimately $75,000,000 worth of luxury homes are to be built in the area recently acquired.

Overlooking the Palos Verdes Golf Course, the homes are priced from $19,500 to $26,525. All are fully landscaped with front, side and rear yards, ornamental shrubs. Slopes are planted with ice plants. Included in the planned community are sewers, curbs, gutters, sidewalks, safety-designed streets that eliminate through traffic, ornamental street lights, gas, electricity and telephone services.

Model kitchens have natural-finish ash cabinets, range hoods and exhaust fans, ceramic tile worktops, Armstrong "Corlon" floor coverings, General Electric garbage disposals, and in some models, built-in Gaffers and Sattler gas ranges and custom-styled ovens in decorator colors.

Due to completion of a new link in Crenshaw Blvd., visitors may now take Crenshaw south, past Highway 101, to Palos Verdes Dr. N., turn right to Montemalaga Dr., then left to the homes. Another route is via La Brea-Hawthorne Blvd., past Highway 101, to the Palos Verdes Dr. N., then left to Montemalaga Dr. and right to the model homes.

GRAND OPENING SETS RECORD

Described as largest grand opening in luxury homebuilding history in Southland, Grandview Palos Verdes attracted estimated 15,000 persons to 10 display residences at Montemalaga Dr. and Silver Spur Rd. on Palos Verdes peninsula, adjoining Palos Verdes Estates. Above view shows steady flow that attended Grandview Building Co., the developers, announced that ultimately $75,000,000 worth of estate-class homes are to be built in newly acquired area of the peninsula.

The group's new officers will assume their posts July 1. Hancock is manager of the resale department, Walker & Lee, Inc.

Other officers are James O. Banes of Lakewood Housing, vice chairman, and J. M. (Mac) McDuell of Joe F. Furr Realty, secretary-treasurer.

The association, comprised of 211 brokers and salesmen representing 23 real estate offices in the Lakewood and Los Altos area, operates its own multiple listing service, offering customers services through the close-knit organization.

The association maintains an office at 4413 Village Rd. in the Norse Way business district.

IN WESTMINSTER

This spacious Rancho Bel Air home, just 10 minutes from downtown Long Beach, is available to veterans earning only $85 per week. Non-vets may occupy one of the 4 or 3-bedroom, 2-bath homes for only $50 down, balance of costs and imposts at recordation. Rancho Bel Air, a completely developed community, is located in nearby Westminster.

Vets Earning $85 Weekly Can Buy Bel Air Rancho

Rancho Bel Air, a completely developed home community located 10 minutes from downtown Long Beach now welcomes veterans earning only $85 per week, it was announced.

The $85 income can qualify a veteran home buyer and his family for one of the big 4 or 3-bedroom 2-bath architectural designed homes in close-in Westminster, said a representative of Walker & Lee, sales agents.

"Steady earners at this income level are more than welcome, and the qualified veteran need not make a down payment," the spokesman added. He explained that monthly payments are as little as $87.50 per month, including principal and interest. Only other expenses are the standard purchase costs and imposts.

LOCATED just 12 minutes from the Douglas plant and 14 minutes from many of the beach cities, Rancho Bel Air is also open to non-vets. They may purchase homes with only $50 down, the balance of down payment months later at recordation.

"This enables the non-veteran purchaser to move in and have time to assemble the remainder of funds needed. If he presently owns a home, he will have time-to sell it while residing with his family in a Rancho Bel Air dwelling," it was pointed out.

RANCHO BEL AIR homes are situated on unusually large home sites. Fine construction includes genuine hardwood floors, fire resistant lath and plaster, and full-home circulating forced air heat with fingertip control. Central home plans are perfect for growing families.

To reach the nearby Rancho Bel Air community, with its adjacent school and other facilities, drive from Long Beach out 7th St. to Los Alamitos, turn right to Westminster, then left one mile to the furnished models.

Newspaper Ads Sell Most Cars

Seventy-six per cent of all new car sales are traced directly to local dealer newspaper advertising, remarked Joe Witzerman, advertising manager for Sarver-Witzerman Advertising, Long Beach, in commenting on the advertisements for Southland new car dealers appearing recently in The Independent Press-Telegram. Sarver-Witzerman Advertising is handling the accounts of several well known new and used car dealers in the Los Angeles-Long Beach Metropolitan area.

"In all cases," Witzerman observed, "it is not the one-time shot that moves cars from dealers' showrooms but a well-planned newspaper schedule, using high art and fundamental layout."

"Through effective campaigning and with no other media in use except newspapers, we have sold up to 53 new cars for a single dealer in one week end," Witzerman stated. "Our clients look directly to use for results and it's our job to produce those results in the most effective, least expensive way possible.

ready sold 50 per cent of its second unit of 4 and 3-bedroom, by the Don Coleman Co., sales agents for the A. Anthony Kuri development on Delhi Rd. just east of Bristol St. in Santa Ana.

A few homes are still available for immediate occupancy, it was noted by the sales agents, who report that a full choice of elevations and floor plans by architect Martin A.
Stern, Jr., is still to be had by purchasers this week.

More than 30 families have already moved into their new homes, and the community is rapidly acquiring the character of a distinctive, "lived-in" neighborhood.

VETERANS may buy Colorama Homes for nothing down except costs and imponds, with the full price from approximately $13,500 and monthly terms as low as $63.43 for principal and interest.

The additional of real, woodburning fireplaces in the second unit has found strong favor with buyers to date while the warmer weather find purchasers keenly interested in the summer control feature of the forced air heating, which has vents in every room, including baths.

Other features of note at Colorama Homes are the full landscaping of front, rear and sides with lawns, shrubs and five-foot redwood fencing around the rear yard.

Will Sample Farm Soils

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP) — In the next year Cornell University expects to test 25,000 soil samples for New York farmers.

The current program which is three times as large as previous soil testing projects is expected to all county agricultural agents to make recommendations to farmers in advance of next year's crops.

Prof. Nyle C. Brady, head of Cornell's agronomy department, said the program will be most active in the next six months, when weather conditions are favorable for field work. The soil tests indicate how much lime should be added to the soil, and the amount and concentration of fertilizer to use.

Beverly Gardens Homes Built for Convenience of Homemaker

While the men in the family are far from forgotten in the fifth unit of Beverly Gardens, Chapman Ave. and West St., in Garden Grove, these conventionally-constructed 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath, rustically traditional and California contemporary prestige residences embody the ultimate in handiness for modern homemakers, according to George J. Heltzer, president of George J. Heltzer and Associates, builder-developers.

Especially is this true in the kitchens, Heltzer points out. Built for her easy reach and most comfortable working height, everything is handy, from the beechwood cabinets, built like fine furniture, that keep their freshness and charm, to the host of hide-away features, slide-out boards, bins and adjustable shelves.

INCLUDED IN the more than 60 custom features for extra convenience and utility, is the built-in Western-Holly double oven, range-top and rotisseries unit being exhibited and demon-

Candy Stick Lane's New Terms Bring Sales Boost

Introduction of the "lowest non-vet terms in Garden Grove" has greatly stimulated sales at Candy Stick Lane Estates, new home community at 11791 Medina Drive, it was reported yesterday by the builders.

"Non-vets can now move into a 3-bedroom, 2-bath home at Candy Stick Lane Estates for only $195 down," a spokesman explained, "while vets are still offered terms of nothing down, except costs and impounds with low monthly payments."

Located in the center of a built-up luxury area where many homes are valued at $30,000 and more, he pointed out, the Candy Stick residences are being sold for only $12,875 and have such features as planter-view fireplaces, hardwood floors, 68-foot lots, covered patios, huge sliding glass doors, separate service porches, copperized range hoods with fans, garbage disposers, steel wardrobe doors.

ALSO STIMULATING sales, it was reported, is ease of qualification for both vets and non-vets and the offer of immediate occupancy on some homes.

Olive Sorensen Operates Without Any Salespeople

A one-woman office is the Wilson Lumber Co., Dominguez, realty firm honored this week by the Long Beach Realty Board.

Olive V. Sorensen has no sales people and works alone, doing a great business each year in her office at 1438 E. 7th St. Although she does her realty work alone, there are others in her office for she shares it with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Brockman, who operate an insurance agency.

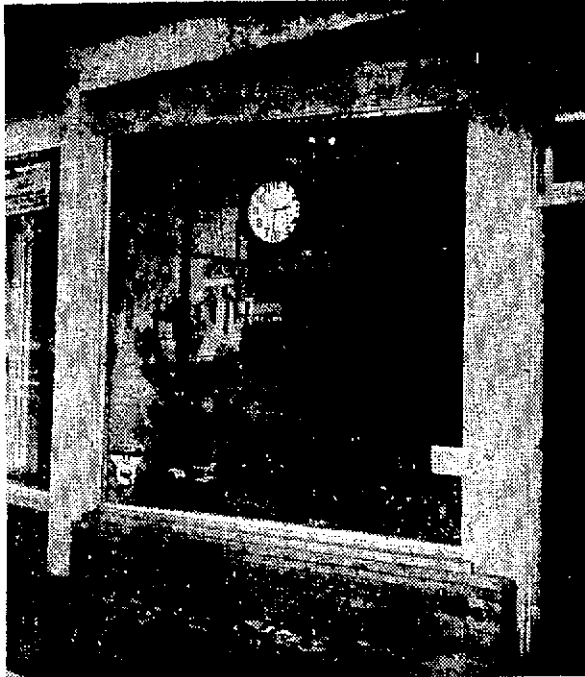

A native of the timber country of northern Michigan, Olive worked near the lumber industry most of her life. After the death of her husband she came here from the Bay area and went to work with the A. K. Sorensen.

In 1949 she received her salesman's license and became a realty salesman and after meeting much success she obtained her broker's license and went on her own.

Belmont Heights and East Side properties are her specialties although she will sell anything anywhere. She has met much success in the sale of income property.

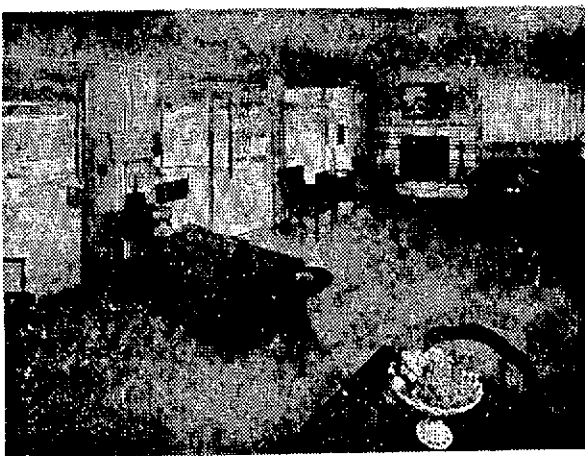

The real estate business has tied in closely with her former work, in the construction of homes and being associated with lumber firms.

While she may work alone, "Ollie" has a wide range of friends and her personality has sparked her work.

HERE'S 'OLLIE'S' OFFICE

A one-woman real estate office is operated in this building at 1438 E. 7th St. by Olive V. Sorensen. She shares the building with her daughter and son-in-law who operate an insurance agency.

BUILT BY TIETZ

Big Skylark Homes Are on Large Lots

The pleasantly relaxing outdoor living enjoyed by owners of Skylark Terrace homes in Garden Grove is the result of spaciousness, found throughout the homes as well as in the ample lots. With frontages of up to 85 feet, the lots offer many recreational possibilities, including badminton courts, playground for children, patios with barbecues and grills already installed, and swimming pools which may be purchased as optional equipment by the buyer.

According to Bill Tietz, president of Tietz Construction Co., builders and developers of the 3 or 4-bedroom, 2-bath Town and Country Unit 2 homes, many new homeowners are taking advantage of the option and enjoy their pools when they move into their homes. Another optional equipment finding high favor with buyers is the air conditioning unit, Tietz said.

AMONG FEATURES of the homes are massive sandstone fireplaces with raised hearths, genuine lath and plaster construction, sliding glass "lanai" walls, three to six-foot eave overhangs, intercom and background music systems, hardwood floors, 80,000 BTU forced air furnaces, abundant closets and cabinets, heavy shake, shingle or Dolomite rock roofs and brick exteriors.

Built-in Hotpoint electric appliances are highlights of the kitchens, and include dishwashers, ranges, ovens, garbage disposals and exhaust fans. Formica work surfaces are another kitchen feature, while both baths are finished in formica and tile with stall showers doored in etched glass.

FHA and VA financing are available for the homes at Brookhurst and Chapman in Garden Grove. Visitors drive out Santa Ana Freeway, turn south on La Palma (Brookhurst) and continue to Chapman. From Long Beach, drive out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Brookhurst, north on Brookhurst to Chapman Ave.

DDT Kills Out European Chafer

GENEVA, N. Y. (AP) — European chafer, which has ruined many lawns and turf areas in New York State the past few seasons, can be checked with DDT, according to reports from the Cornell experimental station here.

Dr. Foster L. Gambrell, entomologist at the station, said the most effective method of chafer control is to treat soil early in July to kill the young grubs which appear at that time.

Mixed with the top three inches of soil, DDT will protect a lawn against chafer grubs for three to five years, Dr. Gambrell said.

BUENA PLAZA

Exemplified above are the new Aldon 1956 "Triumph Series" 3 and 4-bedroom homes, with 2 complete baths, floor-to-ceiling fireplaces and many built-in features, located on La Palma Ave., east of Miller St., in close-in Buena Park.

Aldon Home Values Already Are Proven

An Aldon Construction Co. survey has shown that, on the average, resale of an Aldon-built home will bring 13 to 15 per cent over its original price, it was announced yesterday by a spokesman for the nationally known developing firm, which is currently selling the final unit of Buena Plaza in Buena Park.

"Because of this reputation, and because our last 3 and 4 homes in Buena Plaza are now on the market, sales have turned sharply upward in this development," announced Willard Woodrow, who heads the firm in association with Ira H. Obendorfer.

Highlight for visitors at Buena Plaza, on La Palma Ave., just east of Miller St., near the Santa Ana Freeway, is a display of 8 model homes, most of which are furnished by Aaron Schultz.

OPEN DAILY, early and late, these homes are typical of the wide variety of stylings, floor plans and color schemes available.

able in the last unit of homes at Buena Plaza, a $50,000, 2,100-home planned community. At the same time builders described as the "lowest in Orange County" such vets' terms as nothing down but costs and imposts and from $66.67 a month for principal and interest.

All homes have built-in West-Holly gas ranges and ovens in decorator colors, attractive range hoods, custom-designed floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, select wallpapers, wood-paneled walls, aluminum-frame sliding walls of glass linking indoors and outdoors, thermostat-controlled forced air heat, Higgins hardwood oak floors and birch kitchens with exclusive Aldon-Glaze.

"One of the distinctive things about an Aldon home," a spokesman said, "is the interesting and unusual uses of rich materials, including cedar shingle sidewalls, V-joints, channel and board-and-batt redwood siding, wide variety of stylings, floor shutters, varied roof pitches and plans and color schemes available."

Fairview Ranchos Invites Fourth of July Visitors

Due to overflow crowds that have been swarming the model display homes in the new "Prince Charming" series at D. & E. Corporation's Fairview Ranchos, Fairview Ave. and Bristol St., Santa Ana, officials of Pioneer Land Co., sales agents, announced that a greatly enlarged sales and hostess staff will be on hand for the Fourth of July holiday to give all prospective purchasers personalized attention.

Combining what has come to be known as "story book construction," consisting of sweeping shake roofs, sparkling diamond-paned windows, quaint shutters, and rustic architectural brick trim with the most modern step and labor-saving conveniences that feature the revolutionary built-in color-coordinated Waste King Kitchen in its premier showing in southern California.

Veterans Get Easy Terms on Hi Way 39 Plaza Home

The veteran looking for a new home is not the "Neglected Man" at Hi Way 39 Plaza Homes, situated on Highway 39 (Huntington Blvd.) between Bolsa Ave. and Sugar Ave. in Midway City.

Veterans previously informed that they cannot qualify in many developments because of insufficient income or other reasons, are urged to visit Hi Way 39 Plaza, salesmen say.

"We never discourage any veteran until we have explored every avenue of assistance to make it possible for him to become a home owner," they add.

"There have also been instances where a veteran is under the impression that he has forfeited his GI rights because he has used his entitlement once but through illness or other reasons beyond his control, has had to move to a different climate or other area than where he made his original purchase. This is not always the case, for, under certain circumstances his eligibility may be re-instated.

On occasions we have been instrumental in assisting the veteran in obtaining reinstatement, by advice as to the proper procedure for him to take. Our attitude is one of helpfulness rather than a negative approach to whatever the veterans problem may be."

A gross income of between $320 and $350 will qualify a veteran to buy one of these homes priced from $10,950 to $11,650, all with 3 bedrooms and with one and two baths. A small monthly payment to veterans with come a home owner," they add.

monthly payments of from $73 to $77, including everything, principal, interest, taxes and insurance.

Gala Time Promised at 'Midsummer Night's Fling'

WITH AN APOLOGY to William Shakespeare for liberties taken with his title, Young Californians are eagerly anticipating their "Midsummer Night's Fling" July 7 at Lakewood Country Club. Decorations will

WELCOME ABOARD!

Briefing new members of Alamitos Bay Yacht Club on the annual invitational Fourth of July regatta, July 4, 7 and 8, Palmer Wentworth, left, captain of the Penguin Fleet, and Mrs. Wentworth discuss the fine points of ocean and bay sailing with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Yox who will skipper a National One Design No. 247 Wee I for the first time under the club's blue and white burgee.

Brochures to Flood Town Monday: 'Symphony Day'

This town will be flooded with brochures Monday, according to members of the Long Beach Auxiliary to the Southern California Symphony Assn., who have declared July 2 as "Symphony Day."

Brochures, giving information on the four winter concerts to be presented in Long Beach by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, will be placed in libraries, churches and representative business establishments throughout the entire city. The concert committee hopes that the widespread desire for the information these brochures contain will reach the general public readily through this spot-delivery system.

On this same day tickets will go on sale to the public for the concerts at Humphreys Music Store. Details for "Symphony Day" were decided upon at a 10:30 a. m. coffee hour Thursday when Mrs. Hugh B. McDuffee and Mrs. Leroy Carlisle entertained the committee in the McDuffee home, 4445 Heather Rd., Lakewood.

Indiana Guests

Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Frankenfeld, 226 Glendora Ave., had as their recent houseguests, Dr. Frankenfeld's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Paul G. Frankenfeld of Terre Haute, Ind., and his brother, the Rev. Paul H. Frankenfeld of Indianapolis, Vice Commodore Sidney T. Exley Jr., serving as officer of the day during the three-day event, and Mrs. Exley will be on deck to meet members and guests from other yacht clubs.

In anticipation of the National Snipe Championship Regatta slated here in August, when skippers from all sections of the U. S. will be guests of the local fleet, the entire membership of the Club will participate in the fund raising dinner and Australian auction on the Fourth.

Happiness Lost in Private Prisons

By ILKA CHASE

Since life itself will always impose restrictions upon us it seems foolish to go about creating needless limitations of our own. And yet through ignorance, superstition and fear and the angry rationalizing which we all resort to to defend our weaknesses, we voluntarily narrow our horizons, enclose ourselves in prisons of our own manufacture.

Probably we don't think so. When we create ghettos of any kind for peoples of other races, creeds and colors we shrug off the obvious fact that it is hard on them. So what? The answer is that we do a far more subtle damage to ourselves for it is we, as much as our victims, who are cheated out of the joys of a full and colorful life.

We suffer from the same kind of claustrophobia besetting those who are forever denied a magnificent view of a great city because they can not bring themselves to go above the third floor.

When we find Catholics or Jews, Protestants or Negroes, French, Germans or Chinese "peculiar"—when it's a case of "You can't deny it, they're just different from us, that's all"—we are on our way to a very small cell in our private small dark prison.

Whether all these groups are fundamentally different from one another I'm not sure. Different philosophies, different religious tenets guide the human race. But if a basic difference does exist, that is the fun. That is what should whet our curiosity, provoke us into wanting to know more about these people. Maybe we are more similar than we think; possibly not, but why put on blinders and plug up our ears instead of finding out?

I do not mean that to know people is automatically to love them. Indeed, many people when you first meet them seem very nice; they deteriorate on acquaintance. Like the time I said to a friend of mine about a man whom he knew and whom I had recently met, "Why, I don't think so and so is bad at all." "Ah," said my friend, "you have to know him to dislike him."

This, of course, happens. The late Will Rogers is supposed to have remarked that he never met a man he didn't like. Most fatuous statement I ever heard and I sincerely hope Rogers was misquoted, but I do say if we are going to judge or condone, respect or love, let us evince those sentiments toward individuals—not whole races or religions. We have not the strength nor the time and certainly not the knowledge.

Let's not erect high walls saying, "Here's me. Everybody else stay out." Solitary confinement isn't much fun.

We have enough built-in hurdles and obstacles to overcome as it is without shouldering huge outside prejudices. We have already curious limitations of the mind that are hard to master and that pretty well confine us anyway. I speak of the phobias and allergies that sway our behavior.

For instance, I know a charming and talented man who earns part of his livelihood speaking and lecturing around the country. He likes doing it and could have many more engagements were it not for one obstacle created by himself. He won't fly. Since he has certain weekly appointments in New York which he

Wild Waves

By IOLA MASTERSON

A special kind of magic surrounded Assistance League Clubhouse Tuesday. Magicians creating the spell were Haldis Hertzog and Lorraine Miller. With the wave of a party wand the clubhouse entranceway became a fjord and once across it guests found themselves in Scandinavia!

Because Haldis was born in Norway and Lorraine and husband, Earl, spent an idyllic month in Scandinavia last year, they chose the north countries theme for their perfectly appointed tea of Tuesday.

Norwegian food, with names you can't pronounce but with flavor of international appeal, was served from the buffet where an arrangement of yellow daisies, delphinium, wheat stalks and partly opened scarlet glads were a perfect complement to the colorful Nordic spirit of the day.

Assisting the two hostesses, and all wearing sprightly wristlet corsages of daisies, delphinium and wheat, were Margaret Hanson, Mildred Deatherage, Wayve Osborn, Sally Van Dyke, Kathleen Mason, Della Lawson, Mildred Shank, Nancy Hertzog and Kay Boswell.

Adding a special fillip to the day was the program of folk songs graciously sung by Helena Sundgren who is as at home on the concert stages of Europe as she is here and just as well known for her knowledge of svenska-land music.

Ruth Dougherty may have to put in a switchboard at her house to accommodate all the calls from friends concerned about her well being since return home from the hospital. Her cheery answer is the same to all: "Feeling much better!"

Ex-King Umberto of Italy may not be up to date about what's going on in his own "old home town" but, thanks to "Corky" Severson, His Ex-Majesty is kept up to what goes on in Long Beach schools and especially at Lowell Elementary!

Meeting Umberto and Magda Lupescu in Estoril, Portugal (14 miles from Lisbon) is just one of a raft of exciting things happening to "Corky," his mother, Ethel Severson, and her parents, Artie and Al Stevenson, on their current European tour. It was at this meeting that "Corky" un-corked his 6th grade viewpoint of schools and stuff in an informal chat with the King!

In Malaga, Spain, the young student and his traveling companions were lunching at a hillside restaurant overlooking a small Mediterranean harbor when Prince Rainier's yacht dropped anchor. They watched the Prince and Grace disembark and in a trice there they were, not only in the same restaurant but seated at the very next table.

In Madrid they managed to be on hand for the biggest, most important bullfight of the year. It was a charity affair and the one fight Franco attends each year. He sat in the royal box just above "Corky" and his friends and they had a good view of the most heavily guarded man in Europe! Soldiers with machine guns surrounded him as he entered and left—as apparently they do whenever he makes his rare public appearances.

A Fourth of July party started last night at Camilla and Jim La Greys. We say "started" because so much fun was planned guests may have talked the host and hostess into keeping them on till Wednesday! The gang, including Barbara and George Powell, Carolyn and Sterling Blakeman, Tam and Tom Wall, Maurice and Glenn Giffin and Naomi and Chuck Chandler, played games in keeping with the holiday, watched "fireworks" and sent off a rocket of applause for Tam's presentation of her Hilo Hattie Hop, accompanied by Naomi on a ukulele.

Others involved with the informal shindig and present for the midnight buffet supper were Mary Edna and Floyd Williams, Crystal Akin, Nile Bunch, Hilda and Francis Guber, Esther and Bob Maynard, Bette and Don Wirtz and Gayly and Duane Warner.

First you brew a pot of strong, hot coffee. That's standard procedure for a successful chairman. Then you invite your committee members over and keep cups filled. First thing you know all the problems of your particular committee are ironed out and plans completed! Clare Hosom is a successful chairman. She brews a fine brand of coffee, you see! "Standard procedure" worked like a breeze at her house last Monday when she bid the new patronesses of First Nighters over to plan. Those whose cups were never empty and who worked out tricky plans for this well known high school invitational dance group for fall were Babe Stratton, Helen Viets, Ellie Person, Avis Dudley, Pat Van de Water, Charlotte Arnold, Betty Lee Williams and Clara Andrews.

Betty and Bill Barbee accomplished the impossible. They built a play room addition to their home and kept the project a secret from everyone until it was ready for "unveiling." Every one that is except the workmen and a kibitzing sparrow with delusions of carpentry. Same sparrow "hammered" on our window and told us "aww!" In fact, he "sawed" it was one of the most terrific playrooms in town. That's what he "sawed." We heard him.

Joan and Tenny Moore's two young daughters, Mary and Gay, took a flight by "their own selves" last weekend and landed in Cincinnati. They visited an assortment of aunts, uncles and cousins there before continuing on to Torch Lake, Mich., to spend the rest of the summer at an exclusive camp for girls. To forestall parental blues Tenny and Joan kept busy last Saturday night at Bob Dalton's new restaurant on Lido Isle, inviting Peggy and Houston Fairley to join them for dinner and dancing.

Jane and Bill Cecil arrived in town last weekend from home in Westport, Conn., for a reunion of the "McCleery Sisters" which means Jane and Gladys Niver. The girls' two Bills promised to stay in the background while sister talk filled the air here at the Nivers' home and up in San Francisco where the foursome will play before the Cecils hit the homeward path.

Eating their bread buttered on both sides and with cheese in the middle in "America's Dairyland" these days are Evelyn and Don Sullivan plus their son and twin daughters. They are trained for Wisconsin about two weeks ago for a relative visitin' vacation and are due home within the next few days. Hope they remember that old Chinese proverb: "When live off fat of land day not distant when have to take fat off."

HAVE REASON TO SING

Just prior to leaving Saturday for the 42nd biennial convention of Alpha Phi International Fraternity on Mackinac Island, Michigan, these local delegates, Mary Whittington, president of Gamma Kappa Chapter on Long Beach State College campus; Mrs. Vito Romans, advisor, and Eleanor Peterson, field secretary, "bone up" on the sorority's favorite songs which they will undoubtedly sing often and well during the conclave July 2-7. (Staff Photo.)

Local Delegates Enroute to Alpha Phi Convention

With the well wishes of other chapter members for a pleasant and successful journey, three delegates from Long Beach left Saturday bound for the 42nd biennial convention of Alpha Phi International Fraternity to take place at the Grand Hotel, Mackinac Island, Mich., July 2 through July 7.

Delegates are Mary Whittington, president of the Long Beach State College Gamma Kappa Chapter, Mrs. Vito Romans, chapter advisor and Eleanor Peterson, field secretary for the sorority.

The three flew to Chicago where they were to board the Alpha Phi chartered train for conclave headquarters. They will join delegates from Hawaii, Canada and 55 chapters throughout the United States. The local women will be part of the California delegation which includes representatives from San Diego State, USC, UCLA, UC at Santa Barbara, San Jose State and University of California at Berkeley.

Long Beach Alpha Phi are looking forward to this event with great anticipation because this is the first delegation to be sent to a convention since the chapter was installed on the Long Beach State campus last fall.

Marian Wiley Keys, international president, will conduct the business sessions during which important work will be done on the sorority's national philanthropy, cardiac aid. Southern California's participation in this field is the maintenance of a bed at Children's Hospital and the installation and perpetual upkeep of the Cardiac Examining Room at this same hospital.

Friends Bid Bon Voyage

Mrs. Herbert H. Vail graciously entertained friends of Mrs. F. S. Crum in her home at 3945 Olive Ave. Friday evening.

Mrs. Crum will fly to New York Tuesday, where she will attend a tea at the Biltmore Hotel prior to her departure for Europe on the Queen Mary. She will be accompanied by two cousins from Oklahoma.

A two-month tour of England and Western Europe is planned. Mrs. Crum is a professional interior decorator and anticipates viewing the decor in other countries.

Wishing her bon voyage were Mmes. Howard C. Dumm, Dwight B. Williams, Ollie Brown, M. Daughters Honor Parents at Golden Year Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Smith of 3959 Walnut Ave. celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Sunday afternoon at a reception given in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Wayne Linscott, 3861 Country Club Dr. One hundred and twenty-five friends and relatives came to extend congratulations to the couple.

Mrs. Merle Loder of Davenport, Iowa, another daughter of the couple, and Mrs. Linscott, with their husbands, acted as hosts and hostesses. Assisting at the tea table during the afternoon were Mrs. Lyman Dietrick of La Habra, Mrs. Clarke Smith of Hollywood and Mrs. Sharon Johnson of Costa Mesa, all nieces of the couple. Fete Otho Slatons at Gay Silver Anniversary Party

The lovely Garden Grove home of Mr. and Mrs. James Wagner Foasberg proved a delightful setting for the 25th wedding anniversary reception for Mr. and Mrs. Otho Utley Slaton of 3918 Gundry Ave., Sunday, June 24. Mrs. Slaton is the sister of the host.

The Slatons plan a trip to Hawaii in September with the El Bekal Shrine to further celebrate their silver year, which prompted an Hawaiian theme for Sunday's affair. Mrs. Slaton and assisting hostesses all wore colorful plumeria blossom leis, flown over from the islands especially for this party.

The refreshment tables were bright with tropical fruits held in exquisite monkey pod bowls. On the buffet large magnolia blossoms, silver leaves and silver candleabra on an imported, hand-embroidered tablecloth added to the beauty of the decor.

Sea shells, coral and wood roses were used in arrangements on the lanai overlooking the swimming pool, while the pool itself was dotted with floating magnolia blossoms and gardenias. Guests were seated under colorful umbrella tables on the lanai.

Over two hundred friends and relatives of the honored couple were bidden to the reception. Assisting the Foasbergs were Messrs. and Mmes. Donald Baker, Louis Edes, George Thomsen, Samuel Vickers; Mmes. Cecil Moorehouse, Frank Taylor and Genevieve Slaton of Glendale, James Foasberg Jr. and Richard Foasberg, nephews of Mrs. Slaton, assisted with the guest book. Richard later entertained the guests with an exhibition of diving.

Pillsbury-Coe Lines Read in Garden

The gardens of Rancho San Felipe, nestled like a jewel in beautiful San Felipe Valley near San Jose, was setting for the late afternoon marriage June 19 uniting Nancy Patricia Coe of the Rancho with Stirling Gainer Pillsbury Jr., 4035 Country Club Dr.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sutcliffe Coe of Rancho San Felipe, and Dr. and Mrs. Stirling Gainer Pillsbury, 4035 Country Club Dr.

The ceremony, conducted by Dr. Mark Rifenbark of the nearby Episcopal church, took place in centerfront of a Spanish rock wall, with the natural growth of vines, pink and white ivy geraniums and white petunias forming a background. The simulated altar was banked with greens, white gladioli and pink stock.

Members of the bridal party preceded the bride to the blossom-banked altar along a garden path marked by white potted pink geraniums in wrought iron standards. The attractive bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a delicate gown of floor length embroidered white organdy, with the tiered skirt styled into a back sweep. Her fingertip length veil flowed from a tudor cap of organdy, and she carried a white Bible, a gift from her father, with white orchids backed by pink roses, and a falling shower of pink bouvardia and lilies of the valley.

Winnifred Coe attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing a street length dress of embroidered white organdy over Nile green taffeta, and large white garden hat. She carried a pink parasol filled with pink gladioli, white stock and deep pink roses. Bridesmaids, Misses Jane Wool, Betsy Tisdale, Jean McKaig, Kathryn Switzer and Bonnie Robinson, wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor, carrying white parasols filled with white glads, pink stock and roses. Lucinda Renzel, as flower girl, wore pink organdy with a white bonnet, and carried a miniature parasol filled with pink baby roses.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Cree Pillsbury of Long Beach as best man, and ushering duties were performed by William Charles McIvor, Peter St. Claire Davis, Charles Anthony Stellar, William Herrick Northway Jr., Cameron Mulford Smith and Thornton Wallington Garrett III.

A reception followed in the garden, with the path of the receiving line looking toward the surrounding hills and nearby Lick Observatory. Refreshments were served in the patio and around the swimming pool on which floated large floral bells.

The bride's cake table was set beneath a weeping willow tree, with the tiered cake adorned by French bouquets of fresh pink and white baby roses and lilies of the valley.

The newlyweds later departed for New York where they boarded the Queen Elizabeth June 27 for a ten-week tour of Europe. On return in late September they will make San Francisco home for a year while the bridegroom completes his education at Stanford Medical School. He received his early education at Polytechnic High School, graduating in 1954 from Stanford University where he was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity.

The new Mrs. Pillsbury was graduated from Lick High School in San Jose, and this June from Stanford University where she was an art major.

must fulfill on specific days, this raises a time problem and stringently limits his potential for money-making as well as pleasure.

We all know of appalling air accidents but they are so few compared to the millions of hours and miles flown that anyone whose job involves traveling should, for his own sake, become inured to some extent.

The prison of claustrophobia causes genuine suffering not to mention vast inconvenience to those who cannot escape it. A friend of mine has to purchase everything she wants on the ground floor of a store or else walk upstairs to other departments because she gets panicky in an elevator.

One of the most curious and confining phobias I know is that of a young woman who won't take shots demanded by the United States government for people traveling to Europe and the Orient.

Her husband was offered a trip to Japan, a job out there for several weeks and all expenses paid. They could have a marvelous time but she flatly refused to be vaccinated and the deal was off.

Her husband tried to persuade her into complying with the law just to humor the government so they could make the trip saying "Look, honey, you know better than the scientists; you know the shots do no good, all right. But since you laugh at the idea that they could do you no harm either, for Pete's sake, take them. If it makes the doctors and immigration officers feel good, poor dopes, and we can go to Japan, what do we care?"

But the lady stood firm and they are still at home in suburbia having lost, through purely personal prejudice based on fantasy, a unique opportunity "for to admire and for to see and for to behold the world so wide."

C.A. Camps Celebrate Golden Day

Mr. and Mrs. Courtney A. Camp, 2236 Elm Ave., recently celebrated their golden anniversary at a reception for 225 guests at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Camp and daughter Lynn of 6551 Baccaro St.

Among the guests was their daughter, Mrs. Mary Graham of Riverside, Ill., and their son, Dr. Turner Camp, with Mrs. Camp, and youngsters, Courtney, Kathryn Cindy and Carolyn, all of Corte Madera. Others were Mr. Camp's sister, Mrs. May Farish and a niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Homrighausen of Phoenix, Ariz. Also included were the honored pair's many friends from First Baptist Church.

The Camps were married June 19, 1908 in Bolivar, Mo., moving to Long Beach in 1924. Happy excitement fills the Paul C. Ellis home at 295 Junipero Ave. as the day draws near for daughter Jean's July 7 marriage to Frank B. Titus Jr., at First Presbyterian Church.

Turner of Fort Worth, Tex., who is being accompanied to California by her daughters, Ellen, Paula and Betsy.

The attractive bride-elect was complimented last week at a brunch and personal shower given by Mrs. James W. Titus and Mrs. David Sexton in the Sexton home, 1352 Tulane Rd., Claremont. Gifts for the honoree were heaped beneath a dainty blue umbrella. Attending in addition to the mothers of the betrothed pair were Mmes. Lavona Morehouse, aunt of the future bridegroom, and Mmes. Lawrence Nagle, Clyde Tigert, Ed Behm, N. R. Jamieson and Miss Irene Bedford.

A family dinner is planned Wednesday at the Ellis home, following the arrival of the prospective bridegroom from Albuquerque, N.M.

Grecian columns topped by urns of white stock, gladioli, carnations and lilies added stately beauty to First Congregational Church last Saturday evening for the marriage ceremony uniting Donna Joan Fisher and Malcolm Millar Lucas, popular Long Beach residents. The Rev. Isaac McRae officiated before more than 300 guests.

Parents of the newly wedded pair are Mrs. George Atherton Fisher, 3500 Gaviota Ave., and Mrs. Robert Lucas, 518 Monrovia Ave.

Clustered stock and carnations held by white satin streamers marked the bridal aisle leading to the Woodward fern-banked altar to complete the beautiful setting.

Complementing the bride's brilliant radiance was an original gown of ice blue embroidered tulle over taffeta, fashioned with scalloped neckline, fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her chapel veil cascaded gently from a crown of lace and seed pearls, and she carried butterfly orchids in arrangement with stephanotis and lilies of the valley. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Burt Stump.

Miss Joyce Palmer of Beverly Hills attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Virginia Abell, Patricia Denny, Mrs. Worth Blaney of San Francisco and Mrs. Lawrence McDowell Jr. The ice blue of their identical gowns of embroidered tulle over taffeta echoed the bride's attire, and they wore matching hats and shoes. Their floral pieces were crescent sheaths of pink roses.

The bridegroom invited his brother, Campbell Lucas, to stand with him as best man, and guests were escorted to their places by Henry Moreno, Alan Kenady, James Pino, James Thompson and Robert McVicar.

A delightful reception followed at Pacific Coast Club with Mrs. Dean Grenier and Joan Parks as hostesses.

The newlyweds now are on a honeymoon trip to Hawaii and surrounding islands, and will be at home after July 23 at 2125 E. Ocean Blvd.

The new Mrs. Lucas was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Stanford University. Her bridegroom, well known young Long Beach attorney, received his early education at Wilson High School, and was graduated from USC and USC School of Law. His affiliations include Theta Xi Fraternity and Phi Alpha Delta Legal Fraternity.

Mrs. Donald H. Fraser

Promises Exchanged in Congregational Service

Before the altar of Los Altos Congregational Church Donald Harlow Fraser claimed beautiful Virginia Lee McDowell as his bride in a recent evening ceremony.

Parents of the couple are the James K. Frasers, 1270 W. 33rd St., and the Henry C. McDowells, 1055 E. Market St.

The petite bride wore an Empire style Maurer original of satin with bodice and long sleeves of imported Chantilly lace encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. Her three-tiered veil of French silk illusion fell from a Juliet cap of jeweled lace. "Something old" was the white Testament which had belonged to her maternal grandmother on which she carried lilies of the valley and a white orchid.

Matron of honor Mrs. Neil Cantwell wore pale blue nylon organza over taffeta. Similar gowns of pale pink were the bride's choice for her attendants, Miss Shirley Williams, Mrs. Ronald Sisler and Mrs. Don Matson. All carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Neil Cantwell, best man, ushers Leonard Spivak, Richard Paulin and Max Johnson; and little Stacy Lee Hatch, flower girl, completed the entourage.

The bride's schools are Jordan High and Long Beach State College. She is a member of Chi Delta Delta. Her husband attended Polytechnic High School and is now enrolled at State College. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and was president of Tilsman at Long Beach City College.

After a church reception, the family and bridal party were entertained at the home of the bride's parents. The newlyweds honeymooned in Yosemite and Las Vegas and are now at home at 2285 Earl Ave.

Trio Thrills Bellas Artes

Beautiful music by the "Triple Trio" from John Brown University inspired the members of Club Bellas Artes recently when they gathered for an informal meeting.

A buffet supper was served in Mottell's Garden Room by the hostesses, Mmes. William Morrow, Albert Hood, Harold Steward, Caryle Long and Miss Luella Smith. A separate table was set for each guest artist and attended by the members. The centerpieces of musical motif and spring flowers were presented to each guest, and tiny angels, playing musical instruments, were presented each guest and member.

Mrs. Anna Laurie House, club founder, concluded the program by reading a poem as a tribute to the guests and an inspirational message to the members.

Nuptial Mass Seals Vows

Beautiful floral decorations added their pristine grace to the reverent dignity of St. Matthew's Church when Joyce Ann Leatherman became the bride of Richard Stuart Hager on June 16. The nuptial mass was celebrated by the Rev. William J. Barry.

The bride, daughter of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Fred James Leatherman, wore a Paris original gown of pure silk, high-necked and long-sleeved, with tier upon tier of Chantilly lace cascading into a chapel length train over shimmering satin. A pearl and sequined crown held her full-flowing veil of nylon silk tulle. Chantilly lace covered the prayer book upon which rested lilies-of-the-valley and clusters of phalaenopsis orchids.

Mrs. Patrick Gaffney, matron of honor, was clad in mint green nylon tulle, while bridesmaids, the Misses O'Brien and Janet Condon, wore delicate-hued gowns of pastel lemon yellow and palest pink.

Dale Tompkins was his brother's best man. The bride's brothers, Robert Leatherman and Fred Leatherman Jr., ushered.

The new Mrs. Hager is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School where she belonged to Philaletheans. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Tompkins, attended San Pedro High School and is a graduate of Long Beach City College. He was a member of the Newman Club, Thanes and Engineers, AAE.

After a church reception for 200, some 75 guests were entertained at a home reception, toasting the newly married couple with champagne.

On their return from a honeymoon on Catalina Island, the Hagers will reside at 1352 E. 10th St.

Convention Travels, Reports Interest Zonta, Quota Clubs

By ANNE GILCHRIST

It was "bon voyage" night for members of Long Beach Zonta Club when they gathered for dinner in the Boulevard Room of the Lafayette Hotel to bid farewell to their members leaving for the 33rd annual convention of Zonta International at Sun Valley, Idaho, last Saturday.

President Vivian Showalter represented the club as delegate with Dr. Dorothy Prince as alternate. Others who entertained last weekend were Misses Doris Dearden and Nancy Luby, Misses Florence Peterson and Mary Noonan.

The convention, which concluded Thursday, featured as major guest speaker Mrs. Eleanor Lansing Dulles of the U. S. State Department, who developed the subject, "Foreign Relations and You." Mrs. Dulles is in the office of German Affairs with Berlin her particular area of responsibility. She is the sister of U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and of Allen Welsh Dulles.

Quota Record

At a dinner meeting of Quota Club of Long Beach last Monday in the Ballerina Room of the Lafayette Hotel, laughter held sway throughout the evening. It began with president Rita Stanfield's report of the International Quota convention in Memphis, Tenn., from which she had just returned.

The humorous and exciting things that occurred from the time she left International Airport and which continued during her stay in Florida were many and varied. She is saving the serious work report of the convalescence to give at the club's July meeting.

However, she did report one phase of convention business: the adding of another national project for participation by all clubs. It will be assistance to the elderly and the project will be known as "The Golden Age."

Speaker of the evening was Mrs. Ruth Small, only woman member of the Chamber of Commerce Shoreline Improvement Committee. With wit and spontaneity she described a six months world tour which ended in April. Title for her talk was, "Misadventures of a World Cruise."

Connie Brown, immediate past president of Quota, who was back for her first meeting after a six weeks visit to England, was warmly welcomed.

National BPW Club

Now on "summer vacation" are members of Long Beach National Business and Professional Women's Club who had their final meeting until fall at the YWCA last Monday.

In a ceremony utilizing the symbolism of the club's emblem, new members inducted into the club were Ester Abramsen, physical therapist; Nellie Rae Wilborn, social worker; Blanche L. Stevens, bank teller; and Margaret Gray, teacher. Narration for the ceremony was given by Helen Lee Beebe, Catherine Sharpe, Kathryn Campbell, Ethyle Avis, Eve Tichenor, Eunice Snyder and Amy Haneline, the chairman of the evening.

Ella Barre announced that the annual July breakfast would take place at Hody's Lakeview on the 14th. Reports on the district meeting which took place June 23 at the Lafayette Hotel were given by Eve Tichenor, Lurene Spear, Ethyle Avis, Kathryn Campbell and Hazel Gray.

Helen Lee Beebe was hostess for the social hour

Banking Women

First meeting of the new club year for the Women's Committee, Harbor District Chapter, American Institute of Banking, was called to order in the Boulevard Room of the Lafayette Hotel last Monday by Chairman G. Bernadine Kepka. After introduction of the officers who will serve with her during the coming year, Mrs. Kepka welcomed the 63 bank women present. She also reported on the national convention of AIB which she attended in Dallas, Texas, with Hazel Speers who also reported.

The women announced plans for the year which include a kickoff brunch and fashion show August 25. The Harbor District is the largest in the United States and works diligently to promote the interest of all members in banking education and especially encourages women bank employees to participate in the fine educational program conducted each year.

Courier-Hunter Names Linked

In a ceremony marked by quiet reverence and tender beauty, lovely Marilyn Gray Hunter repeated nuptial vows with Dr. Ernest M. Courier during recent services at California Heights Methodist Church.

Flickering candlelight cast its romantic glow on the double ring ritual as Dr. James Hughes read the marriage lines which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herve J. Hunter, 3934 California Ave., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Courier of Oak Park, Ill.

The altar before which the couple knelt was adorned with stately bouquets of white stock, gladioli, cysanthemums and larkspur, and the bride was escorted by her father down an aisle lined with majestic candelabra and arrangements of white stock. Sprays of ivy, emblem of the bride's sorority, Alpha Phi, were intermingled in the aisle bouquets.

Complementing the bride's radiance was a floor-length gown of ivory silk taffeta. Chantilly lace, embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, was fashioned into an exquisite panel on the gown's bodice, and the full-flowing skirt billowed gracefully to a chanel-length train. A filmy illusion veil was caught to a Juliet cap of lace studded with pearls and sequins. Little of the valley, arranged in a fashion from a white tulle, and a family heirloom gold locket completed the bridal ensemble.

Yellow organza embroidered in white was chosen for the identical gowns worn by mother of honor Mrs. Charles Kallent and bridesmaids Miss Eileen Neeley, Miss Pat Fraser, Mrs. John Bolander and the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Jay Hunter. Large yellow picture hats matched their gowns, and all carried graceful sprays of white phalaenopsis and stephanotis.

For his best man, the bridegroom chose Dr. John Bolander. Seating the 250 guests were Drs. Vern E. Wallace, Arthur Drickam and Charles Chapman and Jay L. Hunter, brother of the bride.

Little Pamela Murray, daughter of showman Ken Murray, scattered yellow and white marguerite petals before the bridal entourage, while Michael Gray carried the ring bearer's pillow.

At the church reception, the bride's mother greeted well-wishers in a gown of periwinkle blue hand-loomed lace created in Italy and brought to her especially for the occasion by the bride following a recent European trip.

Beige chiffon with matching accessories was chosen by the bridegroom's mother who, with Mr. Courier, journeyed from their Oak Park home to attend the afternoon ceremony.

Assisting the newlyweds were Mrs. Don F. Gray and Mmes. S. J. Conrad, Robert Bonseck and Misses Eleanor Peterson, Janet Fenner and Betty McDowell.

Following a reception in the home of the bride's parents where the bridal party and close friends gathered for a final farewell to the newlyweds, the young couple left on a honeymoon trip to Yosemite and Las Vegas. It was at the latter resort that the newlywed pair was feted by Ken Murray at his opening night performance at the Riviera.

A graduate of Polytechnic High School, the bride received her degree in psychology from UCLA where she was affiliated with Alpha Phi. Her husband is a graduate of Princeton and the School of Medicine at the University of Illinois. He is a resident physician in pathology at Veterans Hospital and plans to enter the Air Force upon completion of a year's service with the local institution.

Fragile Nylon and Tulle Chosen for Bridal Gown of Mary Ellen Parziale

Acapulco, Mexico, was the romantic honeymoon destination of newlywedded Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hudson (Mary Ellen Parziale) following afternoon nuptial services last Sunday in Our Lady of Refuge Church.

As she approached the altar with her uncle, Vincent Tuciarone, the bride, daughter of Mrs. Ellen M. Parziale, was exquisitely gowned in fragile white tulle and lace. The gown's molded bodice, made with sweetheart neckline, featured a front panel of appliqued lace. Bands of filmy tulle alternated with imported Chantilly lace to form the full-flowing, bouffant skirt which cascaded to a sweep train. A tiny jeweled crown, styled in Paris, held the delicate bridal illusion veil, and the colonial bouquet was of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride's attendants were identically gowned in white sheer accordion pleated frocks. Maid of honor Myrna Phillips held an arm bouquet of pink delight roses, while dark red roses were carried by bridesmaids Mrs. Carol Angello, Mrs. Betty Potter, Miss Betty Beard and Miss Pauline Olszewski. Little Kathleen and Gene Baker, sister and brother, were flower girl and ring bearer.

For his best man, the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hudson, chose Tom Birt. Seating the 150 wedding guests were Ronald Boge, Jim Swenson, Harold Swenson and Del Woodworth.

A graduate of Progress School, the beautiful bride is a Barbara Blakeley model and is doing fashion work in the Long Beach and Los Angeles area. Among the beauty awards she has received are American Legion Queen, 1954; Miss Perfect Back, 1953; the third Miss Welcome to Long Beach, and two years in the Miss Universe production.

The bridegroom, an alumnus of Polytechnic High School, served four years with the Air Force.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnston entertained officers of Chi Alpha and their husbands at a patio barbecue in their Downey home. Attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Jack M. Cook, Vincent Troy, Hal Rasike, Dan Clifton and Herbert Strobach.

Chi Alpha closed its current club season with a business session at the Garden Grove home of Mrs. William Jackson.

Joanna Mae Stoll Is Lovely Bride

An elegant gown of Oriental white satin enhanced the beauteous beauty of Joanna Mae Stoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Stoll, as she exchanged wedding vows and rings with Wayne Roy Paul during recent services at Westside Church of Christ. Four hundred guests witnessed the afternoon service performed by Rev. James Shields.

A fingertip illusion veil falling from a pearl and rhinestone tiara created a delicate frame about the young bride as she and her father walked down the floral-lined aisle. Dainty mother-of-pearl designs adorned the bridal gown's bodice which was fashioned with lace inset, and the wide, handsome skirt flowed gracefully to a full-length train. A cascade bouquet of three large white orchids mingled with white roses and lilies of the valley completed the bride's ensemble.

Maid of honor Miss De Rita Banks wore a ballerina-length gown of lavender lace over iridescent purple taffeta and a lavender picture hat accented by a band of purple velvet ribbon with matching flowers. With her lavender accessories she held cascades of purple butterfly orchids.

Bridesmaids Mmes. Beverly Burnett and Madalyn Koons were attired in turquoise lace with matching accessories, while Mmes. Kay Eisenberg and Helen Kopp wore yellow lace.

The bridegroom, son of Roy A. Paul, selected John Black to be his best man. Ushers were Glenn Springer, Dick Curtis, David Cahoon and Hugh Gilston.

Mrs. Wayne Roy Paul

Both newlyweds are graduates of Polytechnic High School and alumni of Long Beach City College. Among the bride's affiliations are Scarabs, Ragads and Lambda Phi. Her husband's organizations include Iota Phi Delta and Renegades.

Your Baby and Mine

Train the Mother

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Because the 2-year-old asked about is rather typical of his age level, it seems pertinent to discuss his behavior. Mrs. Y asks advice for her best friend whose two children are aged 2 and 8 months.

"M. is the problem," she writes. "He was taken care of by his grandmother after his mother was eight months pregnant. His mother has worked hard, this last year, to straighten him out. She has been both stern and loving and, I think, very fair to him. "He will not play by himself and very seldom will he play with older children. He sits on the porch and cries all day, or if she is in the house he follows her around crying. He has a big toy dog and he would lie on the floor with him and suck his thumb, if his mother would let him. He likes to watch TV, too, but she only allows certain programs.

"He refuses to mind either parent. When the telephone rings he flies straight to the things he can't have. If she puts him in a high chair he screams so she cannot hear. She has tried spanking him both with a switch and her hand. He won't cry, then, just grunts."

"She has tried shutting him in his bedroom, but he goes to sleep. If he is put any place for restraint, he grins and goes right for what he was forbidden the moment he is loose. We both think it is jealousy of the baby. We wonder if you could suggest an effective discipline?"

Of the mother, maybe. Her idea is to make him suffer and that, in my estimation, is not good training. Remember he is two years old and not yet capable of playing with anyone, but just of observing the other child and doing what he does.

He cries because he has nothing to do. If he lies with his dog and sucks his thumb she stops him. If he wants to look at TV she stops him. Then he runs to forbidden objects and is spanked or switched. Can you imagine what a mixed-up child he must be, denied everything he wants to do and expected to do something of which he is not yet capable?

Keep fragile objects out of reach. Put everything possible he can play with where he can get it—some books and magazines, some blocks, some kitchen utensils, small objects such as boxes with lids, coffee percolators (anything which comes apart and can be put together again will fascinate him).

When he cries take him up and cuddle him awhile, tell him a story, sing him a song. Treat him like a lovable child who wants and needs attention and now gets it only when he is naughty.

If he goes to sleep in his room, let him. He is put there to be shown he isn't acting as he should elsewhere, but the time should be short. It is just a token discipline, not an exile. He lacks the type of toys, riding, manipulative, small tool type that he can enjoy or he would play with them, young as he is.

Effects of Fat on Heart Noted in Case Records

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case S-305: Otis L., 47, recently had a coronary thrombosis, which means a plugging toward the far end of a coronary artery.

"Dr. Crane, I thought sure I'd die," he admitted. "No-body was in the apartment with me, so I was scared doubly. I fell to the floor and thought a knife was twisting around under my breastbone. And I felt like I was suffocating. Then I remembered what you told our Rotary Club about administering quick first aid to your own heart during an attack."

"So I gritted my teeth and started breathing deeply. I don't know how long I kept it up. It seemed like years but probably was only a few minutes."

"Finally, the pain began to grow less sharp. And I remembered your remark about teaming up with God Almighty. It was pretty late for me to be doing so but I said: 'Lord, I'm done for. If you'll take over and help me I'll be your partner.' And I felt more relaxed immediately. Since I was not far from the telephone, I finally slid over and knocked it to the floor with my foot. Then I called the hospital."

"Well, that was three months ago. Now I am as sound as a dollar. But what should I do now to keep in good shape?"

THE GREATEST threat to long life, as well as marital happiness, is contained in the symbol O-A-T.

Those letters stand for Obesity, Alcohol and Tobacco. In previous case records I have explained that fatness, even without any hardening of the arteries, can zoom your blood pressure. For each additional five pounds of fat causes three miles of extra blood vessels to sprout. And your heart must then raise the pressure to keep blood circulating in those extra miles of "pipes."

In the JOURNAL of the American Medical Association for Dec. 10, 1955, Dr. Lester M. Morrison of Los Angeles compared 100 heart victims who had recovered from their original attacks.

They were divided into two groups of 50 each. One group was put on a low fat diet so the men lost 21 lbs. and the women 17. The other was allowed to eat as it pleased.

Notice the results for the 50 slender, low-fat eaters versus the 50 others who dined as they pleased. The results at the end of three years and at eight years are as follows:

	3 years	8 years
Slender ... 43 alive	28
Fat ... 35 alive	12

OUR LUSH living scale and excessive eating seem to shorten our lives not just from the greater incidence of heart attacks, but also from apoplexy, cancer, etc., all of which show a much higher incidence among the obese.

Furthermore, our love life declines and we become platonic marital partners, especially if we add alcohol and tobacco to an overweight chassis. In previous articles I have warned that you cannot feel like a sports roadster with the chassis of a truck.

To insure longer, happier, lives, send for the booklet "How to Lose 10 Lbs. in 10 Days." Obesity can cut down your ardor and reduce your allure, so you can offend pre-

Informality Keynotes Service Set Festivities of Welcome and Farewell

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

There's been a flurry of parties and gay, informal gatherings among the folks of NAS, Los Alamitos the past few weeks.

All these have been honoring their well-liked commanding officer, Capt. J. B. Paschal, and his charming wife, bidding them farewell and happy sailing in civilian life.

One of the nicest parties of the season was the recent dinner party at the station given in the captain's honor by officers attached to NAS, and their ladies. Capt. Paschal received the traditional cigarrette case and then, following some amusing entertainment presented by the staff and music by the four Mimic-Airs (who are four officers of the station), the captain was given a beautiful golf bag and clubs.

Last Wednesday at noon at the BOQ aboard the Air Station, the Officers Wives Club gave a surprise luncheon party in honor of Mrs. Paschal. An afternoon of musical entertainment followed.

At both events the party rooms were lovely with summer roses and brilliant stocks.

The Paschals, delighted with our part of the country after several years duty at NAS, Los Alamitos, plan to buy here and settle down to civilian life after next week.

Capt. and Mrs. T. A. Torgerson and Mrs. Harry Smith shared hosts' honors one evening last week at the Torgerson home when a farewell event at the cocktail hour feted Rear Adm. and Mrs. Francis McCorkle, who are leaving for Washington, D.C.

House guest of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Walter Auerwald and daughters is pretty Lynn Kubina, daughter of Lt. Cmdr. V. T. Kubina of Alameda.

Also here for the arrival of the Helena are Mrs. T. J. Koethe, her three sons and a daughter, who are at home to their friends at 3074 Hackett Ave. Capt. Koethe is with the Marine unit aboard the ship.

Another Marine family moving into town is Mrs. J. H. Carothers and two boys of 3914 Gondar Ave., who will greet 1st Lt. Carothers when the Helena returns stateside.

The Mine Force Officers Wives Club recently enjoyed a luncheon and fashion show at Victor Hugo's with new board members serving as hostesses. The new president, Mrs. R. D. Faubion, announced that they will have a coffee gathering in July.

Stopping by on their way up from San Diego to see their friends, Capt. and Mrs. Dick M. te Groen, were former residents of this city Rear Adm. and Mrs. Paul M. Albright.

Capt. and Mrs. te Groen are expecting their relatives, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Scott, early in August to be their house guests for several weeks while the doctor is on leave from his post with the American Embassy in Cairo, Egypt.

Capt. and Mrs. J. A. Brennan and family have left for new residence and duty in Seattle, Washington.

Capt. W. C. Hogan, USCG, Chief of Staff to the Commander 11th Coast Guard District, who recently took over that duty upon the retirement of Capt. C. C. Paden, USCG (ret.), is now in Washington, D.C. helping his family pack for a move back to Long Beach.

It's now Captain J. J. Hutson Jr., USCG! In addition to receiving the good news of the added gold stripe, the family is getting ready to move to a newly purchased home in San Francisco, the new duty station of the Coast Guard officer.

Mrs. A. M. Davidson is in Fresno, seeing friends and visiting her mother.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. William Funderburk and family are going to Texas for a big family reunion.

At the recent board meeting of the Officers Wives Club of Long Beach, the announcement was made that the group would sponsor a benefit brunch and bridge event on August 15 in the patio room at Allen Center from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The charity supported by the benefit will be the club's Navy Relief Milk Fund.

Members are reminded that they may invite an unlimited number of civilian friends to the event.

This group will have their monthly luncheon meeting

Thursday at 12:30 p.m. in the Officers Club, Allen Center. Mrs. William Nicol, senior hostess, will be assisted by wives of members of the Retired Officers Dinner Club.

Friday at 12:30 p.m. the busy Officers Wives Club of Long Beach Air Force Base will have their monthly business meeting and luncheon. The theme will be "Orchids" and an interesting film will be shown. Hostesses will be Mrs. Evelyn Kline and Mrs. Joan Forman.

WED IN CHURCH

Eastside Christian Church was the setting for the exchange of vows which united Frances Pauline Cleaver and Robert Moreland Moore Jr. She will teach in this city.

PINK THEME

Pastel pink appointments contrasted softly with the white gown worn by Lois Eddie DeHart for her marriage to Robert Rush Brinkman in Garden Wedding Chapel.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS

Helen Smith, daughter of the John H. Smiths, carried traditional orange blossoms mingled with orchids, when she was wed to Frank Carter in a church ceremony recently.

ORCHID CASCADE

A bridal bouquet of cascading white orchids accented the tiered white tulle and lace wedding gown worn by Mary Elaine Furcron for her marriage to William O. Campbell.

CHAPEL RITE

Reciting marriage lines in Garden Wedding Chapel, charming Shirley L. Hiasen, became the bride of Bruce L. Boone. They will make their home at 2744 Madison Ave.

TAKES VOWS

Shirley Ann Spainhower, daughter of the A. C. Spainhowers, exchanged wedding vows with Robert Wayne Graham in Garfield Baptist Church. She wore white lace.

Ash-Travis Families Joined by Marital Ties

The strains of the always beautiful wedding march heralded the entrance of charming Patricia Joan Travis one recent evening as she walked with her father down the bridal aisle of Westminster Community Presbyterian Church to recite marriage vows with Gene Norman Ash. Dr. Reuben R. Pieters and the Rev. Wendell W. Greenlee officiated.

Delicate lace over crisp taffeta fashioned the bride's floor-length gown. Its fitted bodice featured a demure stand-up collar and long fitted sleeves. A filmy veil framed the bride's youthful radiance. She carried two white orchids atop a white Bible.

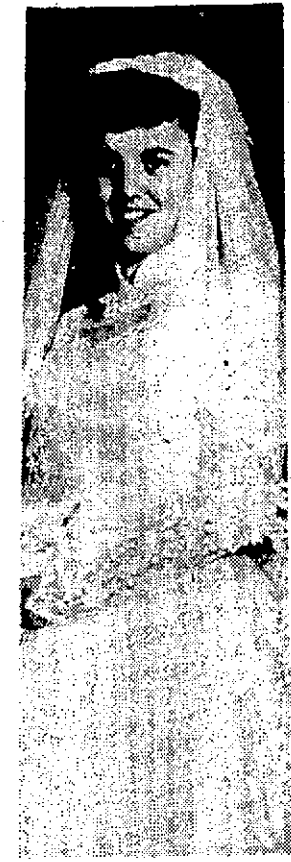

The young brother of the bride, Larry Travis, and Gary Zimmerman lighted tall white tapers which softly lit the church. Marilyn Travis attended her sister as maid of honor. Miss Shirley Wiggin and Mrs. Norma Simon were bridesmaids. The feminine attendants wore identical white torso frocks, lace trimmed, with matching lace hats, and carried colonial bouquets of orchid and lavender blossoms.

Completing the entourage were Jerry Jones, best man, and Gayne Earle, Maurice Deveroux and Thomas Rowley, who seated the 200 guests.

Parents of the bride couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Travis, 3445 Myrtle Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Gene J. Ash, 319 Hermosa Ave. Both of the newlyweds are graduates of Polytechnic High School, where she was a member of Pi Sigma Phi and he of Delta Phi. Later he attended Long Beach City College.

Following a postnuptial reception at the church, the couple left for a honeymoon in La Jolla. They will reside in Long Beach.

Pagliaroni-Miller Vows Solemnized in Lakewood

Double rings sealed the wedding vows of Linda Jo Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William David Miller, and James Vincent Pagliaroni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack V. Pagliaroni, who were married recently in Lakewood Village Community Church. Rev. W. R. Hall officiated at the afternoon service witnessed by 225 friends and relatives.

The newlyweds are now at home at 5325 Ocean, Apt. 8. Both are graduates of Wilson High School, where the bride was a member of the Scholarship Society and Ami Welfare Club and the bridegroom well known for his varsity baseball honors. A catcher during the past year with the Boston Red Sox, with whom he played as the highest paid bonus member ever signed from Long Beach, Pagliaroni is now on leave prior to entering the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the young bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white lace and tulle over satin. Her filmy veil of silk illusion fell gracefully to her fingertips from a tiara of lace and pearls. In the bridal bouquet were butterfly orchids with stephanotis and sprays of seed pearls.

Baskets of pink rosebuds with queen's lace were carried by the bride's attendants, maid of honor Miss Sue Coley and bridesmaids Misses Linda Lee McKinney, Catherine Cottrell and Patricia Miller, cousin of the bride. Miss Coley wore a ballerina-length gown of white lace over aqua taffeta, while the other attendants were attired in similar gowns, white lace over pink taffeta.

James H. Kinney served the bridegroom as best man, and seating guests were Jerry Cole, Kenneth Reardon and Charles Winslow.

Assisting at the church reception were Misses Mary Krell, June Robinson and Eva Kilger and Mrs. Gary Crawford.

Install Officers

Mrs. Howard F. Ryan was installed as president of Nazareth White Shrine Social Club during a recent luncheon meeting at Colonial Hall. Mrs. Fred Hancock, past worthy high priestess, was installing officer. Other new leaders are Mrs. Emma Chalfant, vice president; Mrs. May Bassett, secretary; Mrs. Paul Harris, treasurer.

She also has been named to serve on the executive committee and will represent the Long Beach area.

The County Conference on Community Relations, coordinating body for 60 civic, church, labor, minority and professional organizations, is a voluntary association which serves as a clearing house for information and ideas. Its democratic goal is the elimination of the waste and destructiveness of racial and religious discriminations.

The Rev. Martin C. Olson officiated at the single ring service.

Lilies of the valley and bouvardia on a white Testament were a pretty accent to the bride's costume, a beige silk and cotton sheath worn with a white rhinestone-trimmed hat. Mrs. Raymond A. Reiring, matron of honor, wore a powder blue sheath and carried a nosegay of tiny yellow rosebuds. Raymond A. Reiring was best man; ushers were Richard Reiring and James Heath.

Sam S. Woolington, M.D.

Chef of the Week

Doctor Orders Crayfish for the 'Mealtime Blues'

By MILDRED K. FLANARY

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

He'd rather baby-sit "on the beach" any day than do yard work or "unconfuse" the garage... and he's simply enraptured when an invitation indicates—"dress... sport shirt." Probably his first preference explains his specialization... Chef of the Week Sam S. Woolington is a pediatrician.

He left the Kansas prairie (Newton), arriving in Long Beach at the age of six. The Long Beach school system guided his education from kindergarten at Horace Mann through City College. He attended his first dance at the old Virginia Hotel.

The daddy of a girl scout, a cub scout, and two scout anticipators, he likes to reminisce about the "good old days" when he, as an Eagle Scout, used to camp in the Bixby Slough. It's the present site of Long Beach State College and "BL" (before Lakewood).

With a BA degree from Stanford, Woolington proceeded to McGill University, Montreal, Canada, for his medical training. He completed his two-year internship there just in time to "join-up" as a captain with the Army Intelligence.

His World War II itinerary included China, Burma and a six months continued "hitch" behind the Japanese line. A tough assignment, to be sure, but his experiences were unique.

Since supplies came only by air-d. op, his enforced appreciation of rice, curry and "ancient" fish was a bit overdone. There were SOME variations, however. Like the time the guerrilla chieftain set up the victuals. The unique ingredient in the scrambled eggs proved to be dainty, white grub worms.

No one knows for sure... but his friends date his great fondness for foods which are "different" to this experience. He's been the recipient of such delicacies as pickled octopus, smoked eel, fried grasshoppers and buffalo meat. He'll try anything!

Long will Woolington remember the "delayed" vacation he, two colonels and a fellow captain took after this six-month "tour." They managed to arrive in the hotel atop a horse, right in the middle of a very formal occasion—and just as the guests arose to sing "God Save the King."

He returned to the States and, after two-and-one-half years residency in the department of pediatrics, Los Angeles County General Hospital, he started private practice in Long Beach in 1948.

A member of the Long Beach Branch Los Angeles County Medical Association, Woolington has served as president of the Long Beach Pediatrics Society and of the Children's Clinic. He chaired that section at Seaside Hospital for a two-year period, and is presently chairman of the board of directors, Long Beach Physicians Health

Illness Strikes Capital City Hostess; Farewells Extended Francis Denebrinks

By VIRGINIA W. KELLY

Washington Staff Correspondent

Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, wife of the former U. S. Ambassador to Portugal, is progressing satisfactorily after a severe coronary thrombosis. Polly will be in Doctor's Hospital in Washington for several more weeks and then must have several months of rest at home which is the Guggenheim's capital estate, Firenze House.

This writer is one who holds the theory that serious heart attacks stem partly from fatigue.

Although she has enjoyed radiant health, lovely Polly Guggenheim never said "no" to a worthy cause. She is a conscientious worker at All Souls Memorial Episcopal Church, a powerful worker in the Republican Clubs and an active participant in the Arts and Letters Clubs. She works for charitable causes year after year. In addition, she has shared Colonel Guggenheim's enthusiasm for world travel, fishing, hunting and entertaining.

On the eve of his retirement from the Navy, Vice Adm. Francis C. Denebrink still declines to reveal his plans for a forthcoming business association. The announcement will come after July 2, he told this writer.

He said that their daughter, Joyce, has been accepted at Stanford. This bears out our prediction that the Denebrinks will live in San Francisco for they had previously told us that Joyce had applied for admission to a college "near" their future home.

Adm. Denebrink, the retiring commander of MSTs, and Mrs. Denebrink and the new commander of MSTs, Vice Adm. John M. Will, and Mrs. Will were honored at a reception given by officers of MSTs.

The party for 400 took place at Patton Hall, Fort

Myer, Va. Guests included Rep. and Mrs. John H. Allen Jr. and Rep. and Mrs. Clyde Doyle of California. The DoYLES will drive leisurely homeward as soon as Congress adjourns. Doyle hopes to spend several weeks in the home area resting, visiting with family and friends and swimming at the beach.

Also at the party were Mrs. Charles S. Thomas, wife of the Navy Secretary; Maritime Administrator and Mrs. Clarence Morse; Navy Under Secretary and Mrs. Thomas Gates; Assistant Secretary of Defense and Mrs. Wilfrid McNeil; Boyce Luckert, American President Lines; Mr. and Mrs. Emmett McCormack, Moore-McCormack Steamship Co.; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Walsh, States Marine; Adm. Glenn Davis, chairman of the board, Isthmian Line; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Adams, Pacific Far East Lines; Col. Noah Brinson, American President Lines, and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McLean, Watertown Steamship Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett McCormack entertained for the Denebrinks at a luncheon for 40 at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel. Adm. Denebrink was honor guest at a stag luncheon for 400 at the Hotel Mayflower given by the Propeller Club. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Adams will give a cocktail party for the Denebrinks before their departure.

The president of University of Hawaii, Dr. Gregg Sinclair, and Mrs. Sinclair were the guests of honor at a dinner at the Sulgrave Club given by Mr. and Mrs. Blake Clark.

The Spanish Ambassador and the Countess of Motrico; Greek Ambassador and Mme. Melas, and the Icelandic Minister and Mme. Thors were in the company.

The delegate from Hawaii, Mrs. Joseph R. Farrington, was a guest. Others included Presidential Assistant and

Mrs. Homer Gruenther; former Ambassadors Robert Guggenheim and Joseph Davies, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz.

Mrs. Francis Ulen, wife of Capt. Ulen, D.C., USN, Ret., gave a luncheon for Mme. Vladimir Rybar. Guests included Mme. Leo Mates, wife of the Yugoslav Ambassador; Mrs. John J. Hearne, wife of the Irish Ambassador; Mrs. Harold Burton, wife of Associate Justice Burton, and Mrs. Shao-Hwa Tan, wife of the Chinese Minister.

Compliment Bride-to-Be

Nancy Nettelman, bride-elect of Dennis Stimson, was honoree at a brunch last week in the Virginia Country Club. Fifty of her closest friends gathered to present the future bride with lovely pieces of sterling silver place settings.

Co-hostesses were Miss Carol McGrew and Miss Ann Artman, who will be bridesmaids at the Aug. 18 nuptials in Palos Verdes' La Venta Inn, and Miss Kathy Hancock.

Yellow and white bouquets of gladioli and stock graced the U-shaped brunch tables at which were seated special guests Mrs. John B. Nettelman and Mrs. Guy Hulsizer, mother and grandmother respectively of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. Morris Stimson, mother of the bridegroom-elect.

Two Merit Awards

By VERA WILLIAMS

Independent, Press-Telegram Art Editor

Because of the superior quality of entries of two top participants in the Long Beach Art Association's annual high school art competition, the association departed from its usual single-award practice to make two Chouinard Art Institute scholarship awards this year.

They go to Diana Vitale and Takeshi Tani.

Her name, Diana, is well exemplified in the statuesque 17-year-old Miss Vitale, who, under the instruction of James A. Milroy of Jordan High School, has produced talented work.

In addition to the Art Association Chouinard Award, she previously had received the 20-30 Club poster contest prize, Bank of America creative achievement award, Knights of Pythias creative achievement award and scholastic gold key and certificate.

Miss Vitale is especially adept with pen water color drawing and etching and expresses her professional goals as portrait and retail advertising art.

Takeshi, the other award winner, was groomed by instructor Robert J. Adams of Poly High School to win, in addition to the Art Association scholarship, the Exchange Club $50 scholarship, scholastic regional art award and achievement key.

His forte lies in strong line and swift, energetic movement of figure work. He likes fashion figure illustrating. Takeshi was born on Terminal Island in 1937. His parents went to Japan in 1945. However, he hopes they will return soon.

Karl Seethaler, Long Beach artist who with his family is spending two years abroad, has a show in Innenbaukunst, Frankfurt, Germany. Shown are 88 of his works—65 paintings, the remainder sculptures. Seethaler writes: "The exhibition rooms are beautiful and they expect a crowd of international dignitaries and After expressing her appreciation to the board and members for their cooperation, Mrs. Sink turned the meeting over to Mrs. Cromer, a past president, who served as installation officer. Accepting the duties of president was Mrs. Ralph M. Robeson and seated with her were Mrs. Thomas R. Peck, vice president; Mrs. James Carroll, recording secretary; Mrs. Perry G. Rutherford, corresponding secretary; Miss Margaret I. Braswell, treasurer; Mrs. Arthur Vincent, parliamentarian; Mrs. Robert C. McKissock, historian, and Mmes. Sink and John Henry Bryson, advisers.

"We had a nice visit in England, visited the galleries and cathedrals. Here we are going to do the same. Frankfurt is interesting in every way—historically as well as in the light of the current German boom, the 'German miracle'."

"After the show, we will travel to Vienna."

The 15th annual "Exhibition of the Arts" will open today in Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery in Barnsdall Park, Hollywood Blvd. and N. Vermont Ave., and will run through July 15.

Why Grow Old?

Bothersome Noises Can Fatigue, Injure Health

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Not long ago I wrote about the detrimental effect constant noise has on the nervous system. It is a scientific fact that noise is fatiguing. We all know this to be true.

I have received such a large amount of mail in response to the column about this and so many requests that I again call the problem to the attention of the public that I am again doing so.

Here are a few quotations from recent reader mail: "One nuisance you didn't mention, which we suffer from every single day, is the sound of a typewriter set on a shaky table in the apartment above us. Since there are no rugs on the floor the sound is so nerve-racking that we are sometimes forced to leave our apartment, and on Sundays should be on the front page, not on the 20th where I found it. We recently moved into an apartment and furnished it at our own expense. We would be much happier and healthier if our neighbor would lower her TV and radio. Also, they get up at 6 a.m. while we do not have to get up until 7:30. However, the noise they create makes it impossible for us to sleep a minute later than they do."

"I just have to write to thank you for your article about noise. We have neighbors who moved in not long ago. They have young children. Words cannot describe the noise they make. The mother yells and screams at the children from morning until 10:30 p.m. when they finally go to bed. The children slam doors and run in and out of the house all day long. We bought our home and cannot afford to move because of the financial loss we would suffer but my health is actually being affected. I am tired all the time."

When we live close together we cannot always plan our life to suit our neighbors entirely but we can try to annoy them as little as possible. In many instances it is possible to lead our own lives without harassing those who live near us if we will think in these terms.

We cannot keep small children quiet, nor would we wish to, but it is bad for a child to be screamed at and doors easily can be fitted with equipment which keeps them from banging. Also, little children should be asleep long before nine o'clock at night. We can put a rug under the typewriter table and use the typewriter at reasonable hours.

Molly Mayfield

She's Tormented by Shame

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:
I went too far when I was a teenager and now I need your help. Please listen to my story.

At the age of 10 I was left alone much of the time with my younger sister. Father had died several years back. Mother was working very hard to keep us from going hungry. My brothers and sisters lived close by. But they didn't care about us.

So nobody explained anything about anything to us. I had to learn the hard way and I did—to my sorrow. I was dating by that time and became blissfully infatuated at the age of 13½ with a young man. The outcome? I was indiscreet with him.

Now, eight years later, I am suffering from what Kinsey and Freud call "guilt complexes." The fellow involved came back later and wanted to marry me (I felt he thought it was his obligation). But I had made one mistake and I didn't want to make another by marrying a man I didn't love.

My problem is: I look (and act, I guess) like a sweet, innocent, do-no-wrong girl. I have no problem having nice dates. I've met two very fine young men at different times who wanted to marry me. But television set up high so that you can hear it from all parts of your house or so that you can listen to a ball game while you work in the yard, or to stomp about while others are asleep, is the last word in being inconsiderate. You actually may be injuring the health of your neighbor.

If you would like my leaflet "Individual Happiness," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 65 to Josephine Lowman in care of the Press-Telegram.

This feature appears daily in the Press-Telegram.

I broke off with them because they were in love with an image, not with me.

I wanted to tell them the truth. But I lacked courage because every man wants an undefined woman as a wife. I am sure I could if I could only cure my guilt feeling. How can I approach the subject? Please help, please! — WANTING FORGIVENESS.

DEAR WANTING:
I know how tormented you must be, and what a shame it is that this happened to you so young. But there is no reason why this teen-age mistake should keep you from a happy married life.

What you really want to know is this: Should you tell the man you want to marry about your intimacy with the boy eight years ago?

I see no reason why you should do this unless the question should come up. After all, you know how wrong you were, you were very young at the time, you have learned from your lesson — and this experience is in the dim past.

But if the issue should be raised — and the man you want to marry asks you — I'm afraid that you must tell him the truth. If he really loves you, and not let this stand in the way of your joy.

Perhaps he might taunt you about it during a bitter quarrel after your marriage. Many subjects are brought up from the past during domestic quarrels. But if he truly loves you, he will feel ashamed of himself when he cools off — and beg to be forgiven.

For goodness sake, Miss Wanting, don't brood about this distasteful memory. Be thankful that you have been wise enough to learn a lesson that perhaps can be turned to some advantage when you have children of your own. — M. M.

How to Spot Lone King

Spotting a singleton king is one of the most difficult feats in the game, but it isn't impossible. South should accomplish it in today's hand.

West opens the queen of clubs, and South wins with the king. The routine play at this point is to lead the queen of spades. This is not a way to ferret out a singleton king.

West naturally covers the queen of spades, and dummy wins with the ace. Dummy returns a low spade, and East plays low. South has no reason to suspect trouble, so he wins with the jack. West discards a heart, and South discovers too late that the spades will not break.

Now South must try the diamond finesse. This loses, and the diamonds fail to break. South struggles but eventually wins only 11 tricks.

The defeat can be prevented if South leads the 10 of spades at the second trick. If West is able to play a small spade, the 10 will serve for a finesse. When West must play the king of spades on the 10, the situation is clear. West would surely play a low spade if he could since, for all West knows, it is possible that East has the jack.

In short, the singleton king is discovered when South leads the 10 of spades. Dummy wins with the ace and returns a spade, and South can pick up East's spades without loss. The extra spade trick is enough to give declarer the vulnerable slam.

A Salute to the Average Underrated 'C' Student

By ANGELO PATRI

Wonderful things do happen these days, wonderful things that prove how thoughtful and how kind and how understanding people can be.

A paper recently published a story telling how two gentlemen gave some money, quite a bit, to Harvard. What for? For students who do not quite make the scholarship grade, needy students whose gifts do not permit them to make high marks, yet who have intelligence and ability well worth cultivating.

These students may not make the dean's list. They may not win a single honor mark, yet they have within them latent power that, stimulated by the college courses and the able professors will help them mature in wisdom, learning and ability.

Many of these "C" students are slowly maturing as the years so full of experience, life so full of opportunity, open before them. The day comes when their abilities, their mental powers, come to fruition, and we discover a rare worker, a leader, a fine American citizen.

Why is an ambitious student, one hungry for learning, a "C"? Who knows? Maybe the home background is not one to enrich the child's mind and develop his latent talents. Maybe an illness delayed development. Maybe he was interested in things, not books, and his latent desire for growth and understanding began pushing him. Or maybe he is one of those slow, steady, long-growing minds that are such a benefit to mankind in the long run.

Always when I hear of an eager "C" student whose teachers complain about him, whose parents shake their heads at the thought of his poor marks, I remember Thomas Edison. Of course, Edisons are scarce, rare and wonderful and if we get one in a century, how fortunate. But that one might just be one of those "Cs" we are talking about. Just might. So I always want to give him a little extra chance, a little more than his "just" share of the teachers' time and attention so that the rare one does not escape.

That is why, when I read of this gift to Harvard earmarked for the "needy C" man who did not quite reach the scholarship standard, I stood up and cheered for those two gentlemen from Boston. I hope they are as happy in their giving as that "C" man

A Champagne Toast to the Good Old Fourth

By Clarence Bernard Propes

TWO THOUSAND people formed a hollow square around a flagpole in San Pedro. A band played and 2,000 champagne toasts were drunk to Old Glory. Each had his own bottle presented by Phineas Banning.

This was in 1853 when Banning decided to throw a Fourth of July party that turned out to be a thing of glory. He bought out the cargo of fine foods and liquors from a newly arrived ship, added the best of local victuals and potables and announced a party. Everyone was invited.

THE RESPONSE was gratifying for people streamed in from all over the Southland. They came on foot, by wagon and on horseback. They assembled at a building called the Old Hide House where they found a giant table heaped with fine food while along the wall were racks of bottles and kegs of liquor. They gave glad cries and fell to with a will. When they had their temporary fill they danced. The musicians played in shifts, working day and night. The guests slept when they felt like it, ate, drank and danced when the desire moved them.

The next day was July 4. They saluted the flag, listened to the thunder of oratory and cannon and went back to the absorbing business of making merry.

At one point Jose Sepulveda cheered the day with, "Viva los Estados Unidos! Viva Mexico! Somos amigos!" (Long live the United States, Long live Mexico! We're friends!) The party ended July 5 only because everyone was too exhausted to continue. Maj. Horace Bell wrote a wistful and nostalgic account of this fiesta as one of the greatest parties he ever attended.

THE FIRST Independence Day celebration in California took place in Los Angeles in 1847. It wasn't up to the Banning celebration but it was gratifying nevertheless.

Americans were then in the process of capturing California but they didn't feel too secure for the Californians were not staying captured. It was decided a fort would be in order so one was constructed on a hill that has since been flattened.

IT WAS DECIDED to dedicate the fort on the Glorious Fourth. A flagpole was needed so a party of soldiers and workers were sent to find a good one. The soldiers proved a good idea for the party was attacked by Indians who left three dead behind.

At Mill Creek, near San Bernardino, they found two trees that would serve. They felled them and ended with two logs, one 80 feet and the other 90 feet long.

They loaded these on the axles of 12 Mexican caretas and headed back for town. Twenty oxen were in the hitch and each had its driver. They plodded into town in a cloud of dust, the wheels shrieking and groaning, the drivers shouting and the spectators cheering — a fine, noisy time.

CARPENTERS SPICED the logs making a single pole 150 feet long. It was set in place at what was once North Broadway and Fort Hill Place.

A shining new flag was raised on the morning of the Fourth with smartly uniformed troops saluting. "The Star-Spangled Banner" was played, three cheers were given and a deafening salute was fired from the fort.

At 11 the soldiers formed a square and heard the Declaration of Independence read in English and in rolling, musical Spanish. Many of the California Volunteers in the Army heard it for the first time. A speech of dedication was followed by the singing of "Hail, Columbia." The soldiers were marched off after a serving of wine.

THE OFFICERS were invited to a ball where they danced with the elite of California. The ballroom was decorated with a portrait of Washington wreathed with evergreens, the massed company, banners, racked guns with their bayonets serving as candle holders and cutlasses arranged as stars with candles burning in the center.

The officers were served fine foods and wine but it is certain the enlisted men would not have traded with them. Although their party or parties were not organized, according to all accounts, they had all the pleasures dear to the soldier's heart. The ladies they entertained were, as a contemporary account has it, "not of such high social scale."

THE LOS ANGELES STAR described one Independence Day celebration in the 1850s:

"More than the usual amount of powder was burned but no blood was spilled. And everybody supremely happy and noisily patriotic. With gunpowder, a chance to parade, and an opportunity to speak, what more could a reasonable American require to make a successful holiday?"

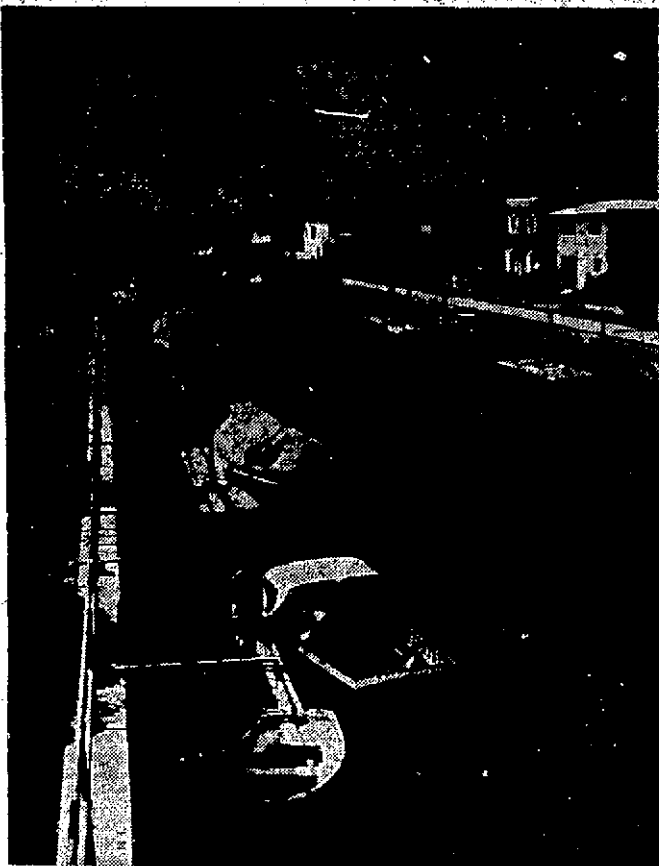

A July 4 party that was a thing of glory was given in 1853 by Wilmington pioneer Phineas Banning. Above, Banning home in Los Angeles about 1900.

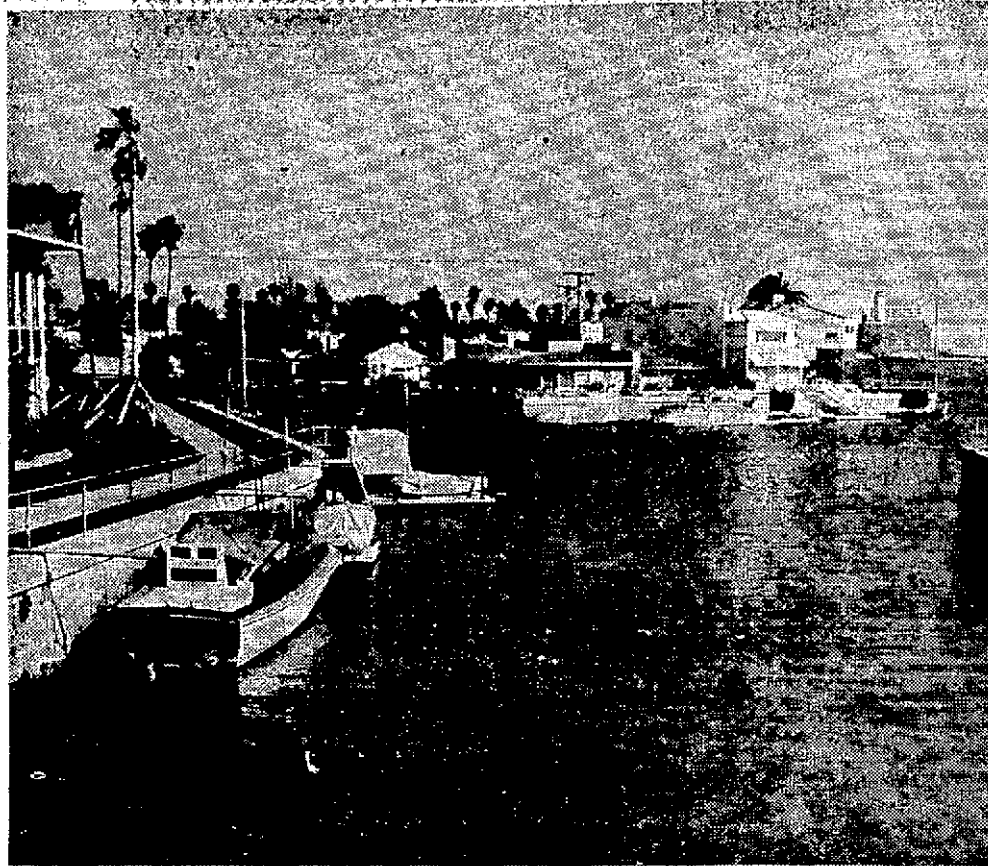

Fort Moore Hill, about 1883, figured in July 4 celebrations in Los Angeles. Guns of fort thundered salutes as part of patriotic exercises.

Dream City of Buffalo Bill's Pal

By Spencer Crump

Naples canals and islands, as they were in 1936, are shown in the Watson Airfoto, above. Few building lots are left today; vast changes in effect.

THE year was 1903, a friend of Buffalo Bill paused for an appreciative look as he hunted ducks on the tidal marshes of Alamos Bay.

Four miles to the west was Long Beach, a thriving community of 5,000 people...

A half mile to the east was Bay City, later to be re-named Seal Beach...

The area was booming... the Pacific Electric tracks were being pushed down the coast and would bring more people.

Arthur M. Parsons, 45, took an envelope and a pencil from his pocket.

"This land could be developed," he said, turning to his son, Arthur C. Parsons.

The elder Parsons began to sketch... canals... arched bridges... gondolas.

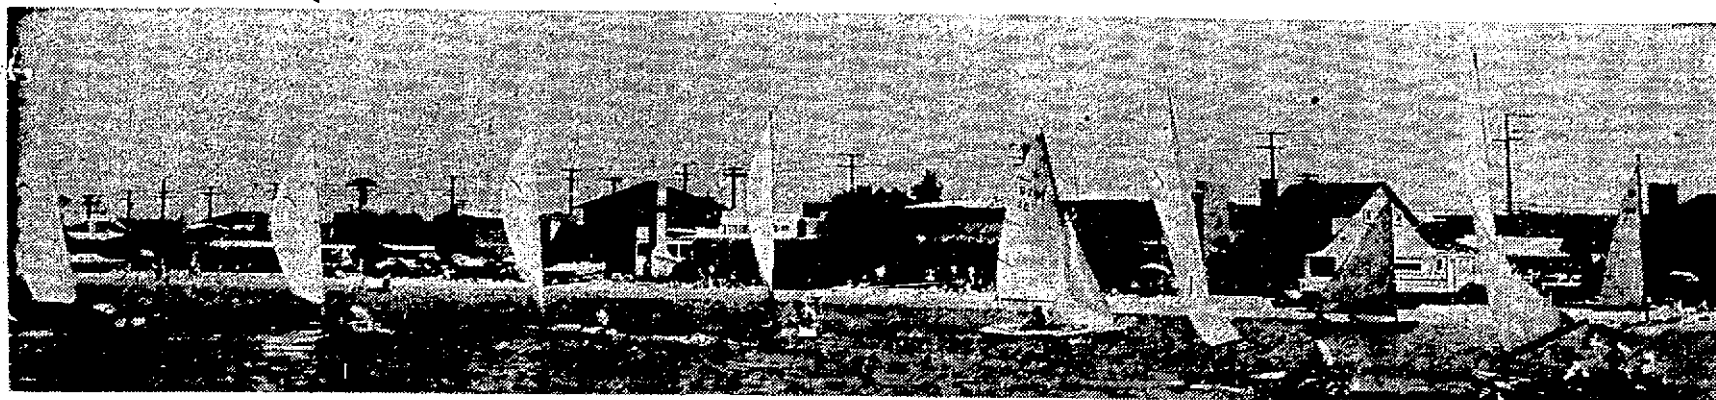

THE IDEA that was to become Naples was born. Within three years it was a reality, hailed for its beauty and originality by all of Southern California.

Today, over the bridge of a half century, Long Beach's nautical community still pleases thousands of visitors annually who agree with Arthur M. Parsons when, admiring his creation as an artist will, he called it the "most unique seaside resort ever planned."

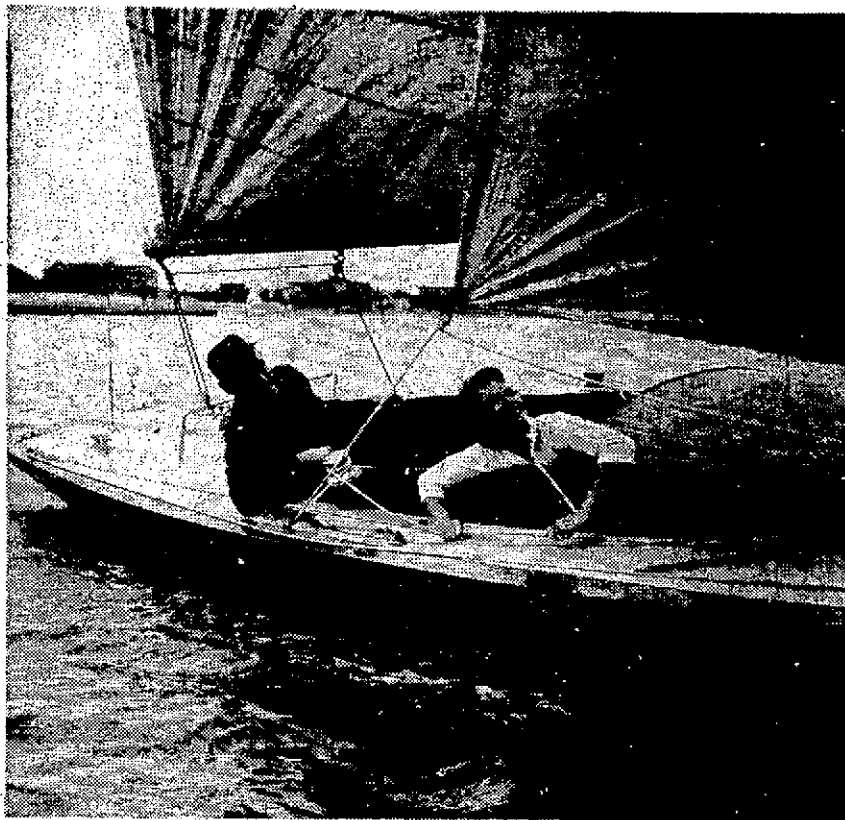

And to natives as well as newcomers, Naples remains unique with its arched bridges, canals, ornate hotel and colorful street and alley names—Florence, Geneva, Campo, Rivo Alto, Tivoli...

THE DEVELOPER of Naples was as colorful as his community. Arthur M. Parsons was born near Cleveland and came west when he was a young man and used his varied talents in earning a livelihood. He helped his good friend, Buffalo Bill Cody, organize his famed Wild West Show; he wrote stories and books, including "Eyes of the Wilderness," which became a best seller, and entered the real estate business, subdividing large Alamos Bay offers superb water sports activities for Naples. Development of bay, now in progress, will provide small boat harbor.

With a lockerful of trophies already stowed away, Sid and Ann Exley have Olympic hopes as they sail the International Dragon Class sloop Nike, a recent acquisition. They head a family of sailboat champions.

Family of Champions

IT ACTUALLY all started back on the Potomac River when Grandfather Exley was a boy and built a sailboat with the help of his father. First he started cruising on the Potomac but found that rather dull and was soon engaged in racing other boats.

Sid Exley, 5490 The Toledo, started his sailing career on Alamitos Bay in an old sailing dory and it was in this that he won his first trophy in 1922. He sailed in a handicap class because small one-design boats were unknown at that time. Shortly thereafter, the one-design Patricia Skimmers came into existence and with his skimmer Dawn Sid won his first class championship. His new wife, Ann, didn't know the bow from the stern but soon learned and they continued to race the Dawn and win in this class for several years. After the war, they bought the National One Design Glamour Girl and won fleet and regional championships, the National Championship in 1949 and the World Championship in 1952. By then they were also interested in the Penguin Dinghy Class. After considerable practice—for dinghy sailing is tricky and requires great agility—they won the fleet and regional championships with the Penguin SuPaJ and placed second in the International Penguin Dinghy Championship last year with the MaPa for daughter Sue had taken over the SuPaJ. With the removal of the Ocean Ave. bridge and the opening of Alamitos Bay to the ocean, they acquired the first International Dragon Class sloop in Long Beach and are hoping to see the class established at Alamitos Bay. They are actively racing Nike with the Los Angeles fleet for the present and recently won the Los Angeles Yacht Club opening regatta.

DAUGHTERS SUE AND PAT are following in their father's footsteps and are ardent sailboat racing enthusiasts. Daughter Jane, an able crew and good skipper, is much more interested in an outboard motor and takes delight in towing her sisters home when the wind fails.

The entire family will race July 4, 7 and 8 in celebration of the 30th year of racing sponsored by the Alamitos Bay Yacht Club.

Sue Exley, International Woman Penguin Dinghy champion, takes tiller of MaPa, with sister Jane as crew. She graduated last year from the Sabot class in which she won many trophies. She's Wilson High grad.

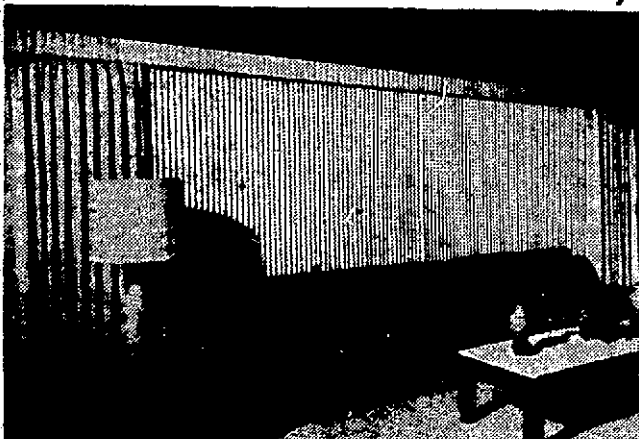

Pat Exley, who at 4 years of age "just wanted to learn to row, none of that fast racing stuff," has now become ardent sailor. She is first girl to win Alamitos Bay Labor Day Sabots trophy. She is sailing Pate.

Sid, daughter Jane admires the Manning Perpetual Dinghy Trophy they won in February to make them the inter-club dinghy champions. Jane's an able crew, capable skipper; leans more to outboard motorboating.

A Wreath and a Flag for Old Joe

FOLKS along Northern California's Foresthill Divide still remember Old Joe, one of the last heroes of gold rush days.

Joe was the lead horse on the Foresthill stage. He died from the blast of a highwayman's shotgun July 3, 1901.

The holdupman was never caught in spite of a local wave of revulsion over his crime. But even so, in 1901, the robber was about 35 years too late. The last of the big gold shipments from the Foresthill mines had dwindled out long before and the robbery netted only about $70.

THE STAGE was on an uphill grade when the robber stepped from behind a manzanita bush and ordered driver, Henry Crockett, to stop. Crockett shook his head and whipped up the horses. The bandit fired pointblank into the team.

Old Joe dropped in his tracks. The big horse was cut from the traces and buried along the road with a crude stone slab to mark the spot. John de Maria remembers that as long as the stage line operated one of the drivers would stop every Fourth of July to put a flag on Old Joe's grave.

IN THE LAST few years the job has been taken over by the Placer County Historical Society. About 250 persons still live at Foresthill, 53 miles east of Sacramento in the Sierra.

He's Not Fooled by Fool's Gold

By
Betty De Weese

ELVEN-YEAR-OLD Drake Jenkins is an imaginative youngster whose hobbies include drawing cartoons, playing piano and drums, and collecting rocks. He has more than a budding talent for each and would find it difficult to name which one he likes best.

Sketching quick drawings of Disney characters is fun for a party or in a crowd. Banging drums is good for working off energy. Piano playing, he guesses, will always be a handy thing to know. But he is most serious of all about his ever-growing rock collection which was started several years ago.

Drake's mother grew up in the mining town of Darwin, Calif., where his grandparents still live. Grandfather Oliver A. Thorson's love of rocks probably has a great deal to do with Drake's growing interest in them. Thorson, who has personally contributed hundreds of specimens to museums throughout the country, saw to it that Drake's beginning collection had some valuable members among the first.

Drake's bedroom is his castle.

Master of Mystery

By Rufus Blair

DESPITE the flattery of imitation enjoyed by "the Hitchcock touch," its creator rejects the "master of mystery" label attached to him by friendly tongues and goes serenely along.

"I CONSIDER MOST of my pictures simply as pursuit melodramas—stories in which innocent people become embroiled in mysterious doing. The problems of the ordinary man facing the unusual interest me far more than those of the uncommon man. That is why I resist all proposals of gangster pictures. Gangsters, as a breed, simply do not interest me."

Actors and the art of acting interest Hitchcock only to the degree that they are necessary to carry out his pictorial ideas, his films indicate.

"Hitch never gives you much direction," explained Jimmy Stewart, who has starred for Hitchcock three times, in "Rope," "Rear Window" and currently in "The Man Who Knew Too Much," which was started on location at Marrakech, moved to London and reached completion at Paramount Studios in Hollywood. "He engages actors who presumably know their craft, who get the feel of the characterization, and lets them go their Buttered corn on the cob is a summer delight. Try with variety of butters.

Sweet Corn Is a Summer Treat

SUMMER, with its picnics, barbecues and wiener roasts, seems just around the corner, when we see all the luscious ears of corn that are arriving in the markets now. This tasty, western-grown sweet corn is always a family favorite and one you can't afford to miss.

The tales of the origin of corn are many and varied, but there is evidence that it was grown as far back as 600 A.D., with the earliest development of corn or maize occurring in the South American Andes. In the days of the primitive Incas, Mayas, and Aztecs maize was used for food, currency, fuel, smoking silk, jewelry and building material. Maize also helped pay taxes and was tied in with many of the early religious ceremonies.

In America, the juicy, flavorful ears of western-grown corn are used only as a food and lend themselves especially to boiling and roasting, served with salt and lots of butter or margarine for extra goodness. Many like to leave the ears of corn right in the husks and roast them over hot coals, while others have found that corn is excellent served with meat and other fresh vegetables as kebabs. Soups, casseroles and creamed dishes are delicious when made with tender kernels, cut from ears of fresh, sweet corn.

GOOD AS CORN on the cob is, sometimes you may want to vary it a little or perhaps build a main dish with it. The kernels keep their shape better if you boil the ears about five minutes, then plunge into cold water. With a sharp knife, trim the kernels off in neat rows.

Garlic-buttered roasting ears are good eating, too. (See featured recipe elsewhere on this page.)

It's clever, too, to give your guests a choice. Accompany ears of corn with a variety of butters to add extra flavor and appeal to your meal.

Chili Butter

- 4 tablespoons butter
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 teaspoon chili powder

Curry Butter

- 4 tablespoons butter
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 teaspoon curry powder

Onion-Parsley Butter

- 4 tablespoons butter
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- ¼ teaspoon finely-minced parsley
- ¼ teaspoon finely-minced onion

Method: Soften or melt butter. Blend in remaining ingredients. Spread or brush on fresh, hot, corn on the cob. Makes enough for 4 ears of corn.

Garlic-Buttered Roasting Ears:

Remove coarse outer husks and loosen inner husks, removing silk carefully; trim ear if necessary. Brush kernels generously with garlic butter or margarine. Tie inner husks into their original position and lay on grill above glowing coals. Turn frequently. It will take anywhere from 10 to 25 minutes to roast the corn.

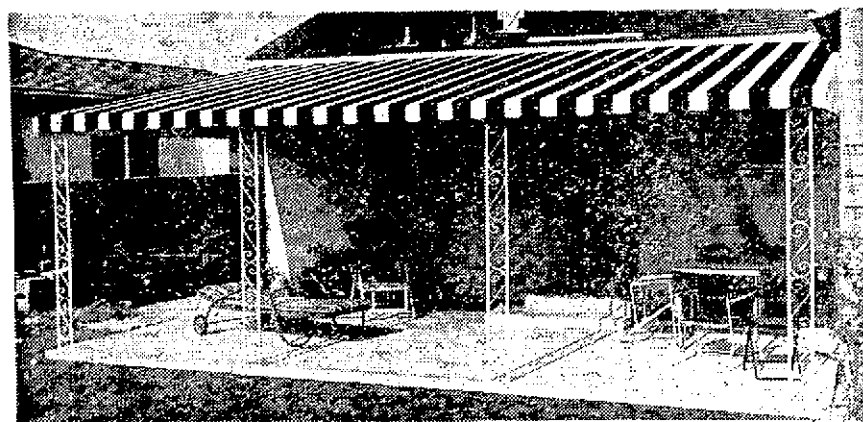

To fix "garlic butter," slice 3 or 4 cloves of garlic and add to ¼ pound soft butter or margarine. Mix well and let stand at room temperature an hour or longer, stirring occasionally.

A HOUSE is neither abstract or non-objective. It presumably is designed with a specific family in mind—a family that is apt to have tastes, avocations, attitudes and habits quite unlike those of the neighbors.

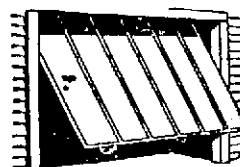

And so it goes without saying that an astute architect or designer-builder must be cognizant of these factors before the dwelling he plans can hope to serve efficiently those it will house.

HAPPILY, Carl Brooks was in an enviable position when the plans for his home at 5290 El Roble St., Park Estates, were in the formulative stages.

Brooks is a builder, enabling him to know from years of experience just what features have proven themselves in his estimation. And, Mrs. Brooks, who has always taken an active interest in her husband's business, had a similarly resourceful background on which to rely ated note is easily achieved. FOREMOST IN MIND when the house was planned were the children. Their need for study-time privacy and their desire for a "place of their own" in which to enjoy their friends were recognized.

Exterior of this house is pleasantly provincial without meaningless detail to clutter up its simplicity.

Mrs. Brooks helped plan the kitchen to make pleasant and effortless the preparation of meals. A pass-through from kitchen to family room was elected with the family snacking in mind. The counter is equipped, on the kitchen side, with a small bar sink which makes it readily able to do party favors as a beverage bar. The Brooks' enjoy family breakfasting in the kitchen so they all were in favor of a kitchen large enough for the comfortable inclusion of a round table and chairs. No lovers of breakfast bars, they were equally adamant in voting down the necessity of having to dine in the dining room three times a day.

THE FAMILY ROOM is just what the name implies—a large area to be enjoyed by adults and children, too. A game table, comfortable sofas, an open fireplace, a built-in television and phonograph equipment all contribute to its appeal. Completely separate are the living room, the dining room and the family room. In this manner a weekend evening could find two separate age groups being entertained simultaneously, yet happily separate, at the Brooks house.

A provincial mood prevails in both interior and exterior styling. The feeling is one of warm and sturdy informality without any of the meaningless gimcracks that so many devotees of this style unwittingly fall for. The materials for the building and the furniture which it houses were all chosen for their ability to contribute to ease of maintenance and function.

tracts of land which included major Los Angeles business districts.

It was while in this area attending to real estate interests that he envisioned the building of Naples over the marshes where he hunted ducks.

"We secured the services of a former city engineer, Frank A. Olmstead," Parsons later recalled, "who immediately and secretly made a thorough test of the land by boring and soundings."

THE REPORT was favorable and Parsons, with his backers obtained the property from its owners, the pioneer Bixby family.

Expanding his envelope drawing, Parsons made a water color sketch of his proposed Naples.

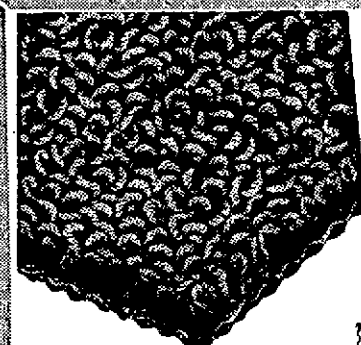

In August 1905, dredges went to work shaping canals and building up land; by April 1906 the project was completed.

Naples vacant lots originally sold for $500; a 30-foot canal front vacant lot today—if available—would sell for $15,000.

The ornate Naples Hotel was built in 1909 by Myra Hershey of the candy company family. Gondolas took visitors there from the peninsula, going through The Colonnade, then a canal instead of a street. The Pompeian Cafe, with grape vines entwined on lattice-work, became popular. There diners could enjoy wines and other liquors, since Naples was then outside of "dry" Long Beach.

THE DEVELOPMENT of Belmont Shore from marshlands from 1920 to 1923 bridged the gap between Naples and Long Beach proper with a new residential zone. Naples was annexed to the city in 1922.

Today Arthur M. Parsons' gondolas have been replaced by motorboats, but the flavor of old Naples which he created remains much as it did in 1906 to charm tourist and resident alike.

How Big Is a Tree?

The 364-foot tall "Founders' Tree," a Coast Redwood growing just off the Redwood Highway near Dyerville, is known as the world's tallest known standing tree. Yet this tree is not recognized by the American Forestry Association as being the champion of its species because its girth and wood content are less than other known trees of the same species.

In determining bigness, height is of less importance than girth because trees with large girth usually have sufficient height to make their wood content greater than taller trees of less girth.

In our future ads we will list the tree champions of each species, as selected by the A. F. A., in order of greatest circumference, rather than height.

More formal in styling than the rest of the house, the Brooks living room is attractive, comfortable; offers traditional furniture, white paneling.

House

stained soft cocoa, shake roofing, an abundance of used brick and informal planting present a friendly exterior. A coach lamp lights the brick walkway to the front door in a small sheltered porch completely wainscoted in reclaimed brick.

THE ENTRY HALL is papered in a demure cocoa-pink and turquoise that sets the color scheme prevailing through most of the house. A traditional console table stands just inside the door and invariably displays a colorful seasonal flower arrangement that is significant of the graciousness of the home.

The living room, to the left, is a large and rather formal room. Despite its period furniture and its near-pastel color scheme, this is a comfortable room that has none of the formidable characteristics of so many parlor-style living rooms. A fireplace is set in a wall of white wood paneling.

WHITE LOUVERED doors open from the entry to the living room; a second set open off the living room to the dining room.

The dining set is mahogany in the style of Chippendale. A lovely crystal chandelier illuminates this exquisite room with its cocoa-rose wainscot and its New Orleans mural wallpaper that embellished the wall opposite the louvered doors.

Next to the dining room is the kitchen with the warmth of color and spaciousness of a homey farm kitchen.

Natural wood shutters top the pass-through to the family room, making easy the opening or closing of the snack bar.

The family room is completely paneled in natural oak with heavy beams defining the ceiling. An open fireplace of used brick has a raised hearth and is flanked on either side by open bookshelves and closed storage areas.

The 18x28-foot room has its furniture arranged in a manner that it is visually divided into two areas. The first is defined by the placement of sofas that face the fireplace and the television over a large round maple coffee table.

THE CORK FLOOR is excellent for dancing, and the simple rearrangement of furniture opens the room to form one big party area. The opening of sliding doors of glass further increases the usable space of this entertainment center.

"Are the foreign air lines cheaper to fly than the American air lines if we want to save money to Europe?"

NO, THE AIRLINES seem to have an agreement on these things. All the same price. They compete in-service. Some of the foreign lines, like SAS, Sabena and Air France, make a big thing out of their champagne dinners.

The planes are the same, practically all American built.

The time to save money is during the fall to spring months when the prices drop and there are half-fares for families on certain days.

One advantage on foreign airlines is you can often get space when the American airlines are filled up. You can fly the European lines with confidence. They have good safety records and operate just like we do.

"Would you recommend Mexico in the summer or would we do better to go to some place in the United States? We wonder if the language is a problem . . ."

THE LANGUAGE is no problem. Everybody along the highway has the key words in English for food, gasoline and such.

Mexico is cooler than a good deal of the U. S. in summer, so long as you stay above the 5000-foot level. And most of the Mexico you want to see is that high or higher.

"We are being transferred to Tokyo. Do we have to take any special health precautions there?"

I don't think so. I've caught the standard tourist problems in Mexico, Spain, Hong Kong and Manila, but never in Japan. And the local correspondents never speak of it, so I have the idea it's no problem.

A smallpox vaccination within the last three years is always good. And a fresh one, no matter how recently you've had it, if there is any outbreak in nearby areas. As there was, for instance, in Brittany a couple of years ago. If you are being transferred, that means you have access to Army doctors, doesn't it? That's good enough.

way. Not every actor, I suppose, could work happily in a Hitchcock picture, but for my part, I find it vastly satisfactory."

In its simplest terms "the Hitchcock touch" consists of a vast imagination, a capacity for the impromptu, and a marked talent for knowing what a picture will look like. Yet one can count on two hands the number of times in the course of a production that he steps up and looks into the camera, much less peers through the viewer.

Hitchcock's imagination is not to be confused with his singular talent for the impromptu. It consists of a catalogue of ideas, many of which have been stored away for as long as 20 years.

Spearfishing at Waikiki

Rainbow-hued fish from Waikiki's offshore coral reefs are fair game for visitors this spring as Halekulani Hotel beach-boys teach guests the underwater sports of skindiving and spearfishing. First time in Hawaii as a hotel recreation program, the lessons are given from outrigger canoes anchored above the brilliant coral beds. Sparkling clear, warm water and undersea beauty are strong attractions in the islands for devotees of skindiving.

Color Has Such Winning Ways

taking color snapshots, and the other created especially for making color slides. But the really big news today is for all you color-snapshot enthusiasts—and we think you'll be mighty pleased to hear it, too!

Now you can buy color film that may be used in daylight or with flash without the addition of filters or blue flash bulbs to compensate for the different light. This is the very first color film ever produced that you can load into your camera with nary a thought for whether you're going to snap pictures indoors or out, with flash or without.

Now — as never before — even the most casual snapshot-shooter with the simplest of cameras can have this colorful world completely at his command.

OFFICERS OF THE Long Beach Camera Guild installed at the annual dinner were Estill M. Bartlett, president; Gerald M. Church, vice president; Clara E. SOMETIMES we think the English language is most revealing. For example, take a phrase like "uncolored by emotion," or "the facts in black and white." The inference in both expressions is that color has such winning ways it can easily sway judgment in its favor.

Well, that's doubtless true—certainly when it comes to picture-taking, anyway! Haven't you noticed how color pictures bring back colorful moments and scenes with almost unbelievable realism? Color serves as a flag to memory... helps you remember every vital detail of a time and place.

THAT'S WHY we feel color film can be such a sound investment for picture-takers — something not to be relegated only to special occasions, but to be used regularly and often for the extra dividend of pleasure it can bring you in all your picture-taking. No longer a luxury item limited to elaborate cameras, color film now comes in all standard roll film sizes to fit every type of camera that's currently on the market.

Basically, there are two kinds of color film — one designed for

Snakes and Turtles Are His Pals

By Eleanor Avery Price

Turtles and a snake are part of a collection of reptiles which occupy much of Dick Chase's leisure time.

MANY YOUNGSTERS find time hangs heavy on their hands during the summer vacation months, but such is not the case with Dick Chase, 12, of 5202 Brockwood St.

Dick has so many hobbies he is constantly busy. He collects coins, stamps, and rocks, and he enjoys putting together miniature cars and airplanes. He is active in the Lakewood Cotillions and Little League baseball. He also has an intense interest in pets in general and reptiles in particular.

If some mothers feel squeamish because their sons want their dogs to sleep in bed with them, they should picture Dick's mother when she tiptoes in to see if all is well with her son before she retires and finds him with a turtle under his chin or a snake snoozing happily against his cheek. Chances are, there would be no more arguing against Fido occupying the same bed!

DICK BECAME interested in scaly vertebrates when he was scarcely more than a toddler. Fortunately he has an understanding father who, learning how much Dick enjoyed this hobby, took him for jaunts along river beds and helped him search for creatures that live in such areas. His father is still his son's best pal and has built Dick a fine glass-sided pen for the snake collection.

Oddly enough, Dick's first turtle just suddenly appeared one day in his yard. The neighborhood was canvassed for a possible owner, but no one claimed the creature. Since then, Dick has acquired other turtles, the most unusual probably being an Eastern box turtle, a little fellow who pulls in his head and closes his home like a clam. The turtles have the run of the Chases' enclosed service yard, and Mrs. Chase undauntedly picks her way around them when hanging up the family wash.

SOME TIME BACK, Dick and two of his friends, Mike Rochford and David Clare, started what they call The Reptile Club. The club stages side shows in the Chase yard for the neighborhood kids, the admission charge being 2 or 3 pennies.

Dick has no fear of reptiles. He knows that most snakes are harmless to humans, and he finds the study of the characteristics of snakes and lizards and the adaptation of turtles most interesting.

HOW TO

Make Minor Plumbing Repairs, Free Stopped Up Drains or Obstructions

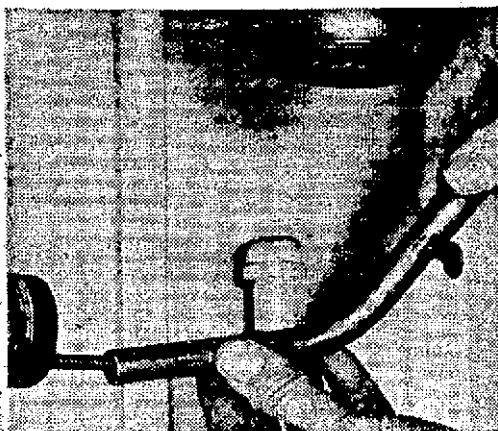

1. NEW WASHER usually stops a faucet from dripping. To replace it, loosen hexagon cap nut with a wrench after you turn off the water supply. Then lift out the spindle assembly. Washer is seated in shallow cup at end of valve stem and it's removed with a regular screwdriver. On older-type compression faucets, the spindle must be turned. Spindle on this one is screwed into sleeve.

2. CHEMICAL DRAINPIPE cleaner should be used when the drainage flow becomes sluggish. Remove the trap and put the chemical in the pipe with a spoon. Then wash it down with a small amount of water. Repeat, reconnect trap, and flush.

3. DRAINPIPE AUGER may be needed if a suction cup worked at the sink drain doesn't open pipe. Loosen trap and insert auger directly into the pipe, pushing it to the obstruction and turning it. Auger of 3/8-inch diameter is most useful to the average homeowner, although other sizes are available. Use chemical cleaner after drainage flow has been partly restored. Clean auger.

4. CLEANOUT PLUGS are the next step to take if the obstruction is located beyond the reach of the auger at the trap opening. Push auger "upstream" from the plug after you unscrew the cap with a wrench. If pipe is "clear," run auger through it below the opening. A springlike "snake" can be bought for housedrain or sewer stoppage.

It's Time to Feed Plants

By Bob Gilmore

GARDEN ornamentals will grow vigorously only if there is sufficient food in the soil to satisfy their demands. Of all the nutrients used for increasing plant growth, the most important are nitrogen, phosphorous and potash. The manner in which these various agents act is one of the most interesting stories in the plant world.

Nitrogen is one of the most important food factors and certainly the most dangerous. It increases susceptibility to disease, largely because it produces lush green growth that is extremely sensitive. It brings out the green coloring in foliage and that explains why fertilizers with a high nitrogen content are often used on lawns. Sulphate of ammonia is one example of this. However, lawns require more than just nitrogen and a well balanced food will prove far better than one containing only nitrogen.

NITROGEN should be used very sparingly if at all during cold weather. It encourages succulent young growth, which is highly sensitive to frost and cold weather.

An excess of nitrogen delays maturity, leads to a certain weakness of stem growth and may lower the quality of a vegetable crop. On the other hand, leaf crops such as lettuce, spinach and endive become more palatable and tender when the right percentage of nitrogen is applied.

The value of phosphorous is due to the fact that it encourages faster maturity, aids in root development and strengthens stem growth. Phosphorous is also believed to aid cell division. Commercial seed growers find it valuable for it helps to ripen the seed and tends to produce a higher yield and a more uniform seed crop.

WHILE NITROGEN may be dangerous to work with, especially during cold weather, phosphorous is relatively safe, even an excess of it causing practically no harm.

Potash is a sort of balancing agent between nitrogen and phosphorous. It aids in the development of roots and is therefore essential for root crops; yet it tends to delay maturity. Potash should be used liberally in sandy soils, which are usually deficient in this food factor.

A lack of potash causes an abnormal leaf color and in certain cases may lead to weak stems. Potash adds tone and vigor to most plants and the coloring of flowers is often improved by its use. It is linked up with the process of photo-able, such as dry or liquid, simple or mixed and root feeding or leaf feeding, the latter being comparatively new. Sulphate of ammonia is a simple food in contrast with a rose food containing nitrogen, phosphorus, potash and probably several trace elements. It is also inorganic as contrasted with bone meal or blood meal, which are organic, meaning they have been derived from living organisms.

Do not confuse soil conditioners with plant foods. Hydrated lime, for example, is not a food but simply a soil conditioner. It is used for purposes of neutralizing extreme acidity. It also aids in promoting air and moisture penetration. Gypsum corrects alkalinity but is not a food. Lime is another soil conditioner, not a plant food. It sweetens the soil by neutralizing acidity.

Garden Tips

GARDENING TIPS for the week... Pink callas make a delightful pot plant and the flowers may be used for corsages. The plants are low growing and are much more graceful than the white, yellow or black callas.

For a lovely fragrance, try gardenia veitchii. This plant has a delicious scent and the pure, waxy-white, all double flowers are produced in great abundance. The leaves are deep green and quite glossy.

MID-SUMMER doesn't mean vacation for your plants. It means that after working hard since spring they are generally expected to go on working until fall.

If you see some leaves yellowing between the green veins, you'll know they are in need of pepping up. Give them a little iron. I personally favor the simple old-fashioned method of using iron in the form of ferrous sulphate and scattering it very lightly over the soil in the root-growing area so that your irrigation water carries it down and the fiber roots of your plants can take it as they desire it. Thus they receive it gradually and the iron is not forced to them by high-pressure methods. This is the quick but entirely natural way to bring the green back into those yellow leaves.

An additional "tone up" for the foliage is to sprinkle or spray it with 4 ounces of epsom salts to 3 gallons of water.

BOOK REVIEWS

Circle of the Charmed

THE AGE-OLD STORY of a too-possessive, ciannish family love is told suavely and with what seems to be a new twist by Susan Ertz in "Charmed Circle" (Harper, $3.95) the July selection of the Literary Guild.

There are the Prentisses—Myron, Ruth and their children Halley (born in 1910, the year of Halley's comet), Clarisse and Julian. They are gracious, charming, good-tempered. They divide their time among New York, London and the Continent. They have a great love for art, a great love for travel, a consuming love for each other.

Myron, a rich man's son who had hoped to be an artist but did not quite make it, collects art masterpieces—Van Gogh, Cezanne, Signac, Seurat. Ruth is painted by Renoir. The children are taught by tutors. Investments are handled by an old family friend, Sylvanus Dumont. So secure, so tranquil is their life that they are almost untouched by the flaming 1920s, almost unbruised by the Great Depression.

One enjoys them so much—it is something to meet thoroughly pleasant people within the pages of a book—that it is quite a while before one gets a nagging suspicion that after all their life is pretty pointless and it is about time the charmed circle expanded a bit.

The first break is threatened when Clarisse falls in love with Fred, the favorite nephew of Sylvanus. Clarisse is well-loved by Syl as the daughter he never had. On her wedding night she flees home where she is welcomed with clinging arms.

The Prentisses are oblivious to the tragedy of Fred's broken life, but because of the scandal and publicity they leave New York for a permanent home in Europe. Halley's education at Harvard is broken by the family's flight. At a concert in London Halley meets Selma Jackson, considerably below him in the social scale; and he does not mean to, but he falls in love with her.

Had Syl's wise handling of their affairs continued, the charmed circle might have continued, at that. But it does not, and a hasty trip to New York to salvage what may be left of their fortune brings the affairs of the family to a climax.

It is a well-written, thoughtful book and it flows something like the Thames on which the family punts.—V. W.

DAVY CROCKETT, often depicted as a folklore hero to the exclusion of the real man, at last comes to his own in "David Crockett: The Man and the Myth" (University of North Carolina Press, $6). Here is a definitive biography, written by James Atkins Shackford and edited by John B. Shackford, which corrects fictional versions of this man of history and brings him into proper focus not only as a fine frontiersman, backwoods politician and Congressman who fought honestly and with zeal for the rights of his constituents and to uphold his own conscience. Here, too, is painted a fine picture of the times in which Crockett lived—the passing of the great American frontier.

"THE GODS DEPART," third volume in a series on the history of the Hawaiian kingdom, has been published by Kathleen Dickson Mellen (Hastings House, $5) and has been met enthusiastically in the mid-Pacific isles, where Mrs. Mellen is regarded as the leading author-exponent of the Hawaiian point of view. Her newest volume is subtitled, "A Saga of the Hawaiian Kingdom, 1832-1873," and tells of the last stand and hopes of the Hawaiian people to preserve their lands and their own ways of life. Foreign elements won out, imposing their system of life, morals and government and relieving the Hawaiians of much of their birthright in lands and liberties. Previous books by Mrs. Mellen are "The Lonely Warrior" (Kamehameha the Great) and "The Magnificent Matriarch" (the Dowager Queen), both historical, and "In a Hawaiian Valley," fictional essays on the Hawaii the tourist never sees.

IF YOU'RE collecting long-playing records, you'll be interested to know that the Music Library Association at last has compiled a rating of all serious music ever recorded in this country, along with a summary of the opinions of top-flight reviewing media of each recording. "Record Ratings" (Crown, $5.95), a large volume, probably lists every recording of classical and folk music, operas, theater, poetry and speech, with critical appraisal of each. The material was compiled by Kurtz Myers, chief of the music and drama department of Detroit Public Library, and was edited by Richard S. Hill, head of the reference section of the music division, Library of Congress.

HAROLD A. JONES

Ummm, Dessert!

NO ONE—Absolutely no one—can keep from drooling when he sees the magnificent variety of desserts offered at Jones Dining Room, 120 E. 5th St.

This display can be a child's dream or a dieting adult's nightmare—and it all depends on who you are and how big your appetite is. For example, these are some of the splendid pies baked in the Jones ovens: pineapple chiffon, lemon meringue, eastern cherry, rhubarb, custard, chocolate chip, fresh boysenberry, fresh apple and hot apple with cinnamon sauce.

Two kinds of spectacular scrumptious parfaits are offered: strawberry or chocolate. Fresh layer cakes—chocolate or white—are available, and all kinds of ice creams, including black walnut, strawberry, fresh peach and chocolate bits. Naturally, there are sherbets, pineapple and tangerine, and a host of puddings.

These desserts are the brain children of Harold A. and Iva-lou Jones, owners of the Dining Room and the adjacent Cafeteria which have been downtown landmarks for 27 years. Naturally, there's no extra charge for dessert—it's included with the price of the dinner.

The Dining Room is a model of efficiency, excellent service and gracious surroundings. All kinds of dinner entrees are on the menu. The following are just a few: veal outlet with country gravy, $1.95; two pretty pan-fried trout, $2.10; prime rib au jus (thick and juicy), $2.35; Swiss steak with fresh mushroom sauce, $2.10, and Morrell's eastern baked ham, $2.10. Steaks, chicken and chops are also available.

Included with each entree are a variety of appetizers, soup, choice of any one of 14 fresh salads; choice of potato, a second vegetable, hot fresh baked blueberry muffins and assorted rolls, choice of beverages, and of course, dessert.

The Dining Room and Cafeteria are open daily from 11 a.m. on. They are closed Friday evening and all day Saturday.

What's the "Princess" doing Saturday?

Starry-eyed, she's just slipped into her most divine dance dress. In the morning, she was swimming; in the afternoon, there was a picnic.

All of these activities were part of a wonderful week-end that could have so easily been trying and embarrassing. For every smart girl knows that you can't be at your best—you can't even do all the things you want to do—if your sanitary protection is a constant, bulky, cumbersome, frustrating reminder!

Internally-worn Tampax is both invisible and unfelt when in place. Prevents odor from forming. Is easy to carry, easy to insert and change, easy to dispose of. In fact, many girls insist cool, comfortable Tampax almost makes them forget when it's a "problem day" for them. Ask for your choice of 3 absorbencies (Regular, Super, Junior) at any drug or notion counter. Be at your best no matter what time of the month it is. Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Mass.

I'll always remember...

JULY 4, 1919

by JACK DEMPSEY

Thirty-seven years ago this Wednesday, I fought Jess Willard for the World's Heavyweight Championship at Toledo, Ohio. It was a stiflingly hot day. It also was a day on which I saw a lifelong dream come true—and was left with a curious feeling of emptiness and disillusionment.

In the huge wooden amphitheater on the city's outskirts, the temperature hovered around 110 degrees. I was an almost unknown Salt Lake City fighter of 24, a 4-5 underdog who'd been laughed at all his youth for his stubborn ambition to become heavyweight champion. Outweighed by 65 pounds and topped by six inches, I surprised a lot of fight fans and writers by toppling the 245-pound, 6' 6" defender from a title he'd held for four years.

I can still see the look of bewildered disbelief spreading across Jess' broad face, as he went down seven successive times in the first round; his glazed eyes staring dazedly across the ring when his handlers threw in a towel to signify he couldn't start the fourth.

That night there was a big banquet in the Secor Hotel, with lots of toasts and speech-making. I finally got to bed around 2 a.m., dropped off to sleep almost at once, then awoke with a start. I'd had a strange, disturbing nightmare. I dreamed I'd been fighting and had just been knocked out.

I couldn't get back to sleep, so I dressed and went down to the street, where newsboys were still shouting their extras. I bought the papers and returned to my room.

Reading through accounts of the fight, I began to realize that success didn't taste the way I'd thought it would. I'd won a world's championship; so what? I'd spent so much of my life learning to fight that I'd barely absorbed enough schooling to spell my own name. At the banquet, I'd had to watch others to know which fork to use. At a time when everyone wanted to meet and talk to me, I was painfully aware that I'd never even heard of books they referred to, or developed any appreciation of art or music. All I could discuss intelligently was fighting!

My thoughts turned to Willard, and I found myself feeling genuinely sorry for big Cowboy Jess—sorry that success so often has to be achieved at the expense of someone else. And suddenly I began to wonder if any victory could be really complete—so complete that it wouldn't leave one with a vague sense of defeat.

Life has been good to me since then. But I still wonder. ■

180 BIRTHDAYS AGO... on July 4, 1776... something new was born in the world. Its name: the United States of America. Today, every schoolboy knows that date—but not every American knows the true meaning of our country and what it stands for. To the confused, the doubting, the ignorant, a modest group called the American Heritage Council offers a fresh way to explore the Spirit of '76. The secret is almost laughably simple—people just sit down together and talk—but the results are astonishing. To see what this can mean to you and your community, turn to p. 6.

Good news for barbecues:

Delicate Wesson Oil is the only one you need for sauce and for salad and dessert

What better helper for barbecues—indoors or out. You just pour Wesson Oil for Jiffy Sauce. Wesson's matchless delicacy brings out all the lively barbecue flavors. Homemade Wesson sauce saves money, and naturally no bought sauce could match its fresh-made goodness.

In just 1 minute you make fresh Wesson dressing—a light, bright dressing especially tempting over salads served with spicy barbecue. Combine 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon paprika, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup vinegar, $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups Wesson Oil, and shake well.

For flaky, tender Stir-N-Roll tarts, Wesson Oil is your instant shortening. It pours to measure and stirs in. No messy shortening to measure or cut in. Wesson baking is the easy, modern way to old-fashioned flavor. None lighter, finer and fresher than Wesson in all the world.

WESSON JIFFY BARBECUE SAUCE

- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Wesson Oil
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup chopped onion
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup tomato ketchup
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 2 teaspoons salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon pepper

Cook onion till soft in hot Wesson Oil. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 15 minutes. Sear steak on both sides, then brush with sauce each time steak is turned. Serve with remaining sauce.

This fresh, flavorful sauce is excellent, too, with chicken, hamburgers, hot dogs and other barbecue favorites.

STIR-N-ROLL FRUIT TARTS

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, such as Gold Medal
- $1\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Wesson Oil
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup cold milk
- Sweetened fresh or frozen fruit for filling
- Whipped cream for topping

Mix flour, salt. Pour Wesson Oil and milk into measuring cup (don't stir); mix with flour. Press into ball, flatten slightly. Roll pastry $\frac{1}{8}$ -inch thick between waxed paper. (Lightly dampen table top to prevent slipping.) Cut into $3\frac{1}{4}$ -inch rounds. Line 12 tart pans with pastry. Trim and flute edges, prick entire surface with fork. Bake at 425° (hot oven) about 10 minutes, until a delicate brown. Fill with sweetened fruit and top with whipped cream.

Wesson Oil

The only one you need for frying, baking, and for salads too

ECONOMY NEWS: When you buy Wesson Oil in the thrifty gallon size, it's almost like getting a quart free.

TRIUMPH OVER TOOTH DECAY

Crest Toothpaste with Fluoristan strengthens teeth themselves.
You brush Crest on... it actually goes in... and locks decay out

Fluoristan® is Procter & Gamble's exclusive stannous fluoride formula —proven the greatest decay-preventive in any toothpaste.

Miracle of the Towns Without Tooth-aches. For years, children growing up in certain Western towns were virtually without cavities. Then science learned why: nature's decay-preventive, fluoride, was present in their drinking water!

Science Long Tried to Capture Fluoride—only medically approved preventive of decay—in a toothpaste. At last, after years of research, university scientists discovered Fluoristan—the greatest decay-preventive in any toothpaste.

Fluoristan Makes Possible Crest. Without Fluoristan, you cannot get maximum protection against tooth decay with a toothpaste. You brush Crest on . . . it actually goes in . . . and locks decay out, for adults and for children, 6 and over.

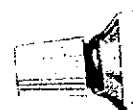

Dentists Tested Crest for three years with 5,678 people. No toothpaste stops all decay—but Crest set decay-prevention records never approached by any other toothpaste. Thus Crest marks a new era . . . triumph over tooth decay everywhere.

IMPORTANT

Crest with Fluoristan is the only toothpaste ever developed that makes possible a major reduction in tooth decay for everyone, everywhere, by strengthening tooth enamel. Thereby, Crest marks a turning point in man's age-old struggle against this almost universal disease.

You brush Crest . . . it actually goes in . . . and locks decay out. Each time you brush Crest on your teeth, Fluoristan builds new resistance to decay into tooth enamel. In this way, Crest actually fortifies and strengthens teeth to lock out cavities—the only toothpaste proved to do so. With Crest, your family approaches the long dreamed-of day of healthy, decay-free teeth.

As carpenter Daniel Rucinski (r.) studies the Declaration of Independence, others wait their turn to talk in free-for-all discussion of

20th CENTURY 'TOWN MEETINGS':

A new way to learn about liberty

On our 180th birthday, Americans relive the spirit of '76 by ED KIESTER

CHICAGO. THIS WEDNESDAY the U.S. celebrates its 180th birthday. And around hundreds of tables here and thousands more through the Midwest, Americans like those on these pages — people named Rucinski and Cohen and Bottomley — are living again the stormy days that followed July 4, 1776.

Brandishing copies of the Declaration of Independence, they argue vigorously about whether the 13 colonies should sever ties with the British Crown. In a few weeks they will be just as vehement about the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and other great documents. The names of Hamilton and Jefferson and Washington will be lauded on the one hand, denounced on the other.

In these give-and-take discussions, participants are gaining new insight into America — from other Americans like themselves. There are no teachers or instructors or paid speakers. Opinions are aired freely by everyone. The result is a kind of 20th-century town meeting or cracker-barrel discussion devoted to the living America.

And this was just what a handful of men had in mind when, in 1950, they decided that the way to combat Communism was to talk about America. History, they felt, was on the side of democracy. Any American familiar with the historical facts — anyone who had experienced them — could not be tempted by any other ideology. To spread this gospel, they set up a tiny organization, the American Heritage Council, with a two-man staff and a $30,000 budget.

How well the Council has succeeded can be measured statistically: in the past year, more than 3,000 such discussions have been held in Illinois alone, with 145,000 persons participating. The groups have included labor unions, veterans' organizations, public-school students, fraternal and social clubs, professional associations, even one at the Stateville Penitentiary (where observers praised the high level of the inmates' discussions).

And this fall, AMVETS will launch a nation-wide program of discussions called "Your Legacy — USA." The pilot project already is functioning in Cook County here. Eight Midwestern states have started similar operations. Beyond the borders of Illinois the state departments of the American Legion, one of the first groups to adopt the Americanism program, have launched discussions in Florida and Washington. Inquiries have come in from New Jersey, New Mexico, South Dakota, Montana.

In all these places, "education for freedom" works much the same way. A favorite technique is for the moderator to hand out copies of the Declaration, tell the members to imagine the date is July 5, 1776, and that he is the "town clerk" reporting on yesterday's doings in Philadelphia. He asks them to vote whether to accept the Declaration, reminding them that such a vote is treason to the British crown, and that they are voting for such radical principles, for 1776, as "all men are created equal."

"But I don't believe that all men are created equal," someone is apt to remark, as one woman did at a recent meeting, and the group is off and running. The theme may veer from equality to secession to voting rights to the personalities of the Founding Fathers. Sometimes it can get quite heated. Recently, in a group of union representatives and teachers, a young teacher protested against the Revolution on conscientious grounds. "Killing is always wrong," she said. "There's always the power of moral example and prayer." A young carpenter shot back, "Couldn't you at least pray that King George would drop dead?"

With large groups, the session may break up into a number of tables of 10 persons each, with a spokesman to represent each table's viewpoint in the final meeting-wide discussion. The meeting has a moderator, but his function is not to force-feed material. Instead, he tries to keep the discussion on an even keel,

to draw out the shy participants and to needle the speech-makers. Moderators, all volunteers who have been given preparation by the Council, are repeatedly amazed by the fresh thinking and shrewd grasp of ideas shown by the groups. They find, for instance, that Alexander Hamilton comes off considerably better in discussion than in textbooks, despite his alleged mistrust of the people. Even laborers defend many of his policies.

One reason, the Council's directors believe, is that the fathers of the country become flesh-and-blood persons during the discussions. College students are fascinated to discover that, except for Franklin and Washington, the Revolutionary leaders were mostly young men. The heroes of folklore generally emerge with more stature than before. "Say, those guys that made America really knew what they were doing," one meat-cutter summed up this admiration recently.

Some groups limit themselves to dissecting the Declaration and the Constitution — the most basic documents. But others become fired with zeal and dip into the Monroe Doctrine, the Emancipation Proclamation, Woodrow Wilson's 14 Points. Others have carried their studies right up to the present day, attempting to measure present policies by their lessons in fundamental Americanism.

Originally, the program was not aimed at schools. But then Mrs. Dorothy Weber, who had participated in one of the early discussion groups, tried it in a history class at Lane Technical High School here. She reported back to the Council: "More genuine knowledge of history was absorbed through such discussions than by traditional methods." Her students, she said, called it "learning history the painless way."

The program spread rapidly. In one high school, students turned out at 7:30 a.m. three days a week to meet for discussions. Today, Dr. Thaddeus J. Lubera, associate superintendent of schools, is a member of the Council board, and has determined that "the American Heritage program will go into every high school in Chicago." To prepare for this across-the-board program, the Council has outlined a graduate credit program to be taught at the University of Chicago.

Had such a program been operated nation-wide in the past, the Council believes, American POWs might never have succumbed to Chinese Communist brainwashing techniques. They could have overwhelmed their questioners with knowledge and belief in America. It was for this very reason that AMVETS recently announced their country-wide program.

How far will the hot-stove approach to history spread? Barnet Hodes, the politician-lawyer who dreamed up the program and is now chairman of the board, envisions it nation-wide, with the support of PTA groups, churches, schools, unions, veterans and patriotic organizations. What's more, he believes that such a goal might be achieved within five years. Wilbur C. Munnecke, chairman of the Council executive committee and vice president of the Chicago Sun-Times, is a little more cautious. But he, too, thinks saturation is more than an idle dream.

If you'd like to participate in this movement to teach America to Americans, the box on this page can tell you how. There are no prerequisites, no requirements of education — only the requirement of an inquiring mind. The payoff, both for you and for the nation, is renewed faith in America's heritage and a surer grasp of its guiding principles.

And there's a third reward, suggested by a steelworker during a recent red-hot discussion. "Man," he said when everyone paused for breath, "history can be a lot of fun, can't it?" ■

If you want to launch an "Education for Freedom" program in your community or club, the American Heritage Council (mailing address: 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago 1, Ill.) can tell you how to begin. The Council can furnish a limited number of copies of historic documents. Booklets on the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution also may be obtained from the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., Boston, Mass. A 50c paper-bound book, A Documentary History of the United States, including important documents from the Revolution to the present day, is recommended for groups wishing to go more deeply into the subject.

Five Chicagoans look at the Declaration of Independence

CHARLES SCHMITZ, PRINTER

"After all, governments aren't changed for small reasons. I don't think any free-thinking person would have hesitated to sign the Declaration—then or now."

HENRY A. COHEN, ELEVATOR OPERATOR

"I'm the world's most outstanding coward; I'd have been awfully hesitant about signing the Declaration. I'd be worried: what will happen to me and my family?"

MRS. ROSALIE HIGH, SCHOOL TEACHER

"We have to salute the men who signed the Declaration. It took terrific courage to do something like that."

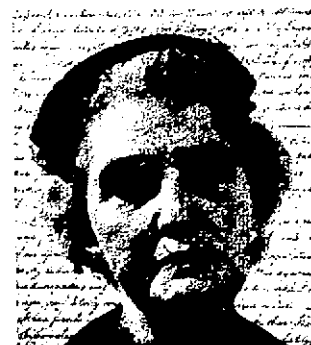

JOHN MULARSKI, LABOR LEADER

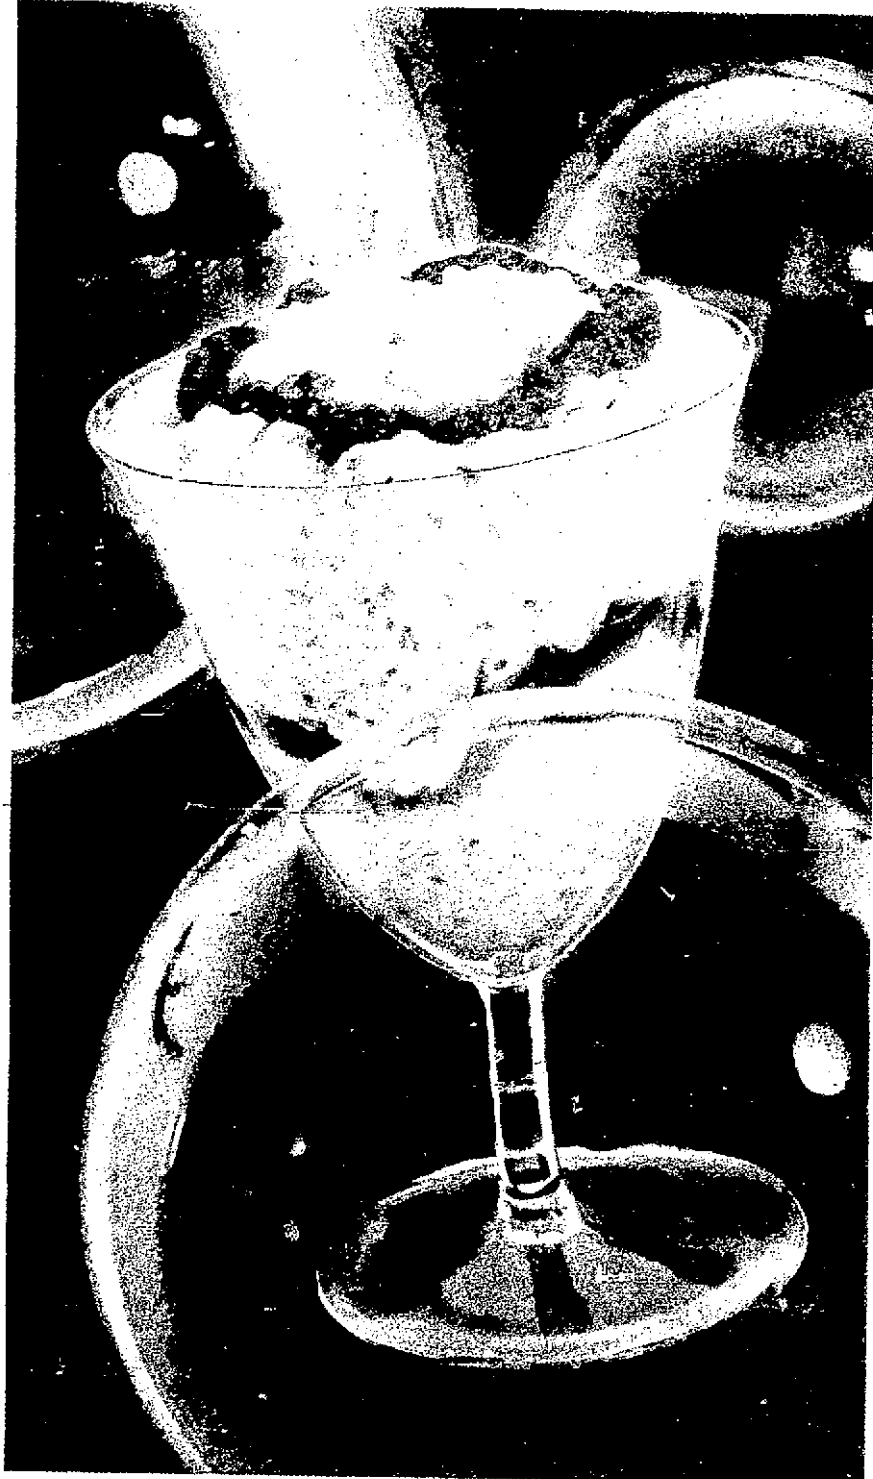

"The Declaration was a dream, a question mark at the time. But there was a spirit of revolution in the world, and it gave the movement a goal, a direction."

MRS. MARJORIE BOTTOMLEY, HOUSEWIFE

"My husband's ancestor, Thomas Stone, signed the Declaration. I don't think either of us realized the chances he took in doing so."

If your child must travel alone . . .

FAR FROM HOME, this forlorn boy is one of annual thousands "lost" traveling alone.

. . . Here's how to be sure he gets there

The 8-year-old's face was tear-stained when she was found in the station waiting room. She had a too-heavy suitcase, a comic book and 38 cents. Her name was Linda.

It took officials two hours of questioning and phone calls to find out why she was there and to rescue her from being "lost." She had been put aboard a train early that morning, in a city hundreds of miles away, to come visit Aunt Marion — who would meet the train. But Aunt Marion, in a hospital, had never received the letter. When discovered, Linda had been waiting six hours.

This summer, Linda's story — with variations — will be repeated some 4,000 times, according to the National Travelers Aid Association, whose blue-and-white globe is a beacon of help in big-city stations, bus terminals and airports. Last year, its 105 local societies and 1,000 representatives in smaller towns rescued a total of 18,000 children who had been sent on trips alone.

With 50 years of experience behind it, the Travelers Aid advises against sending children under 10 on trips by themselves: If you have to send them, this non-profit organization offers six free services, charging only for needed phone calls and telegrams. 1) It advises you if, in its judgment, a child is mature enough to travel by himself. 2) It makes sure he is expected and will be met. 3) It helps in working out travel schedules and routes. 4) It places a child aboard his bus, train or plane with a letter to the driver, conductor or hostess telling where he is to get off. 5) It arranges for his care during stopovers and en route connections. 6) It holds him for pick-up at destination.

Travelers Aid also offers these tips:

Identification: Write out in duplicate the child's name, address and phone number, and those of the person he is going to see. Place one copy in the child's pocket; pin the other to his clothing where it can be seen.

Transportation: Using up-to-date timetables, work out in detail every step of the trip, avoiding connections or arrivals early in the morning or after dark; too close connections; long stopovers; travel over holidays and week ends. Remember, that it's easier to keep an eye on a child in a Pullman car or plane than in a train coach. If the child is traveling by bus whose drivers change en route, provide in writing information to be passed along.

Double-check: Be sure the person the child is going to visit has full information regarding travel schedules, particularly the exact time and place of arrival. Double-check by phone to make sure.

Clothing: Keep the child's travel wardrobe as simple as possible. A description of what the child is wearing will be helpful to the person meeting him, or will help police find him if he is lost. Be sure he doesn't change clothes during the trip.

Children Get Upset Easily

Pre-trip Briefing: Children may be upset by events — like a train stopping or backing unexpectedly — that don't bother adults. If possible, familiarize the child with the vehicle he will ride in, either through travel pictures or the vehicle itself. Teach him: a) to ask the conductor or other official — not another passenger — any questions he has; b) to remain in one seat.

Luggage: Ship or check through anything, not needed on the trip. The lighter the child travels, the better.

How Much Money?: Give him enough to cover any possible contingencies. Buy all tickets in advance and give him enough cash for meals and spending money.

If you have no Travelers Aid listed in your phone book, call your Community Chest or similar organization to help you locate the nearest representative. Last year, it supervised the travels of 9,000 children in comfort and without anxiety. It would rather operate that way with your child than rescue him after he becomes stranded.

REPORT ON Youth

DATE NIGHT: Off to a party, Bob Loy proudly escorts his girl friend, pretty Marye Gott, to his car, all shined up for the event. Says Marye: “Bob’s one of the best drivers I know.”

A CAR TO CALL HIS OWN

For this Tennessee boy, it is a symbol of growing up

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Today's cover, with its appealing theme of youth, is more than just a picture of a youngster with a jalopy and a group of admiring friends. It shows a typical teenager in one of the most important and exciting phases of growing up — when for the first time he comes into possession of something of value he can really call his own.

The boy in the 1940 convertible is Bob Loy, a student at Knoxville East High School here. It's the first car he ever owned, and PARADE's photos show how he makes it part of his life.

Bob recently reached his 16th birthday, but because he is big for his age (6' 2", 200 lbs.), he looks and acts somewhat more mature than most of his age group. Yet whether he realizes it or not, the status of ownership has given him a boost along the road from adolescence to manhood. It has given him a new feeling of responsibility, independence and prestige.

In getting the car, to begin with, he ran smack up against an adult responsibility — paying for it. His father, A. B. Loy, a local restaurant manager, wisely decided against giving Bob the car as a gift. Thus, shortly before Bob's 16th birthday, father and son walked up to the loan window of a Knoxville bank. The man behind the grill handed Mr. Loy $85 in cash. The latter, in turn, handed the money to Bob and said: "There you are, son. Go buy your car."

The loan, of course, was a man-to-man business deal. Mr. Loy had taken it out with the understanding that Bob was to pay him back. That is why Bob shortly began a $45-a-week pick-and-shovel job on a city construction project. Paying back at the rate of $20 a week, he figured to be in the clear in just about a month.

OVERHAUL: Array of parts means Bob is enjoying his new possession. He "souped up" car with a racing-car carburetor that cost $4.

RECIPE 1) Carnation 3-minute Cheese Sauce in HAM AND CHEESE BISCUIT BAKE

The short-cut secret is a new, smoother Cheese Sauce that's ready in 3 minutes! Better-blending Carnation makes it possible; ordinary milk won't do. To make sauce, mix 1 1/2 cups (large can) undiluted Carnation with 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish and 1 teaspoon dry mustard in saucepan. Simmer to just below boiling (2 mins.). Add 2 cups grated process American cheese. Stir over low heat until cheese melts (1 min.). Alternately layer 3 cups diced cooked ham and 2 cups well-drained cooked green beans in 2-qt. casserole. Pour sauce over casserole. Top with biscuits. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 15-20 minutes. 4-6 servings.

RECIPE 3) Carnation 3-minute Cheese Sauce in TWO-WAY TUNA AND MACARONI CHEESE LOAF

Serve it hot one day—cold the next! Start with 3-Minute Cheese Sauce from recipe above. Mix 2 beaten eggs, 1/4 cup diced green pepper, 1/4 cup diced pimiento, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 2 cups well-drained flaked tuna, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 3 cups well-drained cooked macaroni, 1/2 teaspoon salt together in bowl. Blend Cheese Sauce with macaroni mixture. Place in paper-lined loaf pan (9 x 5 x 3). Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 25-30 minutes. Turn out on platter; remove paper. Slice loaf and serve at once, or chill and serve cold. Makes 8-10 servings.

RECIPE 2) Carnation lump-free Cream Sauce in ASPARAGUS, CHEESE AND EGG CASSEROLE

You get a headstart with an easy-to-make, always lump-free Cream Sauce, thanks to the special blending qualities found in Carnation but in no other form of milk. To make the sauce, blend 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper in saucepan over low heat. Add 1 1/2 cups (large can) undiluted Carnation. Stir until thickened and smooth. Alternately layer 2 cups cooked 1-inch asparagus cuts, 3 sliced hard-cooked eggs, 8 thin process American cheese slices, 1/4 cup chopped toasted almonds in buttered 1-qt. casserole. Pour sauce over casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 minutes. Serves 4-6.

RECIPE 4) Carnation lump-free Cream Sauce in CREAMED CHIPPED BEEF AND RICE INDIVIDUALS

It's the smooth, lump-free Cream Sauce resulting from Carnation's special blending qualities that makes this recipe easy, failure-proof, delicious. You begin with the Cream Sauce recipe above. Then mix together 1/4 cup diced celery, 2 tablespoons diced green pepper, 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup cooked rice and 1 1/2 cups chopped, dried beef. Rinse beef in hot water; drain before use. Place 1/4 cup beef mixture in each of 4 small casseroles; pour the cream sauce over each casserole. Mix. Bake casseroles in moderate oven (350°F.) 15 mins. Makes 4 servings.

FIRST CAR

DRIVE-IN snack tops off double-date evening. In back seat: Bob Smallman, Glenda Morrell.

Owning a car has given Bob a regard

In making Bob pay for the car, his father was furthering the boy's education as a man. For psychologists agree that parents who allow adolescents the maximum degree of responsibility as soon as they can handle it are doing the best thing possible to encourage maturity.

Scientific theories aside, there wasn't a prouder kid in all Knoxville the day Bob turned into the driveway of his home on East Magnolia Avenue at the wheel of his convertible. On hand as a welcoming committee were his Mother and Dad; brother George, 14; sister Jane, 11, and Bootsie, his cocker spaniel. Now the Loys were a two-car family — Bob's would be put to practical use while his father used the family car for business trips.

As it happens, a car and its mechanical problems mesh perfectly with Bob's plans for his career. He wants to be an electrical engineer, and so tearing down the convertible and putting it back together again simply amount to some advance classroom work. Bob is strictly a do-it-yourself driver. As he says: "I like to do my own work. Then, if anything goes wrong, I can't blame anybody but myself."

Bob keeps his overhaul operations within strict budget limits. He does this by the simple expedient of scrounging. To date, there is scarcely a junk yard or used-car lot in town that Bob hasn't visited to pick up parts.

He gets a lot of mechanical help at the gas station not far from his home — where, incidentally, he spends most of his spare time. The station manager lets Bob use special repair tools and gas up his own car. Gas is the biggest item in Bob's running expenses. He buys a dollar's worth at a time and that lasts him three or four days, with luck.

The expense of maintaining a car has naturally made Bob acutely aware of the value of a dollar. According to his father, Bob was never too concerned about money. As one of three children in a middle-income family, his allowance has been just about average. Dates and incidentals keep him chronically broke — a common teen-age affliction. But the car, his father observes, has made a difference in Bob's financial thinking. Says Mr. Loy: "He's looking ahead more now. And he's started a bank account."

At this stage in a boy's life, economic independence is highly important. It's not merely a matter of being able to pay for the things he wants; he needs to feel that he is on his own and free, to some degree, from parental authority. Moreover, he wants to be recognized as an individual by others of his age group. Now, as a properly licensed driver and the owner of a car, Bob feels he is "somebody" in his crowd.

As young drivers go, Bob is probably

FAMILY EFFORT to wash the new car is interrupted when brother George turns the hose on Bob (right).

FOR TEEN-AGE DRIVERS...

At PARADE's suggestion, the National Safety Council has drawn up this special set of rules to guide young drivers.

- Be a "pro" — drive smoothly. Don't make jackrabbit starts or squealing stops.
- Use sportsmanship. Be courteous and give the other fellow a break.
- Adjust your speed to road, weather and traffic conditions.
- Make sure you have plenty of room to pass and to change lanes.
- Stay alert, think ahead. Keep both hands on the wheel, both eyes on the road.
- Obey the law. Don't fudge at lights, signs or rail crossings.
- Keep your car in topnotch condition.
- Don't be a bumper chaser.
- Be proud of your driving. Do your part to prove that teenagers can be the best drivers on the road.

for possessions—and other people better than most. For one thing, he started learning at the age of 7, when he sat on his Dad's knee and steered the car. For another, he has taken the driver-training course at East High. He was considered an unusually apt learner and once represented the school in a teen-age radio panel discussion on car safety.

Like most teen-agers with sharp reflexes, Bob drives nonchalantly—though not carelessly—and is not afraid of traffic. As his father says: "Bob's really a better driver than I am. He knows the book rules and the mechanical operation of the car. And he has the proper respect for traffic laws."

Two Accidents, but...

The boy has been involved in two minor accidents, neither of which is listed on his license because he wasn't held at fault. In one, Bob hit a car that cut in front of him and crumpled his fender. Of the other accident, Bob says: "That was when a drunk tried to climb up my back. The whole front of his car was smashed. My back bumper was bent and the trunk lid was twisted out of shape.

"Neither of us was hurt. The police gave the guy a drunkometer test and it registered .28. The cops said a reading of .15 [.15 of 1 per cent] indicates that a person is intoxicated. Well, I figured this man really didn't mean any harm, and when his case came up I testified for him. I asked the judge to be lenient.

"The driver appreciated that. As it happened, he was a mechanic and he fixed up my car for nothing. Now it's better than it was in the first place."

That incident graphically illustrates how a growing youngster sometimes deals with a situation in a mature and responsible way. In Bob's case, there was no thought of revenge. His first instinct was to "give the guy a break." In thus showing tolerance and consideration, of course, he also was showing signs of maturing.

Undoubtedly the most important thing in Bob Loy's private world at the moment is his car. As with most adolescents, this personal possession is a source of keen satisfaction. It gives him stature and inspires added respect for personal property—not only that of others but his own as well.

Now he remembers, for example, to hang up some of his clothes, put away his belongings and shine his shoes. As his mother laughingly observes: "The car has done something to him. His room has always been the worst mess you can imagine. Now he's beginning to show a trend."

For the future of America, that trend is a pretty good sign that today's Bob Loy's are growing into tomorrow's responsible citizens. ■

PRACTICAL USE for the car appears as Bob takes his mother to do marketing.

FLUFFY muffins, bursting with blueberries, topped with lemon-sugar glaze; luscious blueberry pie with Lemon Freeze atop — try both while the big blues are in season.

2 new Blueberry treats

It's the season for blueberries—and lemon

Big, misty-blue and beautiful, cultivated for maximum size and sweetness, blueberries are with us again for a brief season. Make the most of them while they last. Serve them plain, with cream, of course — and try these two new recipes. You'll like them!

LEMON-GLAZED BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

- 1 cup firm, fresh blueberries
- 2 cups sifted, enriched flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg, well-beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup melted shortening

Pick over berries; wash; drain; spread on paper toweling; shake gently to dry. Mix and sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Combine egg, milk and melted shortening; add all at once to flour mixture; stir just until liquid is absorbed. (Batter will be lumpy.) Gently fold in berries. Fill greased muffin pans 2/3 full. Mix one tablespoon sugar and one teaspoon grated lemon peel; sprinkle over tops. Bake in hot oven (405° F.) 20 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 12 medium muffins.

BLUEBERRY PIE

- 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups fresh blueberries
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Pastry for 2-crust pie
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Combine first five ingredients; let stand 15 minutes. Line 9" pie pan with pastry; fill pan with berry mixture; dot with butter or margarine. Cover with top crust; press edges together. Cut slits or holes in top crust to allow steam to escape. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) about 55 minutes. Serve warm, with Lemon Freeze.

LEMON FREEZE

- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
 - 6 tablespoons (1/2 can) frozen lemonade concentrate
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Chill evaporated milk in freezer tray until ice crystals form around edges. Whip in chilled bowl with beater until stiff. Combine remaining ingredients; add one tablespoon at a time, continuing to whip. Freeze firm. Makes 1 quart.

Discover how Mazola® Oil makes everything
—from salad to sauce—'specially delicious!

Let's have Shish Kebab! Quick marinating sauce: Take a clove of garlic, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of Mazola Oil, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup vinegar, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, $\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and a dash of cayenne. Blend. Pour over cubed meat in shallow dish. Let stand 1 to 2 hours.

Skewer chunks of beef or lamb alternately with cubes of vegetables. Brush with marinating sauce. Place on pre-heated grill or broiler. Broil 10 to 15 minutes, until tender.

Approach your barbecue with a spirit of adventure. But remember, for barbecuing... for baking... for salad dressings... nothing gives food wonderful "golden goodness" like Mazola Oil.

EASY-DO BARBECUE SAUCE

2 tbsp. Mazola Oil	$\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
$\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped onions	2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce	or vinegar
1 tbsp. sugar	$\frac{1}{2}$ cup water
1 cup chili sauce

Cook Mazola and onions over low heat, stirring frequently, about 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Makes about $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups.

Barbecued chicken: Brush chicken with Mazola and place on grill or broiler rack. Cook, turning often. Baste frequently with barbecue sauce during cooking. Cook until tender. Serve with hot barbecue sauce.

Hint to remember—Brush your meat or fish with Mazola before you place it on the grill. This keeps meat from sticking. Mazola makes all meat delicious and juicy on the inside—crusty and brown on the outside.

COUNTRY GARDEN DRESSING

(Make it right in the bowl!)

$\frac{1}{2}$ clove garlic	Few grains pepper
$\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. prepared mustard	$\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. salt	$1\frac{1}{2}$ tbsp. vinegar
	4 tbsp. Mazola Salad Oil

Drop garlic clove in salad bowl. Add prepared mustard, salt and a few pepper grains. Blend thoroughly with fork. Add Worcestershire sauce, vinegar and Mazola. Beat with fork until thoroughly mixed... now add mixed greens and toss. For more than 4 servings, double recipe.

Whatever happened to DEANNA DURBIN?

CANDID PHOTO of Deanna today shows her (facing camera) at an outdoor market in the French village where she now lives. With her are her husband and son.

has become a tranquil French homemaker

POSED PHOTO shows Deanna, aged 16, giving Robert Stack her first screen kiss. The occasion was Universal's 1939 film appropriately entitled First Love.

by LLOYD SHEARER
PARADE WEST COAST CORRESPONDENT

NEAUPLE-LE-CHATEAU, FRANCE.

Remember Deanna Durbin, the little girl who sang like an angel?

Remember how single-handedly she lifted Universal Pictures out of the red by starring in 10 consecutive box-office hits? That series began back in 1936, with Three Smart Girls. Ten years later, at 23, Deanna was earning $200,000 a year but feeling pretty unhappy about it all. Not long after that, she was out of pictures.

"You'd hardly recognize Deanna today. Matter of fact, she wouldn't give you the chance. Despite all the material gain it brought her, she wants desperately to forget her "unnatural Hollywood childhood fame."

Now 33, she lives serenely in this small village outside Paris. She lives with her third husband, film director Charles Henri David, and her two children, Jessica (by her second husband, producer Felix Jackson) and Peter, the small son of her present marriage.

Their home is an old, dilapidated farmhouse around which the grass grows uncut and the roses bloom full and thorny. Deanna does her own housework, her own shopping, once a week brings in a maid for the heavy cleaning.

She refuses to see people from Hollywood or newsmen who have driven down from Paris for a pleasant chat. The villagers have been instructed to answer all queries concerning her with, "I'm sorry, there is no Mademoiselle Durbin here." They lie with straight and convincing faces.

Does Deanna ever grow lonely?

"Hardly ever," her tall, bespectacled husband told me. "We have our close friends, and Deanna has her music teacher. Yes, she still takes singing lessons. Her voice, I think, is more beautiful than ever. She practices two, maybe three hours a day, but when she sings now, it is for the family.

"The family is really her whole life. Here in the country she is not bothered by agents, columnists, big deals. Here she has a chance to lead a normal life, something she never knew in Hollywood."

Back to Films?

Will she ever make another movie?

"That is hard to tell," M. David said. "I am sure that for a girl who has known such tremendous success there must be at least a little longing for the past."

In this quaint rural village, however, the townspeople disagree.

"Why should Madame David care about the past?" the baker asked. "It was not kind to her. She had two other marriages, very sour. Toward the end her movie career died. All she got from Hollywood was money and unhappiness.

"Today she is happy and gay. A little fat, perhaps, but her cheeks are red and her spirit is high. I do not blame her for wanting to forget the past."

So—if she wants it that way and is happy that way, then that is whatever happened to Deanna Durbin.

PROVED BY MILLIONS

A GENTLE NATURAL WAY TO BREAK THE LAXATIVE DRUG HABIT

Try All-Bran and Milk
nature's great food combination

for constipation due to insufficient bulk

Delicious, appetizing—solid nutritional benefits

Nature never intended that we continually prod our digestive system into action with doses of drug-type purgatives, pills and powders.

Yet many folks (perhaps even you) still think nothing else will give them relief from irregularity. But there is another way—a safe, gentle way, proved by millions.

You simply enjoy a bowl of Kellogg's All-Bran and milk every morning. Or before bedtime at night. This pleasant, delicious and inexpensive cereal supplies all the good food bulk you need daily to keep regular.

All-Bran is a natural food remedy. Eaten daily, it corrects a rather common cause of constipation—lack of bulk in the things we eat. Chemical and drug-type laxatives usually contain no bulk (since they are for temporary relief only). So you cannot expect these preparations to overcome constipation due to insufficient bulk.

The Flavor Best Liked by Millions. W. K. Kellogg originated All-Bran over 40 years ago. He aimed to improve the flavor and eating qualities of whole bran without taking away any of the effectiveness of the natural laxative bulk.

He accomplished both. On taste alone, many people prefer All-Bran to any other cereal. And because it gets at the cause of irregularity due to lack of bulk (the gentle roughage that keeps us on schedule), All-Bran has literally helped millions who have made it a part of their daily diet.

There is nothing mysterious about this. All-Bran is a good wholesome food. It is made from the outer layers of whole wheat. A serving a day with milk provides not only bulk, but valuable food essentials—including vitamins, minerals and high-quality protein.

So if you suffer from constipation caused by lack of bulk . . . if you long for freedom from the laxative drug habit, try Kellogg's All-Bran and milk every morning for 10 days. Just eat an average serving (about half a cup of All-Bran). See if you don't enjoy comfortable, natural elimination once again.

If you are not fully satisfied for any reason whatsoever, simply return the empty All-Bran carton and get twice what you paid. That's a promise from Kellogg's of Battle Creek, Mich.

PRIMER FOR AMERICANS

THROUGHOUT our history most Americans have believed that every person has certain rights and duties and responsibilities.

Americans have believed that there are certain things people should do, and things they should not do.

They have also believed in certain things that people are, and are not.

These things that people believe are called principles. This book is an attempt to state the Principles of America in simple, primer fashion so that you can understand them, learn them, and remember them.

This is important. It was because earlier Americans believed in these principles and guided their lives by them, that America has grown to be the good place it is.

If all of us learn and remember these principles—if we also guide our lives by them—then we can help to keep America growing better, and better, and better.

And if we follow these Principles of America, we can help make the world a better place to live in, too.

The Principles of America are these . . .

1. Each Person is of Importance and Value as an Individual.

2. We Believe that All Men should Enjoy Personal Freedom.

3. We Believe that All Men are Created Equal.

It is worth noting that the Declaration of Independence expressed the belief that "all men are created equal." It did not state or imply a belief that men develop equally or have equal ability, or that they should ever be forced to an exact equality of thought, speech or material possessions.

That would be equality without freedom. Americans have always believed the two should go together.

In our Constitution, and in other laws of our land, there are set down principles to protect the rights and freedoms and equality of individuals.

4. The Right to Freedom of Speech.

This includes freedom of the press, of radio, of motion pictures, of every means by which man may express his thoughts.

5. The Right to Freedom of Assembly.

As we believe in the right of individual action, so we believe that individuals should be free to act together.

6. The Right to Freedom of Worship.

Not only is the individual free to worship as he will, but religions themselves are free and equal.

7. The Right to Security of Person and Property.

Not just one, but three Amendments to the Constitution (4th, 5th and 14th) protect against illegal search and seizure, or loss of life, liberty, or property, without "due process of law."

8. The Right to Equal Protection before the Law.

As individuals are equally important, so laws must apply equally to all, without special privileges for any group.

9. The Right to Freedom from Slavery.

This includes "the right to quit," for no individual may be forced to work for another.

10. The Right to Petition the Government.

The right of the individual to "petition the government for redress of grievances" is evidence of the American belief that government is the servant, not the master, of the people.

11. The Right to Vote for people of your choice.

This is the individual's most potent weapon in the protection of his rights and freedoms . . . a weapon that to be effective must be constantly and wisely used.

Other Principles hold that every man has . . .

12. The Right to a Good Education.

13. The Right to Live where he pleases.

14. The Right to Work where he wants to.

15. The Right to Belong to an Organization.

16. The Right to Own Property.

17. The Right to Start his Own Business.

18. The Right to Manage his Own Affairs.

19. The Right to Make a Profit or to Fail, depending on his Own Ability.

There are other, similar rights of individual action which are Principles of America, but all of these individual rights may be combined in these two broad principles . . .

20. Every Man is entitled to Freedom and Equality of Opportunity.

21. Every Man may Earn his Living When, Where, and How he wants to.

There are also Limiting Principles . . .

Principles of individual freedom sometimes clash with those of individual equality. Therefore our rights as individuals must be limited, and these limitations are principles.

22. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with those of Other Individuals.

Your right to swing your arms stops where the other fellow's nose starts.

23. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with the Welfare of the People.

Freedom of speech does not give the individual the right to shout "fire" in a crowded theatre.

24. Every Individual owes Obedience to the Laws under which he Lives.

The individual has the right to talk against a law, to work and vote to change that law, but NOT to disobey that law.

Principles that are Patterns of Behavior . . .

Many of our principles of individual freedom and equality are guaranteed to us by law. But we have other beliefs, other general rules of action and conduct that have grown to the status of principles. And these too, are foundations of Americanism.

25. A Man shall be Judged by his Own Record.

A man's family background, his race or his religion, is not as important as what that man himself can do, for Americans believe a man must stand on his own feet.

26. A Man is Free to Achieve as much as he can.

We believe that where any boy may become President, where any man may achieve greatness, there is the greatest incentive for every man to do his best.

27. To Achieve anything, a Man should be Willing to Work.

Americans have always known that "you don't get something for nothing," that to get anything takes a willingness to work.

28. Achievement also Depends upon the Ability to do a Good Job.

Add to "willingness to work" the ability to produce results and the combination is the basis for most individual achievement in our country.

29. Every Man has the Right to a Fair Share of the Results of his Work and his Ability.

Because of this belief, America has not only produced more goods, but they have been more fairly and more widely shared by more people than in any other country.

30. Security is the Ability of a Man to Provide for himself.

The only true security for any individual is the opportunity, the ability, and the determination to work and plan and save for his own present and future. Self-reliance is vital to individual independence and personal freedom. No man can be "proud and free" who depends on others for his security.

31. When an Individual cannot Provide his own Security, the Responsibility should be Assumed by Others.

We believe that no one should starve, or be without adequate clothing and shelter, so those who have more than their basic needs share the responsibility of providing the essentials of security for those who need help.

32. Each Individual must Deal Fairly with others.

Honesty, fairness, and personal integrity are virtues that help free and independent individuals get along with each other without losing their independence.

33. Fair and Free Competition is a Good Thing.

Americans have always believed that competition among individuals or groups encourages greater effort which in turn brings greater benefits to all.

34. Cooperation among Individuals is Vital.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has said: "The freedom to compete vigorously accompanied by a readiness to cooperate wholeheartedly for the performance of community and national functions, together make our system the most productive on earth."

Principles of Individual Responsibility . . .

Freedom for individuals carries with it an equal responsibility to use that freedom wisely. If we wish to remain free, we must faithfully fulfill this responsibility.

35. The Individual is Responsible for himself and his Family.

He must protect them and provide for their present and future well-being.

36. The Individual has Responsibilities to the Groups of which he is a Part.

He must give of his best to his community, his church, his employer, his union, and to every group in which individuals cooperate for their mutual benefit.

37. The Individual has Responsibilities to his Country.

He must be an active citizen, interesting himself in local, state, and national government, voting wisely, thinking and speaking and acting to preserve and strengthen freedom, equality and opportunity for every individual.

38. The Individual has Responsibilities to the World.

Man's horizons have expanded. What happens in the world affects him, and his actions can affect the world. Today, therefore, each man has a responsibility to act—and to encourage his country to act—so that freedom and cooperation will be encouraged among the people and the nations of the world.

For America's Future

If we, the people of the United States, want to have more material benefits, we must believe in and follow these two principles:

39. The only way we can Have More is to Produce More; and

40. As we Produce More, we must make it possible for More and More People to Enjoy that which we Produce.

If we, the people of the United States, want to have a better life, spiritually as well as materially . . .

41. We must stand firmly for our Beliefs, our Rights, our Principles.

There are those who would chip away our confidence so that their special brand of tyranny might creep into America. They must not succeed. So, let us ask of every plan, or act, or idea . . .

Is it With or Against the Principles of America?

You can save a lot of calories
by sweetening with Sucaryl
and you can't taste the difference

Sucaryl makes it easy for you to watch your weight . . . by giving you all sugar's sweetness, without a single calorie . . . and no bitterness or aftertaste.

This is Sucaryl: The first non-caloric sweetener that tastes just like sugar in ordinary use. Use it to sweeten your drinks, your cereal, your fruit. Cook with it—boiling and baking don't affect it at all. You can even use it in freezing. The fact is, you can use Sucaryl practically anywhere you would sugar, and you simply can't taste the difference. A point to remember, too, when you're buying dietetic foods and beverages: Sucaryl-sweetened products don't taste like "diet" foods.

Naturally, Sucaryl is for dieters and diabetics. Sugar has its place in normal diets as a source of quick energy. But where calories must be cut, Sucaryl lets you do it and still keep sweetness in your diet. If you're in doubt about your diet, ask your doctor. Your pharmacist has Sucaryl in tablets or solution; also Sucaryl Calcium for low-salt diets. Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, Ill. and Montreal.

The members of the Junior Girl Scout Troop #751 of Silver Spring, Md., were required to submit questions to my column in order to pass their final badge tests. Here are the most frequently asked questions and my replies:

Q. What should I wear when invited to a boy's home to dinner?

A. If you are invited to a boy's home for dinner on Sunday, wear ordinary church-going clothes. If you're invited to dinner after school, perhaps school clothes will be all that is expected. It all depends on the custom of the household to which you are invited. Talk it over with the boy.

Q. What should I do if a boy tries to kiss me?

A. Never let a boy kiss you if you find the idea distasteful. It isn't a matter of manners. A brief goodnight kiss from the middle teens on is quite usual, but certainly not necessary. To ward off an unwanted kiss, merely extend your hand to bid your escort goodnight.

Q. When should I start wearing make-up?

A. I see some 12-year-olds wearing make-up more suited to their mothers. A 13-year-old can be allowed light lipstick, light nail polish and a dusting of powder, at least for parties. The first year of high school is plenty of time for real make-up; even then, the application should be conservative.

Q. If two boys ask you to dance at the same time, which one should you dance with?

A. You can just say, "I'd like to dance with both of you. You settle it between yourselves as to who dances with me first."

Q. How long is it proper to talk on the phone?

A. The matter of phone conversation is something to work out with your family. If you want to use the phone for more than five minutes, ask the others in the family whether this is convenient. Try to limit your telephoning to times when the phone is not needed by others. Remember, too, that it is irritating for those trying to get the house to find the wire constantly busy.

Q. Should I pay for my fare on a bus, lunch, movie, refreshments, etc., when a boy invites me to go out? Is it ever correct to go "Dutch"?

A. I like "Dutch treating" to be limited to groups where perhaps one person is in charge of the whole "kitty." Usually when a girl and boy go Dutch, the boy feels rather inferior and the girl feels neglected. It is always better to choose something in the way of entertainment that the boy can manage by himself.

DR. GUY BENNETT

By Dr. B. C. Douglas

FRANK PARKER, STILL UNABLE TO GET A JOB BECAUSE OF EPILEPSY, WAITS TO HEAR FROM DR. BENNETT WHO IS AT A SENATE COMMITTEE HEARING...

... AND, GENTLEMEN, WE HAVE A VAST LABOR FORCE IN THIS COUNTRY WHICH LIES IDLE IN MANY STATES BECAUSE OF THE LACK OF CORRECTIVE LEGISLATION.

YOU PROPOSE, DR. BENNETT, THAT ACCIDENTS RESULTING PRIMARILY FROM A PERSON'S HANDICAP BE NOT COUNTED IN THE COMPANY'S ACCIDENT RATE SO THAT THE COMPANY'S PREMIUMS WILL NOT BE RAISED BY THESE ACCIDENTS?

EXACTLY! THE FIRM WILL THEN BE MUCH LESS RELUCTANT TO HIRE THESE HANDICAPPED PEOPLE, MANY OF WHOM ARE QUITE CAPABLE AND PRODUCTIVE.

ONE MORE QUESTION, DR. BENNETT! SINCE THE STATE WILL NO LONGER COLLECT FOR THE HANDICAPPED PERSON'S ACCIDENT, HOW ARE WE GOING TO COMPENSATE HIM AFTER AN ACCIDENT?

FRANK PARKER 7-1-56

SET ASIDE A CERTAIN PRE-DETERMINED PERCENTAGE OF THE REGULAR PREMIUMS AND PLACE IT IN A FUND FOR THE HANDICAPPED.

DR. BENNETT, WE ADMIRE YOUR CONCERN FOR THESE PEOPLE AND THE CLARITY WITH WHICH YOU MADE YOUR PROPOSAL, BUT WE'LL HAVE TO STUDY IT FURTHER.

LATER... DR. BENNETT, DO YOU HAVE ANY NEWS FOR US?

NOT YET, AND I DON'T KNOW IF IT WILL BE GOOD NEWS.

OH, WHAT'S THE USE, DR. BENNETT? I'VE GOT EPILEPSY AND MY FAMILY AND I HAVE TO SUFFER THE CONSEQUENCES. LET'S FACE IT.

2. YOUNG MANHOOD

HEAD OF LANCE LAY EIGHT LONG YEARS OF SCHOOLING! THIS SEEMED PRETTY GRIM TO AN ADVENTUROUS LAD OF 14, FOR MEANWHILE THERE WAS EXCITEMENT TO BE FOUND ON THE WESTERN FRONTIER!

LATE ONE NIGHT, MAKING HIS DECISION, THE YOUTH BUCKLED ON HIS FATHER'S OLD CAVALRY SABRE AND CREPT TO THE STABLES.....

THE WAY WEST WAS LONGER THAN LANCE THOUGHT AND HIS MONEY WAS SOON GONE. THEN HE WOULD APPROACH A LONELY FARMHOUSE AND SAY, "GOOD EVENING, SIR. DO YOU HAVE WORK IN RETURN FOR A NIGHT'S FOOD AND LODGING?"

THE FARMERS ALWAYS GOT A BARGAIN AND THIS MADE THEM SHAKE THEIR HEADS IN WONDER. WHO WAS THIS TIRELESS YOUTH WHO DRESSED LIKE A PRINCE AND SPLIT RAILS LIKE A BACKWOODSMAN?

TWICE ON THE ROAD LANCE'S FINE HORSE BECAME A TARGET FOR THIEVES. AFTER ALL, WHAT FIGHT COULD THEY EXPECT FROM A BOY!

AT LONG LAST, LOOKING LESS LIKE A PRINCE, LANCE REACHED A PLACE CALLED OLD FRANKLIN. HE PAUSED TO WATCH, WIDE-EYED, AS A HUGE FREIGHT CARAVAN LUMBERED OUT OF TOWN.....

"WHERE ARE THEY GOING?" HE ASKED A YOUTH NEAR HIS OWN AGE. "SANTA FE," CAME THE REPLY. "WHAR Y'FROM?" "VIRGINIA. MY NAME'S LANCE SAINT-LORNE." "I'M KIT CARSON." GRINNING, THE BOYS SHOOK HANDS AND THEN RETURNED THEIR GAZE TO THE BIG WAGONS. SANTA FE WAS WEST. AND WEST WAS ADVENTURE AND EXCITEMENT.....

YOU SAVED A LOT OF THEM, DOC...

AND SOMETIMES IT COMES TO A CHILD! SHE'S NOT A SOLDIER! WHY SHOULD IT COME FOR HER?

YOU'RE WRONG, DOC! SHE IS A SOLDIER... JUST A LITTLE ONE, MAYBE...

NO UNIFORM... BAND... MEDALS... BUT AS HARD AND BRAVE A FIGHTER AS YOU OR I EVER KNEW... FIGHTING FOR RIGHT, AND DECENCY AND FREEDOM FOR ALL!

THAT'S A LOT, COMING FROM YOU, COLONEL!

STRUCK DOWN, SUDDENLY, TERRIBLY, AS A SOLDIER IS FELLED -- BUT IN THE SKILLED CARE OF MEN OF WAR, ANNIE HAS A FIGHTING CHANCE...

NOT "COLONEL" ANY MORE, DOC! I SAID, LET'S GET OUT OF MEMORY LANE! I'M COLLAR JOHN...

I KNOW... COMMANDO! YOU KILLED TO PRESERVE WHAT WE ALL BELIEVE IN... THAT WAS WAR...

AND NOW? NOW, AS I GET IT, YOU WANT TO HELP MEN TO LIVE... WITH THEIR NEIGHBORS...

... WITH THEMSELVES, DOC... THAT IS THE SECRET OF LIVING...

YES... AND IF I'VE FAILED... I'LL SEE HER FACE ALWAYS!

IT WOULDN'T BE YOUR FAULT... ANYWAY, WHY BORROW WORRY?

I HAVE FAITH SHE'LL LIVE, DOC! WE'VE BOTH BEEN THROUGH FIRE! WE'VE SEEN FAITH WORK BEFORE!

YOU NEVER WOULD GIVE UP... WELL, NEITHER WILL I, JOHN!

C'MON... C'MON! GIT IT UP... IT'S FOR TH' 'OSPITAL!

SO, WE'RE ALL BUMS... OFFICIALLY! GIT IT UP, TH' FOLDIN' STUFF!

WHAT IF TH' POOR KID DOESN'T MAKE IT?

WHY, YOU...! WHO SAID THAT?

WHY, ANNIE CAN'T DIE!

A FEW MONTHS AGO WE'D NEVER HEARD OF HER... BUT NOW? NO DAUGHTER COULD BE DEARER...

THEY WON'T TELL US ANYTHING AT THE HOSPITAL! IF ONLY THEY'D TELL US!

Steel Strike Starts With 650,000 Idle; Other Industries Hit

NEW YORK (Sunday) (AP)—Some 650,000 steel workers went on strike across the country early today against an industry which, in one way or another, affects virtually everyone in the land.

The walkout officially took effect at 12:01 a. m., although the steel mills were already at a standstill because of the necessity for cooling their giant furnaces slowly. This began two days ago.

In final statements released at midnight, both the United Steelworkers and the companies affected rapped each other for causing the strike.

NOTHING was said about a new date for efforts to work out a solution for the paralyzed industry—a mainstay for the nation's economic and military strength.

In a union statement, President David J. McDonald declared:

"The responsibility for the shutdown in steel production rests entirely with the steel companies. There was no need for this shutdown.

"There is no need for the shutdown to continue if the steel companies are now willing to act fairly and justly rather than arbitrarily and arrogantly."

He said the union stood ready at any time to negotiate a "fair settlement."

The 12 major companies closely concerned with the negotiations here — which would have set a pattern for the industry—said:

"THE ONLY proposals that the union has made have been so excessive that they afforded no realistic basis for bargaining."

Furthermore, they added, the contract proposals put forward by the companies "represents the largest increase in actual purchasing power they have ever attained."

The industry added that it, too, is ready to continue talks at any time.

Both sides said they would stand by, on call.

But persons close to the parties expressed doubt there was any chance of another get-together within a week, considering the current situation.

Ship Crushes Docker in Harbor Fall

A 41-year-old Wilmington longshoreman was killed in Los Angeles Harbor Saturday night when he slipped and fell into the water and was crushed against a pile by a large freighter.

Joseph Strickney, 317 W. Ott St., was working on the freighter, SS Torien, at Berth 53, when, fellow workers said, his foot slipped and he fell between the ship and the pier.

BEFORE ANYONE COULD help him, shifting currents forced the big ship against the pier crushing the longshoreman against the pier support.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at San Pedro Community Hospital.

DAVID McDONALD
"no need for shutdown"

President at Farm to Convalesce

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower, pale and weak but in high spirits after three weeks in the hospital, arrived at his quiet farm home Saturday for "at least" two weeks of convalescence and to weigh his second-term plans.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower and two of his doctors, made the 85-mile automobile drive from Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington in two hours and two minutes. The doctors said he showed natural fatigue but displayed no signs of undue strain.

HIS LOSS of weight—six pounds—was evident, however, and his ruddy complexion had vanished after his long hospital sojourn.

The President walked very slowly when he left the hospital and held Mrs. Eisenhower's arm for support. He had a noticeable limp.

Eisenhower left the hospital three weeks to the day after some of the nation's finest surgeons had removed an intestinal obstruction which had threatened his life.

While the doctors feel the operation actually increased Eisenhower's life expectancy, it was bound to cause him to consider his political future once again. He went through a similar period of meditation early this year and decided his serious heart attack last Sept. 24 did not bar him from seeking reelection.

EISENHOWER has said nothing about his political future.

L.A.C. Says: L. A. White Elephant

Opposition by the Long Beach City Council and Chamber of Commerce should cause County Supervisors to delay further plans for the $51 million auditorium and music hall to be located in the center of the Los Angeles downtown business district. The county is already involved in building a Sports Arena on the Coliseum grounds. This Sports Arena will provide more seating capacity than the $51 million downtown project. It will cost only $8 million. Since the two projects will be in competition for many events it is apparent one of them will be a white elephant to be paid for by all county taxpayers.

Arguments favoring the $51 million project are that it will provide a building to hold large conventions such as the GOP convention, next August in the Cow Palace, in San Francisco. And yet the Cow Palace will seat only 14,900 for that event. The projected

Letter to Abigail

(A reluctant Congress adopted the revolutionary measure in the form of a resolution on July 2, two days before the signing of the formal Declaration.)

(In a letter to his wife, Abigail, on July 3, 1776, Adams wrote prophetically of the stature Independence Day was to assume in the new nation. What he could not prophesy was the role it was to play in his own fate. Both Adams and Thomas Jefferson, another architect of American democracy, died on July 4, 1826, on the 50th anniversary of the Declaration.)

(Pertinent phrases from the prophetic letter of John Adams follow:)

JULY 3, 1776—Yesterday the greatest question was decided which ever was debated in America, and a greater, perhaps, never was nor will be decided among men.

A resolution was passed without one dissenting colony, "that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States, and as such they have, and of right ought to have, full power to make war, conclude peace, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which other States may rightfully do."

You will see in a few days a Declaration setting forth the causes which have impelled us to this mighty revolution, and the reasons which will justify it in the sight of God and man.

... It may be the will of Heaven that America shall suffer calamities still more wasting, and distresses yet more dreadful. If this is to be the case, it will have its good effect at least. It will inspire us with many virtues which we have not, and correct many errors, follies, and vices which threaten to disturb, dishonor, and destroy us. The furnace of affliction produces refinement, in states as well as individuals. And the new governments we are assuming in every part will require a purification from our vices, and an augmentation of our virtues, or they will be no blessings.

The people will have unbounded power, and the people are extremely addicted to corruption and venality, as well as the great. But I must submit all my hopes and fears to an overruling Providence, in which, unfashionable as the faith may be, I firmly believe.

... The second day of July 1776 will be the most memorable epocha

John Adams

In the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated, as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations, from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward, forevermore.

You will think me transported with enthusiasm, but I am not. I am well aware of the toil, and blood, and treasure that it will cost us to maintain this Declaration, and support and defend these States. Yet, through all the gloom, I can see the rays of ravishing light and glory. I can see that the end is more than worth all the means, and that posterity will triumph in that transaction, even though we should rue it, which I trust in God we shall not.

Lenin's Jabs at Stalinism Bared in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department published Saturday night 18 Soviet documents, most of them still secret in the Soviet Union, showing that V. I. Lenin once scathingly denounced the "rascality" of Russian Communists in dealing with non-Russian peoples embraced in the Soviet system.

His criticism hit the late Joseph Stalin, among others, for mishandling the problem of bringing the territory of Georgia under full Moscow control in the early days of Red consolidation of power.

THE VIEWS OF Lenin, the first leader of Soviet communism, on the nationality issue were described by officials here as having potentially great significance today because of their policy impact on the policies of the present Soviet regime.

In denouncing Stalin, the present Red party boss, Nikita Khrushchev, has gone back to Lenin for historical authority to justify his course. Therefore anything which Lenin wrote on an issue still current may give a lead as to future policies of the present Soviet regime or may be used as criticism when such policies fail to follow Lenin's teachings.

Report New Russ Bid to Vatican

ROME (AP)—Roman Catholic sources said Saturday night that Russia has offered a "co-existence" proposal to the Vatican.

The sources said the riots in Poland were believed to have added urgency to the Kremlin's reported plan for a "religious peace" campaign.

Fear 4 From L.B. in Air Collision

Wreckage Seen Burning Deep in Grand Canyon

11 From Harbor Area Reported on Passenger Lists

WINSLOW, Ariz. (UP)—Two giant luxury airliners carrying 127 passengers and crew members crashed into the Grand Canyon Saturday, and a high Air Force search and rescue officer said it was Saturday.

believed they collided in the air to possibly produce history's worst commercial aviation disaster.

Wreckage of a four-engined TWA Super-Constellation, which disappeared Saturday morning about the time it would have been in the identical area at virtually the same altitude as a four-engined DC-7 of United Air Lines, was sighted by two brothers, Palen and Henry Huggins, operators of Grand Canyon Airlines.

It was strewn along the bottom of a big canyon, the characteristic triple tail sections of the "Connie" virtually the only portion of the plane unconsumed by fire.

A quarter-mile away, in the Little Colorado River, the brothers said they believed they spotted the wreckage of the UAL plane. The site was only about a quarter of a mile from the TWA wreckage.

If there are no survivors of the two planes, which were flying a near-parallel course after taking off from Los Angeles headed for Chicago and Kansas City, it will be the greatest commercial air disaster in nearly a half-century of flying.

"It is very likely a collision occurred," said Capt. Byrd Ryland, from March Air Force Base, commander of the search operations.

At March Base near Riverside, Calif., Col. Frank Schwikert, commanding officer of the Air Search and Rescue Unit, corroborated Ryland's belief.

Schwikert said Ryland reported he talked to the Huggins and they reported they spotted smoke about 11:15 a.m. (PDT) but thought nothing of it until they heard radio reports that two big airliners were missing.

The two planes were due to check in over Tuba City, in the heart of the Painted Desert area on the watershed of the Grand Canyon at 11:32 a.m. (PDT)—at which time their flight plans called for them to be only 1200 feet apart.

When they heard of the missing plane, the Huggins flew back to the scene and identified the tail section of the big "Connie." This was reported to search and rescue headquarters here just before dark.

"From the amount of stuff and the distribution of it, and the way the planes were demolished, it looked like there would not be any life there," Henry told Ryland.

THE AREA IS inaccessible by foot or vehicle. The Winslow search and rescue headquarters planned to enlist parachutists to drop into the area this morning at dawn.

Huggins said the TWA wreckage lay scattered down the slopes of Chuar Butte, west of

Two Women Killed in 101 Crash

LAGUNA BEACH (UP)—Two women, one from Cleveland, Ohio, were killed Saturday in a three-car crash on a U.S. 101 detour north of here.

Highway patrolmen identified the dead as Alice Marie Tarantino, about 21, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Ellene Aufdenkamp, 60, wife of a former Laguna Beach councilman.

Joseph Tarantino, about 21, from the same Cleveland address, and Mary Ellen Rockwell, 21, of Costa Mesa, were reported in critical condition at a Newport Beach hospital.

Officers said Mrs. Aufdenkamp's car was involved in a collision with one occupied by the other three victims. A third car operated by Tony West, 20, South Laguna, smashed into the wreckage, but he escaped with minor cuts.

Nixon Flies Here on Way To Manila and Indochina

Vice President Nixon's plane set down at the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station for three hours Saturday night—just long enough for a quick visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Nixon.

The Vice President rushed home to Whittier to spend the brief interval with the elder Nixons and was due to leave again at midnight on his good-will tour to Manila and Saigon.

Nixon was asked upon his arrival here from a Miami speaking engagement about his last meeting with President Eisenhower.

HE QUOTED the President as saying he wished he could be making the trip because he re-

the mouth of the Little Colorado River and about 45 miles due west of Tuba City, where the planes were to have checked in by radio at 11:32 a.m. (PDT).

They never checked in. Overhead, blanketing the entire Painted Desert area, the sky was filled with typical desert thunderstorms, flashing lightning and piling-up towering white thunderheads, filled with hectic turbulence, above the storms.

SCHWIKERT REPORTED radio monitors heard only a cryptic "we are going..." and then silence from the TWA craft about 11:15 a.m.

Physicians stood by "on the ready" for transportation into the area should the morning sun reveal signs of life around the wreckage. Schwikert said the search and rescue unit was figuring logistics on food and water so that they can be dropped into the scene if survivors are located.

Helicopters will scan the area at low altitude in the morning—at considerable danger to the pilots because of the terrific downdrafts in the canyons.

Ryland said it was possible the rescue teams would have to use rafts on the river to approach the scene because of the difficult terrain.

The wreckage, Ryland said, was located below a point 12 miles short of the Painted Desert Point where both planes were scheduled to make routine flight reports, but failed to do so.

"THEY WERE in the same place at the same time," Ryland said, "and we hope to find out tomorrow if both planes are in the canyon. Getting to the wreckage may be a very dangerous mission, because of the extremely rugged terrain. It may be impossible to send parachutists in, and it may be most difficult to reach the wreckage scene on foot."

"We have doctors standing by in case there are survivors," he added.

Lynn Coffin, Chief Forest Ranger for the Grand Canyon National Park, made the report to the search headquarters here.

Coffin said the plane was down about 1,000 feet from the mouth of the river in the Grand Canyon. Two small fires were reported in the area but Coffin said there was no sign of life.

THE TWA PLANE, reporting in like its UAL counterpart a half-hour before they were due over Tuba City, said it was flying at 21,000 feet over severe thunderstorms. Thereafter there was silence from both planes and by sunset all hopes of safety for the planes had dwindled to near-zero.

As darkness wrapped the desert, a vast search-rescue effort was halted for the night and only one C-54 from March Air Force Base in Riverside, Calif., remained aloft to retrace the flight plan of the planes, watching for fires, flares, etc., that could be plotted on a map and checked with the coming of daylight.

UNITED AIR LINES headquarters in Phoenix declined to confirm or deny that one of their search planes sighted wreckage of one or both of the missing airliners in the Marble Canyon vicinity.

One report came from a flier

Sun -- Not Moon -- Makes Fish Croon

Finny Couples Find Daylight Romance Time

Sunlight—not moonlight—makes fish amorous. Jean (Mrs. Frank) Adams, 1777 Atlantic Ave., thinks controlled sunlight has much to do with the fact that she has been able to get angel fish, Tetrazona barks, gouramis, catfish, cherry barbs and neons—they're tropical fish in case you didn't know—to breed. Tropical fish, she explains, will breed only if they are healthy, clean, well-fed and happy. How does one know if a fish is happy? "It's happy if it swims animatedly and rises fast for food. If it mopes around the bottom of the aquarium or hides behind things, something is the matter." They have to be warm to mate—the water should be 72 to 80 degrees. Says Mrs. Adams: "We find that the egg-layers are more romantic if they are struck by the early morning rays of the sun. . . See here." She takes the visitor to her fish hatchery—where 10,000 small fry see the light of day every month.

TROPICAL FISH Nestle in Shaft of Sunlight

BREEDING TANKS are lined up under a skylight. As the direct sunlight hits the tank, romance blooms, and it blooms in the succeeding tanks as the sun travels west. Just now Tetrazona barbs, fashionably striped fish, are in the breeding tanks. As the sun hits the tank, the male begins chasing the female whose body is heavy with eggs. He lures her into aquarium plants. If they land on the aquarium floor, it's too bad, because Mama Tetrazona promptly eats them. But if they hang on the plants—the eggs are adhesive—they have a better chance. In about 24 hours they hatch. Hanging by an invisible thread, they look like crystal clear exclamation points. In about 12 more hours they cling to the side of the glass. By the time they can eat they are on their own. At 10 days they begin getting their black and iridescent green stripes. By 3 to 4 months they begin spawning, and there goes a new cycle.

TROPICAL FISH produce from 500 to 3,000 eggs at a time. Nature is an optimist—or maybe she is a pessimist. Anyway, she sees that a lot of small fry are produced. Contrasted with the sunshine-spawning fish, the neons and the scissors-tail Rasbora insist on complete darkness for romance. They will not mate and eggs will not hatch except in complete blackness. Some fish carry their eggs on their legs. The "ghost" shrimp fish do. They are an inch or so long, so transparent that one may see their inards. They have a lot of feet—it looks like six pairs—under their bodies. They carry fertilized eggs on these fast-flying fuzzy legs. When the little "ghosts" hatch, they drop off of their mother's legs. Halfbeaks, with lower jaws that jut out into a point, give birth to half-inch babies, about 15 at a time. Halfbeaks are surface feeders. Sometimes they fight and knock each other's beaks off. There is no gossip in the fish world if Mama produces babies long after Papa has gone away. Milt (fertilizer) is deposited in the anal opening, where it apparently is stored. The male may be removed from the tank, and litters born for as much as a year without further help from him.

SIAMESE FIGHTING FISH are air breathers. When a male wants to mate, he blows a nest of bubbles. If a female tries to deposit eggs in the nest before it is finished to his complete satisfaction, he fights her away. When she lays the eggs, if they fall to the bottom of the aquarium, he picks them up, a mouthful at a time, puts them in the nest and blows more bubbles around them to hold them. When the eggs are encompassed, he turns on the female and will kill her if she is not rescued. Mrs. Adams hopes eventually to be able to breed Oscars, fish that look like black and orange lace, and discus fish which look just like discs. She has a female discus so tame that it will lie still and let Mrs. Adams put medicine on an injured eye.

Huge Roundup of Girl Scouts Attracts 5,000

MILSORD, Mich. (AP) — It will be chicken for Sunday dinner at the world's largest and longest picnic—10 days of outdoor eating at the International Girl Scout Roundup. Some 5,000 teen-age girls heard greetings from Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower at formal opening of the encampment Saturday. The ceremony was highlighted by mass raising of 78 flags in the central area of the big tent city. Then the girls headed for the roundup "swap tent" which opened for a rushing business in bargain hunting. A popular spot was the Texas stand, which offered trades in miniature branding irons, rattlesnake skins and dried bluebonnet flowers.

Peter Freuchen Muffed Political Question Here

Peter Freuchen, the whiskered loquacious adventurer who Tuesday comes up for the top prize in the $64,000 Question on TV knows more about the seven seas than he does about politics. When he was in Long Beach at the first Miss Universe Beauty Pageant in 1952, Freuchen forecast that California's Gov. Earl Warren would be the Republican candidate for president. At that time, Freuchen, Danish writer and explorer who has spent the last 45 years in the Arctic, was "covering" the Miss Universe contest for Danish newspapers. Qualifying as an expert on the seven seas, Freuchen has answered such questions as: Where is the ocean the coldest and where is it the hottest? And how many cubic miles of water flow into the oceans daily from all the rivers of the world? To date, he has answered every question with such detail that Hal March has interrupted him. Freuchen encouraged the adventurers to sail on a raft from Peru to the South Seas, which led to the writing of "Kon-Tiki."

PETER FREUCHEN Lost in Political Sea

He has written upward of 24 adventure books, including "Eskimo," which was made into a movie with Freuchen as technical advisor.

Gas Trailer Blast Routs 50 in Homes

CINCINNATI (AP) — An exploding gasoline tank truck trailer turned a busy Cincinnati street into a mass of flames Saturday.

Ten homes and stores caught fire and were damaged. Fifty persons were routed from their homes and one woman died of a heart attack as she was being helped to safety from her burning home. Four automobiles were destroyed in the fire.

Fire Chief Barney Houston gave a tentative estimate of $50,000 damage, but unofficial estimates ran as high as $100,000.

THE WRECK and the explosion of about 4,000 gallons of gasoline occurred as the double rig tank truck turned from State Ave. into Harrison Ave. near the end of the heavily-traveled Western Hills viaduct.

The second tank trailer broke loose, overturned and exploded. Larry Whitaker, 26, of Cincinnati, the driver, leaped to safety seconds ahead of the mass of flames.

The woman who died was Mrs. Mav Barnett, 52.

EXAMINES WHOPPER OF A FOSSIL

Babysitter Finds Man, Wife Slain

MIAMI (AP) — A babysitter uncovered the murder-suicide of an unemployed insurance salesman and his physician-wife Saturday but found the couple's 10-month-old child unharmed in their blood-splashed home.

Sheriff's deputies identified the dead couple as Fred H. Kenneth, 38, and his wife, Dr. Milena Kenneth, 31, a pediatrician who obtained her degree in New York City about a year ago, just before they moved here.

SGT. RICHARD Shelton of the sheriff's office said Kenneth reported to have been ill recently, apparently beat his wife to death with an automobile jack in the couple's bedroom Friday night, then took a fatal dose of poison. But the husband took a shower bath to cleanse the murder blood from his body before returning to the bedroom to take his own life, the deputy said.

The crime was uncovered late Saturday when a babysitter, not immediately identified, arrived at the Kenneth suburban home for a previously arranged job of taking care of the couple's infant son, John Francis Kenneth.

THE BABYSITTER became suspicious when she could not gain entrance to the home and called North Miami police who broke into the house.

Police found the unharmed child who had spent the night and most of the day in the home with the bodies of his parents.

Officers said the investigation showed that the murder-suicide came as the climax to some eight months of violent arguments between the couple.

20 Million-Year-Old Whale Skull Dug Up

PALOS VERDES ESTATES — A whale that swam here when the hills were under a Miocene sea.

The remains, estimated to be 20 million or more years old, were removed to the museum for study after plaster casts were made.

Dr. George Kanakoff, curator of invertebrate paleontology at the museum, said he and his staff were not interested in taking the remainder of the 50-foot-long skeleton because several already are on display there.

THE EXPERT said the specimen uncovered by a housing subdivision grading crew apparently is that of a baleen whale.

Although the skull and most of the bones were completely calcified, part of the bone marrow in some spinal segments seemed to be in almost its original state.

Impressions of prehistoric fish were found in rocks near the whale fossil found south of Palos Verdes Dr. north and east of Montemalaga Dr.

Dr. Kanakoff said the whale lived after the last of the dinosaurs became extinct.

Assisting Kanakoff in the delicate task of removing the whale skull were Leonard C. Bessom Jr., preparator, and Rudolph C. Pesci, Kanakoff's assistant.

HYPNOTIZED GIRL TO TRY TO OPEN SAFE

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — Miss Shirley Weiss, 22, cautiously agreed to submit to hypnosis Saturday, at the request of her employers, who operate a radio station.

The situation sold a safe to a Pennsylvania newspaper, but after the sale was completed, it turned out Miss Weiss forgot the combination which she alone knew.

A hypnotist will probe Miss Weiss' subconscious for the important set of numbers.

REGIONAL POLITICS

Official Returns Due Tuesday

By The Lookout

Candidates will get the final word Tuesday as to how they fared in the recent state primary.

County Registrar of Voters Ben Hite will announce the official returns, following completion of a ballot canvass that started when the last of the absentee ballots came in.

No contests in this area showed up close enough in the unofficial count to indicate the possibility of an upset when the official figures are disclosed. But there was considerable variance this year in the unofficial returns compiled from various sources, and politics will be watching for percentage changes in the official figures.

COMMITTEEMEN NAMED

Two candidates whose nomination was assured because they had no opposition in their party have already decided on their appointments to the GOP State Central Committee.

Congressman Craig Hosmer named Mrs. Ethel B. Gillis, Mrs. Jennie E. Pritchard and Albert A. Carrey, Assemblyman W. S. Grant of the 70th District selected Al Williams, Mrs. Irvin Moxing and Mrs. Richard Bixby.

Under California law, each congressional and assembly nomination names three members to the State Central Committee of his party.

SERAW BACKED

Oliver W. Speraw, 2360 Tulane Ave., candidate for Fifth District City Councilman in the July 26 special election, has been endorsed by the Long Beach Central Labor Council, composed of more than 50 unions.

Speraw has several union affiliations. He was a member of Carpenters' Local, No. 710, in 1940-46, having joined as an apprentice. He belonged to the Sheet Metal Workers Union while at a Los Angeles trade

ANDERSON COMING

Glenn Anderson, vice chairman of the California Democratic Council, will be here Tuesday to address the Democratic Women's Study Club in a noon meeting at the Wilton Hotel. He will analyze the recent primary election.

"I do... promise to take Humphrey to the opening of Carl's big Mid-Summer Sale just as soon as we find out when it starts! Mother tells me there's no better way to start married life than with furnishings by Carl's... and their prices are the lowest ever during their Big Mid-Year Clearance! It's coming soon!"

Cities Slate Variety of Attractions

Long Beach and nearby communities are getting ready for the Fourth of July.

A gigantic fireworks display, ending with the American Flag set piece will be fired at 9:15 p.m. Wednesday over the water from Rainbow Pier. A series of 475 aerial bursts will end with the Flag.

Fired will be a number of multiple break shells, including 24 13-inch and 24 9-inch multiple break shells, 36 10-inch aerial bombs which will burst as many as six times, and 12 special multiple break shells that will break 24 times.

Celebrators can watch from the beach; either side of Rainbow Pier: from the bluff, the foot of Nu-Pike or the foot of Linden Ave.

The fireworks will be co-sponsored by the city of Long Beach and the Long Beach Amusement League.

TWO MAJOR Independence Day celebrations are scheduled for Orange County.

Huntington Beach will conduct its 52nd annual Fourth of July Parade starting at 11 a.m. The parade will form at 14th and Main Sts.

"Pageantry and Portrayal of Famous American Presidents" is the float theme. Bands and military units also will participate.

At 9:30 a.m., equestrian judging will be conducted on Lake Ave. north of Quincy St. All other judging, including selection of the winning floats, will be done in the line of march.

Roy Williams and Jimmie Dodd from Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse Club are the grand marshals. Miss Lorna Ross, Orange, is queen.

THE SECOND EVENT will be conducted at Cypress Park in Cypress.

Scheduled are a donkey baseball game starting at 12:30 p.m. and a fire-hose ball game to follow.

A barbecue at 4 p.m. and fireworks afterwards will top the day's activities.

Beginning at 6 p.m., Cabrillo Beach will have a Fourth of July aquacade, with swimming and diving events, climaxed by fireworks after dark.

Fourth of July will end the six-day celebration called Neptune Days at Redondo Beach. There will be an aquacade and fireworks. A heavy cruiser will be open all day to visitors.

L. B. Playgrounds to Be Open Fourth

All Long Beach municipal playgrounds will be open, with supervisors in charge, on July 4, according to a Recreation Dept. announcement.

Independence Day will be observed as a holiday by all public school playgrounds taking part in the summer recreation program. No supervision will be provided at the playgrounds and the three high school swimming pools will be closed July 4.

Ridings No County 'Aud' Booster Yet

H. E. Ridings Jr., one of three Long Beach-area citizens invited to join the Civic Auditorium and Music Center Assn. of Los Angeles, said he planned to "learn more about the organization" before accepting the invitation.

The association is sponsoring a $51,000,000 auditorium in Los Angeles to be constructed with county tax money. Approximately $10,000,000 of the amount would come from Long Beach taxpayers.

THE LONG BEACH City Council and Chamber of Commerce both have objected to construction of the building in Los Angeles.

The other two invited to serve on the committee are Mrs. Elizabeth F. Hudson, president of the Board of Education, and Lloyd S. Whaley, Los Altos real estate developer.

Whaley was not available for comment, but Mrs. Hudson said she "would like to know a lot more about any such organization before I joined it."

Rail Wreck Widow to Receive $30,000

LOS ANGELES (U.P.)—A woman widowed by the Jan. 22 Los Angeles rail disaster will receive $30,000 in a compromise settlement with the Santa Fe Railway.

The money will go to Mrs. Virginia M. Lund, 21, widow of Lt. J. G. Donald B. Lund, 24, who was one of the persons killed in the mid-town train wreck, in a settlement approved by Superior Judge Clyde C. Triplett.

Willa McGuire, Preston Foster to Present Water-Ski-Race Prizes

At the age when most kids begin trying their legs on roller skates, Willa McGuire was learning water skiing.

Today, at 28 years of age, she has won 33 major tournaments and four international titles in water skiing and is featured star in Florida's Cypress Gardens Ski show.

"But my real ambition is to be a commercial artist," confides the blue-eyed, blond aquatic star who will reign as queen of the Grand National Water Ski Race from Long Beach to Catalina Island and back.

THE RACE WILL start at 9 a.m. July 4 from Magnolia Pier, with more than 100 water skiers competing over a 58-mile course. Actor Preston Foster, star of television's "Waterfront" series will serve as official starter.

Shortly after the start of the race, Mrs. McGuire will perform, on her "swivel" water skis. These permit her to turn completely around while being towed on the water.

The swivel skis are her contribution to water skiing.

MRS. MCGUIRE comes naturally by her talent as a nautical skier.

"My dad had a boat business at Lake Oswego in Oregon," she says. "I somehow got some water skis and started in the sport."

Open Car Door Injures Man

Fred A. Wolter, 66, of 1750 Locust Ave., suffered minor abrasions when he was struck by an open door of a moving car on Pacific Ave. near 17th St. Saturday afternoon.

Wolter told police he was putting groceries in the rear of a friend's car when the driver's foot slipped off the brake and hit the gas pedal.

Boy Uses Bicycle to Snatch a Purse

Barbara S. Pratt, 73, of 1043 Coronado Ave., reported to police that a boy, about 14 years old, grabbed her purse containing $30 as he rode past her on a bicycle on Gladys Ave. Saturday afternoon.

260-Pound Suspect Jailed After Kidnaping Attempt

An out-of-work oil worker attempted to kidnap a young woman in an alley here early Saturday and was arrested three hours later in Anaheim.

Lloyd B. Sanders, 23, of 1206 Groton St., Anaheim, was booked for investigation of attempted kidnaping after he allegedly tried to force Lorraine Graves, 24, of 938 Temple Ave., into his car.

Officers said the 260-pound oil pumper admitted the kidnap attempt.

The woman said she had just come from work at a local drive-in restaurant when the suspect accosted her in an alley near 20th St. between Chestnut and Cedar Aves.

She said he pointed what appeared to be a gun at her and ordered to get into his car. She screamed several times, ignoring the man's threat to shoot her. Police said Sanders told them the "gun" was a pop bottle.

When the man started to get out of his car, the young woman ran, she told police, and he drove away.

Sanders was arrested by Anaheim police about 6 a. m. after they had been alerted by a teletyped description issued by Long Beach police.

Hope Held for Girl in Coma

A neurological specialist from the University of California at Los Angeles medical school Saturday examined 15-year-old Susan Payette who has been in a coma for 31 days and said there is some hope for the girl.

Mrs. Lyle Payette, 2956 Ostrom Ave., the girl's mother clasped the doctor's hand after hearing of the slight hope and said, "My prayers have been answered."

Mrs. Payette, her husband and two other Payette children, Sally, 18, and Lyle Jr., 11, have been in almost constant vigil by the girl's bedside since her heart stopped beating and she went into a coma after a tonsillectomy May 31.

THE HEART, according to local doctors, had stopped an estimated three to five minutes, before the chest was cut open and massage restored the heartbeat. It was a "one in a million" case, doctors said.

The neurological expert Saturday told Payette that it was doubtful if the girl's heart had stopped for more than four minutes.

"Otherwise," he said, "she would not be here now."

Payette, a salesman who has used all his savings and borrowed money to keep a 24-hour watch by nurses at his daughter's bedside at St. Mary's Hospital, said the specialist spent an hour and one-half with the girl and told him:

"YOU WANT THE straight facts? Here they are: I don't know how much brain damage she has suffered. I am very hopeful she will recover, but it will be a long ordeal. It is possible that she will come out of the coma in two to three weeks."

The specialist told Payette to keep the girl in the hospital.

Friends and neighbors have been contributing funds to help the Payettes to meet medical expenses not covered by an insurance program.

WILLA MCGUIRE . . . to Perform at Race Start

That was in 1946. She won annually from then through 1952 and again in 1954 and 1955.

She recently has written a book called "How to Water Ski" and was featured in the Cypress Gardens water skiing portion of "This Is Cinerama."

WILLA AND HER husband, a Winter Haven, Fla., boat dealer and also a water-skiing enthusiast, have one daughter—who doesn't water-ski but has her mother's ambition to be a commercial artist.

Willa will be watching Wednesday's races with interest and COMPTON—The body of a four-year-old boy who fell into Compton Creek while fishing Saturday afternoon was recovered at 9:30 p.m. The boy had disappeared about 5 p.m.

The boy's stepfather, Sammy McGraw, 11517 Crouses St., told police he and the boy were fishing along the bank between Artesia and Alameda Sts. McGraw said he missed the boy about 5 p.m. and couldn't find him.

Several skin divers had combed the creek from Artesia

St. to Alameda St. without success before James found the body in three feet of water only a few feet from the spot where the boy's fishing pole had been found.

Boy Badly Hurt as Bike Hits Car

TORRANCE — Six-year-old Edward Lujan of 1568 W. 22nd St. was injured seriously Saturday when his bicycle was involved in a collision with a car, according to police.

The motorist, George Souder, 45, of 1455 W. 22nd St., said the lad rode into 22nd St., near Denker Ave., from between two parked cars.

The youngster was taken to Seaside Hospital with concussion, cuts and bruises.

Boy, 3, Starts Auto; He's Unhurt, Mom Is

Larry Bush, 3, of 2069 Cerritos Ave., accidentally started a car Saturday in which he and his mother, Minnie Bush, 33, were sitting, causing it to crash into the side of a house at 2065 Cerritos Ave. Larry was unhurt, but his mother suffered lacerations around the eyes and mouth.

British Zootsuit Gang Beats Up GIs

LONDON (U.P.)—A dozen British "Teddy Boys" (zootsuiters) attacked four American soldiers with broken bottles and bicycle chains Friday night near the U.S. embassy.

One G.I. was sent to a hospital.

Witnesses said the Teddy Boys drove up in two fast cars, apparently looking for a fight. Police arrested six of them after a running battle along south Moulton Street.

Travelers Aid Alert to Help Gasoline Tax Boost Into Effect Here

Long Beach parents who wish to take advantage of travel service for children described on page 10 of today's Parade supplement of The Independent Press-Telegram may do so by applying to the Travelers Aid Society of Long Beach, 218 E. 1st St.

This announcement was made Saturday by Miss Elsie M. Rogers, executive secretary of the Travelers Aid Society, a Red Feather agency.

"Summer is a heavy season for all kinds of travel," Miss Rogers pointed out, "and usually represents our peak period of service for children traveling alone. There is no reason for any Long Beach parents to take unnecessary risks with their children's welfare or safety when this community supports a Travelers Aid Society which has the facilities to insure children's wellbeing if they must travel alone."

The procedure:
1—Contact Travelers Aid at 218 E. 1st St. at least a week before the departure date.
2—Bring with you (this will save you a trip later on) a letter from the persons to whom your child is going, confirming that the visit is welcome and expected.

3—Bring your child with you when you visit Travelers Aid. This will enable the social worker to judge the child's emotional maturity. One 10-year-old may be perfectly capable of managing on his own over night; for another it may prove to be a needless ordeal.
4—Travelers Aid will note what your child is to wear for traveling and the number of the car in which he is seated. He will be shown the Travelers Aid armband and its blue-and-white lamp so he will know what to look for when he is reached their destinations safely under Travelers Aid protection. There were also a few, Miss Rogers pointed out, who unfortunately were sent off without this service and came to Travelers Aid's attention only after they had been stranded en route.

"My Conscience Lives With Me"

BLAMELESS, BUT ANGUISHED

'I Killed a Child'

(Editor's Note: On the eve of the deadly Fourth of July weekend a year ago, reporter Walter Froehlich of the Buffalo Courier-Express wrote down the words of an anguished, if blameless driver. Since then the story has been reprinted by the National Safety Council, handed to traffic violators in Elmira and Rochester, N. Y., translated into German. It is reprinted here as a solemn reminder to pleasure-bound motorists.)

They ask me did I see the child? Yes, I saw him. And he's all I've been seeing since. I saw him. But it was too late to stop. I was the last to see him alive. And the first to see his lifeless body limply sprawled on the pavement—a few inches from the bumper of my car.

Yes, I am the man they now call "Death Car Driver." I own the car whose pictures you saw in the daily press. And, yet, a thousand times I wish I were the victim rather than the man who killed him. For he died only once, but I a thousand deaths since then.

I saw him running out between two cars. He looked away. But yet his childish steps led into my path. I honked the horn. I kicked into the brake. I heard the tires squeal. And then the thud. I saw his little body hurled through the air and fall down flat just as my stopping wheel almost touched him once more.

I WALKED AHEAD and bent over his crumpled form. "Call an ambulance," I shouted. "Quick!" I saw the gathering crowd. They all looked at the child. And then at me.

Then came police and then the doctor. He looked first at the bloody face and form, then looked away and slowly shook his head. And then I saw the anguished features of a man—the father—and heard the desperate screams of a bereaved mother—how can I forget?

And when the scene had cleared and I had filed reports at headquarters and the police had cleared me, I stood alone and suddenly knew what I had really done.

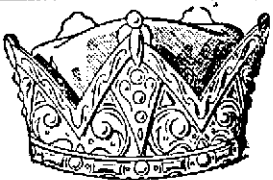

"Could happen to any of us," a voice behind me said. I felt the sympathetic touch of a policeman's hand. "You were not speeding, nor violating any law. We preferred no charges nor did any witness charge a fault by you. The child was unattended, roaming the streets alone and you did nothing that was dangerous or wrong."

I CARRY INSURANCE, sure. But who can replace a life? Should I visit the parents? See the child laid out? Or coldly disregard the death, the bitter grief? Will the father, mother hate me? Or would they understand? A sense of moral guilt hangs over me. It punishes the driver hard and makes him all afraid to face the parents of the lifeless child, or anyone.

Remorse alone cannot clear my conscience. I was not careless, the policeman said. I was within the law. But yet, my conscience lives with me, and I with it. And, thinking that, perhaps, the slightest bit of more attention on my part could have averted this will haunt my thoughts for every hour I shall live. And no one can deliver me of this.

400,000 Britons to Sample U.S. Hot Dogs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 400,000 Englishmen will be introduced to the American hot dog, courtesy of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, at the British Food Fair, in London, from Aug. 28 to Sept. 15.

"They will be the very highest quality U.S.-type hot dogs," an Agriculture Department spokesman assured United Press in an interview.

The hot dogs, with mustard or ketchup optional for the eater—but no sauerkraut or relish—will be given away at an American exhibit at the food fair.

U.S. officials have little hope that the stunt can build the hot dog up as a formidable contender for such British favorites as fish-and-chips. Nor do they expect to see hot dogs hawked at cricket matches any time soon.

The hot dog giveaway, arranged in cooperation with the

Jet Shoots Down Drone With Missile

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—An F102A jet interceptor Saturday shot down an unmanned B17 drone with a Gar-1 Falcon guided missile in a practice mission over the Gulf of Mexico.

It was the first time a production model of the supersonic Convair had knocked down a drone with the rocket propelled missile. An F89H Scorpion had used one to make a similar kill last Tuesday, however.

The Delta wing Convair, flown by Maj. Robert T. Goetz of the operational test center at Eglin, was guided to the drone by a ground radar controller.

The mission was conducted under simulated air defense conditions. Maj. Gen. Robert W.

The Lions elected Clarence L. Sturm of Manawa, Wis., to the third vice presidency, the only contested major office, and under normal procedure he will move up to the presidency of the 542,000-member service organization in 1959.

John L. Stickley of Charlotte, N. C., became president Saturday, succeeding Humberto Valenzuela of Santiago, Chile. Edward G. Barry of Little Rock, Ark., became the first vice president and Dudley L. Simms of Charleston, W. Va., second vice president.

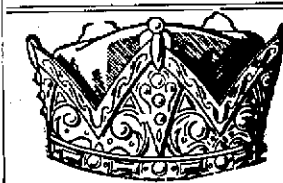

"Many nations may consider us as warmongers" when we do this, he said, but "if we accept . . . uncritically, we may weaken our alliances and thus invite the very war we seek to avoid."

Following his speech to the 15,000 voting delegates of the big service organization, Nixon left Miami by military plane for a 10-day trip around the world.

Nixon told the Lions the riots in Communist Poland, in which Warsaw Radio said 38 persons were killed and 270 wounded, illustrate the "modern type of colonial imperialism the Communists have imposed."

Speaking of the claims of Russian leaders that the Soviets desire peace, he said this country must tell the world "as we have, that we are always ready to listen to words of peace, but that we will act only when these words are followed by deeds."

Cypriot Chief Issues War Declaration

(EDITORS: United Press staff correspondent George Pipal sent a message through the pro-Greek EOKA underground to obtain this written interview with the outlawed leader of the Cyprus rebellion.)

By GEORGE PIPAL

ATHENS (UP)—Greek Cypriot rebel Gen. George Grivas issued a "declaration of war" Saturday against Great Britain.

He added in an exclusive written interview with United Press that self-determination for Cyprus would end the rebellion in the British colony.

The elusive rebel leader, who goes by the alias "Digenis," is a relentlessly hunted man, but is a wily quarry. Earlier this month the British got close enough to him to grab his shoes, beret, jacket, pistol and Sam Browne belt, but they missed Grivas. He slipped through the encircling British forces in a forest near Paphos and escaped. His men set fire to the forest. Twenty-one British soldiers died as a result of the blaze.

GRIVAS, trained by the British to lead guerrilla fighting against the Nazis in Greece, now is in hiding with a British price of $28,000 on his head.

A written questionnaire addressed to him through the Cypriot EOKA underground organization brought these replies:

Q. Does EOKA plan to achieve belligerent status—and thus place its members under the acts of war—by adopting uniforms and by declaring open war against the British government?

A. EOKA has declared war against the conqueror of Cyprus; its objective is the liberation of the island from the British yoke. We will do anything to gain freedom.

Q. Has EOKA taken any actions against the British outside Cyprus?

A. EOKA is a revolution and can be found everywhere ready to claim the just right of the Cypriots and the freedom of its fatherland. We hope the occupation government will not force us to use our power outside Cyprus.

Q. Does EOKA share the view of Archbishop Makarios that the gap between the Cypriots and Britain "is not wide"? What is the present chance of closing the gap by negotiation?

A. Just a single step forward of the British government, by granting the right of self-determination plus showing good will, will be quite sufficient to "bridge the gap" and solve the problem peacefully. Existing hate between the Greek and British peoples is not yet inextinguishable.

Twining, Liu Drink Toast to Harmony

MOSCOW (UP)—U. S. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining and the commander of the Communist Chinese Air Force clinked glasses and drank Saturday night to a Chinese toast for "peace and full friendship to all the world."

Chinese Gen. Liu Xia-Jie, at a reception in the House of Soviet Arms for visiting foreign air delegations, rose and made the toast.

Twining, who had studiously avoided the Chinese official throughout his week-long tour, was one seat away from Xia-Jie.

After the toast, the Chinese clinked glasses with Deputy Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Ivan Konev, then continued down the table to Twining who was standing next to Konev.

THEY CLINKED glasses in the traditional toast gesture. The Communist general moved down the table to do the same with other Western visitors, including British Air Marshal Sir Thomas Pike.

"It doesn't mean a thing," Pike said later.

The reception, tendered by Soviet Air Marshal Pavel Zhigarev, followed a visit by the visitors to the Soviet Air Force Academy at Morina where they saw the Russian version of the American B-29 bomber.

Twining saw six of the planes parked at the airfield. The Russians call them P-4's but Twining told newsmen "nobody could tell the difference" between them and the B-29.

He drove past the planes but did not look inside.

States' Need as School-Aid Gauge Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel K. McConnell Jr. said Saturday that President Eisenhower strongly favors changing the $1.6-billion federal school-aid bill to put allocation of building funds on a state-need basis.

The Pennsylvania Republican plans to offer the proviso when the House begins voting on amendments next week. It closed two days of emotion-charged debate Friday.

McCONNELL is ranking GOP member of the House Education and Labor Committee which drafted the legislation and is Republican floor manager of it.

He said in an interview that Eisenhower "very strongly favors" his amendment which would change the Democratic-approved plan for distributing the funds.

McConnell also said that while he has received no recent word from the White House, he "assumes" the President still is opposed to Rep. Adam C. Powell's amendment to bar school funds from racially segregated school districts.

Eisenhower has termed the Harlem Negro Democrat's anti-segregation amendment extraneous and unnecessary.

THE POWELL amendment and the fund allocation proposal are two of the major issues to be thrashed out by the House Monday and Tuesday. A southern "states' rights" attempt to kill virtually all federal requirements over distribution of the money also is expected.

A final vote likely will come Thursday after the Independence Day recess. With the Powell amendment and the bill itself cutting across party lines, few Congressmen were willing to forecast the outcome.

The bill as now drafted would give the states $400 million in federal funds for four years, on a basis of school-age population, to be matched 50-50 by state funds. This would amount to $11.30 a year per child for each state.

Oversale of Plane Seats Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is looking into an air transportation headache that is causing a lot of air-line customers to lose their tempers.

It is the problem of "overselling." That means the practice of selling 61 or more reservations on a plane that carries only 60 passengers. Somebody gets left behind.

COMPLAINTS about overselling have been increasing and have reached Congress. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) recently demanded an investigation. The Civil Aeronautics Board is quietly questioning the air lines.

A CAB spokesman told United Press that several air lines already have confessed they are overselling certain flights — deliberately.

"These air lines say it's a matter of self-defense," he added. They claim it is the only way they have to overcome the problem of "no-shows."

Nasser Back in Mid Ages, Says Mollet

LILLE, France (AP) — French Premier Guy Mollet Saturday accused Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser of suffering from "megomania" — delusions of grandeur.

In some of the strongest language yet aimed by a high French official against Egypt, which many French feel is aiding the Algerian rebels, Mollet said, "I denounce the megomania of Colonel Nasser."

"He hopes to line up behind himself not only the Arab world, but the entire Moslem world."

"One would think oneself back in the Middle Ages. Today, Pan-Islamism is a threat to peace."

Mollet spoke at a rally of his Socialist Party which has been split over his get-tough policies against the rebel "Army of Allah" in Algeria.

The party conference will vote today on separate resolutions approving and condemning Algerian policy.

Cuban to Take U. N. Disarmament Chair

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Cuban Ambassador Emilio Nunez Portuondo becomes chairman of the U. N. Disarmament Commission Sunday for the month of July. He succeeds Nationalist China's T. P. Tsiang. The commission meets Tuesday to review the work at the spring session of the five-nation disarmament subcommittee.

U.S. Fiscal Year Ends at $2 Billion Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government of a surplus running around two billion dollars—the first time in more than four years it has come out in the black.

Crown FOR CASH

For vacations, doctor bills, taxes — for cash for any worthwhile need we hope you will always come first to Crown. Payment of loan in 24 months figures as follows:

Amount of loan	$100	$300	$500
Repay Monthly	5.61	16.32	27.00

Loans of other amounts or for other periods are comparable.

Further, administration leaders let it be known they confidently expect to balance the budget again in fiscal 1957, which started at midnight. But some conceded, increased spending and higher costs might upset their early year forecast of a 1957 surplus of about 400 million dollars.

DEBT REDUCTION and the size of the surplus apparently have ruled out any prospect of an individual income tax cut for the present. Humphrey has said he feels a surplus of 3 to 4 billion dollars would be necessary even to consider a tax cut. Exact figures on how much the 1956 fiscal surplus may be will not be known until about July 20, when the government makes up a detailed statement of income and outgo. However, one thing is certain—revenue has been pouring in at a rate far greater than expected. Although spending is up too, the gain there doesn't compare with the increase in receipts.

CAPITAL CAPERS

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND BILL BROOM (Independent Press-Telegram Capital Bureau)

WASHINGTON—Government agencies last week engaged in a flurry of last-minute spending before the fiscal year ended on Saturday. The object was to head off a tax cut by paring down the treasury surplus as much as possible.

Leaders of both political parties will spend the next three weeks anxiously awaiting computations on the spending spree's effect. A big surplus could touch off demands for a tax cut, always an election year issue with appeal.

As the end of the fiscal year approached, it became apparent the budget surplus will be definitely larger than the $1.8 billion forecast in the last official estimate. It may even be bigger than the $3 billion congressional committees have forecast. Ike and Treasury Secretary Humphrey think a cut unjustified without considerably more surplus than expected.

The bureau of the budget tipped off the administration's concern when it sent out orders to all departments to cram every expenditure they legislate into the current fiscal year—to be on the safe side.

SOME REPUBLICANS who attend the nominating convention in San Francisco Aug. 20 to 24 may have to bring along a tent and sleeping bag.

The Golden Gate city's hotel men are seriously concerned about a room shortage during convention week. They are also miffed at the GOP convention arrangements committee which has appropriated 80 per cent of all hotel and motel room space from Santa Rosa, 50 miles north of the city, to San Jose, 50 miles south. The committee will handle all assignments, but hotel keepers figure they'll be blamed for all mixups.

The manager of one of San Francisco's largest hotels is telling friends that the Republicans are even assigning space in motels under construction. If a carpenter's strike pending in the bay area delays their completion, those rooms will not be available and the jamup for sleeping space will be even more serious than it now is.

PENTAGON OFFICERS who protested against Defense Secretary Charles Wilson's edict they were to wear civilian clothes may have pulled the biggest tactical error since the Battle of Bull Run. The officers complained bitterly they couldn't afford to buy

Czechs' Delegation to Visit Poland Soon

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Prague Radio reports a Czech delegation headed by Premier Viliam Siroky will visit Poland July 6 to "further strengthen cooperation between Czechoslovakia and Poland." The announcement came after the broad rebellion this week at Poznan, Polish industrial city.

Change Clothes Often and 'Live'

MONTREAL (AP)—A New York fashion expert says men would live longer if they changed their clothes more often. Jacob Solinger of the Fashion Institute of Technology advises men to take a tip from women who change dresses several times daily. A change of suits gives a man a lift and relieves tensions of modern life, he says.

DR. CHAN SAYS: NO LONGER MUST YOU SUFFER FROM Asthma - Diabetes - High Blood Pressure

For the past two generations the offices of Dr. Chan, D.C., located at 928 American Ave., have had outstanding results in treating chronic ailments such as ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, ARTHRITIS, NEURITIS, RHEUMATISM, HIGH OR LOW BLOOD PRESSURE, HEART TROUBLE, STOMACH OR LIVER DISORDERS, KIDNEY OR BLADDER AILMENTS, OR A GENERAL RUNDOWN CONDITION. Men and women from all walks of life come to take these treatments because other methods of healing have failed to help them. Many have spent a fortune in seeking cure before they try this simple, effective natural method of Dr. Chan. Our patients tell us that they wish they had known of our wonderful treatments sooner so that their suffering could have been avoided.

READ THESE AMAZING TESTIMONIALS

To Whom It May Concern: "For over 20 years I have been suffering from one doctor's office to another hoping to find someone to help me with my asthma and stomach condition. No one knows how much I had suffered until I came to Dr. Chan. Right after night I had to sit up because I wasn't able to lie down to sleep. I was coughing and wheezing reading your advertisement. I tried you for my first remedy and was thrilled to find that I responded wonder-most of the night, besides my stomach was full of gas. After the first treatment, I was able to breathe normally and could sleep better for the first time in many months. Now I am feeling fine and hoping others will benefit from my experience with Dr. Chan's Natural Method." Signed: Mrs. Vivian Murray.

TOKYO, Japan (UP)—Japanese scientists claimed Saturday the United States has tested a uranium-wrapped plutonium bomb and exploded another hydrogen bomb at a new high altitude in the Bikini area. A scientific team returning from a 35-day voyage in the Pacific said it obtained plutonium 239 and uranium 237 from the atmosphere twice during the voyage. "The ashes were very fine," the report said. "Probably the explosion was caused by using a plutonium core and natural uranium covering."

'Jinx' Skelton Rides Faulty Plane---Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Comedian Red Skelton and 55 other passengers arrived safely Saturday from Honolulu on a big plane with one of its four engines not functioning properly. "I always ride on three engines," Skelton wisecracked as he stepped from the plane.

He referred to a similar incident recently when a plane took off from Los Angeles for Honolulu, developed engine trouble and was diverted to San Francisco.

Skelton on that occasion joked and kept the passengers in laughter.

Saturday someone asked him whether he was worried.

"I always ride on three engines," he replied. "Besides, I didn't know anything about the engine. Nobody was bothered."

Someone admired Skelton's full red beard.

"I always raise a beard on my vacation," he explained.

Golf-Ball Hail Breaks Windows

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—The worst hail storm in 25 years slashed across southern Saskatchewan Friday night, heavily damaging grain crops.

Hailstones the size of golf balls pounded down amid howling winds, torrential rain and a wild display of lightning which knocked out power service over much of the province.

Thousands of dollars of damage was caused as the hail smashed car windshields, shattered windows in stores, homes and churches and punctured roofs of buildings. Trees were stripped of their leaves and bark. Wheat crops were buried in four inches of ice.

Sen. George Sees Aid Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Walter F. George said Saturday the Senate probably will have to compromise with a lower House figure in final action on foreign aid. He hopes the cut "won't be great."

House and Senate conferees start work next week, probably Thursday, on reconciling differences between the $3.8 billion House authorization bill and the $4.5 billion measure approved by the Senate Friday night.

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, agreed with Senate economy advocates that the stiffest test for the global military and economic assistance measure will come in the House and Senate appropriations committees when they consider actual funds to finance the program.

Rebellion Leader Breaks His Arm

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Retired Col. Armando Monge, alleged leader of an Argentine-backed plot to overthrow the Bolivian government, broke his arm in a suicide attempt at police headquarters, it was announced Saturday.

An official report said Monge threw himself from a second-floor gallery in an apparent attempt to end his life. It said he had previously confessed leading the plot reported here on the eve of the June 17 election.

Woman Gets High GOP Leader Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bertha Adkins, assistant to the chairman of the Republican National Committee, was appointed Saturday as chairman of the committee's special activities board.

National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said the assignment makes Miss Adkins "the first woman in either major party to attain such a position on the operational policy level."

The special activities board has subdivisions for agriculture, minorities, labor, veterans, nationalities, Young Republicans, the National Federation of Republican Women and the Women's Division of the National Committee.

Miss Adkins has been Hall's assistant since the Eisenhower administration took office in 1953. She is a native of Salisbury, Md., and a former college dean.

FRENCH LESSON

NEW YORK—"The best way to learn French," I've always heard, "is to get a French gal." Something told me that the Beautiful Wife wouldn't quite approve homework of such a first-hand nature in my case—so I chose to confine my studying to an interview with beautiful Nicole Maurey, whom Bing Crosby has called:

"A combination of Marlene Dietrich, Rita Hayworth and a farmer's daughters."

That's the pretty thing about Nicole Maurey, she pronounced it when I asked her to repeat the famous Crosby appraisal. I knew I was on the right track, linguistically, when I heard her say that "mouse-ful."

Nicole had come to a studio to be photographed.

"WHAT I SHOULD WEAR?" the pretty thing asked, hauling clothes out of a suitcase. "My alligator?"

"Alligator?" I asked in surprise.

"Oui, my alligator!" Nicole held up a small, tight garment known to Show Business as a "leopard." It having been named after a French aerial gymnast who presumably wore one and whose name was, of all things, Leopard.

Evidently Nicole had confused leopard with alligator, and in some way got alligator.

We progressed nicely from there. Nicole apprised me that in her new picture for RKO which she called "De Bold and De Brave," she played "de engineer."

"The engineer?" I naturally asked.

The bosomy French lass kept pronouncing and chewing "engineer" over and over until it became quite clear she meant "ingenue."

Pronounced "Engenoor."

"Have you ever had any trouble with English?" I asked.

"I don't know the boils," she confessed.

"Hal Boyle? I know him well," I boasted.

"You mean the vowels," spoke up a friend of Nicole's.

"Oh yes, not the boils—the vowels!" exclaimed Nicole.

'Pal Joey' Opening in 'Theatre' July 19

Rehearsals are well under way at The Theatre, 2400 Magnolia Ave., for the first Long Beach showing of the musical comedy hit "Pal Joey."

"Pal Joey" had a long Broadway run starring Gene Kelly and promises Long Beach audiences exciting entertainment along with the unforgettable music of Rodgers and Hart. Songs best remembered include "I Could Write a Book," and "Be-Witched, Bothered and Bewildered."

Appearing in the cast are

Walter Buck, Oney Alvis, Jean Reeves, Lee Gayer, Carol Smith, Cathy Davis, Charlotte Galvan, Leo Friedman, Ronny Moren, Bob Sorrells, Walter Ebee, Fanny McEnroe, Roy Malberg, Pamela Licht, Bobby Miller, Francine Storey, Les Buckner, Bill Beadle.

"Joey" will have its premiere opening on Thursday, July 19 and plays a limited run through Aug. 12.

Due to usual costs of this type of production and limited run, there will be a slight advance in price, $1.75 Thursdays and Sundays and $2 Fridays and Saturdays. Club rates are available. Box office is now open for reservations.

Mexico's Chief OKs Pay Bonus

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Most government workers will receive a 10 per cent bonus in July to help offset the rising cost of living. Abelardo De La Torre Grajales, head of the Federal Workers Union, says President Ruiz Cortines has ordered the extra pay for 240,000 of the nation's 300,000 government employees.

Typhoid Hits 300 Persons in Durango

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Federal Deputy Juan Pascador Polanco reports 300 persons were stricken with typhoid fever recently in the city of Durango. Some of the victims died. He blamed the epidemic on contaminated water from new wells.

COOL OFF

Workers Told; but With Discretion!

KYOTO, Japan (AP)—Government workers in this traditionally formal, but humid, ancient capital of Japan are getting a warm weather break. Regional Gov. Torazo Ninagawa told the 4,000 employees coats need not be worn at work. Women were asked to use discretion in applying his liberalized rules.

Martin Says Housing Bill Dead as Dodo

WASHINGTON (UP)—House Republican Leader Wm. Martin Jr. said the Democratic bill for public housing and make home-buying easier is "as dead as a dodo."

Authors of the measure countered that it was the only housing legislation Congress would get this year and the Eisenhower administration must shoulder the responsibility.

Each side in the House dispute over the bill accused the other of irresponsibility and both announced their firm resolution not to budge.

Without new legislation, several major government housing programs would die automatically, including public housing, college housing, military housing and the home-repair and improvement program.

A major tug-of-war between the two political parties over the measure looms in the closing weeks of Congress. With national elections only months away it could prove to be an important campaign issue.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack said the Republicans "have got to take the responsibility" if the programs are killed. Martin retorted that the Democrats control Congress and "it is their duty obviously" to offer legislation President Eisenhower can accept.

Martin reiterated that the Democratic bill is "unacceptable to the White House" and that most Republicans are "unalterably opposed" to it.

The Democratic bill would provide 180,000 new public housing units over the next three years, plus easier terms for securing mortgages under government-insured loans.

Eisenhower asked for 70,000 federally subsidized housing units in the coming two years.

The Senate has passed a bill authorizing 675,000 public housing units over the next five years.

The House Rules Committee Saturday voted 6 to 4 to kill the Democratic bill which had been approved by the House Banking Committee. Four Republicans and two Democrats voted to table the measure. Four Democrats voted to send it to the floor for action.

Record State Budget Into Effect Today

SACRAMENTO (UP)—You probably won't notice it, but the state's beach and park system.

California's record $1,800,000,000 1956-57 state budget goes into effect as the new fiscal year begins today.

Last year's $1,600,000,000 budget averaged out to governmental expenses of $121.27 for each man, woman and child in the state.

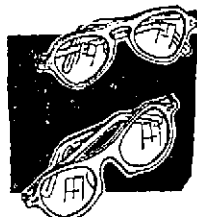

The new spending program, passed by the Legislature in March, will come to roughly $130 per person.

Most of the increase goes for the added costs of schools, mental hospitals, prisons, highways and other governmental activities enlarged by California's unceasing population growth.

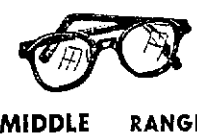

But there are also some notable new features. There are funds for the start of a 41-mile

Convention of Teachers Opens Today

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—The National Education Assn., claiming to be the world's largest professional organization with a membership of 630,000 school administrators and teachers, opens a six-day convention here today.

Hundreds of the more than 10,000 expected already have arrived for the 94th annual meeting, which begins with a vesper service to be addressed by Methodist Bishop Gerald Kennedy of Los Angeles.

Attending will be 5,000 official delegates from the 48 states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Alaska and Puerto Rico. This figure will be more than doubled by members of their families and convention guests.

They are taxing the city's hotel and motel accommodations and hundreds will be housed in rooms in private homes, offered after an appeal by convention officials.

In addition to general sessions, 24 departments affiliated with the NEA will be holding meetings in 40 buildings.

Topics to be discussed range from federal school financing to classroom behavior of pupils. "Proud to teach" is the convention theme.

New Taxes Today, Big Benefits Follow

HIGHWAYS users start paying added taxes today to finance what has been described as "the most ambitious and far-reaching single peacetime activity in the history of man"—the national road program authorized in the highway bill signed Friday by President Eisenhower.

Motor-minded Americans are consistently strong supporters of good highways, and little grumbling is expected as the new tax program goes into effect.

By their contributions, the motorists will be providing for 40,000 miles of modern highways to be built in the next 16 years at a cost of thirty-three and one-half billion dollars. The interstate grid contemplated in the bill will link 42 of the 48 state capitals and 90 per cent of the cities of more than 50,000 population.

Whereas President Eisenhower's plan of last year contemplated borrowing money to pay for this vast project, the bill passed by Congress and signed by the President provides for a pay-as-you-ride method of financing. Most of the money will come from an increase of one cent in the federal gasoline tax, raising this tax from two to three cents.

It is estimated the program will cost the average motorist from $8 to $10 per year, with trucks up to $400 a year each. Higher taxes on tires, tread rubber, Diesel fuels, trucks, trailers and buses are provided. There is also a use tax on heavy motor vehicles.

For the first three years allocation of money to states will be made on the basis of population and road mileage. After 1959 the apportionments will be on the estimated cost of completing interstate systems in the various states.

It has been estimated by state authorities that California's share of the allotment in the next three years will approximate $367,500,000 and that in twelve years the state's interstate highway system, 2,172 miles in length, will be built to freeway standards.

There are approximately 48,000,000 privately owned automobiles registered in the United States. Buses and trucks swell the total to about 58,000,000. With this vast number of motor vehicles the necessity of adequate highways is apparent. California has done an outstanding job of highway development but in many other states the cost has been prohibitive. With millions of Americans traveling by automobile an adequate system of roads is imperative.

Adoption of the program proposed by the President is a forward, progressive and timely step from which all states and the vast majority of people will benefit in varying degrees.

Two Big Fish Stories

WASHINGTON—Most people don't consider fish very controversial. However, fish have become one of the most controversial issues both in our diplomacy abroad and domestic politics here at home.

Here are two fish stories, which happen to be true:

PEARSON

Fish story No. 1—Revolves around Iceland where last week's elections about spell an early end of American air bases on that key outpost in the North Atlantic.

Reason behind this election was fish and a smart move by the Russians to buy up increasing amounts of the Icelandic fish catch. The United States could have done the same thing, but the American fish industry was opposed. It even urged a tariff against Icelandic fish, and the U. S. Tariff Commission proposed both a higher tariff and a quota, which was vetoed by Eisenhower.

However, U. S. purchases of Iceland's fish dropped from 25 per cent of the entire catch in 1952 to 13 per cent in 1955. Meanwhile Russia's purchases were rising from only 7 per cent in 1952 to 20 per cent in 1953 to 25 per cent in 1954 to 28 per cent in 1955.

Friendship usually follows trade. People like the smart that buys their product. And with the administration not smart enough to buy up the Icelandic catch and give it, if necessary, to India, the Icelanders drifted more and more toward their best customer—Russia. That fish story is the real reason why we will have to give up a key air base.

FISH STORY NO. 2—Concerns the battle between the American fishing industry which wants to catch fish and American sportsmen who want to protect fish. After a stormy back-stage battle, new Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton has done what "Generous Doug" McKay never seemed capable of doing. He has sided with the conservationists.

The battle over fish was spearheaded by a massive lobbying campaign of commercial fishing interests, aimed at breaking up the old and respected Fish and Wildlife Service. Instead, the industry wanted a new fisheries service, favorable to commercial fishing, plus a separate wildlife service to protect birds and game. This might permit more of the same overfishing, responsible for the plight of the fishing industry today.

The commercial fishing lobby also figured the change of hiking the tariff on imported fish would be better if a separate fisheries bureau was created.

On top of all these back-stage maneuvers, the White House suddenly issued an order just as Eisenhower was entering Walter Reed Hospital with ileitis. Whether he knew about it cannot be ascertained, but he decreed a split in the Fish and Wildlife Service effective July 1. This was exactly what the commercial fishermen wanted, and what the sports fishermen did not want.

THE SUDDEN White House move, however, was chiefly to help GOP candidates from fishing states next November, especially Governor Langlie of Washington who is running against Magnuson; Senator Duff of Pennsylvania, the Delaware shad state; Senator Kuchel of California with its sardines and tuna; and Senator Butler of Maryland with its great Chesapeake fishing waters. All face tough re-election battles.

The conservationists vigorously protested to Seaton, and the fish processors got into the act supporting the bureau split. Seaton decided to back the fish industry, but again the conservationists protested. Seaton listened patiently in a long session.

Finally he gave in:

"What's your plan?" he asked.

The conservationists outlined a compromise: a new Secretary of Interior for fish and wildlife, with a single fish and wildlife service raised to the level of a commission, under which would be a separate bureau for commercial fisheries plus one for sport fishing and wildlife.

"Okay, I'll accept it," agreed Seaton, promising to work for enactment of the White House order due to become effective this week.

Sen. Soaper Says:

By BILL VAUGHAN

A FATHER who has political hopes for his son had better be careful about letting him join organizations. Fifty years from now, the Mousketers may be subversive.

A BRIEF ITEM says a survey will be made of how much money Americans spend annually on hunting and fishing. These figures will be useful to the industry, and dynamite if wives get hold of them.

HERE WE GO AGAIN! The predictions of how many accidents will happen on the July 4 holiday this week are being announced now. They are making this cartoon as pertinent this week of 1956 as it was when Ding (Jay N. Darling) drew it more than a quarter century ago, for July 4 of 1930. In that quarter century accident-prevention has progressed remarkably; enough so, for instance, that automobile accident deaths now, despite the much greater number of cars, are only what they were when Ding drew this cartoon—about 100 per day. But, despite the best efforts of nearly everyone, unfortunately July 4, 1956, will make Ding's cartoon as fitting as it was for July 4, 1930.

Hot Events Impend in Russia

WASHINGTON—What's going on inside the Kremlin? Nobody here really knows, but American intelligence sources can make some shrewd guesses.

There's a battle on in the struggle for leadership between the former Stalin men and their opponents. Evidence of the conflict can be seen in the behavior of the Communist parties outside of Soviet Russia. Whoever still has these foreign instrumentalities under control—and it looks like someone in the top ministry who handles foreign outlets of propaganda—is in command—may have inspired the severest criticism of Khrushchev by the Communist groups outside Russia.

The outcry from "The Daily Worker" in New York, for example, and from Communist organs in other parts of the world is that the men in the Kremlin who stood by Stalin and didn't interfere with his cruelties are themselves to blame and must answer for their acquiescence in his crimes. It's really a political maneuver to get them out altogether.

Whenever dissension of such proportions goes on in any cabinet, there is bound to be a slowing up of certain activities and a speeding up of others.

IN THE CASE of the Kremlin, the speed-up is on the

MALCOLM EPLEY

Battle Over Oil Issue to Be Campaign Highlight

A BATTLE of the giants of the oil industry will clamor for the attention of California voters this fall right at the time the presidential campaign is running full blast.

Prop. 4, the oil conservation measure on the November ballot, is the issue that promises to spark a fight of vast proportions with millions thrown into the contest by both sides. Already, there are powerful rumblings that give some hint of the thunder to come.

Long Beach will get a close-up view of one phase of the struggle when the legislative committee on manufacturing, oil and mining conducts hearings on the proposal in this city on Aug. 23 and 24. Last week, another legislative committee held an inquiry on the same issue in Los Angeles.

THE LOS ANGELES hearing showed the battle lines. Proponents of Prop. 4 declared this proposal will double recoverable oil reserves in the state by providing for utilization of oil pools on the consent of 75 per cent of the producers. (At present, 100 per cent must agree, and proponents say that such agreements are virtually impossible.) Opponents of Prop. 4 charge that it is a scheme to restrict California production to the advantage of importing concerns.

These viewpoints and their many ramifications will be presented with increasing intensity as the campaign gets into full swing. The oil companies are lining up on one side or the other, and each group has ample resources upon which to draw for all-out drives for votes. No foreign propaganda side. A desperate effort is being made to win new laurels in the Middle East and in Europe.

The drive is on to push the American military forces, out of their bases everywhere in Europe and Asia. It has already succeeded in Iceland. The movement has intensified in Morocco and North Africa generally and trouble-making has been renewed by the Communists throughout Latin America. It looks as if the men in charge of the foreign office are seeking to establish a new prestige for domestic reasons.

Meanwhile, the infiltration policies which have been pursued with considerable vigor lately are making some headway and causing the western powers concern in France as well as Italy.

It's a mixed-up situation for the United States and her allies to analyze. For there is no certainty as to who is going to be on top next in the battle for supremacy inside the Kremlin. Whichever faction wins will be faced with internal weaknesses growing out of the fight itself.

THE NEW OUTBREAK of rioting just reported from Poland may or may not have been inspired by certain political strategists in Moscow but it looks as if the discipline usually exerted there over the satellite states has weakened lately. Hence, the people in Poland now are emboldened to take chances. Incidentally, it has always been assumed here that the overthrow of the government at Moscow would come about as a result of revolt initiated throughout the satellite states.

Perhaps soon the world will know more details as a purge of the higher-ups—maybe Khrushchev or Bulganin or both will go down—and the elevation of some new leader come to pass. Something is going on inside the Kremlin that means much to the outside world. Dictatorships work invisibly, and sometimes palace revolutions break out when the rival dictators cannot tolerate each other. It would seem that big events are in the offing.

THE HEARINGS here are scheduled for late in the week when the Republican National Convention is set for San Francisco, a fact that may have been overlooked. If the Republicans are still going on Thursday and Friday of that week, it will be difficult to win much public attention for the oil hearings set for those days.

Assemblyman W. S. Grant and Herbert R. Kloessiem of Long Beach are members of the manufacturing, oil and mining committee. Assemblyman H. W. (Pat) Kelly of Shafter is chairman.

JOHN S. KNIGHT

It's Time for GOP to Face Up to the 'Problem' of Dick Nixon

(Mr. Knight is editor and publisher of the Chicago Daily News and other Knight Newspapers)

AT THE RECENT conference of governors in Atlantic City, the 21 Republican heads of state signed a petition asking President Eisenhower to run for reelection but pointedly left out any reference to Vice President Nixon.

The official explanation, which nobody believes, was that it just hadn't occurred to them to include Nixon.

The truth is that Nixon's name was omitted by design. Gov. Fred Hall of Kansas, author of the Eisenhower petition, has quoted one of the GOP governors—quite possibly himself—as saying, "For God's sake, keep Nixon's name off of it."

So Nixon was ignored because the nation's Republican governors, with ears close to the ground and moist fingers testing the winds of public opinion, consider the young but experienced vice president something of a political liability.

BUT THE QUESTION may be appropriately asked: Why are the Republicans so self-conscious over Dick Nixon?

What is there about this affable, contemplative young man which makes him such a controversial figure?

Why do so many people say "I just don't like Nixon," without, in most instances, being able to offer valid reasons for their dislike?

As vice president, Dick Nixon has been a trusted and faithful aid to the President.

No vice president in modern times has been as well informed in the science of government.

From the hour of Eisenhower's first illness, Nixon has conducted himself with admirable dignity and restraint.

There have been no "foot-in-the-mouth" statements, nor any attempts at self-glorification.

IN VIEW OF THIS record, and it appears to be substantial, why do the Republicans and other segments of the party believe Dick Nixon has political "B. O."?

They will tell you privately, as several have told me, that they like him but Dick Nixon is "just not popular with the people."

Some folks, they say, think he is "too young." Others "don't like his looks," or remark that he "can't be trusted."

Reference is frequently made to the California campaign fund and Nixon's "corny show on television."

And, of course, Dick Nixon is extremely unpopular with Democratic leaders who resent his hard hitting campaign speeches and the alleged aspersions of their patriotism.

I venture the opinion, however, that inherent in the thinking of those who don't like Nixon for whatever frivolous reason may be expressed, is a solid doubt that he would make a good President.

And this, I submit, is the only question worthy of consideration.

MY OWN VIEW is that the Republicans are doing Dick Nixon a great injustice.

Either he is a man of presidential caliber, or he is not.

Because the Republicans have staked everything on a second term for Eisenhower, this question becomes tremendously important.

If the tergiversating Republicans, who are shying away from Nixon, feel he lacks the proper qualifications, why don't they stand up in meeting and say so?

Do they have a better candidate?

If not, the silent treatment they are giving Nixon is hurting the man who may be nominated for President if Ike doesn't run.

NO ONE IS BEING fooled by the present Republican strategy except the strategists who say every day that Ike is better in every way.

It is idle to pretend, and dishonest as well, to act as if Nixon did not exist.

It is incomparably stupid to brush him off, or wish that he might go away.

It is grossly unfair to Nixon, who has given such yeoman service to his country and to his chief, to backbite the vice president without having the courage to spend out against him in public.

For the Nixon problem, if that it can be called, is on their doorstep and the Republican leadership should come out of their dream house and face up to it.

L. A. Auditorium and Tax Problem

TO THE EDITOR:

A recent newspaper item in covering the now activated downtown Los Angeles auditorium and music center project (consistently rejected by the voters of Los Angeles City as not acceptable) brought out the point that the project, when completed would raise taxes on the adjoining property.

Civic minded business men should make a study of the general overall property tax situation within the County of Los Angeles before taking steps which might result in an increase of property taxes in any location within the county.

Civic-minded business men should also determine if there is a violation of the right to private domain (land ownership) in the planned downtown L. A. City auditorium project through the condemnation of private property for the benefit of other private interest.

It is reported that after private interest completes the construction of the center, the facilities are to be leased to Los Angeles County, this move to accord the County taxpayers the privileges of footing the bills (paying the expense of running the huge center).

There is a question as to whether the present Board of Supervisors will qualify for this job.

Two recent business ventures of the Supervisors will testify as to their ability to spend money, i.e., the hospital business venture and the flower garden business venture. Both projects are adding thousands of dollars each month to the excessive high cost of the L. A. County government.

Civic minded business men should immediately direct their attention towards cutting any county spending which tends to raise property taxes and take steps to have all lavish county spending stopped.

Willow Traffic Hazard Cited

TO THE EDITOR:

Just read Ronald Smith's letter in your column concerning the traffic on Willow. I feel that this is one time that I should add my "two cents worth" I will go just a little bit farther and say that it is not only a disgrace, but a traffic hazard as well. I am sure that Signal Hill residents enjoy Streets in Long Beach, and feel that the least they could do would be to fix theirs.

I called the police department of Signal Hill about this traffic hazard and was told that all the motorists should write the council about the hazard of this street.

I would suggest that the council members take a look at Willow during the traffic hours. I am sure that they would see what we see every night—cars bumper-to-bumper from American Ave., clear through to Cherry and sometimes as far as Redondo.

Not only that, but because you know that traffic is so congested and you are trying to help the guy behind you get out of it too, you might not pause long enough at a stop sign, consequently you are hailed down by a traffic cop and given a citation. But why aren't they there to get the traffic through?

Mothers Could Help as Nurses

TO THE EDITOR:

A suggestion to help relieve the shortage of registered nurses in Long Beach area: Hire the qualified mothers of school age children for school hours only.

There are many of us who would be glad to work from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on school days with weekends, holidays and vacations with our children and husbands.

MRS. JACK WEBBENS.

Chides Council on Rabies Issue

TO THE EDITOR:

What are the gentlemen of the city council, jellyfish or men? Are they afraid of their constituents or progress? The rabies vaccination issue may be a hot potato but give the public credit for a little intelligence.

A councilman may lose a few scattered votes for standing on his two feet but his majority would respect his courage.

How many would deny their children polio shots? Then what makes the Council think the public would oppose "infecting" a vaccination on a dog?

File the letter, indeed!

Sunday's sports smorgasbord

CONKED. One of the occupational hazards of a baseball career is breaking up the double play. The first-base runner is supposed to smear the defender at the keystone sack who can't complete the twin killing with a throw to first base.

Long Beach's manager of the Amarillo, Tex., Gold Sox of the Western League, Chuck Stevens, was called upon last week to demonstrate to his young and aspiring rookies how the double killing is spoiled. Unfortunately, he couldn't anticipate the moves of the opposition.

As he roared into second base dedicated to certain destruction of the second baseman handling the play, he started to slide. As he did so, the thrower unwound an errant heave toward first base. It never arrived. It struck the "old lefthander" in the head.

Down and out went Stevens. He's been recuperating rather slowly ever since and the medics tell him he'll have to take things easy for another week. He was socked, but good.

As a result of his experience, he no doubt has but one admonition for his youngsters, which goes something like this:

"Be sure you go low into second base, but hard, to break up the double play. Only as a last resort get conked. There are better ways to break up the double play—less painful ways. Hit 'em hard, but low. Being brained isn't the smart way to play this game."

And he speaks from experience.

SOIREE. Long Beach City College's Alumni Association will toss a reception for the new Viking football coach, Cecil Coleman and his wife, Tuesday night at the home of the group's secretary, George Marmon, 3834 Brayton Ave.

The affair for the new Norse boss will be attended by Viking athletic staff members Joe Hicks, Buck Anderson, Jim Clayton, Joe Lanning, Charlie Church, Monte Nitzkowski and Al Derian and their wives.

Another purpose will be served. The occasion will be a "welcome home party" for Mel Patton, the ex-Viking track coach who tutored the Wichita University spikemen last season. He and Shirley are home with the young Pattons—to stay.

MILESTONE DEPT. In the years to come when Brooklyn Dodger shortstop PeeWee Reese looks back upon his major league career, he'll hold 1956 in his recollections with special reverence. This is the season he reaches two milestones.

The veteran infielder and Dodger field captain, who has spent all his major league playing time of some 14 seasons with the same club, will become a 2,000 game player and a 2,000 hit man this season.

He had 1,837 games under his belt when he started the '56 campaign. And he had 1,916 hits to his credit off 26 league pitching. These totals have been increased to 1,918 games and 1,977 hits.

If the old warhorse can keep going without injury, he will be due to hit the 2,000 game mark about Sept. 20. The 2,000 hit club membership card will be his in July, at the 265 batting pace he is moving this season.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals already has reached the 2,000 game level this season, as has Mickey Vernon of the Boston Red Sox.

Only one other big league veteran can reach a 2,000 figure this season, Red Schoendienst, former Card keystone sacker now with the New York Giants, began the '56 season with 1,853 hits. If Bill Rigney keeps him working and he's on his stick, he may pick up the 147 needed to qualify. As of Saturday, he was working on his last 100. He needs 97 to make it.

TASKS. It takes a pitcher to best define his job. Tail Fred Green, Hollywood Star fireman, explains his chores with the Twinks in this enlightening manner:

"A starting pitcher must think of his job as one of nine-inning duration. Accordingly, he has to learn how to pace himself to go the distance.

"The relief pitcher is charged with more responsibility when he walks to the mound. His main job is to retire the first batter. The situation is always critical when he arrives on the scene. He either has to protect a slipping lead or has to keep the enemy from running away with the game.

"Either way, he's got to dispose of the first man he faces. This is what he is being paid for!"

KANGAROO AIDED RECORD

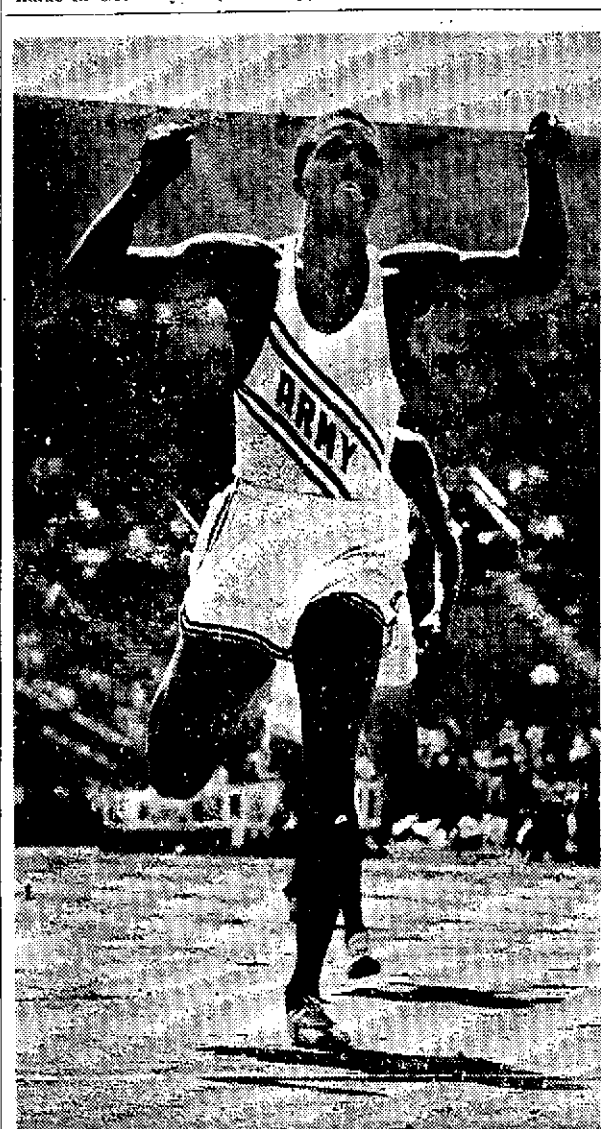

Dumas Had to Pay Own Way Into Olympic Trials

Charley Dumas had to pay $3 to get into the Coliseum Friday night to crack the seven-foot barrier in the high jump for the first time in history.

Dumas revealed Saturday that his coach, Herschel Smith, was supposed to meet him at the gate but got tied up in traffic. Dumas, a little nervous and taking no chances, paid the $3 and walked in with the paying customers.

"I thought he had cleared the seven-foot mark at a meet a few weeks ago," said his coach, "but he actually knocked the bar off with his eyebrow. That's the truth."

An interesting sidelight of Dumas' performance was the fact that he was wearing on his right foot a size 11 green shoe, made in Germany of (naturally) Australian kangaroo leather.

JONES SETS 400 METER RECORD

Lou Jones of Army breaks tape in world record shattering 400 meter finals at Coliseum Saturday. Jones was clocked in 45.2, breaking his own mark of 45.4 set in last Pan-American Games. Jim Lea and Charlie Jenkins also made U. S. team.

Just Jump to Win, Dumas Reveals

The Dumas place was just wasn't excited about a somewhat frantic house Saturday night. The phone rang constantly as well-wishers called to congratulate young Charley on being the first man ever to leap the 7-foot high jump barrier.

And where was the 19-year-old athlete? Out grocery shopping for the family.

Next to Charley, the least excited about his 7 foot 7/8 inch jump at Friday night's U. S. Olympic tryouts in the Coliseum was his mother, Nancy Dumas. "I told him earlier this week to go ahead and jump seven feet," she told a newsman.

Complaint: Too Many Home Runs

NEW YORK (AP)—Hammering Hank Bauer of the Yankees ranks as probably the only man in baseball history who ever complained about hitting too many home runs.

Hard to believe? Well, listen to Bauer's tale of woe. "Okay," said the Yankee outfielder, frowning, "so I have hit 16 homers already, but look at my batting average. It's down around .215."

"I'd gladly take those 16-6-104 made at the Coliseum in homers of mine, break them down into total bases and take them as singles instead. That would give me 64 more singles and, boy, I sure could use 'em a lot more than those homers." Bauer, whose previous high home run total was 20 last year, ranks only behind Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra on the Yankees in runs batted in with 45.

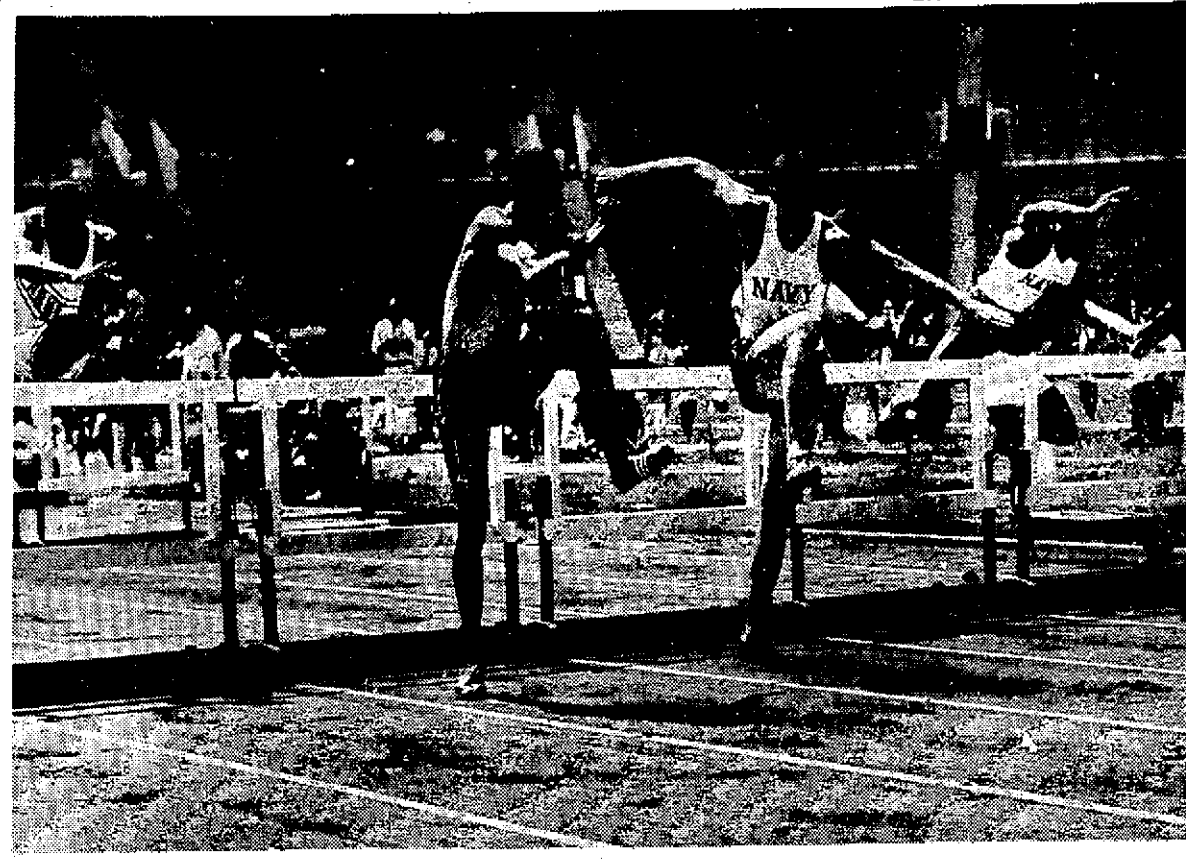

WEATHER OR NOT

Rams Begin Drills July 12

It doesn't seem time yet and the weather will be a bit warm but football season begins July 12 for the Los Angeles Rams.

That's the date when the rookies will report to Coach Sid Gilman at the team's University of Redlands training camp. The returning vets report July 26 and those 30 years above have until Aug. 1.

The Rams will open their exhibition season against Fort Ord at Long Beach Veterans' Memorial Stadium on Aug. 11.

CLEVELAND (AP)— Gerry Staley of the National League White Sox and his second triumph over Cleveland. The White Sox clinched the game with a six-run fourth inning explosion against starter Don Mossi and reliever Art Houtteman. Nelly Fox and Sammy Esposito each hit two-run singles in the rally.

Staley was rapped for Al Rosen's 10th homer and George Strickland's first, but he was given excellent support. The victory was his third without

Bums Tee Off on Roberts, Phillies, 10-7

BROOKLYN (AP)—The Dodgers erupted with two big innings, a five run second and a three run eighth, to defeat Robin Roberts and the Phillies, 10-7, Saturday.

Junior Gilliam, with a double and three singles; Randy Jackson with a double and a triple and Gil Hodges with a three-run homer sparked the 15-hit Brooklyn attack.

Roberts, trying for his ninth victory, was the victim of the five run uprising and instead went down to his ninth defeat.

Seven of Long Beach's eight Little League teams are apparently signed, sealed and sold on entering the All-City playoffs to be held early in August.

East Lakewood is the only Long Beach Little League interested in bucking the national tournament instead of entering the highly-successful city playoffs.

Hank Johnston, district superintendent of Little Leagues, will call for a district tournament meeting for his 19 leagues, which includes Long Beach, Torrance, Lomita, Palos Verdes, etc., to discuss plans for first elimination to the national event in the near future.

Current plans are to hold the district tournament at Torrance the end of July.

THE CATHOLIC BOYS
League fourth annual jamboree will be held at Recreation Park on July 4. A 25 cent donation will be asked for admission.

Ten teams each from the class A and B divisions will compete. Six teams from the C division also are entered.

The bottom two teams in the standings will play each other for two innings and proceed through the day until the top two teams in the standings before that date meet in the finale.

St. Anthony's won its fourth "A" contest of the year Saturday by overpowering Our Lady of Refuge, 21-5.

Mike Price and George Banks combined for a two-hitter while catcher Ty Price was sparking the hitting attack with two doubles and a single in three at bats.

In defending champion Jim Ferrier, Jerry Barber and Paul Runyan, the Southern California PGA Championship at Recreation Park, July 12-15, will have three of the finest short game players in the nation.

Although all have proven their capabilities on longer and tougher courses, the moderately-taxing 6,263 championship yards of the municipal links are ideally suited for them.

"This is essentially a drive, pitch and putt course for the professional," replied club pro George Lake to our query. "If you hit your drive long and straight on most holes, you don't need much of an iron to reach the green."

"When Sam Snead shot his record-breaking 63 in his only visit here, he boomed his drives so close, that all that was left was to flip short wedges stiff to the pin."

Although Ferrier, Barber and Runyan are no sneads of the tee, their handling of the 9-iron, wedge and putter rank them right at the head of the "men to beat" class in the SC-PGA.

Ferrier is one of the acknowledged great putters of all time. He missed only three putts of five feet or less in defeating Ralph Evans and Cecil Harris in last year's Championship 36-hole semi-finals and finals.

A striking illustration of Barber's short game prowess came in the recent U.S. Open. Hitting only 10 greens in regulation figures and trapped nine times, he shot a second round 69, the second low score of the tourney.

We include Runyan as a distinct title threat because the veteran former two-time national PGA champion is currently playing in top form. His mastery of the spoon and chip shots are golf legend and his PGA title victories over Craig Wood and Snead always cited as proof positive that the good little man with the good short game can beat the good big man with the good big game.

These three are by no means the only ones in the 1956 SC-PGA field with outstanding short games. But they are three who will be hard to bet against.

SC-PGA BRIEFS: There's an outside chance that Lloyd Mangrum may compete. He's eligible and has been extended an invitation... Forty-three entries have been received. Deadline is 12 noon on July 9... Deadline for purchasing a $1 four-day pre-season gallery ticket is next Sunday. They can be obtained at all pro shops.

COOPER'S UPSET

Rap Tourney Scheduling

WIMBLEDON (UP)—Critics, London newspapers and former Wimbledon women's champion, Maureen Connolly of San Diego blasted the Wimbledon organizers Saturday for their "unfair" scheduling which put Australia's third ranking tennis player, Ashley Cooper, against America's Allen Morris after Cooper had played three strenuous matches without rest.

They pointed out that Morris, ranked only 17th in the United States, had three comparatively easy matches before he met and defeated Cooper Friday in the biggest upset of the tourney.

Bittick Sets SPAAU Swimming Record

Chuck Bittick of the downtown YMCA set a new SPAAU record in the senior men's 200-yard backstroke Saturday during competition in the Western States swimming meet at Santa Monica. Bittick's time was 2:16.7.

This event, and the 400 individual medley in which Bittick finished third, were the only ones during the first day's program in which local YMCA swimmers were entered. The meet continues today.

100-Lap Feature Heads Gardena Program July 4

The California Racing Association turns its contingent of full-sized race cars loose Wednesday night in a Fourth of July presentation to highlight this week's auto card.

A 100-lap main event tops the Gardena program, which also includes a three-lap trophy dash, 10-lap trophy dash, 10-lap semi-main, and fireworks displays. Races start at 8:30 p. m. and will be preceded by the time trials at 7.

Jim Reed, Peckskill, N. Y., three-time national titlist, tops four new entrants signing for the 150-lap NASCAR late model stock car race Tuesday night at Gardena. Others include Lyle Matlock, Jim Cook, and Fred Hunt. Two 25-lap semi-main events precede the $3,200 feature on the quarter mile clay oval. Races start at 8:30 p. m.

Entries were mailed Saturday for the first annual Fiesta del Pacifico sports car road race, to be held at San Diego's Montgomery Air Field on Saturday and Sunday, July 21-22. The races, to be co-sponsored by the California Sports Car Club and the San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce, will replace Torrey Pines as a San Diego event for major-league sports car racing.

Kindall had worked out with several big league clubs since the collegiate season ended and had attracted wide attention.

Wid Matthews of the Cubs, who signed Kindall, would not announce terms of the contract beyond the fact that it was a bonus deal.

Rocket Nine, Mary Star Tangle Today

Averaging better than 10 hits per game in an all-winning last six outings, the Long Beach Rockets will send their sluggers against Mary Star of the Sea this afternoon at Recreation Park. Game time is 2:15.

Mary Star of San Pedro, is the Rockets' second foe in Summer semipro play. The locals opened the campaign last week with a 12-4 triumph over Chandler Rock and Gravel.

The Rockets are unbeaten since absorbing a 12-0 drubbing from the L. A. All-Stars May 6. Sponsor Bill Feistner and Manager Walt Carson are looking forward to next Sunday's rematch with the All-Stars in a league game at Recreation Park.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS

Yellowtail fishing remained at a good level at San Diego. Ensenada landings also reported a big pickup in yellow catches. Gordo's Bait House had a total of several hundred for a three-day period, starting last Sunday.

Los Angeles County forest areas are under the summer closure regulations, with these canyons affected: Big and Little Dalton, San Antonio, San Gabriel, Big and Little Santa, Arroyo Seco and Lopez. All major roads through those districts, as well as camping and recreational areas, will remain open. Just remember that you can't

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Paul Holland, 1921B Orange Ave., and wife, Vivian, are back from the Kern River country with limits of trout—and that's not unusual for them. They always get fish. Their companions, Max and Pauline Matson, of Bellflower, also came home with limits.

Holland is a good trout fisherman because he first studies water and feed conditions, then starts fishing. He has found that hellgrammites, taken fresh from under rocks in the stream bed, bring the best results in the Kern area. One of his favorite streams is Peppermint Creek, which can be reached by road.

Holland also uses a 19-cent fly, a rubbery affair made to resemble a hellgrammite. And he says that grasshoppers are excellent in the late afternoons.

He says that the Kern is high, but should be clear within a couple of weeks. The Tule River is low. Anglers packing in the Rutherford Station at Quaking Aspen are getting plenty of trout, mostly on bait, because all back-country streams still are high, but clear. There are some golden trout in that area.

MORE PASSES on the eastern side of the Sierra Nevada are opening. Kearsage Pass is expected to be open this week. Mono Pass in the Rock Creek section is open, but in poor condition. No reports have been received from the upper Rock Creek lakes.

Best producing streams south of Bishop are Birch, Tinnemahs, Taboose, Goodale, Oak, Independence, Bairs, George's, Shepherd, Hogback, Lone Pine, Tuttle, Cottonwood and Ash.

North of Bishop, best lakes are Fremont, Lane, Roosevelt, Twin (Bridgeport), Green (just opened) and all the Virginia Lakes group. Lundy is fair to good. All Mammoth Lakes fair to good, particularly Mary and Twin.

There is improvement in fishing at Silver Lake, especially for the trollers. Parker, Gem and Agnew are open, but there are no reports as yet. Crowley, with only a month to go, is generally poor.

BACK TO THE OCEAN, we find that the abalone are edging a little closer to shore. This week may well determine if they are coming near enough for a major offshore run. If the longfins get into the channels around San Clemente and Catalina Islands, look for the most furious rush of fishermen in the year's history.

Ocean fishermen have had a rough season to date and abalone is the magic word that will set 'em all crazy.

Some landings already have started their "abalone specials," but the trip is a long one. Other operators are just watching. If the fish come close enough, they probably will throw all available sports fishing craft into service to take care of the crowds.

Gene Fink, who skipped the Islander on that two-day run out of Pierpoint last week, said that the fish definitely were working toward San Clemente Island. That was borne out by catches later. The Fisherman II and Spitfire, out of Pacific and Pierpoint, landings, made good hauls just off the east end of the island.

ODDS AND ENDS—Hottest fishing spots in San Diego County for warm-water fishes are Henshaw Lake, where anglers are taking big crappies, and Morena Reservoir, home of the large-sized bluegill. Morena is open five days each week, Wednesdays through Sundays; Henshaw every day the year 'round.

Trout fishing at Cachuma Lake, near Santa Barbara, picked up last week, with several 2 and 3-pounders being weighed in at the landing. Elsewhere, trout fishing in the Southland remained on the put-and-take basis.

Shrimp a foot long and weighing half a pound each have been found in extremely deep waters of the Gulf of Mexico. Cecil Reed, director of the Marine Fisheries Division of the Texas Fish and Game Laboratory at Rockport, in announcing the find, said: "As soon as we can devise ways to catch these huge shrimp, they'll be on the market."

Wouldn't you know that a Texan would discover shrimp to match everything else in that state!

yard 10th on a short approach and a birdie on the easy 263-yard 12th, an eight-foot putt, left him three under par going into the 15th. Bad putting then cost him two strokes. He missed an 18-inch try on the 15th and three-putted the 17th. But he finished as he started with a birdie on a seven-foot putt.

COLLARD recovered from a double bogey on the sixth with four birdies and a 33 on the back nine for his 70. Coger fired six birdies but took double-bogies on the sixth and 14th. White went out in 34 but limped home in 40 missing five putts of five feet or less. The unheralded Stubbs putted only 27 times, 12 coming on the front side for a 33.

While all the golfers finished their rounds and went home, 12-year-old Jimmy Young of Gardena was dissatisfied with his game and played a few more holes. In his first tournament try, Jimmy, a 14-handicapper, had 50-50-100. Results:

SANTA Fe's new high level train, which I rode to San Diego and back Friday, does something for your ego as well as your outlook.

I was reminded of horseback riding in the woods. Hiking, you feel small and insignificant among the great trees. On a horse, you get a sense of power and importance.

Just being a few feet higher seems to do it, and I got the same stimulating experience out of riding the El Capitan's upper deck, eight feet above the clicking rails.

That's carrying the analogy far enough. Certainly the El Capitan's foam rubber seats are not to be likened to the back of a horse as regards comfort and what can happen to certain muscles of the first-time or occasional rider.

I CAUGHT the El Capitan at Santa Ana for its exhibition run to San Diego. There were a lot of other newspaper, TV and radio people on the train, among them our Southland Magazine editor, Fred Kraft. Accompanying Bro. Kraft and me were our wives, which I mention because of something which happened at the end of the trip.

First thing "different" that we noticed was that we entered our car at the center, rather than the end. Just a short step up, and we were in the luggage storage section that, with dressing rooms, comprises the "first story" of the coach car. Stairs from there took us to the high level chair compartment.

Aside from the exhilarating high level view, the most notable thing there was roominess. One can really stretch his legs from those seats, no matter how long the legs are. And there are padded leg rests and reclining backs that make contour chairs out of the cleverly designed seats.

This is fine at any time, but it would certainly be great for long travel.

WE ENJOYED dining, too, at high level. The kitchen is on the lower floor of the dining car, adding a lot of room for tables on the upper deck.

The lounge car is a double decker, and the upper room features curved glass windows connecting wall and ceiling. Bright, airy and view-full.

Modernistic decor in soothing colors, and soft music, provide pleasant atmospheric touches. It's still a train, but quite a train, one must admit. It will be on display here July 7.

WE WHISKED to San Diego at high speed, through the lovely Southland countryside and along the ocean. I don't know the rate, but we passed up the automobiles on paralleling highway 101.

At San Diego we stayed aboard, and in a little while had reversed directions and were rolling northward toward the incident involving our wives that I must relate.

The trip took less time than we realized, and presently, when the train had stopped a moment or two, somebody said we were back in Santa Ana.

So we got right up and asked the car porter if we could leave from that car. Sure, he said, and led us down the stairs. He opened the middle side door and Fred and I, who were ahead as long-married husbands should be, stepped through.

JUST THEN the train started, and I mean started. My gal Jane looked startled as she stood in the door, with Verda just behind. The porter snatched up his little stool and ran madly for the rapidly departing door, motioning the gals to stay aboard. He barely made it, the train swung around the bend, and there stood Kraft and Epley, sans wives.

We went into the station and told a fellow at the ticket window that the train had taken our wives away.

"Is that bad?" he asked, then made a call to Fullerton where El Capitan was to stop. Kraft was all for starting right over there, but I insisted caution required waiting until the gals called. They might go on into L.A. or something.

But I was wrong, as usual. Presently I was called to the phone, and Jane's voice said from Fullerton:

"Why aren't you over here to pick us up?"

Aeronautic Whiz Keeps Hamburger Stand Flying

Crackup Planes Rebuilt Here, Return to Sky

By BRYAN HODGSON

Jim Conroy is probably the only man in the world who has installed wings on a hamburger stand and made it fly.

This may strike the average air-minded citizen as a rather startling accomplishment, but it was strictly a routine job for the quiet, 43-year-old president of Long Beach Aeromotive.

"The hamburger stand was a gutted C-54 plane fuselage in Kentucky," he said. "All we had to do was buy some wings in Seattle, a center wing section in Albuquerque and the landing gear in Dallas, and then ship them all here for assembly."

When Conroy and his staff of 151 skilled workers were finished, they had a gleaming, good-as-new airplane which, to date, has piled up over 5,000 hours of safe trans-ocean flying time.

"BUILDING NEW airplanes out of old parts is only one of our specialties," Conroy said. "We're equipped to do almost any job of modification or repair to anything with wings."

The plant at 2735 E. Spring St. is jammed with airplanes of all sizes, in all stages of repair, but the center of attraction right now is the fuselage of a giant DC-4 transport in the process of reconstruction.

"The plane cracked up on a

snowbank in Gander, Newfoundland. It cost over $30,000 just to ship it here, but when it's rebuilt it'll sell for more than it cost new."

On another corner of the yard, a badly crumpled DC-3 waited its turn for renovation.

"In 90 days, that plane will be flying again," Conroy said. "Before we're through, every damaged part will be replaced as good as new. If there's any doubt, we'll make it better."

And to make doubly sure his rebuilt planes are in top shape, Conroy does his own test flying.

KEY TO Long Beach Aeromotive's booming business—now at the $1,000,000-a-year level—is the increasing use of "flying offices" by industrial executives.

"The defense program and commercial airline contracts are absorbing most of the new plane production, so used transport planes are at a premium."

"We've built some pretty plush planes for the big oil companies, and once in a while we remodel a Catalina flying boat into a flying yacht for well-heeled sportsmen."

Among his satisfied customers are John Jacob Astor, Oilman Glenn McCarthy, Rexall Drug Co. President Justin Dart and China's Gen. Chiang-kai-shek. The company also rebuilds planes for airlines in South America, and does contract repair and modification work for the Navy and Air Force.

TOURING THE construction yard, Conroy stopped to inspect each job and greeted workers by their first names.

"It's tough to get highly skilled craftsmen these days, but the men like the challenge our work presents. You've got to be really good to rebuild an airplane, and they're proud of their work."

"I sign about half a million dollars worth of paychecks a year, but they're worth every cent."

Conroy's business is all up in the air, but for pleasure he likes four wheels on the ground.

Ducking into a small workshop, he proudly displayed his pet reconstruction project—a 1938 Cord roadster.

"I don't get much time now-days to work on it," he said ruefully, pointing to the dust-covered hood.

"But if it had wings, it would be finished next week."

City Brief Will Attack Tideland Oil Suit Claim

El Dorado Park Plan Advances

By HARRY FULTON

First step in developing the 600-acre El Dorado Park along the San Gabriel River will be undertaken in the near future, according to Don Obert, city park director.

A community building to serve the Los Altos area already has been constructed at the intersection of Barrios St. and Studebaker Rd., and Obert said the city soon will award a contract for other improvements in this area.

The area will be graded, sprinklers will be installed and lawns will be planted. Parking for automobiles also will be provided, shrubs will be planted and a softball diamond will be constructed.

Development of this large regional park is just part of the $4,900,000 citywide park and recreation improvement authorized by voters last Feb. 9.

SOME OF the park and recreation improvement bonds are now being sold, but proceeds from the initial sale will be used primarily for design and engineering on the various projects approved. Actual construction on most major projects will not be started until next winter, Obert said.

One other project which already has advanced beyond the planning stage, however, involves improvements at the California Ave. recreation center at 15th and California. Development of a complete neighborhood playground is now under way. The recreation area has been enlarged and is being landscaped, and a children's playground and var-

Mallon Case Hearing Set in L.A. Court

By GEORGE WEEKS
City Hall Reporter

The city will attempt soon to bring an end to the Mallon suit, still pending but asserted to be moot because of new turns of events since its filing three years ago.

The suit challenged the legality of the city's use of tideland oil money, acquired by grant from the state, away from the harbor and on municipal projects.

City Atty. Walfred Jacobson has announced he and special counsel O'Melveny & Myers will go before Judge A. Curtis Smith in Los Angeles Superior Court on July 10 to argue a motion for permission to file an amended answer to the original complaint.

In brief, the answer will argue that trial of the action should abate pending the consummation of a settlement implemented by Assembly Bill 77 and a subsequent stipulation, Jacobson said.

After that, the city will move for dismissal of the suit as moot.

THE ANSWER, now being drafted in final form, recalls some of the curious history of the litigation in which the state Supreme Court reversed a trial court and introduced a principle which did not appear in the original pleadings.

As a result of the high court's opinion and the legislative compromise, the city has agreed to surrender to the state $120,000,000 in cash and securities, plus accruals which in future years will amount to many millions more.

The city's original position in the suit was taken "in good faith," the answer says, based on its understanding that a 1951 statute freed a portion of the tideland revenue from the terms of the trust with the state.

This understanding, it is pointed out, was shared by the governor at that time, Earl Warren, Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown and the legislature itself.

In view of the changed set of facts, the answer adds, it is the

First Post-War Fleet Review Linked to 'Mrs. Navy' Contest

Scores of Navy warships will steam through Long Beach Harbor Sept. 14 in the first fleet review held in the nation since 1937.

Navy Secy. Charles S. Thomas have had "never less than 30 as and Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, will be on hand for the review—which will be held in connection with the "Mrs. United States Navy Contest" here Sept. 6-15. The ships will form a column off Seal Beach, sail through the breakwater and into the harbor.

The vessels will be about 500 to 1,000 yards apart in the column. Naval aircraft will fly overhead throughout the review.

Entries in the contest—sponsored by the Fleet Reserve Assn.—are being received from Navy bases throughout the world, Beck said.

The applications are forwarded to the 34 naval commands, which will have separate contests to select a representative to take part in the Long Beach competition.

IT WILL NOT be a beauty show, said Beck, "but a contest to select the woman who has made the greatest contribution to her husband's desire to make a career of the Navy."

The winner will receive a new car, a complete wardrobe, an expense-paid trip to Honolulu and 14 major cities and $2,500 cash.

Other features of the contest week will be a full-dress military parade through downtown Long Beach and a one-day cruise for the contestants aboard a Navy ship.

Bank of America Resources Go Over $9 1/2 Billion
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bank of America said Saturday its resources totaled $9,521,617,505, a gain of $281,529,534 during the past year.

The nation's largest banks, in a statement of condition, said total deposits aggregated $8,498,981,384, a gain of $108,984,380 since last June 30, 1955.

Big Parking Center Opening

The new Long Beach Federal Savings Parking Center at 345 Elm Ave. will be officially opened for parking Monday, it was announced today by T. A. Gregory, president of the Long Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association.

The multi-tiered parking center will provide for downtown Long Beach additional parking space equal to all that available on American Ave. from Ocean Blvd. to 10th St., Gregory said. Gregory noted that the firm's customers would be allowed two hour's free parking at the new facility, giving them ample time to complete their shopping or other business downtown.

He has extended an invitation to all Long Beach residents to visit the firm's offices at 328

IN ADDITION to free parking, Long Beach Federal customers receive such additional services as being provided with courtesy counter checks and, if they qualify, free safe deposit boxes, he said.

The Parking Center, long a subject of interest to Long Beach sidewalk superintendents, is downtown Long Beach's first building utilizing the radical lift-slab method of construction.

Described as one of the most modern parking facilities in the nation, it has been designed to allow for shorter four-foot ramps between floor levels, and for other space saving devices.

Besides utilizing the hydraulic lift-slab method of construction, the building is also notable in that a revolutionary new casting method was used for forming the parking decks. These methods resulted in substantial savings over traditional construction methods, Gregory reports.

Stress Quality of Centex Homes Built in Anaheim

There must be a reason why more than 13,000 families over the nation have moved into Centex residences since 1950; why Centex Construction Co. has zoomed to first in the nation in residential construction in six short years, salesmen say. In this land of free enterprise, there can be only one answer: Centex can and does offer the quality conscious home-seeker the best-planned, best-built, best-located home available.

"See for yourself," the salesmen continued. "Inspect Lincoln Park, Centex's Anaheim subdivision. Note the sturdy construction, plaster walls, hardwood floors, raised foundations, extra thick subflooring. Consider the basic soundness of the floor plans—the privacy and ease of passage through ingenious hallways, the versatility of the living areas through expert placement of folding louvered doors, sliding glass panels.

"Count the luxurious extras in ceramic tiled baths and pullmans, colored cast-iron fixtures, glass enclosed showers, plastic tile flooring in kitchen and baths, oversized closets with easy-sliding doors, built-in Cuppertone oven and ranges, family-sized snack bars, decorative lighting accessories, forced-air heating, 50-gallon water heaters, natural ash paneling on cabinets, walls and doors, impressively designed fireplaces with log lighters, lavish use of mirrors through-

Sun Garden Estates announced it is leading the way in the revision of loan terms to amply provide for the annual tax levy at the new 1956-57 rate.

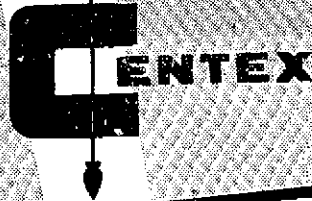

Gilbert J. Hayes, sales agent, announced an all out effort to clearly define terms for buyers to insure against payment increases resulting from inadequate tax impound schedules. He reiterated suggestions made by the assessor's office and VA officials that buyers should make pointed inquiries about taxes before they buy.

Grandview Palos Verdes Sales Already $1 Million

Attracting more than 15,000 visitors and pushing sales past the $1,000,000 mark, the grand opening of Grandview Palos Verdes last weekend resulted in what its sponsors described as an all-time record for openings of new residential communities in the luxury home bracket.

"This steady flow of visitors, amounting to an estimated 15,000 over last weekend, represented the largest attendance ever attracted in a single weekend to a model home display in this price bracket," stated Edward K. Zuckerman and Barney R. Morris, heads of the Grandview Building Co., developers.

"It provided a powerful answer to the question of whether there is a strong continuing demand for quality homes, well located, in the Southland," added Walter W. Mansfield & Associates, sales agents.

THE MODEL home display at Montemalaga Drive and Silver Spur Road, adjoining Palos Verdes Estates, will continue open for visitors daily and Sunday, it was announced.

Mansfield commented, "It becomes evident from our sampling of visitors to the grand opening that many prospective home buyers, not satisfied with other homes and locations, have been waiting for Grandview Palos Verdes. Many of them are second-time buyers, announcing they will dispose of homes purchased in other areas to locate in this new luxury community on the fashionable peninsula."

Not until the opening of Grandview Palos Verdes, Mansfield pointed out, could veterans move into such an area in top-quality homes on 30-year 4 1/2 per cent VA terms, with down payments from $1500, including all closing costs.

CONVENTIONAL financing for non-vets, with 20 per cent down, has attracted wide interest in this group of visitors at Grandview Palos Verdes Estates, according to Mansfield.

There are 218 3- and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes, designed by two leading architectural firms—Harris & Rice, AIA, and William M. Bray, AIA—in the initial unit of the community, and ultimately $75,000,000 worth of luxury homes are to be built in the area recently acquired.

Overlooking the Palos Verdes Golf Course, the homes are priced from $19,500 to $26,525. All are fully landscaped with front, side and rear yards, ornamental shrubs. Slopes are planted with ice plants. Included in the planned community are sewers, curbs, gutters, sidewalks, safety-designed streets that eliminate through traffic, ornamental street lights, gas, electricity and telephone services.

Model kitchens have natural-finish ash cabinets, range hoods and exhaust fans, ceramic tile worktops, Armstrong "Corlon" floor coverings. General Electric garbage disposals, and in some models, built-in Gaffers and Sattler gas ranges and custom-styled ovens in decorator colors.

Due to completion of a new link in Crenshaw Blvd., visitors may now take Crenshaw south, past Highway 101, to Palos Verdes Dr. N., turn right to Montemalaga Dr., then left to the homes. Another route is via La Brea-Hawthorne Blvd., past Highway 101, to the Palos Verdes Dr. N., then left to Montemalaga Dr. and right to the model homes.

GRAND OPENING SETS RECORD

Described as largest grand opening in luxury homebuilding history in Southland, Grandview Palos Verdes attracted estimated 15,000 persons to 10 display residences at Montemalaga Dr. and Silver Spur Rd. on Palos Verdes peninsula, adjoining Palos Verdes Estates. Above view shows steady flow that attended Grandview Building Co., the developers, announced that ultimately $75,000,000 worth of estate-class homes are to be built in newly acquired area of the peninsula.

Frank Chandler of the Key Land Co. announced their affiliation with Albert Gersten, builder and developer, as their latest addition to their rapidly growing list of builders.

The Key Land Co. was founded just two months ago under the direction of James B. Frank, president; Frank H. Stout, vice president; Gordon Riches, secretary; Frank C. Chandler, general sales manager, and Robert D. Richards, sales manager.

Chandler points out, "We are very pleased to be appointed sales agents for Albert Gersten and especially happy to be able to offer the public the new Gersten Developments — La Habra Hills Estates and Fullerton House Estates."

The tremendous success of the Key Land Co. is attributed to the complete "all-in-one package" being offered to the builders in the industry, he added. Large Rooms in Huntington Crest Homes

The builders of Huntington Crest Homes in Huntington Beach have discovered what the average home buyer wants most in a house is space, and lots of it.

Frank McFarland, sales agent, says that many people would rather waive a lot of built-ins and gadgets in favor of more room, both inside and out. This, according to McFarland, is a big factor in the success of the 4-bedroom, 2-bath Huntington Crest homes, which feature 1,300 square feet of living area on extra large lots.

With 16 different exteriors to choose from, Huntington Crest offers a low move-in price to non-veterans of only $393, with no costs, impounds, or additional charges on homes priced from $11,150 to $11,750.

Located near the ocean in Huntington Beach, Huntington Crest features sturdy conventional construction, with Provincial styling, acoustical plastered ceilings, covered patios and porches, natural wood kitchen cabinets, and many other exceptional items for comfortable, practical living.

Huntington Crest homes are convenient to shopping centers, schools, and vacation areas, and may be reached from Santa Ana by driving west on First Street to Huntington Beach Blvd., then south on Huntington Beach Blvd.

The association, comprised of 211 brokers and salesmen representing 23 real estate offices in the Lakewood and Los Altos area, operates its own multiple listing service, offering customers services through the close-knit organization.

IN WESTMINSTER

This spacious Rancho Bel Air home, just 10 minutes from downtown Long Beach, is available to veterans earning only $85 per week. Non-vets may occupy one of the 4 or 3-bedroom, 2-bath homes for only $50 down, balance of costs and impounds at recordation. Rancho Bel Air, a completely developed community, is located in nearby Westminster.

Vets Earning $85 Weekly Can Buy Bel Air Rancho

Rancho Bel Air, a completely developed home community located 10 minutes from downtown Long Beach now welcomes veterans earning only $85 per week, it was announced.

The $85 income can qualify a veteran home buyer and his family for one of the big 4 or 3-bedroom 2-bath architectural designed homes in close-in Westminster, said a representative of Walker & Lee, sales agents.

"Steady earners at this income level are more than welcome, and the qualified veteran need not make a down payment," the spokesman added. He explained that monthly payments are as little as $67.50 per month, including principal and interest. Only other expenses are the standard purchase costs and impounds.

LOCATED just 12 minutes from the Douglas plant and 14 minutes from many of the beach cities, Rancho Bel Air is also open to non-vets. They may purchase homes with only $50 down, the balance of down payment months later at recordation.

"This enables the non-veteran purchaser to move in and have time to assemble the remainder of funds needed. If he presently owns a home, he will have time to sell it while residing with his family in a Rancho Bel Air dwelling," it was pointed out.

RANCHO BEL AIR homes are situated on unusually large home sites. Fine construction includes genuine hardwood floors, fire resistant lath and plaster, and full-home circulation forced air heat with fingertip control. Central home plans are perfect for growing families. To reach the nearby Rancho Bel Air community, with its adjacent school and other facilities, drive from Long Beach out 7th St. to Los Alamitos, turn right to Westminster, then left one mile to the furnished models.

Homestead Gardens Easier Terms Draw

Terms for vets of nothing homes, furnished by Aaron down, except costs and im- Schultz. The display is open pounds, and the nearness of Homestead Gardens to Long Beach, were factors credited yesterday with causing the rapid sales of the new community's 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath homes on Verano St., just north of Westminster Ave., in Garden Grove.

Spokesman for Walker & Lee, Inc., sales agents, also reported sale of many Homestead Gardens homes to non-vets on FHA terms with less than 10 per cent needed for a down payment.

Also creating interest, he said, is the offer of immediate occupancy at the close of escrow so that families may enjoy the summer season in their new homes and start the children in their new schools at the beginning of the fall term.

HIGH POINT of interest at Homestead Gardens, it was noted, is a display of model homes, furnished by Aaron Schultz. The display is open daily from 10 a.m. and is attracting many working families in the early evening hours.

Features of the homes include large 7200-square-foot lots, thermostat-controlled heating, big wardrobe closets, steel casement windows, fire glass insulation, acoustic ceilings, lath and plaster walls, stall showers with large glass doors and roomy garages with added storage space.

Other features include garage pulverators, wide drive-ways, weatherstripped doors, 40 and 50-gallon automatic gas water heaters, modern exteriors with redwood accents, rock roofs in many colors, gutters and downspouts, wide overhangs, and in some models, Modernfold doors.

The homes are reached from Long Beach by following 7th St. (which becomes Garden Grove Blvd.) east to Wright St. which is followed south to Westminster Ave., where a left turn leads to the model homes.

IDEAL LOCATION

Homestead Gardens, typified above, reports heavy sales partially due to popularity of convenient location on Verano St., just north of Westminster Ave., Garden Grove, off Santa Ana Freeway.

NOW AVAILABLE

Modern styling is featured on many of the more than 30 Buena Park Mutual Homes available to veterans, non-veterans and veterans who have previously used their GI benefits. This is one model.

Buena Park Mutual Homes Favorable Terms Attract

Huge crowds are expected to visit Buena Park Mutual Homes again this weekend to take advantage of the favorable terms, quality construction and luxury styling of the newest development by the Builders of Lakewood Park.

For only $295 plus impounds and closing costs, veterans, non-veterans and veterans who have used their GI eligibility can move into a de luxe 3 or 4-bedroom Buena Park Mutual home.

Extra details that set Buena Park Mutual Homes apart from the usual development are slumstone or brick fireplaces, sliding glass doors opening onto large patios, hardwood paneling in living rooms, pastel porcelain carries through to the split shake cedar, colored rock or composition roofs. In between are long-lasting aluminum sash windows, aluminum frame sliding glass doors to the patios, thermostatically controlled forced air heaters, double drain sinks with heatproof-stainproof drainboards, glass door stall showers, Waste King Pulverators and dozens of other details hidden by paint or wallpaper.

Buena Park Mutual Homes may be reached from Long Beach by driving east on Carson which becomes Lincoln Ave. Turn left on Grand Ave. (Hwy. 39) to the sales office at 7422 S. Grand Ave.

Newspaper Ads Sell Most Cars

Seventy-six per cent of all new car sales are traced directly to local dealer newspaper advertising, remarked Joe Witzerman of Sarver-Witzerman Advertising, Long Beach, in commenting on the many full-page color advertisements for Southland new car dealers appearing recently in The Independent, Press-Telegram. Sarver-Witzerman Agency is handling the accounts of several well known new and used car dealers in the Los Angeles-Long Beach Metropolitan area.

"In all cases," Witzerman observed, "it is not the one-time shot that moves cars from dealers' showrooms but a well-planned newspaper schedule, using high art and fundamental layout."

"Through effective campaigning and with no other media in use except newspapers, we have sold up to 53 new cars for a single dealer in one week end," Witzerman stated. "Our clients look directly to use for results and it's our job to produce those results in the most effective, least expensive way possible. Sales records are proving that, especially in the case of automotive accounts, newspapers are doing the job in this area." The agency executive underscored his remarks by pointing out a recent Printers' Ink article which noted that one of the nations leading new car dealers with a $1 million advertising budget was earmarking three-quarters of this amount for local newspaper advertising.

Colorama Is Selling Rapidly

Its first unit now fully sold out, Colorama Homes has already sold 50 per cent of its second unit of 4 and 3-bedroom, 2-bath homes. It was announced by the Don Coleman Co., sales agents for the A. Anthony Kurl development on Delhi Rd. just east of Bristol St. in Santa Ana.

A few homes are still available for immediate occupancy, it was noted by the sales agents, who report that a full choice of elevations and floor plans by architect Martin A. Stern, Jr., is still to be had by purchasers this week.

More than 30 families have already moved into their new homes, and the community is rapidly acquiring the character of a distinctive, "lived-in" neighborhood.

VETERANS may buy Colorama Homes for nothing down except costs and impounds, with the full price from approximately $13,500 and monthly terms as low as $63.43 for principal and interest.

The additional of real, wood-burning fireplaces in the second unit has found strong favor with buyers to date while the warmer weather find purchasers keenly interested in the summer control feature of the forced air heating, which has vents in every room, including baths.

Other features of note at Colorama Homes are the full landscaping of front, rear and sides with lawns, shrubs and five-foot redwood fencing around the rear yard.

Will Sample Farm Soils

ITHACA, N. Y. (U.P.) — In the next year Cornell University expects to test 25,000 soil samples for New York farmers.

The current program which is three times as large as previous soil testing projects is expected to all county agricultural agents to make recommendations to farmers in advance of next year's crops.

Prof. Nyle C. Brady, head of Cornell's agronomy department, said the program will be most active in the next six months, when weather conditions are favorable for field work. The soil tests indicate how much lime should be added to the soil, and the amount and concentration of fertilizer to use.

Beverly Gardens Homes Built for Convenience of Homemaker

While the men in the family are far from forgotten in the fifth unit of Beverly Gardens, Chapman Ave. and West St., in Garden Grove, these conventionally-constructed 3 and 4-bedroom, 2-bath, rustically traditional and California contemporary prestige residences embody the ultimate in handiness for modern homemakers, according to George J. Heltzer, president of George J. Heltzer and Associates, builder-developers.

BUILT BY HELTZER

This is one of the many models in Beverly Gardens which have been built by George J. Heltzer with the homemaker in mind.

Especially is this true in the kitchens. Heltzer points out. Built for her easy reach and most comfortable working height, everything is handy, from the beechwood cabinets, built like fine furniture, that keep their freshness and charm, to the host of hide-away features, slide-out boards, bins and adjustable shelves.

INCLUDED in the more than 60 custom features for extra convenience and utility, is the built-in Western-Holly double oven, rangetop and rotisseries unit being exhibited and demonstrated for the first time in Southern California, in the development's furnished models.

Available in 20 floor plans and 33 exteriors, each center-hall plan has a large separate service and utility porch.

Non-veterans need only $1,800 down to purchase through FHA terms. Qualified veterans can buy for nothing down except impounds and closing costs. Monthly payments from $62.36 include principal and interest. Priced from $14,000 to $14,750, conventional 4 1/2 per cent financing can be arranged by any buyer, according to spokesmen for Walker & Lee, sales agents.

To reach Unit 5 of Beverly Gardens from downtown Long Beach and surrounding areas, follow 7th St. (which becomes Garden Grove Blvd.) to West St.; turn left on West St. and drive to Chapman Ave. where an entire street of handsome exhibit models showcase many of the stylings and interior features available.

Candy Stick Lane's New Terms Bring Sales Boost

Introduction of the "lowest non-vet terms in Garden Grove" has greatly stimulated sales at Candy Stick Lane Estates, new home community at 11791 Medina Drive, it was reported yesterday by the builders.

"Non-vets can now move into a 3-bedroom, 2-bath home at Candy Stick Lane Estates for only $195 down," a spokesman explained, "while vets are still offered terms of nothing down, except costs and impounds with low monthly payments."

Located in the center of a built-up luxury area where many homes are valued at $30,000 and more, he pointed out, the Candy Stick residences are being sold for only $12,875 and have such features as planter-view fireplaces, hardwood floors, 68-foot lots, covered patios, huge sliding glass doors, separate service porches, copperized range hoods with fans, garbage disposers, steel wardrobe doors.

ALSO STIMULATING sales, it was reported, is ease of qualification for both vets and non-vets and the offer of immediate occupancy on some homes.

"In figuring non-vets eligibility for home ownership, at C ity for home ownership, at Candy Stick Lane we are also taking into consideration the income earned by wives," it was explained.

Visitors from Long Beach are directed to follow 7th St., which becomes Garden Grove Blvd. to Euclid Ave. in Garden Grove, Euclid is then taken north to Chapman Ave. where a left turn leads to Medina Drive, just north of Chapman Ave. The new homes are on Medina Drive, a half block north of Chapman Ave.

Big Skylark Homes Are on Large Lots

The pleasantly relaxing out- door living enjoyed by owners of Skylark Terrace homes in Gar- den Grove is the result of spa- ciousness, found throughout the homes as well as in the ample lots. With frontages of up to 85 feet, the lots offer many rec- reational possibilities, including badminton courts, playground for children, patios with barbe- ques and grills already installed, and swimming pools which may be purchased as optional equip- ment by the buyer.

According to Bill Tietz, presi- dent of Tietz Construction Co., builders and developers of the 3 or 4-bedroom, 2-bath Town and Country Unit 2 homes, many new homeowners are tak- ing advantage of the option and enjoy their pools when they move into their homes. Another optional equipment finding high favor with buyers is the air con- ditioning unit, Tietz said.

DDT Kills Out European Chafer

GENEVA, N. Y. (AP) — Euro- pean chafer, which has ruined many lawns and turf areas in New York State the past few seasons, can be checked with DDT, according to reports from the Cornell experimental station here.

Dr. Foster L. Gambrell, ento- mologist at the station, said the most effective method of chafer control is to treat soil early in July to kill the young grubs which appear at that time.

Mixed with the top three inches of soil, DDT will protect a lawn against chafer grubs for three to five years, Dr. Gam- brell said.

BUENA PLAZA

Exemplified above are the new Aldon 1956 "Triumph Series" 3 and 4-bedroom homes, with 2 complete baths, floor-to-ceiling fireplaces and many built-in fea- tures, located on La Palma Ave., east of Miller St., in close-in Buena Park.

Aldon Home Values Already Are Proven

An Aldon Construction Co. survey has shown that, on the average, resale of an Aldon- built home will bring 13 to 15 per cent over its original price, it was announced yesterday by a spokesman for the nationally known developing firm, which is currently selling the final unit of Buena Plaza in Buena Park.

"Because of this reputation, and because our last 3 and 4- homes in Buena Plaza are now on the market, sales have turned sharply upward in this development," announced Wil- lard Woodrow, who heads the firm in association with Ira H. Obendorfer.

Highlight for visitors at Buena Plaza, on La Palma Ave., just east of Miller St., near the Santa Ana Freeway, is a dis- play of 8 model homes, most of which are furnished by Aaron Schultz.

OPEN DAILY, early and late, these homes are typical of the wide variety of stylings, floor plans and color schemes available in the last unit of homes at Buena Plaza, a $50,000,000, 2,100-home planned community. At the same time builders described as the "lowest in Orange County" such vets' terms as nothing down but costs and impounds and from $66.67 a month for principal and interest.

All homes have built-in West- ern-Holly gas ranges and ovens in decorator colors, attractive range hoods, custom-designed floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, select wallpapers, wood - panelings, aluminum-frame sliding walls of glass linking indoors and out- doors, thermostat - controlled forced air heat, Higgins hard- wood oak floors and birch kitchens with exclusive Aldon- Glaze.

"One of the distinctive things about an Aldon home," a spokes- man said, "is the interesting and unusual uses of rich materi- als, including cedar shingle sidewalls, V-joints, channel and board-and-batt redwood siding, shutters, varied roof pitches and wide overhangs."

Fairview Ranchos Invites Fourth of July Visitors

Due to overflow crowds that have been swarming the model display homes in the new "Prince Charming" series at D. & E. Corporation's Fairview Ranchos, Fairview Ave. and Bristol St., Santa Ana, officials of Pioneer Land Co., sales agents, announced that a greatly enlarged sales and hostess staff will be on hand for the Fourth of July holiday to give all prospective purchasers personalized attention.

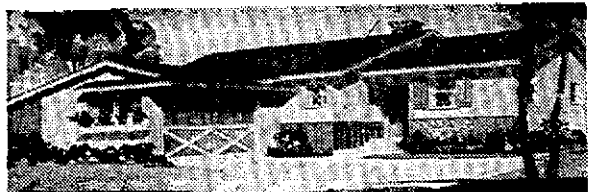

Combining what has come to be known as "story book construction," consisting of sweeping shake roofs, sparkling diamond-windows, quaint shutters, and rustic architectural brick trim with the most modern step and labor-saving conveniences that feature the revolutionary built-in color-coordinated Waste King Kitchen in its premier showing in southern California. These roomy but compact kitchens include built-in range-top, wall oven with window and automatic timer, built-in Dishmaster and sink-installed Waste King Pulverator.

These rambling 3-bedroom and 2-and-a-den residences also include log-burning fireplaces in choice of corner-wall or middle-of-the-room location.

AVAILABLE to qualified veterans for nothing down except closing costs and impounds, sales officials also pointed out that, for the holiday, D. & E. executives will present each buyer a miniature jewel box containing two gold "Mr." and "Mrs." keys. Each one unlocks the front door of the "Prince Charming" home of their choice.

"Prince Charming" homes may be reached from Long Beach by driving out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.), to Bristol; right on Bristol to Fairview Ranchos and display models.

Veterans Get Easy Terms on Hi Way 39 Plaza Home

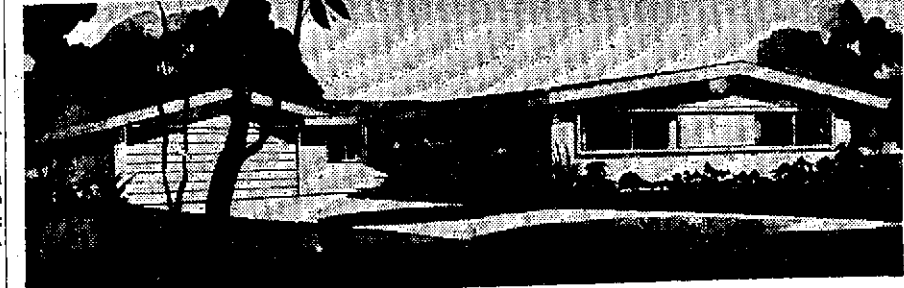

The veteran looking for a new home is not the "Neglected Man" at Hi Way 39 Plaza Homes, situated on Highway 39 (Huntington Blvd.) between Bolsa Ave. and Sugar Ave. in Midway City.

Veterans previously informed that they cannot qualify in many developments because of insufficient income or other reasons, are urged to visit Hi Way 39 Plaza, salesmen say. "We never discourage any veteran until we have explored every avenue of assistance to make it possible for him to become a home owner," they add. "There have also been instances where a veteran is under the impression that he has forfeited his GI rights because he has used his entitlement once but through illness or other reasons beyond his control, has had to move to a different climate or other area than where he made his original purchase. This is not always the case, for, under certain circumstances his eligibility may be re-instated.

Gala Time Promised at 'Midsummer Night's Fling'

WITH AN APOLOGY to William Shakespeare for liberties taken with his title, Young Californians are eagerly anticipating their "Midsummer Night's Fling" July 7 at Lakewood Country Club. Decorations will

WELCOME ABOARD!

Briefing new members of Alamitos Bay Yacht Club on the annual invitational Fourth of July regatta, July 4, 7 and 8, Palmer Wentworth, left, captain of the Penguin Fleet, and Mrs. Wentworth discuss the fine points of ocean and bay sailing with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Yox who will skipper a National One Design No. 247 Wee I for the first time under the club's blue and white burgee.

Brochures to Flood Town Monday: 'Symphony Day'

This town will be flooded with brochures Monday, according to members of the Long Beach Auxiliary to the Southern California Symphony Assn., who have declared July 2 as "Symphony Day."

Brochures, giving information on the four winter concerts to be presented in Long Beach by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, will be placed in libraries, churches and representative business establishments throughout the entire city. The concert committee hopes that the widespread desire for the information these brochures contain will reach the general public readily through this spot-delivery system.

On this same day tickets will go on sale to the public for the concerts at Humphreys Music Store. Details for "Symphony Day" were decided upon at a 10:30 a. m. coffee hour Thursday when Mrs. Hugh B. McDuffee and Mrs. Leroy Carlisle entertained the committee in the McDuffee home, 4445 Heather Rd., Lakewood.

Indiana Guests

Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Frankenfeld, 226 Glendora Ave., had as their recent houseguests, Dr. Frankenfeld's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Paul G. Frankenfeld of Terre Haute, Ind., and his brother, the Rev. Paul H. Frankenfeld of Indianapolis,

Visiting Parents

Vacationing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Lawson Sr. of 4229 Virginia Rd., is Mrs. Gilbert Keegan of Longmeadow, Mass., the former Jane Lawson. Accompanying her for a six-week visit are her children Gilbert Jr., Beth and Susan.

Alamitos Bay Yacht Club to Host Holiday Regatta

Shimmering lights on the rippling water will present a festive picture on two evenings next week when Alamitos Bay Yacht Club, celebrating its 30th anniversary and Fourth of July Regatta, will have a Snipe Fleet sponsored dinner at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, and a "Bring Your Own" barbecue dinner, at 6:30 p. m. Saturday.

Vice Commodore Sidney T. Exley Jr., serving as officer of the day during the three-day event, and Mrs. Exley will be on deck to meet members and guests from other yacht clubs.

In anticipation of the National Snipe Championship Regatta slated here in August, when skippers from all sections of the U. S. will be guests of the local fleet, the entire membership of the Club will participate in the fund raising dinner and Australian auction on the Fourth.

Wendell F. Walker and Stuart Graham are co-chairmen of the event. John A. Graye will be auctioneer. Assisting George Walker, Snipe Fleet captain, are Mmes. Lee Thompson, Wendell F. Walker, John A. Graye, S. W. Sweningsen and George L. Coates.

A royal welcome will be extended Lipton Cup Challenge winners, the team regatta representatives from the Pacific Coast sailing M I T dinghies in a team race: Jack Taylor, UCLA, captain; Bill Sweningsen, Pomona; Tom Ramsey, Occidental; ABYC members and Pete Frost, UCLA of Newport; and to Rear Commodore Harry G. Wood, PC and Arthur F. Glasier, Penguin who sailed Fireflys in the recent Olympic tryouts at Buzzard's Bay, Massachusetts.

Happiness Lost in Private Prisons

By ILKA CHASE

Since life itself will always impose restrictions upon us it seems foolish to go about creating needless limitations of our own. And yet through ignorance, superstition and fear and the angry rationalizing which we all resort to to defend our weaknesses, we voluntarily narrow our horizons, enclose ourselves in prisons of our own manufacture.

Probably we don't think so. When we create ghettos of any kind for peoples of other races, creeds and colors we shrug off the obvious fact that it is hard on them. So what? The answer is that we do a far more subtle damage to ourselves for it is we, as much as our victims, who are cheated out of the joys of a full and colorful life.

We suffer from the same kind of claustrophobia besetting those who are forever denied a magnificent view of a great city because they cannot bring themselves to go above the third floor.

When we find Catholics or Jews, Protestants or Negroes, French, Germans or Chinese "peculiar"—when it's a case of "You can't deny it, they're just different from us, that's all"—we are on our way to a very small cell in our private small dark prison.

Whether all these groups are fundamentally different from one another I'm not sure. Different philosophies, different religious tenets guide the human race. But if a basic difference does exist, that is the fun. That is what should whet our curiosity, provoke us into wanting to know more about these people. Maybe we are more similar than we think; possibly not, but why put on blinders and plug up our ears instead of finding out?

I do not mean that to know people is automatically to love them. Indeed, many people when you first meet them seem very nice; they deteriorate on acquaintance. Like the time I said to a friend of mine about a man whom he knew and whom I had recently met, "Why, I don't think so and so is bad at all." "Ah," said my friend, "you have to know him to dislike him."

This, of course, happens. The late Will Rogers is supposed to have remarked that he never met a man he didn't like. Most fatuous statement I ever heard and I sincerely hope Rogers was misquoted, but I do say if we are going to judge or condone, respect or love, let us evince those sentiments toward individuals—not whole races or religions. We have not the strength nor the time and certainly not the knowledge.

Let's not erect high walls saying, "Here's me. Everybody else stay out." Solitary confinement isn't much fun.

We have enough built-in hurdles and obstacles to overcome as it is without shouldering huge outside prejudices. We have already curious limitations of the mind that are hard to master and that pretty well confine us anyway. I speak of the phobias and allergies that sway our behavior.

For instance, I know a charming and talented man who earns part of his livelihood speaking and lecturing around the country. He likes doing it and could have many more engagements were it not for one obstacle created by himself. He won't fly. Since he has certain weekly appointments in New York which he

Wild Waves Gay

By IOLA MASTERSON

A special kind of magic surrounded Assistance League Clubhouse Tuesday. Magicians creating the spell were Haldis Hertzog and Lorraine Miller. With the wave of a party wand the clubhouse entranceway became a fjord and once across it guests found themselves in Scandinavia!

Because Haldis was born in Norway and Lorraine and husband, Earl, spent an idyllic month in Scandinavia last year, they chose the north countries theme for their perfectly appointed tea of Tuesday.

Norwegian food, with names you can't pronounce but with flavor of international appeal, was served from the buffet where an arrangement of yellow daisies, delphinium, wheat stalks and partly opened scarlet glads were a perfect complement to the colorful Nordic spirit of the day.

Assisting the two hostesses, and all wearing sprightly wrist-let corsages of daisies, delphinium and wheat, were Margaret Hanson, Mildred Deatherage, Wayve Osborn, Sally Van Dyke, Kathleen Mason, Della Lawson, Mildred Shank, Nancy Hertzog and Kay Boswell.

Adding a special fillip to the day was the program of folk songs graciously sung by Helena Sundgren who is as at home on the concert stages of Europe as she is here and just as well known for her knowledge of svenska-land music.

Ruth Dougherty may have to put in a switchboard at her house to accommodate all the calls from friends concerned about her well being since return home from the hospital. Her cheery answer is the same to all: "Feeling much better!"

Ex-King Umberto of Italy may not be up to date about what's going on in his own "old home town" but, thanks to "Corky" Severson. His Ex-Majesty is hep to what goes on in Long Beach schools and especially at Lowell Elementary!

Meeting Umberto and Magda Lupescu in Estoril, Portugal (14 miles from Lisbon) is just one of a raft of exciting things happening to "Corky," his mother, Ethel Severson, and her parents, Artie and Al Stevenson, on their current European tour. It was at this meeting that "Corky" un-corked his 6th grade viewpoint of schools and stuff in an informal chat with the King!

In Malaga, Spain, the young student and his traveling companions were lunching at a hillside restaurant overlooking a small Mediterranean harbor when Prince Rainier's yacht dropped anchor. They watched the Prince and Grace disembark and in a trice there they were, not only in the same restaurant but seated at the very next table.

In Madrid they managed to be on hand for the biggest, most important blight of the year. It was a charity affair and the one fight Franco attends each year. He sat in the royal box just above "Corky" and his friends and they had a good view of the most heavily guarded man in Europe! Soldiers with machine guns surrounded him as he entered and left—as apparently they do whenever he makes his rare public appearances.

A Fourth of July party started last night at Camilla and Jim La Greys. We say "started" because so much fun was planned guests may have talked the host and hostess into keeping them on till Wednesday! The gang, including Barbara and George Powell, Carolyn and Sterling Blakeman, Tam and Tom Wall, Maurice and Glenn Giffin and Naomi and Chuck Chandler, played games in keeping with the holiday, watched "fireworks" and sent off a rocket of applause for Tam's presentation of her Hilo Hattie Hop, accompanied by Naomi on a ukulele.

Others involved with the informal shindig and present for the midnight buffet supper were Mary Edna and Floyd Williams, Crystal Akin, Nile Bunch, Hilda and Francis Guber, Esther and Bob Maynard, Bette and Don Wirtz and Gayly and Duane Warner.

First you brew a pot of strong, hot coffee. That's standard procedure for a successful chairman. Then you invite your committeewoman over and keep cups filled. First thing you know all the problems of your particular committee are ironed out and plans completed! Clare Rosson is a successful chairman. She brews a fine brand of coffee, you see! "Standard procedure" worked like a breeze at her house last Monday when she bid the new patronesses of First Nighters over to plan. Those whose cups were never empty and who worked out tricky plans for this well known high school invitational dance group for fall were Babe Stratton, Helen Viets, Ellie Person, Avis Dudley, Pat Van de Water, Charlotte Arnold, Betty Lee Williams and Clara Andrews.

Betty and Bill Barbee accomplished the impossible. They built a play room addition to their home and kept the project a secret from everyone until it was ready for "unveiling." Everyone that is except the workmen and a kibitzing sparrow with delusions of carpentry. Same sparrow "hammered" on our window and told us "awl." In fact, he "sawed" it was one of the most terrific playrooms in town. That's what he "sawed." We heard him.

Jean and Tenny Moore's two young daughters, Mary and Gay, took a flight by "their own selves" last weekend and landed in Cincinnati. They visited an assortment of aunts, uncles and cousins there before continuing on to Torch Lake, Mich., to spend the rest of the summer at an exclusive camp for girls. To forestall parental blues Tenny and Jean kept busy last Saturday night at Bob Dalton's new restaurant on Lido Isle, inviting Peggy and Houston Fairley to join them for dinner and dancing.

Jane and Bill Cecil arrived in town last weekend from home in Westport, Conn., for a reunion of the "McCleery Sisters" which means Jane and Gladys Niver. The girls' two Bills promised to stay in the background while sister talk filled the air here at the Nivers' home and up in San Francisco where the foursome will play before the Cecils hit the homeward path.

Eating their bread buttered on both sides and with cheese in the middle in "America's Dairyland" these days are Evelyn and Don Sullivan plus their son and twin daughters. They entertained for Wisconsin about two weeks ago for a relative-visitin' vacation and are due home within the next few days. Hope they remember that old Chinese proverb: "When live off fat of land day not distant when have to take fat off."

HAVE REASON TO SING

Just prior to leaving Saturday for the 42nd biennial convention of Alpha Phi International Fraternity on Mackinac Island, Michigan, these local delegates, Mary Whittington, president of Gamma Kappa Chapter on Long Beach State College campus; Mrs. Vito Romans, advisor, and Eleanor Peterson, field secretary, "bone up" on the sorority's favorite songs which they will undoubtedly sing often and well during the conclave July 2-7.—(Staff Photo.)

Local Delegates Enroute to Alpha Phi Convention

With the well wishes of other chapter members for a pleasant and successful journey, three delegates from Long Beach left Saturday bound for the 42nd biennial convention of Alpha Phi International Fraternity to take place at the Grand Hotel, Mackinac Island, Mich., July 2 through July 7.

Delegates are Mary Whittington, president of the Long Beach State College Gamma Kappa Chapter, Mrs. Vito Romans, chapter advisor and Eleanor Peterson, field secretary for the sorority.

The three flew to Chicago where they were to board the Alpha Phi chartered train for conclave headquarters. They will join delegates from Hawaii, Canada and 55 chapters throughout the United States. The local women will be part of the California delegation which includes representatives from San Diego State, USC, UCLA, UC at Santa Barbara, San Jose State and University of California at Berkeley.

Long Beach Alpha Phis are looking forward to this event with great anticipation because this is the first delegation to be sent to a convention since the chapter was installed on the Long Beach State campus last fall.

Marian Wiley Keys, international president, will conduct the business sessions during which important work will be done on the sorority's national philanthropy, cardiac aid. Southern California's participation in this field is the maintenance of a bed at Children's Hospital and the installation and perpetual upkeep of the Cardiac Examining Room at this same hospital.

Friends Bid Bon Voyage

Mrs. Herbert H. Vail graciously entertained friends of Mrs. F. S. Crum in her home at 3945 Olive Ave. Friday evening.

Mrs. Crum will fly to New York Tuesday, where she will attend a tea at the Biltmore Hotel prior to her departure for Europe on the Queen Mary. She will be accompanied by two cousins from Oklahoma.

A two-month tour of England and Western Europe is planned. Mrs. Crum is a professional interior decorator and anticipates viewing the decor in other countries.

Wishing her bon voyage were Mmes. Howard C. Dumm, Dwight B. Williams, Ollie Brown, M. Vern Holmes, Sally Phelan, Bill Ingham, John Bohan, Blossom Wilson, Evelyn Griffin, Leona Mealey, Ernest Kimme, Arthur G. Randall, Don B. Truitt, H. S. Taylor, LeRoy Bonhall, C. L. Eldred, Hazel Parker, Waldo Moore, Clark Burgess and Gordon Wilkinson.

Fete Otho Slatons at Gay Silver Anniversary Party

The lovely Garden Grove home of Mr. and Mrs. James Wagner Foasberg proved a delightful setting for the 25th wedding anniversary reception for Mr. and Mrs. Otho Utley Slaton of 3918 Gundry Ave., Sunday, June 24. Mrs. Slaton is the sister of the host.

The Slatons plan a trip to Hawaii in September with the El Bekal Shrine to further celebrate their silver year, which prompted an Hawaiian theme for Sunday's affair. Mrs. Slaton and assisting hostesses all wore colorful plumeria blossom leis, flown over from the islands especially for this party.

Pillsbury-Coe Lines Read in Garden

Mr. and Mrs. Stirling Gainer Pillsbury Jr.

The gardens of Rancho San Felipe, nestled like a jewel in beautiful San Felipe Valley near San Jose, was setting for the late afternoon marriage June 19 uniting Nancy Patricia Coe of the Rancho with Stirling Gainer Pillsbury Jr., 4035 Country Club Dr.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sutcliffe Coe of Rancho San Felipe, and Dr. and Mrs. Stirling Gainer Pillsbury, 4035 Country Club Dr.

The ceremony, conducted by Dr. Mark Rifenburg of the nearby Episcopal church, took place in centerfront of a Spanish rock wall, with the natural growth of vines, pink and white ivy geraniums and white petunias forming a background. The simulated altar was banked with greens, white gladioli and pink stock.

Members of the bridal party preceded the bride to the blossom-banked altar along a garden path marked by white potted pink geraniums in wrought iron standards. The attractive bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a delicate gown of floor length embroidered white organdy, with the tiered skirt styled into a back sweep. Her fingertip length veil flowed from a tudor cap of organdy, and she carried a white Bible, a gift from her father, with white orchids backed by pink roses, and a falling shower of pink bouvardia and lilies of the valley.

Winnifred Coe attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing a street length dress of embroidered white organdy over Nile green taffeta, and large white garden hat. She carried a pink parasol filled with pink gladioli, white stock and deep pink roses. Bridesmaids, Misses Jane Wool, Betsy Tisdale, Jean McKaig, Kathryn Switzer and Bonnie Robinson, wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor, carrying white parasols filled with white glads, pink stock and roses. Lucinda Renzel, as flower girl, wore pink organdy with a white bonnet, and carried a miniature parasol filled with pink baby roses.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Cree Pillsbury of Long Beach as best man, and ushering duties were performed by William Charles McIvor, Peter St. Claire Davis, Charles Anthony Stellar, William Herrick Northway Jr., Cameron Mulford Smith and Thornton Watlington Garrett III.

A reception followed in the garden, with the path of the receiving line looking toward the surrounding hills and nearby Lick Observatory. Refreshments were served in the patio and around the swimming pool on which floated large floral bells.

The bride's cake table was set beneath a weeping willow tree, with the tiered cake adorned by French bouquets of fresh pink and white baby roses and lilies of the valley.

The newlyweds later departed for New York where they boarded the Queen Elizabeth June 27 for a ten-week tour of Europe. On return in late September they will make San Francisco home for a year while the bridegroom completes his education at Stanford Medical School. He received his early education at Polytechnic High School, graduating in 1954 from Stanford University where he was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity.

The new Mrs. Pillsbury was graduated from Lick High School in San Jose, and this June from Stanford University where she was an art major.

must fulfill on specific days, this raises a time problem and stringently limits his potential for money-making as well as pleasure.

We all know of appalling air accidents but they are so few compared to the millions of hours and miles flown that anyone whose job involves traveling should, for his own sake, become inured to some extent.

The prison of claustrophobia causes genuine suffering not to mention vast inconvenience to those who cannot escape it. A friend of mine has to purchase everything she wants on the ground floor of a store or else walk upstairs to other departments because she gets panicky in an elevator.

One of the most curious and confining phobias I know is that of a young woman who won't take shots demanded by the United States government for people traveling to Europe and the Orient.

Her husband was offered a trip to Japan, a job out there for several weeks and all expenses paid. They could have a marvelous time but she flatly refused to be vaccinated and the deal was off.

Her husband tried to persuade her into complying with the law just to humor the government so they could make the trip saying "Look, honey, you know better than the scientists; you know the shots do no good, all right. But since you laugh at the idea that they could do you no harm either, for Pete's sake, take them. If it makes the doctors and immigration officers feel good, poor dopes, and we can go to Japan, what do we care?"

But the lady stood firm and they are still at home in suburbia having lost, through purely personal prejudice based on fantasy, a unique opportunity "for to admire and for to see and for to behold the world so wide."

Grecian columns topped by urns of white stock, gladioli, carnations and lilies added stately beauty to First Congregational Church last Saturday evening for the marriage ceremony uniting Donna Joan Fisher and Malcolm Millar Lucas, popular Long Beach residents. The Rev. Isaac McRae officiated before more than 300 guests.

Parents of the newly wedded pair are Mrs. George Atherton Fisher, 3500 Gaviota Ave., and Mrs. Robert Lucas, 518 Monrovia Ave.

Clustered stock and carnations held by white satin streamers marked the bridal aisle leading to the Woodward fern-banked altar to complete the beautiful setting.

Complementing the bride's brumet radiance was an original gown of ice blue embroidered tulle over taffeta, fashioned with scalloped neckline, fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her chapel veil cascaded gently from a crown of lace and seed pearls, and she carried butterfly orchids in arrangement with stephanotis and lilies of the valley. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Burt Stump.

Miss Joyce Palmer of Beverly Hills attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Virginia Abell, Patricia Denny, Mrs. Worth Blaney of San Francisco and Mrs. Lawrence McDowell Jr. The ice blue of their identical gowns of embroidered tulle over taffeta echoed the bride's attire, and they wore matching hats and shoes. Their floral pieces were crescent sheaths of pink roses.

The bridegroom invited his brother, Campbell Lucas, to stand with him as best man, and guests were escorted to their places by Henry Moreno, Alan Kenady, James Pino, James Thompson and Robert McVicar.

A delightful reception followed at Pacific Coast Club with Mrs. Dean Grenier and Joan Parks as hostesses.

The newlyweds now are on a honeymoon trip to Hawaii and surrounding islands, and will be at home after July 23 at 2125 E. Ocean Blvd.

His affiliations include Theta Xi Fraternity and Phi Alpha Delta Legal Fraternity.

The petite bride wore an Empire style Maurer original of satin with bodice and long sleeves of imported Chantilly lace encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. Her three-tiered veil of French silk illusion fell from a Juliet cap of jeweled lace. "Something old" was the white Testament which had belonged to her maternal grandmother on which she carried lilies of the valley and a white orchid.

Matron of honor Mrs. Neil Cantwell wore pale blue nylon organza over taffeta. Similar gowns of pale pink were the bride's choice for her attendants, Miss Shirley Williams, Mrs. Ronald Sisler and Mrs. Don Matson. All carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Neil Cantwell, best man; ushers Leonard Spivak, Richard Paulin and Max Johnson; and little Stacy Lee Hatch, flower girl, completed the entourage.

Nuptial Mass Seals Vows

Beautiful floral decorations added their pristine grace to the reverent dignity of St. Matthew's Church when Joyce Ann Leatherman became the bride of Richard Stuart Hager on June 16. The nuptial mass was celebrated by the Rev. William J. Barry.

The bride, daughter of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Fred James Leatherman, wore a Paris original gown of pure silk, high-necked and long-sleeved, with tier upon tier of Chantilly lace cascading into a chapel length train over shimmering satin. A pearl and sequined crown held her full-flowing veil of nylon silk tulle. Chantilly lace covered the prayer book upon which rested lilies-of-the-valley and clusters of phalaenopsis orchids.

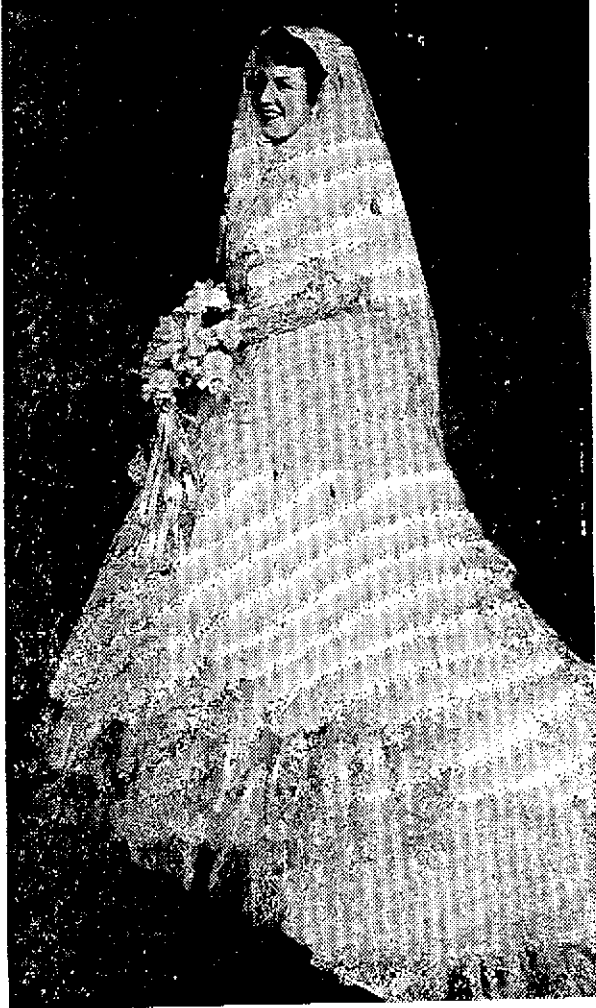

Mrs. Patrick Gaffney, matron of honor, was clad in mint green nylon tulle, while bridesmaids, the Misses O'Brien and Janet Condon, wore delicate-hued gowns of pastel lemon yellow and palest pink.

Dale Tompkins was his brother's best man. The bride's brothers, Robert Leatherman and Fred Leatherman Jr., ushered.

The new Mrs. Hager is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School where she belonged to Philatheans. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Tompkins, attended San Pedro High School and is a graduate of Long Beach City College. He was a member of the Newman Club, Thanes and Engineers, AAE.

After a church reception for 200, some 75 guests were entertained at a home reception, toasting the newly married couple with champagne.

On their return from a honeymoon on Catalina Island, the Hagers will reside at 1352 E. 10th St.

Convention Travels, Reports Interest Zonta, Quota Clubs

By ANNE GILCHRIST

It was "bon voyage" night for members of Long Beach Zonta Club when they gathered for dinner in the Boulevard Room of the Lafayette Hotel to bid farewell to their members leaving for the 33rd annual convention of Zonta International at Sun Valley, Idaho, last Saturday.

President Vivian Showalter represented the club as delegate with Dr. Dorothy Prince as alternate. Others who entertained last weekend were Mmes. Doris Dearden and Nancy Luby, Misses Florence Peterson and Mary Noonan. The convention, which concluded Thursday, featured as major guest speaker Mrs. Eleanor Lansing Dulles of the U. S. State Department, who developed the subject, "Foreign Relations and You." Mrs. Dulles is in the office of German Affairs with Berlin her particular area of responsibility. She is the sister of U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and of Allen Welsh Dulles.

Quota Record

At a dinner meeting of Quota Club of Long Beach last Monday in the Ballerina Room of the Lafayette Hotel, laughter held sway throughout the evening. It began with president Rita Stanfield's report of the International Quota convention in Memphis, Tenn., from which she had just returned.

The humorous and exciting things that occurred from the time she left International Airport and which continued during her stay in Florida were many and varied. She is saving the serious work report of the conclave to give at the club's July meeting.

However, she did report one phase of convention business: the adding of another national project for participation by all clubs. It will be assistance to the elderly and the project will be known as "The Golden Age."

Speaker of the evening was Mrs. Ruth Small, only woman member of the Chamber of Commerce Shoreline Improvement Committee. With wit and spontaneity she described a six months world tour which ended in April. Title for her talk was, "Misadventures of a World Cruise."

Connie Brown, immediate past president of Quota, who was back for her first meeting after a six weeks visit to England, was warmly welcomed.

National BPW Club

Now on "summer vacation" are members of Long Beach National Business and Professional Women's Club who had their final meeting until fall at the YWCA last Monday.

In a ceremony utilizing the symbolism of the club's emblem, new members inducted into the club were Ester Abramsen, physical therapist; Nellie Rae Wilborn, social worker; Blanche L. Stevens, bank teller; and Margaret Gray, teacher. Courier-Hunter Names Linked

In a ceremony marked by quiet reverence and tender beauty, lovely Marilyn Gray Hunter repeated nuptial vows with Dr. Ernest M. Courier during recent services at California Heights Methodist Church.

Flickering candlelight cast its romantic glow on the double ring ritual as Dr. James Hughes read the marriage lines which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hervey J. Hunter, 3934 California Ave., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Courier of Oak Park, Ill.

The altar before which the couple knelt was adorned with stately bouquets of white stock, gladioli, cysanthemums and larkspur, and the bride was escorted by her father down an aisle lined with majestic candelabra and arrangements of white stock. Sprays of ivy, emblem of the bride's sorority, Alpha Phi, were intermingled in the aisle bouquets.

Complementing the bride's radiance was a floor-length gown of ivory silk tulle. Chantilly lace, embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, was fashioned into an exquisite panel on the gown's bodice, and the full, flowing skirt billowed gracefully to a chapel-length train. A filmy illusion veil was caught to a Juliet cap of lace studded with delicate seed pearls and sequins. Lilies of the valley, arranged in a cascade fashion from a white ribbon, and a family heirloom gold locket completed the bride's ensemble.

Yellow organdy embroidered in white was chosen for the identical gowns worn by maids of honor Mrs. Charles Kallent and bridesmaids Miss Eileen Neelev, Miss Pat Fraser, Mrs. John Bolander and the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Jay Hunter. Large yellow picture hats matched their gowns, and all carried graceful sprays of white phalaenopsis and stephanotis.

For his best man, the bridegroom chose Dr. John Bolander. Seating the 250 guests were Drs. Vern E. Wallace, Arthur Driekam and Charles Chapman and Jay L. Hunter, brother of the bride.

Little Pamela Murray, daughter of showman Ken Murray, scattered yellow and white marguerite petals before the bride's entourage, while Michael Gray carried the ring bearer's pillow.

At the church reception, the bride's mother greeted well-wishers in a gown of periwinkle blue hand-loomed lace created in Italy and brought to her especially for the occasion by the bride following a recent European trip.

Beige chiffon with matching accessories was chosen by the bridegroom's mother who, with Mr. Courier, journeyed from their Oak Park home to attend the afternoon ceremony.

Assisting the newlyweds were Mrs. Don F. Gray and Mrs. S. J. Conrad, Robert Bonseck and Misses Eleanor Peterson, Janet Fenner and Betty McDowell.

Following a reception in the home of the bride's parents where the bridal party and close friends gathered for a final farewell to the newlyweds, the young couple left on a honeymoon trip to Yosemite and Las Vegas. It was at the latter resort that the newlywedded pair was feted by Ken Murray at his opening night performance at the Riviera.

A graduate of Polytechnic High School, the bride received her degree in psychology from UCLA where she was affiliated with Alpha Phi. Her husband is a graduate of Princeton and the School of Medicine at the University of Illinois. He is a resident physician in pathology at Veterans Hospital and plans to enter the Air Force upon completion of a year's service with the local institution.

Fragile Nylon and Tulle Chosen for Bridal Gown of Mary Ellen Parziale

Acapulco, Mexico, was the romantic honeymoon destination of newlywedded Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hudson (Mary Ellen Parziale) following afternoon nuptial services last Sunday in Our Lady of Refuge Church.

As she approached the altar with her uncle, Vincent Tuciarone, the bride, daughter of Mrs. Ellen M. Parziale, was exquisitely gowned in fragile white tulle and lace. The gown's molded bodice, made with sweetheart neckline, featured a front panel of appliqued lace. Bands of filmy tulle alternated with imported Chantilly lace to form the full-flowing, bouffant skirt which cascaded to a sweep train. A tiny jeweled crown, styled in Paris, held the delicate bridal illusion veil, and the colonial bouquet was of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride's attendants were identically gowned in white sheer accordion pleated frocks. Maid of honor Myrna Phillips held an arm bouquet of pink delight roses, while dark red roses were carried by bridesmaids Mrs. Carol Angello, Mrs. Betty Potter, Miss Betty Beard and Miss Pauline Olszewski. Little Kathleen and Gene Baker, sister and brother, were flower girl and ring bearer.

For his best man, the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hudson, chose Tom Birt. Seating the 150 wedding guests were Ronald Boge, Jim Swenson, Harold Swenson and Del Woodworth.

A graduate of Progress School, the beautiful bride is a Barbara Blakeley model and is doing fashion work in the Long Beach and Los Angeles area. Among the beauty awards she has received are American Legion Queen, 1954; Miss Perfect Back, 1953; the third Miss Welcome to Long Beach, and two years in the Miss Universe production.

The bridegroom, an alumnus of Polytechnic High School, served four years with the Air Force.

Joanna Mae Stoll Is Lovely Bride

An elegant gown of Oriental white satin enhanced the beauty of Joanna Mae Stoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Stoll, as she exchanged wedding vows and rings with Wayne Roy Paul during recent services at Westside Church of Christ. Four hundred guests witnessed the afternoon service performed by Rev. James Shields.

A fingertip illusion veil falling from a pearl and rhinestone tiara created a delicate frame about the young bride as she and her father walked down the floral-lined aisle. Dainty mother of pearl designs adorned the bride's bodice which was fashioned with lace inset, and the wide, handsome skirt flowed gracefully to a full-length train. A cascade bouquet of three large white orchids mingled with white roses and lilies of the valley completed the bride's ensemble.

Maid of honor Miss De Etta Banks wore a ballerina-length gown of lavender lace over iridescent purple tulle and a lavender picture hat accented by a band of purple velvet ribbon with matching flowers. With her lavender accessories she held cascades of purple butterfly orchids.

Bridesmaids Misses Beverly Burnett and Madelyn Koons were attired in turquoise lace with matching accessories, while Misses Kay Eisenberg and Helen Kopp wore yellow lace.

The bridegroom, son of Roy A. Paul, selected John Black to be his best man. Ushers were Glenn Springer, Dick Curtis, David Cahoon and Hugh Gilston.

Mrs. Wayne Roy Paul

Both newlyweds are graduates of Polytechnic High School and alumni of Long Beach City College. Among the bride's affiliations are Scarabs, Ragads and Lambda Phi. Her husband's organizations include Iota Phi Delta and Renegades.

Your Baby and Mine Train the Mother

By MYRTLE MEYER ELURED

Because the 2-year-old asked about is rather typical of his age level, it seems pertinent to discuss his behavior. Mrs. Y asks advice for her best friend whose two children are aged 2 and 8 months.

"M. is the problem," she writes. "He was taken care of by his grandmother after his mother was eight months pregnant. His mother has worked hard, this last year, to straighten him out. She has been both stern and loving and, I think, very fair to him. He will not play by himself and very seldom will he play with older children. He sits on the porch and cries all day, or if she is in the house he follows her around crying. He has a big toy dog and he would lie on the floor with him and suck his thumb, if his mother would let him. He likes to watch TV, too, but she only allows certain programs.

"He refuses to mind either parent. When the telephone rings he flies straight to the things he can't have. If she puts him in a high chair he screams so she cannot hear. She has tried spanking him both with a switch and her hand. He won't cry, then, just grunts.

"She has tried shutting him in his bedroom, but he goes to sleep. If he is put any place for restraint, he grins and goes right for what he is forbidden the moment he is loose. We both think it is jealousy of the baby. We wonder if you could suggest an effective discipline?"

Of the mother, maybe. Her idea is to make him suffer and that, in my estimation, is not good training. Remember he is two years old and not yet capable of playing with anyone, but just of observing the other child and doing what he does.

He cries because he has nothing to do. If he lies with his dog and sucks his thumb she stops him. If he wants to look at TV she stops him. Then he runs to forbidden objects and is spanked or switched. Can you imagine what a mixed-up child he must be, denied everything he wants to do and expected to do something of which he is not yet capable?

Keep fragile objects out of reach. Put everything possible he can play with where he can get it—some books and magazines, some blocks, some kitchen utensils, small objects such as boxes with lids, coffee percolators (anything which comes apart and can be put together again will fascinate him).

When he cries take him up and cuddle him awhile, tell him a story, sing him a song. Treat him like a lovable child who wants and needs attention and now gets it only when he is naughty.

If he goes to sleep in his room, let him. He is put there to be shown he isn't acting as he should elsewhere, but the time should be short. It is just a token discipline, not an exile. He lacks the type of toys, riding, manipulative, small tool type that he can enjoy or he would play with them, young as he is.

If you would like our booklet "Obedience and Punishment," send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of the Press-Telegram.

Informality Keynotes Service Set Festivities of Welcome and Farewell

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

There's been a flurry of parties and gay, informal gatherings among the folks of NAS, Los Alamitos the past few weeks.

All these have been honoring their well-liked commanding officer, Capt. J. B. Paschal, and his charming wife, bidding them farewell and happy sailing in civilian life.

One of the nicest parties of the season was the recent dinner party at the station given in the captain's honor by officers attached to NAS, and their ladies. Capt. Paschal received the traditional cigarrette case and then, following some amusing entertainment presented by the staff and music by the four Mimic-Airs (who are four officers of the station), the captain was given a beautiful golf bag and clubs.

Last Wednesday at noon at the BOQ aboard the Air Station, the Officers Wives Club gave a surprise luncheon party in honor of Mrs. Paschal. An afternoon of musical entertainment followed.

At both events the party rooms were lovely with summer roses and brilliant stocks.

The Paschals, delighted with our part of the country, after several years duty at NAS, Los Alamitos, plan to buy here and settle down to civilian life after next week.

Capt. and Mrs. T. A. Torgerson and Mrs. Harry Smith shared hosts' honors one evening last week at the Torgerson home when a farewell event at the cocktail hour feted Rear Adm. and Mrs. Francis McCorkle, who are leaving for Washington, D.C.

Moving here because of the approaching home-coming of the great ship, USS Helena, is Mrs. William Carey, wife of the ship's executive officer, Cmdr. Carey. With her are the couple's three boys and a girl, now residing at their new home at 7013 El Paseo in Los Altos.

House guest of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Walter Auerswald and daughters is pretty Lynn Kubina, daughter of Lt. Cmdr. V. T. Kubina of Alameda.

Also here for the arrival of the Helena are Mrs. T. J. Koethe, her three sons and a daughter, who are at home to their friends at 3074 Hackett Ave. Capt. Koethe is with the Marine unit aboard the ship.

Another Marine family moving into town is Mrs. J. H. Carothers and two boys of 3914 Gonder Ave., who will greet 1st Lt. Carothers when the Helena returns stateside.

The Mine Force Officers Wives Club recently enjoyed a luncheon and fashion show at Victor Hugo's with new board members serving as hostesses. The new president, Mrs. R. D. Faubion, announced that they will have a coffee gathering in July.

Stopping by on their way up from San Diego to see their friends, Capt. and Mrs. Dirk M. te Groen, were former residents of this city Rear Adm. and Mrs. Paul M. Albright.

Capt. and Mrs. te Groen are expecting their relatives, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Scott, early in August to be their house guests for several weeks while the doctor is on leave from his post with the American Embassy in Cairo, Egypt.

Capt. and Mrs. J. A. Bresnan and family have left for new residence and duty in Seattle, Washington.

Capt. W. C. Hogan, USCG, Chief of Staff to the Commander 11th Coast Guard District, who recently took over that duty upon the retirement of Capt. C. C. Faden, USCG (ret.), is now in Washington, D.C. helping his family pack for a move back to Long Beach.

It's now Captain J. J. Hutson Jr., USCG! In addition to receiving the good news of the added gold stripe, the family is getting ready to move to a newly purchased home in San Francisco. The new duty station of the Coast Guard officer.

Mrs. A. M. Davidson is in Fresno, seeing friends and visiting her mother.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. William Funderburk and family are going to Texas for a big family reunion.

At the recent board meeting of the Officers Wives Club of Long Beach, the announcement was made that the group would sponsor a benefit brunch and bridge event on August 15 in the patio room at Allen Center from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The charity supported by the benefit will be the club's Navy Relief Milk Fund.

Members are reminded that they may invite an unlimited number of civilian friends to the event.

This group will have their monthly luncheon meeting

Thursday at 12:30 p.m. in the Officers' Club, Allen Center. Mrs. William Nicol, senior hostess, will be assisted by wives of members of the Retired Officers' Dinner Club.

Friday at 12:30 p.m. the busy Officers Wives Club of Long Beach Air Force Base will have their monthly business meeting and luncheon. The theme will be "Orchids" and an interesting film will be shown. Hostesses will be Mrs. Evelyn Kline and Mrs. Joan Forman.

Effects of Fat on Heart Noted in Case Records

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case S-305: Otis L., 47, recently had a coronary thrombosis, which means a plugging toward the far end of a coronary artery.

"Dr. Crane, I thought sure I'd die," he admitted. "Nobody was in the apartment with me, so I was scared doubly. I fell to the floor and thought a knife was twisting around under my breastbone. And I felt like I was suffocating. Then I remembered what you told our Rotary Club about administering quick first aid to your own heart during an attack.

"So I gritted my teeth and started breathing deeply. I don't know how long I kept it up. It seemed like years but probably was only a few minutes.

"Finally, the pain began to grow less sharp. And I remembered your remark about teaming up with God Almighty. It was pretty late for me to be doing so but I said: 'Lord, I'm done for. If you'll take over and help me I'll be your partner.' And I felt more relaxed immediately. Since I was not far from the telephone, I finally slid over and knocked it to the floor with my foot. Then I called the hospital.

"Well, that was three months ago. Now I am as sound as a dollar. But what should I do now to keep in good shape?"

THE GREATEST threat to long life, as well as marital happiness, is contained in the symbol O-A-T.

Those letters stand for Obesity, Alcohol and Tobacco. In previous case records I have explained that fatness, even without any hardening of the arteries, can zoom your blood pressure. For each additional five pounds of fat causes three miles of extra blood vessels to sprout. And blood vessels must then raise the pressure to keep blood circulating in those extra miles of "pipes."

In the JOURNAL of the American Medical Association for Dec. 10, 1955, Dr. Lester M. Morrison of Los Angeles compared 100 heart victims who had recovered from their original attacks.

They were divided into two groups of 50 each. One group was put on a low fat diet so the men lost 21 lbs. and the women 17. The other was allowed to eat as it pleased.

Notice the results for the 50 slender, low-fat eaters versus the 50 others who regained as they pleased. The results at the end of three years and at eight years are as follows:

	3 years	8 years
Slender ... 43 alive	28
Fat ... 35 alive	12

OUR LUSH living scale and excessive eating seem to shorten our lives not just from the greater incidence of heart attacks, but also from apoplexy, cancer, etc., all of which show a much higher incidence among the obese.

Furthermore, our love life declines and we become platonic marital partners, especially if we add alcohol and tobacco to an overweight chassis. In previous articles I have warned that you cannot feel like a sports roadster with the chassis of a truck.

To insure longer, happier lives, send for the booklet "How to Lose 10 lbs. in 10 Days." Obesity can cut down your ardor and reduce your allure, so you can often prevent divorce as well as untimely death by using that dieting booklet.

This feature appears Tuesday and Thursday in the Independent.

Please enclose a long, 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in requesting a Dr. Crane Bulletin. Address: Dr. George W. Crane, in care of Hopkins Syndicate, Melilot, Ind.

Summer Arrives With a Bouquet of Beautiful Brides

WED IN CHURCH

Eastside Christian Church was the setting for the exchange of vows which united Frances Pauline Cleaver and Robert Moreland Moore Jr. She will teach in this city.

PINK THEME

Pastel pink appointments contrasted softly with the white gown worn by Lois Eddie DeHart for her marriage to Robert Rush Brinckman in Garden Wedding Chapel.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS

Helen Smith, daughter of the John H. Smiths, carried traditional orange blossoms mingled with orchids, when she was wed to Frank Carter in a church ceremony recently.

ORCHID CASCADE

A bridal bouquet of cascading white orchids accented the tiered white tulle and lace wedding gown worn by Mary Elaine Furcron for her marriage to William O. Campbell.

CHAPEL RITE

Reciting marriage lines in Garden Wedding Chapel, charming Shirley L. Hiaasen, became the bride of Bruce L. Boone. They will make their home at 2744 Madison Ave.

TAKES VOWS

Shirley Ann Spainhower, daughter of the A. C. Spainhowers, exchanged wedding vows with Robert Wayne Graham in Garfield Baptist Church. She wore white lace.

Ash-Travis Families Joined by Marital Ties

The strains of the always beautiful wedding march heralded the entrance of charming Patricia Joan Travis one recent evening as she walked with her father down the bridal aisle of Westminster Community Presbyterian Church to receive marriage vows with Gene Norman Ash. Dr. Reuben R. Pieters and the Rev. Wendell W. Greenlee officiated.

Delicate lace over crisp taffeta fashioned the bride's floor-length gown. Its fitted bodice featured a demure stand-up collar and long fitted sleeves. A filmy veil framed the bride's youthful radiance. She carried two white orchids atop a white Bible.

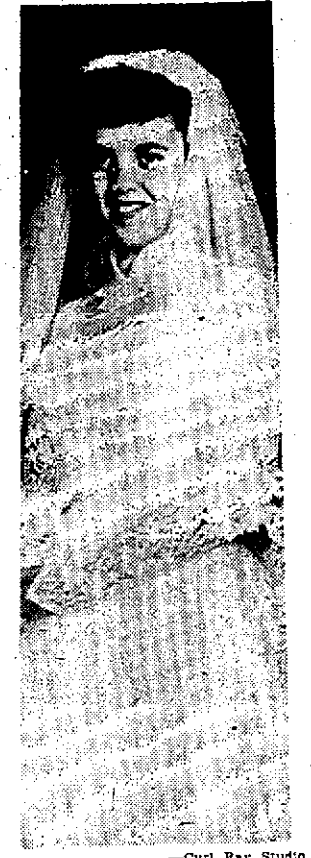

The young brother of the bride, Larry Travis, and Gary Zimmerman lighted tall white tapers which softly lit the church. Marilyn Travis attended her sister as maid of honor. Miss Shirley Wiggin and Mrs. Norma Simon were bridesmaids. The feminine attendants wore identical white torso frocks, lace trimmed, with matching lace hats, and carried colonial bouquets of orchid and lavender blossoms.

Completing the entourage were Jerry Jones, best man, and Gayne Earle, Maurice Deveroux and Thomas Rowley, who seated the 200 guests.

Parents of the bride couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Travis, 3445 Myrtle Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Gene J. Ash, 319 Hermosa Ave. Both of the newlyweds are graduates of Polytechnic High School, where she was a member of Pi Sigma Phi and he of Delta Phi. Later he attended Long Beach City College.

Following a postnuptial reception at the church, the couple left for a honeymoon in La Jolla. They will reside in Long Beach.

Pagliaroni-Miller Vows Solemnized in Lakewood

Double rings sealed the wedding vows of Linda Jo Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William David Miller, and James Vincent Pagliaroni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack V. Pagliaroni, who were married recently in Lakewood Village Community Church. Rev. W. R. Hall officiated at the afternoon service witnessed by 225 friends and relatives.

The newlyweds are now at home at 5325 Ocean, Apt. 8. Both are graduates of Wilson High School, where the bride was a member of the Scholarship Society and Ami Welfare Club and the bridegroom well known for his varsity baseball honors. A catcher during the past year with the Boston Red Sox, with whom he played as the highest paid bonus member ever signed from Long Beach, Pagliaroni is now on leave prior to entering the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the young bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white lace and tulle over satin. Her filmy veil of silk illusion fell gracefully to her fingertips from a tiara of lace and pearls. In the bridal bouquet were butterfly orchids with stephanotis and sprays of seed pearls.

Baskets of pink rosebuds with queen's lace were carried by the bride's attendants, maid of honor Miss Sue Coley and bridesmaids Misses Linda Lee McKinney, Catherine Cottrell and Patricia Miller, cousin of the bride. Miss Coley wore a ballerina-length gown of white lace over aqua taffeta, while the other attendants were attired in similar gowns, white lace over pink taffeta.

James H. Kinney served the bridegroom as best man, and seating guests were Jerry Cole, Kenneth Reardon and Charles Winslow.

Assisting at the church reception were Misses Mary Krell, June Robinson and Eva Kilger and Mrs. Gary Crawford.

Install Officers

Mrs. Howard F. Ryan was installed as president of Nazareth White Shrine Social Club during a recent luncheon meeting at Colonial Hall. Mrs. Fred Hancock, past worthy high priestess, was installing officer. Other new leaders are Mrs. Emma Chalfaut, vice president; Mrs. May Bassett, secretary; Mrs. Paul Harris, treasurer.

Marcelle Loyce Rodebeck

Pair to Wed in September

The gladsome announcement of a future wedding date was made by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rodebeck, 1225 E. 8th St., with the revelation that their daughter, Marcelle Loyce, was betrothed to John B. Dougherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dougherty of this city. The young couple plan to wed September 8.

The bride-elect and her fiancé are both graduates of St. Anthony's High School. Miss Rodebeck, also a graduate of Long Beach City College, was affiliated with the Order of Ramayana at college. She is well known for her work with school choirs and in local music circles.

The bridegroom-elect, who also attended Long Beach City College, was affiliated with the Order of Tismen on the Lakewood campus. Simplicity Keynotes Ceremony

A late afternoon ceremony June 23 in Immanuel Lutheran Church, performed before 50 members of their families and intimate friends, united Melba Esther Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Anderson, of 566, Rose Ave., and Walter William Kuhns, son of Mrs. Albert Kuhns of Compton.

The Rev. Martin C. Olson officiated at the single ring service.

Lilies of the valley and bouvardia on a white Testament were a pretty accent to the bride's costume, a beige silk and cotton sheath worn with a white rhinestone-trimmed hat. Mrs. Raymond A. Reiring, matron of honor, wore a powder blue sheath and carried a nosegay of tiny yellow rosebuds. Raymond A. Reiring was best man; ushers were Richard Reiring and James Heath.

Sisters of the bride, Mrs. C. Roy Pieterz and Mrs. Charles Downing, were hostesses at a postnuptial reception in the Anderson home.

The new Mrs. Kuhns, a graduate of Polytechnic High School and of California Lutheran School of Nursing, is a commissioned officer in the U. S. Navy Nurse Corps and is a member of the U. S. Naval Reserve. Her husband was graduated from Compton High School.

After honeymooning in northern California, the Kuhnses will reside at 6815 Coachella Ave.

A musical comedy presented by Miss O'Brien, Helen Moyer, Mrs. Robert Wilcox and Mrs. Galen Garoute was the evening's diversion. Refreshments were served following the opening of gifts by the honoree.

Sam S. Woolington, M.D.

Chef of the Week

Doctor Orders Crayfish for the 'Mealtime Blues'

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

He'd rather baby-sit "on the beach" any day than do yard work or "unconfuse" the garage... and he's simply enraptured when an invitation indicates—"dress... sport shirt." Probably his first preference explains his specialization... Chef of the Week Sam S. Woolington is a pediatrician.

He left the Kansas prairie (Newton), arriving in Long Beach at the age of six. The Long Beach school system guided his education from kindergarten at Horace Mann through City College. He attended his first dance at the old Virginia Hotel.

The daddy of a girl scout, a cub scout, and two scout anticipators, he likes to reminisce about the "good old days" when he, as an Eagle Scout, used to camp in the Bixby Slough. It's the present site of Long Beach State College and "BL" (before Lakewood).

With a BA degree from Stanford, Woolington proceeded to McGill University, Montreal, Canada, for his medical training. He completed his two-year internship there just in time to "join-up" as a captain with the Army Intelligence.

His World War II itinerary included China, Burma and six months continued "hitch" behind the Japanese line. A tough assignment, to be sure, but his experiences were unique.

Since supplies came only by air-drop, his enforced appreciation of rice, curry and "ancient" fish was a bit overdone. There were SOME variations, however. Like the time the guerrilla chieftain set up the victuals. The unique ingredient in the scrambled eggs proved to be dainty, white grub worms.

No one knows for sure... but his friends date his great fondness for foods which are "different" to this experience. He's been the recipient of such delicacies as pickled octopus, smoked eel, fried grasshoppers and buffalo meat. He'll try anything!

Long will Woolington remember the "delayed" vacation he, two colonels and a fellow captain took after this six-month "tour." They managed to arrive in the hotel atop a horse, right in the middle of a very formal occasion—and just as the guests arose to sing "God Save the King."

He returned to the States and, after two-and-one-half years' residency in the department of pediatrics, Los Angeles County General Hospital, he started private practice in Long Beach in 1948.

A member of the Long Beach Branch Los Angeles County Medical Association, Woolington has served as president of the Long Beach Pediatrics Society and of the Children's Clinic. He chaired that section at Seaside Hospital for a two-year period, and is presently chairman of the board of directors, Long Beach Physicians Health Plan. He is also clinical instructor at USC in communicable diseases.

Our "chef" divides his hobbies between swimming (he swims the year 'round)—skin diving and "shooting" pictures. When he cooks, it's

CALIFORNIA CRAYFISH THERMIDOR

Take a one to two-pound California crayfish or lobster. For entertaining, the small (1 to 1 1/2-pound) crayfish have the advantage of providing the split shells in, which to serve the finished thermidor, but for family groups, a 4 to 10-pound lobster will provide a delicious dinner served as desired on toast, rice, or in party shells. The following recipe serves two generously:

Split the cooked crayfish, remove meat and clean shell. Cut meat into cubes and set aside until later.

Melt two tablespoons of butter. Add two finely grated fresh green onions and saute until brown. Add half cup dry white wine and let simmer until greatly reduced. Add one scant teaspoon of dry mustard and a dash of cayenne.

Make a basic white sauce with milk or cream, or use your own favorite sauce recipe. You can vary the flavor of your thermidor with the seasonings used in this white sauce. We prefer salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce.

Cook and stir sauce with a wire whisk until smooth and boiling. Stir in one tablespoon each of Swiss and Parmesan cheese, grated. Then add onion, butter and wine mixture, lobster meat, and stir well. Put into cleaned halves of lobster shells and sprinkle lightly with paprika and parmesan cheese. Put under broiler until the surface is golden brown and bubbling. This takes five to 10 minutes if broiler heat is high.

Picnic in Yard for Birthday

From near and far close friends and relatives rendezvoused last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cross, 3030 E. 2nd St. to honor Cross on the occasion of his birthday. Guests, bidden to an old-fashioned and jolly backyard picnic, came from San Francisco, Los Angeles, Glendale, Montrose and San Gabriel to join with the honoree's friends from Long Beach in wishing him happy birthday. The evening ended with informal square dancing.

Illness Strikes Capital City Hostess; Farewells Extended Francis Denebrinks

By VIRGINIA W. KELLY
Washington Staff Correspondent

Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, wife of the former U. S. Ambassador to Portugal, is progressing satisfactorily after a severe coronary thrombosis. Polly will be in Doctor's Hospital in Washington for several more weeks and then must have several months of rest at home which is the Guggenheim's capital estate, Firenze House.

This writer is one who holds the theory that serious heart attacks stem partly from fatigue.

Although she has enjoyed radiant health, lovely Polly Guggenheim never said "no" to a worthy cause. She is a conscientious worker at All Souls Memorial Episcopal Church, a powerful worker in the Republican Clubs and an active participant in the Arts and Letters Clubs. She works for charitable causes year after year. In addition, she has shared Colonel Guggenheim's enthusiasm for world travel, fishing, hunting and entertaining.

On the eve of his retirement from the Navy, Vice Adm. Francis C. Denebrink still declines to reveal his plans for a forthcoming business association. The announcement will come after July 2, he told this writer.

He said that their daughter, Joyce, has been accepted at Stanford. This bears out our prediction that the Denebrinks will live in San Francisco for they had previously told us that Joyce had applied for admission to a college "near" their future home.

Adm. Denebrink, the retiring commander of MSTs, and Mrs. Denebrink and the new commander of MSTs, Vice Adm. John M. Will, and Mrs. Will were honored at a reception given by officers of MSTs.

The party for 400 took place at Patton Hall, Fort

Myer, Va. Guests included Rep. and Mrs. John H. Allen Jr. and Rep. and Mrs. Clyde Doyle of California. The Doyles will drive leisurely homeward as soon as Congress adjourns. Doyle hopes to spend several weeks in the home area resting, visiting with family and friends and swimming at the beach.

Also at the party were Mrs. Charles S. Thomas, wife of the Navy Secretary; Maritime Administrator and Mrs. Clarence Morse; Navy Under Secretary and Mrs. Thomas Gates; Assistant Secretary of Defense and Mrs. Willard McNeil; Boyce Luckert, American President Lines; Mr. and Mrs. Emmett McCormack, Moore-McCormack Steamship Co.; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Walsh, States Marine; Adm. Glenn Davis, chairman of the board, Isthmian Line; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Adams, Pacific Far East Lines; Col. Noah Brinson, American President Lines, and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McLean, Waterman Steamship Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett McCormack entertained for the Denebrinks at a luncheon for 40 at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel. Adm. Denebrink was honor guest at a stag luncheon for 400 at the Hotel Mayflower given by the Propeller Club. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Adams will give a cocktail party for the Denebrinks before their departure.

The president of University of Hawaii, Dr. Gregg Sinclair, and Mrs. Sinclair were the guests of honor at a dinner at the Sulgrave Club given by Mr. and Mrs. Blake Clark.

The Spanish Ambassador and the Countess of Motrico; Greek Ambassador and Mme. Melas, and the Icelandic Minister and Mme. Thors were in the company.

The delegate from Hawaii, Mrs. Joseph R. Farrington, was a guest. Others included Presidential Assistant and

Mrs. Homer Gruenther; former Ambassadors Robert Guggenheim and Joseph Davies, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Caiman.

Mrs. Francis Ulen, wife of Capt. Ulen, D.C., USN, Ret., gave a luncheon for Mme. Vladimir Rybar. Guests included Mme. Leo Mates, wife of the Yugoslav Ambassador; Mrs. John J. Hearne, wife of the Irish Ambassador; Mrs. Harold Burton, wife of Associate Justice Burton, and Mrs. Shao-Hwa Tan, wife of the Chinese Minister.

Compliment Bride-to-Be

Nancy Nettelman, bride-elect of Dennis Stimson, was honoree at a brunch last week in the Virginia Country Club. Fifty of her closest friends gathered to present the future bride with lovely pieces of sterling silver place settings.

Co-hostesses were Miss Carol McGrew and Miss Ann Artman, who will be bridesmaids at the Aug. 18 nuptials in Palos Verdes' La Venta Inn, and Miss Kathy Hancock.

Yellow and white bouquets of gladioli and stock graced the U-shaped brunch tables at which were seated special guests Mrs. John E. Nettelman and Mrs. Guy Hulsizer, mother and grandmother respectively of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. Morris Stimson, mother of the bridegroom-elect.

Entertains Slate

Miniature Hawaiian huts, leis and palm trees decorated tables at the annual luncheon of the executive board and past presidents of Loyalty Club last week at the Hawaiian Restaurant. Mrs. George Hansen, retiring, was hostess.

Two Merit Awards

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent Press-Telegram Art Editor

Because of the superior quality of entries of two top participants in the Long Beach Art Association's annual high school art competition, the association departed from its usual single-award practice to make two Chouinard Art Institute scholarship awards this year.

They go to Diana Vitale and Takeshi Tani.

Her name, Diana, is well exemplified in the statuesque 17-year-old Miss Vitale who, under the instruction of James A. Milroy of Jordan High School, has produced talented work.

In addition to the Art Association Chouinard Award, she previously had received the 20-30 Club poster contest prize, Bank of America, creative achievement award, Knights of Pythias, creative achievement award and scholastic gold key and certificate.

Miss Vitale is especially adept with pen water color drawing and etching and expresses her professional goals as portrait and retail advertising art.

Takeshi, the other award winner, was groomed by instructor Robert J. Adams of Poly High School to win, in addition to the Art Association scholarship, the Exchange Club $50 scholarship, scholastic regional art award and achievement key.

His forte lies in strong line and swift, energetic movement of figure work. He likes fashion figure illustrating.

Takeshi was born on Terminal Island in 1937. His parents went to Japan in 1945. However, he hopes they will return soon.

Karl Seethaler, Long Beach artist who with his family is spending two years abroad, has a show in Innenbaukunst, Frankfurt, Germany. Shown are 88 of his works—65 paintings, the remainder sculptures.

Seethaler writes: "The exhibition rooms are beautiful and they expect a crowd of international dignitaries and

Bay Garden Club Installs at Luncheon

Mrs. Leona T. Myer entertained the Alamitos Bay Garden Club at a dessert luncheon last Thursday in the garden of her home at 6020 Bay Short Wk. Assisting were Mmes. Charles B. Mullins, Frank J. Mrs. Emmert H. Sink conducted her final business session which included the annual historian's report by Mrs. Richard P. Glasco.

After expressing her appreciation to the board and members for their cooperation, Mrs. Sink turned the meeting over to Mrs. Cromer, a past president, who served as installation officer. Accepting the duties of president was Mrs. Ralph M. Robeson and seated with her were Mrs. Thomas R. Peck, vice president; Mrs. James Carroll, recording secretary; Mrs. Perry G. art-minded people.

"We had a nice visit in England, visited the galleries and cathedrals. Here we are going to do the same. Frankfurt is interesting in every way—historically as well as in the light of the current German boom, the 'German miracle'."

"After the show, we will travel to Vienna."

The 15th annual "Exhibition of the Arts" will open today in Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery in Barnsdall Park, Hollywood Blvd. and N. Vermont Ave., and will run through July 15.

Honor Couple

Miss Sue Romanes and Clovis Putney, who will wed Friday in First Congregational Church, were honored guests at a recent evening party in Mottell's Garden Room. Thirty well-wishers were present at the affair which was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis K. Cox.

Why Grow Old?

Bothersome Noises Can Fatigue, Injure Health

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Not long ago I wrote about the detrimental effect constant noise has on the nervous system. It is a scientific fact that noise is fatiguing. We all know this to be true.

I have received such a large amount of mail in response to the column about this and so many requests that I again call the problem to the attention of the public that I am again doing so.

Here are a few quotations from recent reader mail: "One nuisance you didn't mention, which we suffer from every single day, is the sound of a typewriter set on a shaky table in the apartment above us. Since there are no rugs on the floor the sound is so nerve-racking that we are sometimes forced to leave our apartment, and on Sundays when we would like to rest at home in the afternoon, we have to go to the park or a friend's house."

"Your article about noise should be on the front page, not on the 20th where I found it. We recently moved into an apartment and furnished it at our own expense. We would be much happier and healthier if our neighbor would lower her TV and radio. Also, they get up at 6 a.m. while we do not have to get up until 7:30. However, the noise they create makes it impossible for us to sleep a minute later than they do."

"I just have to write to thank you for your article about noise. We have neighbors who moved in not long ago. They have young children. Words cannot describe the noise they make. The mother yells and screams at the children from morning until 10:30 p.m. when they finally go to bed. The children slam doors and run in and out of the house all day long. We bought our home and cannot afford to move because of the financial loss we would suffer, but my health is actually being affected. I am tired all the time."

When we live close together we cannot always plan our life to suit our neighbors entirely but we can try to annoy them as little as possible. In many instances it is possible to lead our own lives without harassing those who live near us if we will think in these terms.

We cannot keep small children quiet, nor would we wish to, but it is bad for a child to be screamed at and doors easily can be fitted with equipment which keeps them from banging. Also, little children should be asleep long before nine o'clock at night. We can put a rug under the typewriter table and use the typewriter at reasonable hours.

Molly Mayfield

She's Tormented by Shame

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I went too far when I was a teenager and now I need your help. Please listen to my story.

At the age of 10 I was left alone much of the time with my younger sister. Father had died several years back. Mother was working very hard to keep us from going hungry. My brothers and sisters lived close by. But they didn't care about us.

So nobody explained anything about anything to us. I had to learn the hard way and I did—to my sorrow. I was dating by that time and became blissfully infatuated at the age of 13½ with a young man. The outcome? I was indiscreet with him.

Now, eight years later, I am suffering from what Kinsey and Freud call "guilt complexes." The fellow involved came back later and wanted to marry me (I felt he thought it was his obligation). But I had made one mistake and I didn't want to make another by marrying a man I didn't love.

My problem is: I look (and act, I guess) like a sweet, innocent do-no-wrong girl. I have no problem having nice dates. I've met two very fine young men at different times who wanted to marry me. But television set up high so that you can hear it from all parts of your house or so that you can listen to a ball game while you work in the yard, or to stomp about while others are asleep, is the last word in being inconsiderate. You actually may be injuring the health of your neighbor.

If you would like my leaflet "Individual Happiness," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 65 to Josephine Lowman in care of the Press-Telegram.

This feature appears daily in the Press-Telegram.

I broke off with them because they were in love with an image, not with me. I wanted to tell them the truth. But I lacked courage because every man wants an undefined woman as a wife. I understand that if you tell a man you aren't pure, he will say it doesn't matter. But the idea will remain lodged in the back of his mind, and after marriage, will be brought up during violent quarrels.

Is this true, Mrs. Mayfield? I honestly want to marry, be a good wife and mother. I am sure I could if I could only cure my guilt feeling. How can I approach the subject? Please help, please!—WANTING FORGIVENESS.

DEAR WANTING: I know how tormented you must be, and what a shame it is that this happened to you so young. But there is no reason why this teen-age mistake should keep you from a happy married life.

What you really want to know is this: Should you tell the man you want to marry about your intimacy with the boy eight years ago?

I see no reason why you should do this unless the question should come up. After all, you know how wrong you were, you were very young at the time, you have learned from your lesson—and this experience is in the dim past.

But if the issue should be raised—and the man you want to marry asks you—I'm afraid that you must tell him the truth. If he really loves you, I am sure he will understand and not let this stand in the way of your joy.

Perhaps he might taunt you about it during a bitter quarrel after your marriage. Many subjects are brought up from the past during domestic quarrels. But if he truly loves you, he will feel ashamed of himself when he cools off—and beg to be forgiven.

For goodness sake, Miss Wanting, don't brood about this distasteful memory. Be thankful that you have been wise enough to learn a lesson that perhaps can be turned to some advantage when you have children of your own.—M. M.

How to Spot Lone King

Spotting a singleton king is one of the most difficult feats in the game, but it isn't impossible. South should accomplish it in today's hand.

West opens the queen of clubs, and South wins with the king. The routine play at this point is to lead the queen of spades. This is not a way to ferret out a singleton king.

West naturally covers the queen of spades, and dummy wins with the ace. Dummy returns a low spade, and East plays low. South has no reason to suspect trouble, so he wins with the jack. West discards a heart, and South discovers too late that the spades will not break.

Now South must try the diamond finesse. This loses, and the diamonds fail to break. South struggles but eventually wins only 11 tricks.

The defeat can be prevented if South leads the 10 of spades at the second trick. If West is able to play a small spade, the 10 will serve for a finesse. When West must play the king of spades on the 10, the situation is clear. West would surely play a low spade if he could since, for all West knows, it is possible that East has the jack.

In short, the singleton king is discovered when South leads the 10 of spades. Dummy wins with the ace and returns a spade, and South can pick up East's spades without loss. The extra spade trick is enough to give declarer the vulnerable slam.

A Salute to the Average Underrated 'C' Student

By ANGELO PATRI

Wonderful things do happen these days, wonderful things that prove how thoughtful and how kind and how understanding people can be.

A paper recently published a story telling how two gentlemen gave some money, quite a bit, to Harvard. What for? For students who do not quite make the scholarship grade, needy students whose gifts do not permit them to make high marks, yet who have intelligence and ability well worth cultivating.

These students may not make the dean's list. They may not win a single honor mark, yet they have within them latent power that, stimulated by the college courses and the able professors will help them mature in wisdom, learning and ability.

Many of these "C" students are slowly maturing as the years so full of experience, life so full of opportunity, open before them. The day comes when their abilities, their mental powers, come to fruition, and we discover a rare worker, a leader, a fine American citizen.

Why is an ambitious student, one hungry for learning, a "C"? Who knows? Maybe the home background is not one to enrich the child's mind and develop his latent talents. Maybe an illness delayed development. Maybe he was interested in things, not books, and his latent desire for growth and understanding began pushing him. Or maybe he is one of those slow, steady, long-growing minds that are such a benefit to mankind in the long run.

Always when I hear of an eager "C" student whose teachers complain about him, whose parents shake their heads at the thought of his poor marks, I remember Thomas Edison. Of course, Edisons are scarce, rare and wonderful and if we get one in a century, how fortunate. But that one might just be one of those "C's" we are talking about. Just might. So I always want to give him, a little extra chance, a little more than his "just" share of the teachers' time and attention so that the rare one does not escape.

That is why, when I read of this gift to Harvard earmarked for the "needy C" man who did not quite reach the scholarship standard, I stood up and cheered for those two gentlemen from Boston. I hope they are as happy in their giving as that "C" man

A Champagne Toast to the Good Old Fourth

By Clarence Bernard Propes

TWO THOUSAND people formed a hollow square around a flagpole in San Pedro. A band played and 2,000 champagne toasts were drunk to Old Glory. Each had his own bottle presented by Phineas Banning.

This was in 1853 when Banning decided to throw a Fourth of July party that turned out to be a thing of glory. He bought out the cargo of fine foods and liquors from a newly arrived ship, added the best of local victuals and potables and announced a party. Everyone was invited.

THE RESPONSE was gratifying for people streamed in from all over the Southland. They came on foot, by wagon and on horseback. They assembled at a building called the Old Hide House where they found a giant table heaped with fine food while along the wall were racks of bottles and kegs of liquor. They gave glad cries and fell to with a will. When they had their temporary fill they danced. The musicians played in shifts, working day and night. The guests slept when they felt like it, ate, drank and danced when the desire moved them.

The next day was July 4. They saluted the flag, listened to the thunder of oratory and cannon and went back to the absorbing business of making merry.

At one point Jose Sepulveda cheered the day with, "Viva los Estados Unidos! Viva Mexico! Somos amigos!" (Long live the United States Long live Mexico! We're friends!) The party ended July 5 only because everyone was too exhausted to continue. Maj. Horace Bell wrote a wistful and nostalgic account of this fiesta as one of the greatest parties he ever attended.

THE FIRST Independence Day celebration in California took place in Los Angeles in 1847. It wasn't up to the Banning celebration but it was gratifying nevertheless.

Americans were then in the process of capturing California but they didn't feel too secure for the Californians were not staying captured. It was decided a fort would be in order so one was constructed on a hill that has since been flattened.

IT WAS DECIDED to dedicate the fort on the Glorious Fourth. A flagpole was needed so a party of soldiers and workers were sent to find a good one. The soldiers proved a good idea for the party was attacked by Indians who left three dead behind.

At Mill Creek, near San Bernardino, they found two trees that would serve. They felled them and ended with two logs, one 80 feet and the other 90 feet long.

They loaded these on the axles of 12 Mexican carretas and headed back for town. Twenty oxen were in the hitch and each had its driver. They plodded into town in a cloud of dust, the wheels shrieking and groaning, the drivers shouting and the spectators cheering — a fine, noisy time.

CARPENTERS SPICED the logs making a single pole 150 feet long. It was set in place at what was once North Broadway and Fort Hill Place.

A shining new flag was raised on the morning of the Fourth with smartly uniformed troops saluting. "The Star-Spangled Banner" was played, three cheers were given and a deafening salute was fired from the fort.

At 11 the soldiers formed a square and heard the Declaration of Independence read in English and in rolling, musical Spanish. Many of the California Volunteers in the Army heard it for the first time. A speech of dedication was followed by the singing of "Hail, Columbia." The soldiers were marched off after a serving of wine.

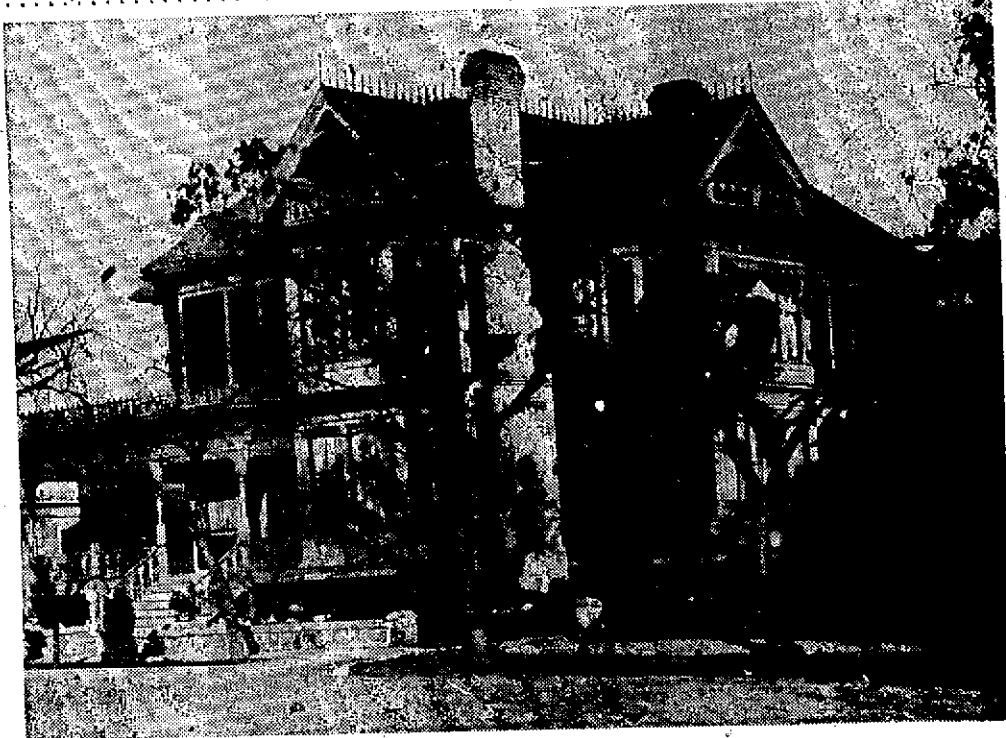

THE OFFICERS were invited to a ball where they danced with the elite of California. The ballroom was decorated with a portrait of Washington wreathed with evergreens, the massed company banners, racked guns with their bayonets serving as candle holders and cutlasses arranged as stars with candles burning in the center.

The officers were served fine foods and wine but it is certain the enlisted men would not have traded with them. Although their party or parties were not organized, according to all accounts, they had all the pleasures dear to the soldier's heart. The ladies they entertained were, as a contemporary account has it, "not of such high social scale."

THE LOS ANGELES STAR described one Independence Day celebration in the 1850s:

"More than the usual amount of powder was burned but no blood was spilled. And everybody supremely happy and noisily patriotic. With gunpowder, a chance to parade, and an opportunity to speak, what more could a reasonable American require to make a successful holiday?"

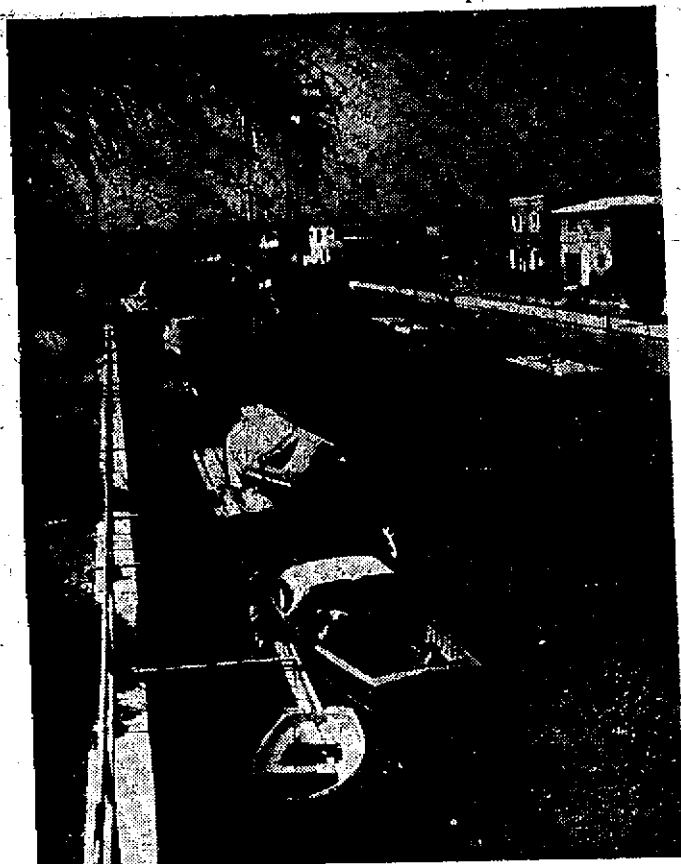

A July 4 party that was a thing of glory was given in 1853 by Wilmington pioneer Phineas Banning. Above, Banning home in Los Angeles about 1900.

Dream City of Buffalo Bill's Pal

By Spencer Crump

Naples canals and islands, as they were in 1936, are shown in the Watson Airtoto, above. Few building lots are left today; vast changes in effect.

THE year was 1903, a friend of Buffalo Bill paused for an appreciative look as he hunted ducks on the tidal marshes of Alamitos Bay.

Four miles to the west was Long Beach, a thriving community of 5,000 people. . .

A half mile to the east was Bay City, later to be re-named Seal Beach. . .

The area was booming . . . the Pacific Electric tracks were being pushed down the coast and would bring more people.

Arthur M. Parsons, 45, took an envelope and a pencil from his pocket.

"This land could be developed," he said, turning to his son, Arthur C. Parsons.

The elder Parsons began to sketch . . . canals . . . arched bridges . . . gondolas.

THE IDEA that was to become Naples was born. Within three years it was a reality, hailed for its beauty and originality by all of Southern California.

Today, over the bridge of a half century, Long Beach's nautical community still pleases thousands of visitors annually who agree with Arthur M. Parsons when, admiring his creation as an artist will, he called it the "most unique seaside resort ever planned."

And to natives as well as newcomers, Naples remains unique with its arched bridges, canals, ornate hotel and colorful street and alley names—Florence, Geneva, Campo, Rivo Alto, Tivoli. . .

THE DEVELOPER of Naples was as colorful as his community. Arthur M. Parsons was born near Cleveland and came west when he was a young man and used his varied talents in earning a livelihood. He helped his good friend, Buffalo Bill Cody, organize his famed Wild West Show; he wrote stories and books, including "Eyes of the Wilderness," which became a best seller, and entered the real estate business, subdividing large Alamitos Bay offers superb water sports activities for Naples. Development of bay, now in progress, will provide small boat harbor.

With a lockerful of trophies already stowed away, Sid and Ann Exley have Olympic hopes as they sail the International Dragon Class sloop Nike, a recent acquisition. They head a family of sailboat champions.

Family of Champions

IT ACTUALLY all started back on the Potomac River when Grandfather Exley was a boy and built a sailboat with the help of his father. First he started cruising on the Potomac but found that rather dull and was soon engaged in racing other boats.

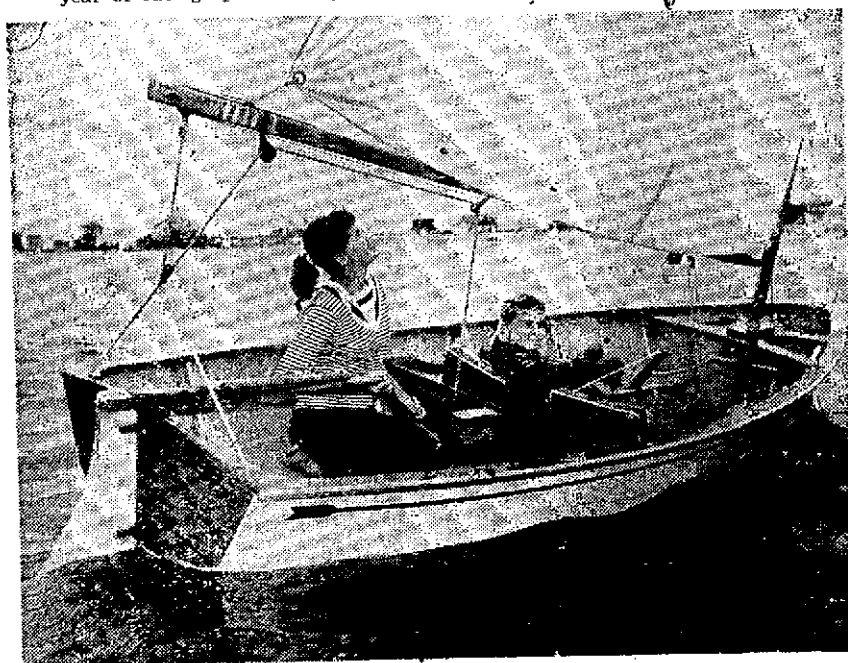

Sid Exley, 5490 The Toledo, started his sailing career on Alamitos Bay in an old sailing dory and it was in this that he won his first trophy in 1922. He sailed in a handicap class because small one-design boats were unknown at that time. Shortly thereafter, the one-design Patricia Skimmers came into existence and with his skimmer Dawn Sid won his first class championship. His new wife, Ann, didn't know the bow from the stern but soon learned and they continued to race the Dawn and win in this class for several years. After the war, they bought the National One Design Glamour Girl and won fleet and regional championships, the National Championship in 1949 and the World Championship in 1952. By then they were also interested in the Penguin Dinghy Class. After considerable practice—for dinghy sailing is tricky and requires great agility—they won the fleet and regional championships with the Penguin SuPaJ and placed second in the International Penguin Dinghy Championship last year with the MaPa for daughter Sue had taken over the SuPaJ. With the removal of the Ocean Ave. bridge and the opening of Alamitos Bay to the ocean, they acquired the first International Dragon Class sloop in Long Beach and are hoping to see the class established at Alamitos Bay. They are actively racing Nike with the Los Angeles fleet for the present and recently won the Los Angeles Yacht Club opening regatta.

DAUGHTERS SUE AND PAT are following in their father's footsteps and are ardent sailboat racing enthusiasts. Daughter Jane, an able crew and good skipper, is much more interested in an outboard motor and takes delight in towing her sisters home when the wind falls.

The entire family will race July 4, 7 and 8 in celebration of the 30th year of racing sponsored by the Alamitos Bay Yacht Club.

Pat Exley, who at 4 years of age "just wanted to learn to row, none of that fast racing stuff," has now become ardent sailor. She is first girl to win Alamitos Bay Labor Day Sabots trophy. She is sailing Pate.

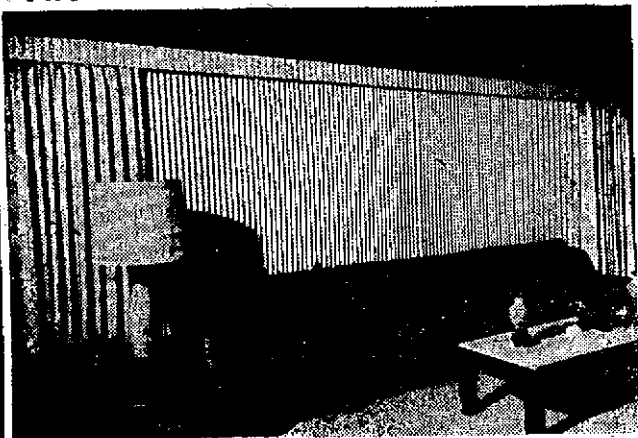

Sue Exley, International Woman Penguin Dinghy champion, takes tiller of MaPa, with sister Jane as crew. She graduated last year from the Sabot class in which she won many trophies. She's Wilson High grad.

Sid, daughter Jane admire the Manning Perpetual Dinghy Trophy they won in February to make them the inter-club dinghy champions. Jane's, an able crew, capable skipper; leans more to outboard motorboating.

A Wreath and a Flag for Old Joe

FOLKS along Northern California's Foresthill Divide still remember Old Joe, one of the last heroes of gold rush days.

Joe was the lead horse on the Foresthill stage. He died from the blast of a highwayman's shotgun July 3, 1901.

The holdupman was never caught in spite of a local wave of revulsion over his crime. But even so, in 1901, the robber was about 35 years too late. The last of the big gold shipments from the Foresthill mines had dwindled out long before and the robbery netted only about $70.

THE STAGE was on an up-hill grade when the robber stepped from behind a manzanita bush and ordered driver, Henry Crockett, to stop. Crockett shook his head and whipped up the horses. The bandit fired pointblank into the team.

Old Joe dropped in his tracks. The big horse was cut from the traces and buried along the road with a crude stone slab to mark the spot. John de Maria remembers that as long as the stage line operated one of the drivers would stop every Fourth of July to put a flag on Old Joe's grave.

IN THE LAST few years the job has been taken over by the Placer County Historical Society. About 250 persons still live at Foresthill, 53 miles east of Sacramento in the Sierra.

He's Not Fooled by Fool's Gold

By
Betty De Weese

ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD Drake Jenkins is an imaginative youngster whose hobbies include drawing cartoons, playing piano and drums, and collecting rocks. He has more than a budding talent for each and would find it difficult to name which one he likes best.

Sketching quick drawings of Disney characters is fun for a party or in a crowd. Banging drums is good for working off energy. Piano playing, he guesses, will always be a handy thing to know. But he is most serious of all about his ever-growing rock collection which was started several years ago.

Drake's mother grew up in the mining town of Darwin, Calif., where his grandparents still live. Grandfather Oliver A. Thorson's love of rocks probably has a great deal to do with Drake's growing interest in them. Thorson, who has personally contributed hundreds of specimens to museums throughout the country, saw to it that Drake's beginning collection had some valuable members among the first.

Drake's bedroom is his castle.

Master of Mystery

By Rufus Blair

DESPITE the flattery of imitation enjoyed by "the Hitchcock touch," its creator rejects the "master of mystery" label attached to him by friendly tongues and goes serenely along.

"I CONSIDER MOST of my pictures simply as pursuit melodramas—stories in which innocent people become embroiled in mysterious doing. The problems of the ordinary man facing the unusual interest me far more than those of the uncommon man. That is why I resist all proposals of gangster pictures. Gangsters, as a breed, simply do not interest me."

Actors and the art of acting interest Hitchcock only to the degree that they are necessary to carry out his pictorial ideas, his films indicate.

"Hitch never gives you much direction," explained Jimmy Stewart, who has starred for Hitchcock three times, in "Rope," "Rear Window" and currently in "The Man Who Knew Too Much," which was started on location at Marrakech, moved to London and reached completion at Paramount Studios in Hollywood. "He engages actors who presumably know their craft, who get the feel of the characterization, and lets them go their

Buttered corn on the cob is a summer delight. Try with variety of butters.

Sweet Corn Is a Summer Treat

SUMMER, with its picnics, barbecues and wiener roasts, seems just around the corner, when we see all the luscious ears of corn that are arriving in the markets now. This tasty, western-grown sweet corn is always a family favorite and one you can't afford to miss.

The tales of the origin of corn are many and varied, but there is evidence that it was grown as far back as 600 A.D., with the earliest development of corn or maize occurring in the South American Andes. In the days of the primitive Incas, Mayas, and Aztecs maize was used for food, currency, fuel,

By Mildred K. Flanary
Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

smoking silk, jewelry and building material. Maize also helped pay taxes and was tied in with many of the early religious ceremonies.

In America, the juicy, flavorful ears of western-grown corn are used only as a food and lend themselves especially to boiling and roasting, served with salt and lots of butter or margarine for extra goodness. Many like to leave the ears of corn right in the husks and roast them over hot coals, while others have found that corn is excellent served with meat and other fresh vegetables as kebabs. Soups, casseroles and creamed dishes are delicious when made with tender kernels, cut from ears of fresh, sweet corn.

GOOD AS CORN on the cob is, sometimes you may want to vary it a little or perhaps build a main dish with it. The kernels keep their shape better if you boil the ears about five minutes, then plunge into cold water. With a sharp knife, trim the kernels off in neat rows.

Garlic-buttered roasting ears are good eating, too. (See featured recipe elsewhere on this page.)

It's clever, too, to give your guests a choice. Accompany ears of corn with a variety of butters to add extra flavor and appeal to your meal.

Chili Butter

- 4 tablespoons butter
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 teaspoon chili powder

Curry Butter

- 4 tablespoons butter
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 teaspoon curry powder

Onion-Parsley Butter

- 4 tablespoons butter
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- ¼ teaspoon finely-minced parsley
- ¼ teaspoon finely-minced onion

Method: Soften or melt butter. Blend in remaining ingredients. Spread or brush on fresh, hot, corn on the cob. Makes enough for 4 ears of corn.

Garlic-Buttered Roasting Ears:

Remove coarse outer husks and loosen inner husks, removing silk carefully; trim ear if necessary. Brush kernels generously with garlic butter or margarine. Tie inner husks into their original position and lay on grill above glowing coals. Turn frequently. It will take anywhere from 10 to 25 minutes to roast the corn.

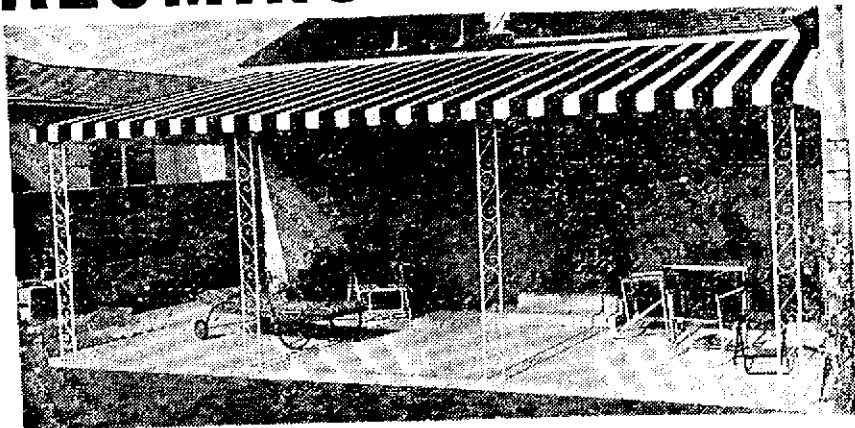

To fix "garlic butter," slice 3 or 4 cloves of garlic and add to ¼ pound soft butter or margarine. Mix well and let stand at room temperature an hour or longer, stirring occasionally.

A HOUSE is neither abstract or non-objective. It presumably is designed with a specific family in mind—a family that is apt to have tastes, avocations, attitudes and habits quite unlike those of the neighbors.

And so it goes—without saying that an astute architect or designer-builder must be cognizant of these factors before the dwelling he plans can hope to serve efficiently those it will house.

HAPPILY, Carl Brooks was in an enviable position when the plans for his home at 5290 El Roble St., Park Estates, were in the formulative stages.

Brooks is a builder, enabling him to know from years of experience just what features have proven themselves in his estimation. And, Mrs. Brooks, who has always taken an active interest in her husband's business, had a similarly resourceful background on which to rely ated note is easily achieved.

Exterior of this house is pleasantly provincial without meaningless detail to clutter up its simplicity.

FOREMOST IN MIND when the house was planned were the children. Their need for study-time privacy and their desire for a "place of their own" in which to enjoy their friends were recognized.

Mrs. Brooks helped plan the kitchen to make pleasant and effortless the preparation of meals. A pass-through from kitchen to family room was elected with the family snacking in mind. The counter, is equipped, on the kitchen side, with a small bar sink which makes it readily able to do party favors as a beverage bar. The Brooks enjoy family breakfasting in the kitchen so they all were in favor of a kitchen large enough for the comfortable inclusion of a round table and chairs. No lovers of breakfast bars, they were equally adamant in voting down the necessity of having to dine in the dining room three times a day.

THE FAMILY ROOM is just what the name implies—a large area to be enjoyed by adults and children, too. A game table, comfortable sofas, an open fireplace, a built-in television and phonograph equipment all contribute to its appeal. Completely separate are the living room, the dining room and the family room. In this manner a weekend evening could find two separate age groups being entertained simultaneously, yet happily separate, at the Brooks house.

A provincial mood prevails in both interior and exterior styling. The feeling is one of warm and sturdy informality without any of the meaningless "pign-cracks" that so many devotees of this style unwittingly fall for. The materials for the building and the furniture which it houses were all chosen for their ability to contribute to ease of maintenance and function. Vertical redwood siding tracts of land which included major Los Angeles business districts.

It was while in this area attending to real estate interests that he envisioned the building of Naples over the marshes where he hunted ducks.

"We secured the services of a former city engineer, Frank A. Olmstead," Parsons later recalled, "who immediately and secretly made a thorough test of the land by boring and soundings."

THE REPORT was favorable and Parsons, with his backers obtained the property from its owners, the pioneer Bixby family.

Expanding his envelope drawing, Parsons made a water color sketch of his proposed Naples.

In August 1905, dredges went to work shaping canals and building up land; by April 1906 the project was completed.

Naples vacant lots originally sold for $500; a 30-foot canal front vacant lot today—if available—would sell for $15,000.

The ornate Naples Hotel was built in 1909 by Myra Hershey of the candy company family. Gondolas took visitors there from the peninsula, going through The Colonnade, then a canal instead of a street. The Pompeian Cafe, with grape vines entwined on lattice-work, became popular. There diners could enjoy wines and other liquors, since Naples was then outside of "dry" Long Beach.

THE DEVELOPMENT of Belmont Shore from marshlands from 1920 to 1923 bridged the gap between Naples and Long Beach proper with a new residential zone. Naples was annexed to the city in 1922.

Today Arthur M. Parsons' gondolas have been replaced by motorboats, but the flavor of old Naples which he created remains much as it did in 1906 to charm tourist and resident alike.

How Big Is a Tree?

The 364-foot tall "Founders' Tree," a Coast Redwood growing just off the Redwood Highway near Dyerville, is known as the world's tallest known standing tree. Yet this tree is not recognized by the American Forestry Association as being the champion of its species because its girth and wood content are less than other known trees of the same species.

In determining bigness, height is of less importance than girth because trees with large girth usually have sufficient height to make their wood content greater than taller trees of less girth.

In our future ads we will list the tree champions of each species, as selected by the A. F. A., in order of greatest circumference, rather than height.

More formal in styling than the rest of the house, the Brooks living room is attractive, comfortable; offers traditional furniture, white paneling.

House

stained soft cocoa, shake roofing, an abundance of used brick and informal planting present a friendly exterior. A coach lamp lights the brick walkway to the front door in a small sheltered porch completely wainscoted in reclaimed brick.

THE ENTRY HALL is papered in a demure cocoa-pink and turquoise that sets the color scheme prevailing through most of the house. A traditional console table stands just inside the door and invariably displays a colorful seasonal flower arrangement that is significant of the graciousness of the home.

The living room, to the left, is a large and rather formal room. Despite its period furniture and its near-pastel color scheme, this is a comfortable room that has none of the formidable characteristics of so many parlor-style living rooms. A fireplace is set in a wall of white wood paneling.

WHITE LOUVERED doors open from the entry to the living room; a second set open off the living room to the dining room.

The dining set is mahogany in the style of Chippendale. A lovely crystal chandelier illuminates this exquisite room with its cocoa-rose wainscot and its New Orleans mural wallpaper that embellished the wall opposite the louvered doors.

Next to the dining room is the kitchen with the warmth of color and spaciousness of a homey farm kitchen.

Natural wood shutters top the pass-through to the family room, making easy the opening or closing of the snack bar.

The family room is completely paneled in natural oak with heavy beams defining the ceiling. An open fireplace of used brick has a raised hearth and is flanked on either side by open bookshelves and closed storage areas.

The 18x28-foot room has its furniture arranged in a manner that it is visually divided into two areas. The first is defined by the placement of sofas that face the fireplace and the television over a large round maple coffee table.

THE CORK FLOOR is excellent for dancing, and the simple rearrangement of furniture opens the room to form one big party area. The opening of sliding doors of glass further increases the usable space of this entertainment center.

NO, THE AIRLINES seem to have an agreement on these

The planes are the same, practically all American built.

The time to save money is during the fall to spring months when the prices drop and there are half-fares for families on certain days.

One advantage on foreign airlines is you can often get space when the American airlines are filled up. You can fly the European lines with confidence. They have good safety records and operate just like we do.

"Would you recommend Mexico in the summer or would you do better to go to some place in the United States? We wonder if the language is a problem . . ."

THE LANGUAGE is no problem. Everybody along the highway has the key words in English for food, gasoline and such.

Mexico is cooler than a good deal of the U. S. in summer, so long as you stay above the 5000-foot level. And most of the Mexico you want to see is that high or higher.

"We are being transferred to Tokyo. Do we have to take any special health precautions there?"

I don't think so. I've caught the standard tourist problems in Mexico, Spain, Hong Kong and Manila, but never in Japan. And the local correspondents never speak of it, so I have the idea it's no problem.

A smallpox vaccination within the last three years is always good. And a fresh one, no matter how recently you've had it, if there is any outbreak in near-years ago. If you are being transferred, that means you have access to Army doctors, doesn't it? That's good enough.

way. Not every actor, I suppose, could work happily in a Hitchcock picture, but for my part, I find it vastly satisfactory."

In its simplest terms "the Hitchcock touch" consists of a vast imagination, a capacity for the impromptu, and a marked talent for knowing what a picture will look like. Yet one can count on two hands the number of times in the course of a production that he steps up and looks into the camera, much less peers through the viewer.

Hitchcock's imagination is not to be confused with his singular talent for the impromptu. It consists of a catalogue of ideas, many of which have been stored away for as long as 20 years.

Rainbow-hued fish from Waikiki's offshore coral reefs are fair game for visitors this spring as Halekulani Hotel beach-boys teach guests the underwater sports of skindiving and

taking color snapshots, and the other created especially for making color slides. But the really big news today is for all you color-snapshot enthusiasts—and we think you'll be mighty pleased to hear it, too!

NOW YOU CAN buy color film that may be used in daylight or with flash without the addition of filters or blue flash bulbs to compensate for the different light. This is the very first color film ever produced that you can load into your camera with nary a thought for whether you're going to snap pictures indoors or out, with flash or without.

Now — as never before — even the most casual snapshotter with the simplest of cameras can have this colorful world completely at his command.

Camera Guild will have no more regular meetings until September. Field trips and special events will be announced in these columns.

EARL AND MARIAN Everley will be hosts to the Long Beach Cinema Club at the annual hamburger barbecue at 7:30 p.m. July 4 at their home, 4228 Rose Ave.

OFFICERS OF THE Long Beach Camera Guild installed at the annual dinner were Estill M. Bartlett, president; Gerald M. Church, vice president; Clara E. Watkins, financial secretary; Christine Sandell, recording secretary; Claude R. Freeman, junior past president. Committee chairmen are Edith M. Freeman, program; R. E. Sieben, parliamentarian; Jean Stuart, public relations; Carl Van Steenberg, Recreation Commission; Ardean P. Neilsen, membership; Carl C. Kissel, editorial.

Don Hayward presented an award of merit from the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs to Neil Shipley for a slide to be shown in the Council's Honor Slide showing, and one to Virginia Callender for a print for the Council's Honor Print collection. A trophy from the Council was presented to Elinor Todd, club color chairman, in recognition of the Guild winning third place in Council color combinations during the year. Black and white print honors went to Virginia Callender, SOMETIMES we think the English language is most revealing. For example, take a phrase like "uncolored by emotion," or "the facts in black and white." The inference in both expressions is that color has such winning ways it can easily sway judgment in its favor.

Well, that's doubtless true—certainly when it comes to picture-taking, anyway! Haven't you noticed how color pictures bring back colorful moments and scenes with almost unbelievable realism? Color serves as a flag to memory . . . helps you remember every vital detail of a time and place.

THAT'S WHY we feel color film can be such a sound investment for picture-takers — something not to be relegated only to special occasions, but to be used regularly and often for the extra dividend of pleasure it can bring you in all your picture-taking. No longer a luxury item limited to elaborate cameras, color film now comes in all standard roll film sizes to fit every type of camera that's currently on the market.

Basically, there are two kinds of color film — one designed for

Snakes and Turtles Are His Pals

By Eleanor Avery Price

MANY YOUNGSTERS find time hangs heavy on their hands during the summer vacation months, but such is not the case with Dick Chase, 12, of 5202 Brockwood St.

Dick has so many hobbies he is constantly busy. He collects coins, stamps, and rocks, and he enjoys putting together miniature cars and airplanes. He is active in the Lakewood Cotillions and Little League baseball. He also has an intense interest in pets in general and reptiles in particular.

If some mothers feel squeamish because their sons want their dogs to sleep in bed with them, they should picture Dick's mother when she tiptoes in to see if all is well with her son before she retires and finds him with a turtle under his chin or a snake snoozing happily against his cheek. Chances are, there would be no more arguing against Fido occupying the same bed!

DICK BECAME interested in scaly vertebrates when he was scarcely more than a toddler. Fortunately he has an understanding father who, learning how much Dick enjoyed this hobby, took him for jaunts along river beds and helped him search for creatures that live in such areas. His father is still his son's best pal and has built Dick a fine glass-sided pen for the snake collection.

Oddly enough, Dick's first turtle just suddenly appeared one day in his yard. The neighborhood was canvassed for a possible owner, but no one claimed the creature. Since then, Dick has acquired other turtles, the most unusual probably being an Eastern box turtle, a little fellow who pulls in his head and closes his home like a clam. The turtles have the run of the Chases' enclosed service yard, and Mrs. Chase undauntedly picks her way around them when hanging up the family wash.

SOME TIME BACK, Dick and two of his friends, Mike Rochford and David Clare, started what they call The Reptile Club. The club stages side shows in the Chase yard for the neighborhood kids, the admission charge being 2 or 3 pennies. Dick has no fear of reptiles. He knows that most snakes are harmless to humans, and he finds the study of the characteristics of snakes and lizards and the adaptation of turtles most interesting.

HONORS FOR the top scoring obedience dog at the Harbor Cities Kennel Club show this past weekend goes to a miniature poodle, La Princess D'Lyn Rod, with a score of 199 in Novice A. The dog is owned by Nadine Tracy and Joe Carr of West Los Angeles.

Turtles and a snake are part of a collection of reptiles which occupy much of Dick Chase's leisure time.

HOW TO Make Minor Plumbing Repairs, Free Stopped Up Drains of Obstructions

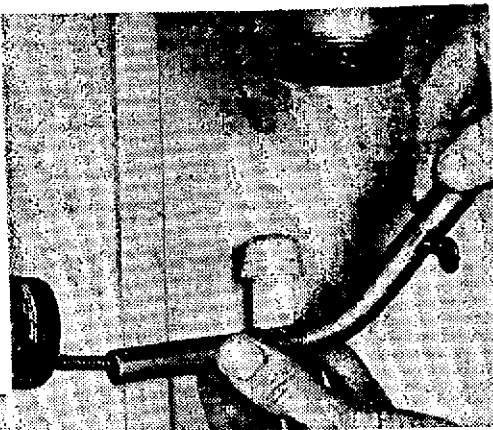

1. NEW WASHER usually stops a faucet from dripping. To replace it, loosen hexagon cap nut with a wrench after you turn off the water supply. Then lift out the spindle assembly. Washer is seated in shallow cup at end of valve stem and it's removed with a regular screwdriver. On older-type compression faucets, the spindle must be turned. Spindle on this one is screwed into sleeve.

2. CHEMICAL DRAINTYPE cleaner should be used when the drainage flow becomes sluggish. Remove the trap and put the chemical in the pipe with a spoon. Then wash it down with a small amount of water. Repeat, reconnect trap, and flush.

3. DRAINPIPE AUGER may be needed if a suction cup worked at the sink drain doesn't open pipe. Loosen trap and insert auger directly into the pipe, pushing it to the obstruction and turning it. Auger of 3/4-inch diameter is most useful to the average homeowner, although other sizes are available. Use chemical cleaner after drainage flow has been partly restored. Clean auger.

4. CLEANOUT PLUGS are the next step to take if the obstruction is located beyond the reach of the auger at the trap opening. Push auger "upstream" from the plug after you unscrew the cap with a wrench. If pipe is "clear," run auger through it below the opening. A springlike "snake" can be bought for house drain or sewer stoppage.

GARDENS

It's Time to Feed Plants

By Bob Gilmore

GARDEN ornamentals will grow vigorously only if there is sufficient food in the soil to satisfy their demands. Of all the nutrients used for increasing plant growth, the most important are nitrogen, phosphorous and potash. The manner in which these various agents act is one of the most interesting stories in the plant world.

Nitrogen is one of the most important food factors and certainly the most dangerous. It increases susceptibility to disease, largely because it produces lush green growth that is extremely sensitive. It brings out the green coloring in foliage and that explains why fertilizers with a high nitrogen content are often used on lawns. Sulphate of ammonia is one example of this. However, lawns require more than just nitrogen and a well balanced food will prove far better than one containing only nitrogen.

NITROGEN should be used very sparingly if at all during cold weather. It encourages succulent young growth, which is highly sensitive to frost and cold weather.

An excess of nitrogen delays maturity, leads to a certain weakness of stem growth and may lower the quality of a vegetable crop. On the other hand, leaf crops such as lettuce, spinach and endive become more palatable and tender when the right percentage of nitrogen is applied.

The value of phosphorous is due to the fact that it encourages faster maturity, aids in root development and strengthens stem growth. Phosphorous is also believed to aid cell division. Commercial seed growers find it valuable for it helps to ripen the seed and tends to produce a higher yield and a more uniform seed crop.

WHILE NITROGEN may be dangerous to work with, especially during cold weather, phosphorous is relatively safe, even an excess of it causing practically no harm.

Potash is a sort of balancing agent between nitrogen and phosphorous. It aids in the development of roots and is therefore essential for root crops; yet it tends to delay maturity. Potash should be used liberally in sandy soils, which are usually deficient in this food factor.

A lack of potash causes an abnormal leaf color and in certain cases may lead to weak stems. Potash adds tone and vigor to most plants and the coloring of flowers is often improved by its use. It is linked up with the process of photo-able, such as dry or liquid, simple or mixed and root feeding or leaf feeding, the latter being comparatively new. Sulphate of ammonia is a simple food in contrast with a rose food containing nitrogen, phosphorous, potash, and probably several trace elements. It is also inorganic as contrasted with bone meal or blood meal, which are organic, meaning they have been derived from living organisms.

Do not confuse soil conditioners with plant foods. Hydrated lime, for example, is not a food, but simply a soil conditioner. It is used for purposes of neutralizing extreme acidity. It also aids in promoting air and moisture penetration. Gypsum corrects alkalinity but is not a food. Lime is another soil conditioner, not a plant food. It sweetens the soil by neutralizing acidity.

Garden Tips

GARDENING TIPS for the week... Pink callas make a delightful pot plant and the flowers may be used for corsages. The plants are low growing and are much more graceful than the white, yellow or black callas.

For a lovely fragrance, try gardenia veitchii. This plant has a delicious scent and the pure, waxy-white, all double flowers are produced in great abundance. The leaves are deep green and quite glossy.

MID-SUMMER doesn't mean vacation for your plants. It means that after working hard since spring they are generally expected to go on working until fall.

If you see some leaves yellowing between the green veins, you'll know they are in need of pepping up. Give them a little iron. I personally favor the simple old-fashioned method of using iron in the form of ferrous sulphate and scattering it very lightly over the soil in the root-growing area so that your irrigation water carries it down and the fiber roots of your plants can take it as they desire it. Thus they receive it gradually and the iron is not forced to them by high-pressure methods. This is the quick but entirely natural way to bring the green back into those yellow leaves.

An additional "tone up" for the foliage is to sprinkle or spray it with 4 ounces of epsom salts to 3 gallons of water.

Circle of the Charmed

THE AGE-OLD STORY of a too-possessive, channish family love is told suavely and with what seems to be a new twist by Susan Ertz in "Charmed Circle" (Harper, $3.95) the July selection of the Literary Guild.

There are the Prentisses—Myron, Ruth and their children Halley (born in 1910, the year of Halley's comet), Clarisse and Julian. They are gracious, charming, good-tempered. They divide their time among New York, London and the Continent. They have a great love for art, a great love for travel, a consuming love for each other.

Myron, a rich man's son who had hoped to be an artist but did not quite make it, collects art masterpieces—Van Gogh, Cezanne, Signac, Seurat. Ruth is painted by Renoir. The children are taught by tutors. Investments are handled by an old family friend, Sylvanus Dumont. So secure, so tranquil is their life that they are almost untouched by the Flaming 1920s, almost unbruised by the Great Depression.

One enjoys them so much—it is something to meet thoroughly pleasant people within the pages of a book—that it is quite a while before one gets a nagging suspicion that after all their life is pretty pointless and it is about time the charmed circle expanded a bit.

The first break is threatened when Clarisse falls in love with Fred, the favorite nephew of Sylvanus. Clarisse is well-loved by Syl as the daughter he never had. On her wedding night she flees home where she is welcomed with clinging arms.

The Prentisses are oblivious to the tragedy of Fred's broken life, but because of the scandal and publicity they leave New York for a permanent home in Europe. Halley's education at Harvard is broken by the family's flight. At a concert in London Halley meets Selma Jackson, considerably below him in the social scale; and he does not mean to, but he falls in love with her.

Had Syl's wise handling of their affairs continued, the charmed circle might have continued, at that. But it does not, and a hasty trip to New York to salvage what may be left of their fortune brings the affairs of the family to a climax.

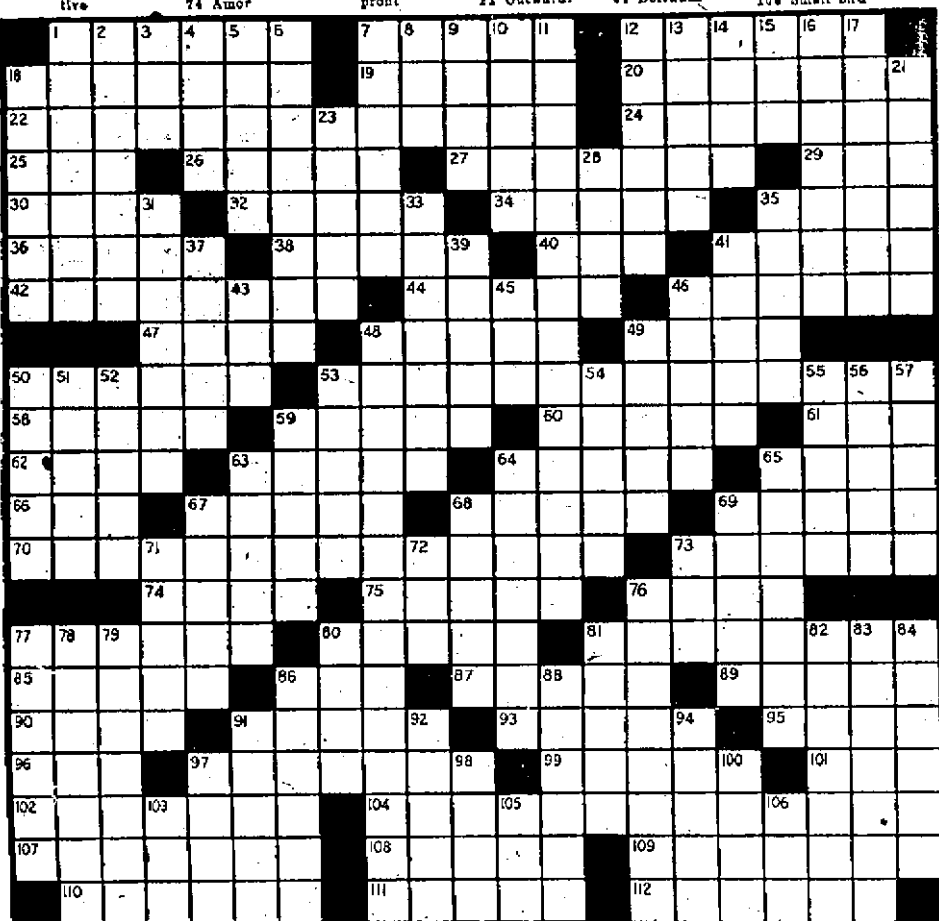

It is a well-written, thoughtful book and it flows something like the Thames on which the family punts.—V. W.

DAVY CROCKETT, often depicted as a folklore hero to the exclusion of the real man, at last comes to his own in "David Crockett: The Man and the Myth" (University of North Carolina Press, $6). Here is a definitive biography, written by James Atkins Shackford and edited by John B. Shackford, which corrects fictional versions of this man of history and brings him into proper focus not only as a fine frontiersman, backwoods politician and Congressman who fought honestly and with zeal for the rights of his constituents and to uphold his own conscience. Here, too, is painted a fine picture of the times in which Crockett lived—the passing of the great American frontier.

"THE GODS DEPART," third volume in a series on the history of the Hawaiian kingdom, has been published by Kathleen Dickson Mellen (Hastings House, $5) and has been met enthusiastically in the mid-Pacific isles, where Mrs. Mellen is regarded as the leading author-exponent of the Hawaiian point of view. Her newest volume is subtitled, "A Saga of the Hawaiian Kingdom, 1832-1873," and tells of the last stand and hopes of the Hawaiian people to preserve their lands and their own ways of life. Foreign elements won out, imposing their system of life, morals and government and relieving the Hawaiians of much of their birthright in lands and liberties. Previous books by Mrs. Mellen are "The Lonely Warrior" (Kamehameha the Great) and "The Magnificent Matriarch" (the Dowager Queen), both historical, and "In a Hawaiian Valley," fictional essays on the Hawaii the tourist never sees.

IF YOU'RE collecting long-playing records, you'll be interested to know that the Music Library Association at last has compiled a rating of all serious music ever recorded in this country, along with a summary of the opinions of top-flight reviewing media of each recording. "Record Ratings" (Crown, $5.95), a large volume, probably lists every recording of classical and folk music, operas, theater, poetry and speech, with critical appraisal of each. The material was compiled by Kurtz Myers, chief of the music and drama department of Detroit Public Library, and was edited by Richard S. Hill, head of the reference section of the music division, Library of Congress.

HAROLD A. JONES

Ummm, Dessert!

NO ONE—Absolutely no one —can keep from drooling when he sees the magnificent variety of desserts offered at Jones Dining Room, 120 E.
5th St.

This display can be a child's dream or a dieting adult's nightmare—and it all depends on who you are and how big your appetite is. For example, these are some of the splendid pies baked in the Jones ovens:
pineapple chiffon, lemon mer-ingue, eastern cherry, rhubarb, custard, chocolate chip, fresh boysenberry, fresh apple and hot apple with cinnamon sauce.

Two kinds of spectacular scrumptious parfaits are offered: strawberry or chocolate.
Fresh layer cakes—chocolate or white—are available, and all kinds of ice creams, including black walnut, strawberry, fresh peach and chocolate bits. Naturally, there are sherbets, pineapple and tangerine, and a host of puddings.

These desserts are the brain children of Harold A. and Ivalou Jones, owners of the Dining Room and the adjacent Cafeteria which have been downtown landmarks for 27 years.
Naturally, there's no extra charge for dessert—it's included with the price of the dinner.

The Dining Room is a model of efficiency, excellent service and gracious surroundings. All kinds of dinner entrees are on the menu. The following are just a few: veal cutlet with country gravy, $1.95; two pretty pan-fried trout, $2.10; prime rib au jus (thick and juicy), $2.35;
Swiss steak with fresh mushroom sauce, $2.10, and Mor-rell's eastern baked ham, $2.10.
Steaks, chicken and chops are also available.

Included with each entree are a variety of appetizers, soup, choice of any one of 14 fresh salads; choice of potato, a second vegetable, hot fresh baked blueberry muffins and assorted rolls, choice of beverages, and of course, dessert.

The Dining Room and Cafeteria are open daily from 11 a.m. on. They are closed Friday evening and all day Saturday.

What's the "Princess" doing Saturday?

Starry-eyed, she's just slipped into her most divine dance dress. In the morning, she was swimming; in the afternoon, there was a picnic.

All of these activities were part of a wonderful week-end that could have so easily been trying and embarrassing. For every smart girl knows that you can't be at your best—you can't even do all the things you want to do—if your sanitary protection is a constant, bulky, cumbersome, frustrating reminder!

Internally-worn Tampax is both invisible and unfelt when in place. Prevents odor from forming. Is easy to carry, easy to insert and change, easy to dispose of. In fact, many girls insist cool, comfortable Tampax almost makes them forget when it's a "problem day" for them. Ask for your choice of 3 absorbencies (Regular, Super, Junior) at any drug or notion counter. Be at your best no matter what time of the month it is. Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Mass.

I'll always remember...

JULY 4, 1919

by JACK DEMPSEY

Thirty-seven years ago this Wednesday, I fought Jess Willard for the World's Heavyweight Championship at Toledo, Ohio. It was a stiflingly hot day. It also was a day on which I saw a lifelong dream come true—and was left with a curious feeling of emptiness and disillusionment.

In the huge wooden amphitheater on the city's outskirts, the temperature hovered around 110 degrees. I was an almost unknown Salt Lake City fighter of 24, a 4-5 underdog who'd been laughed at all his youth for his stubborn ambition to become heavyweight champion. Outweighed by 65 pounds and topped by six inches, I surprised a lot of fight fans and writers by toppling the 245-pound, 6' 6" defender from a title he'd held for four years.

I can still see the look of bewildered disbelief spreading across Jess' broad face, as he went down seven successive times in the first round; his glazed eyes staring dazedly across the ring when his handlers threw in a towel to signify he couldn't start the fourth.

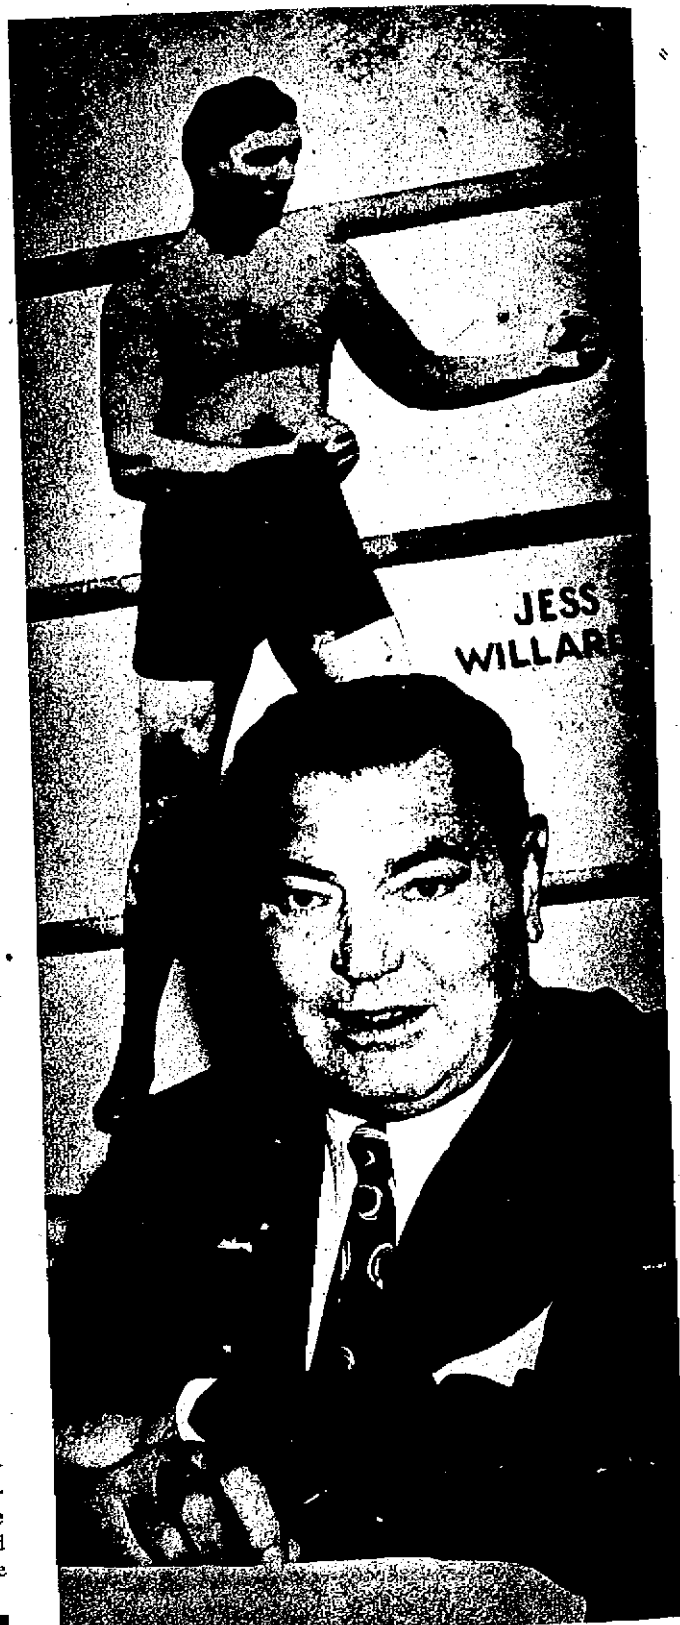

That night there was a big banquet in the Secor Hotel, with lots of toasts and speech-making. I finally got to bed around 2 a.m., dropped off to sleep almost at once, then awoke with a start. I'd had a strange, disturbing nightmare. I dreamed I'd been fighting and had just been knocked out.

I couldn't get back to sleep, so I dressed and went down to the street, where newsboys were still shouting their extras. I bought the papers and returned to my room.

Reading through accounts of the fight, I began to realize that success didn't taste the way I'd thought it would. I'd won a world's championship; so what? I'd spent so much of my life learning to fight that I'd barely absorbed enough schooling to spell my own name. At the banquet, I'd had to watch others to know which fork to use. At a time when everyone wanted to meet and talk to me, I was painfully aware that I'd never even heard of books they referred to, or developed any appreciation of art or music. All I could discuss intelligently was fighting!

My thoughts turned to Willard, and I found myself feeling genuinely sorry for big Cowboy Jess—sorry that success so often has to be achieved at the expense of someone else. And suddenly I began to wonder if any victory could be really complete—so complete that it wouldn't leave one with a vague sense of defeat.

Life has been good to me since then. But I still wonder. ■

180 BIRTHDAYS AGO... on July 4, 1776... something new was born in the world. Its name: the United States of America. Today, every schoolboy knows that date—but not every American knows the true meaning of our country and what it stands for. To the confused, the doubting, the ignorant, a modest group called the American Heritage Council offers a fresh way to explore the Spirit of '76. The secret is almost laughably simple—people just sit down together and talk—but the results are astonishing. To see what this can mean to you and your community, turn to p. 6.

Good news for barbecues:

Delicate Wesson Oil is the only one you need for sauce and for salad and dessert

What better helper for barbecues—indoors or out. You just pour Wesson Oil for Jiffy Sauce. Wesson's matchless delicacy brings out all the lively barbecue flavors. Homemade Wesson sauce saves money, and naturally no bought sauce could match its fresh-made goodness.

In just 1 minute you make fresh Wesson dressing—a light, bright dressing especially tempting over salads served with spicy barbecue. Combine 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon paprika, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup vinegar, $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups Wesson Oil, and shake well.

For flaky, tender Stir-N-Roll tarts, Wesson Oil is your instant shortening. It pours to measure and stirs in. No messy shortening to measure or cut in. Wesson baking is the easy, modern way to old-fashioned flavor. None lighter, finer and fresher than Wesson in all the world.

WESSON JIFFY BARBECUE SAUCE

- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Wesson Oil
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped onion
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup tomato ketchup
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 2 teaspoons salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon pepper

Cook onion till soft in hot Wesson Oil. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 15 minutes. Sear steak on both sides, then brush with sauce each time steak is turned. Serve with remaining sauce.

This fresh, flavorful sauce is excellent, too, with chicken, hamburgers, hot dogs and other barbecue favorites.

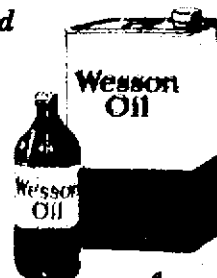

STIR-N-ROLL FRUIT TARTS

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, such as Gold Medal
- $1\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Wesson Oil
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup cold milk
- Sweetened fresh or frozen fruit for filling
- Whipped cream for topping

Mix flour, salt. Pour Wesson Oil and milk into measuring cup (don't stir); mix with flour. Press into ball, flatten slightly. Roll pastry $\frac{1}{8}$ -inch thick between waxed paper. (Lightly dampen table top to prevent slipping.) Cut into $3\frac{1}{2}$ -inch rounds. Line 12 tart pans with pastry. Trim and flute edges, prick entire surface with fork. Bake at 425° (hot oven) about 10 minutes, until a delicate brown. Fill with sweetened fruit and top with whipped cream.

Wesson Oil

The only one you need for frying, baking, and for salads too

ECONOMY NEWS: When you buy Wesson Oil in the thrifty gallon size, it's almost like getting a quart free.

TRIUMPH OVER TOOTH DECAY

Crest Toothpaste with Fluoristan strengthens teeth themselves.
You brush Crest on... it actually goes in... and locks decay out

Fluoristan® is Procter & Gamble's exclusive stannous fluoride formula —proven the greatest decay-preventive in any toothpaste.

Miracle of the Towns Without Toothaches. For years, children growing up in certain Western towns were virtually without cavities. Then science learned why: nature's decay-preventive, fluoride, was present in their drinking water!

Science Long Tried to Capture Fluoride—only medically approved preventive of decay—in a toothpaste. At last, after years of research, university scientists discovered Fluoristan—the greatest decay-preventive in any toothpaste.

Fluoristan Makes Possible Crest. Without Fluoristan, you cannot get maximum protection against tooth decay with a toothpaste. You brush Crest on . . . it actually goes in . . . and locks decay out, for adults and for children, 6 and over.

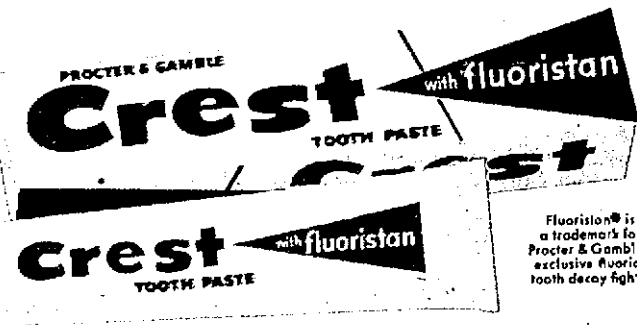

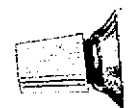

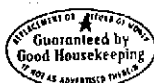

Dentists Tested Crest for three years with 5,673 people. No toothpaste stops all decay—but Crest set decay-prevention records never approached by any other toothpaste. Thus Crest marks a new era . . . triumph over tooth decay everywhere.

IMPORTANT

Crest with Fluoristan is the only toothpaste ever developed that makes possible a major reduction in tooth decay for everyone, everywhere, by strengthening tooth enamel. Thereby, Crest marks a turning point in man's age-old struggle against this almost universal disease.

You brush Crest on . . . it actually goes in . . . and locks decay out. Each time you brush Crest on your teeth, Fluoristan builds new resistance to decay into tooth enamel. In this way, Crest actually fortifies and strengthens teeth to lock out cavities—the only toothpaste proved to do so. With Crest, your family approaches the long dreamed-of day of healthy, decay-free teeth.

As carpenter Daniel Rucinski (r.) studies the Declaration of Independence, others wait their turn to talk in free-for-all discussion of the Revolution — starting point for a typical "Education for Freedom" program in Chicago.

20th CENTURY 'TOWN MEETINGS':

A new way to learn about liberty

On our 180th birthday, Americans relive the spirit of '76 by ED KIESTER

CHICAGO. THIS WEDNESDAY the U.S. celebrates its 180th birthday. And around hundreds of tables here and thousands more through the Midwest, Americans like those on these pages — people named Rucinski and Cohen and Bottomley — are living again the stormy days that followed July 4, 1776.

Brandishing copies of the Declaration of Independence, they argue vigorously about whether the 13 colonies should sever ties with the British Crown. In a few weeks they will be just as vehement about the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and other great documents. The names of Hamilton and Jefferson and Washington will be lauded on the one hand, denounced on the other.

In these give-and-take discussions, participants are gaining new insight into America — from other Americans like themselves. There are no teachers or instructors or paid speakers. Opinions are aired freely by everyone. The result is a kind of 20th-century town meeting or cracker-barrel discussion devoted to the living America.

And this was just what a handful of men had in mind when, in 1950, they decided that the way to combat Communism was to talk about America. History, they felt, was on the side of democracy. Any American familiar with the historical facts — anyone who had experienced them — could not be tempted by any other ideology. To spread this gospel, they set up a tiny organization, the American Heritage Council, with a two-man staff and a $30,000 budget.

How well the Council has succeeded can be measured statistically: in the past year, more than 3,000 such discussions have been held in Illinois alone, with 145,000 persons participating. The groups have included labor unions, veterans' organizations, public-school students, fraternal and social clubs, professional associations, even one at the Stateville Penitentiary (where observers praised the high level of the inmates' discussions).

And this fall, AMVETS will launch a nation-wide program of discussions called "Your Legacy — USA." The pilot project already is functioning in Cook County here. Eight Midwestern states have started similar operations. Beyond the borders of Illinois the state departments of the American Legion, one of the first groups to adopt the Americanism program, have launched discussions in Florida and Washington. Inquiries have come in from New Jersey, New Mexico, South Dakota, Montana.

In all these places, "education for freedom" works much the same way. A favorite technique is for the moderator to hand out copies of the Declaration, tell the members to imagine the date is July 5, 1776, and that he is the "town clerk" reporting on yesterday's doings in Philadelphia. He asks them to vote whether to accept the Declaration, reminding them that such a vote is treason to the British crown, and that they are voting for such radical principles, for 1776, as "all men are created equal."

"But I don't believe that all men are created equal," someone is apt to remark, as one woman did at a recent meeting, and the group is off and running. The theme may veer from equality to secession to voting rights to the personalities of the Founding Fathers. Sometimes it can get quite heated. Recently, in a group of union representatives and teachers, a young teacher protested against the Revolution on conscientious grounds. "Killing is always wrong," she said. "There's always the power of moral example and prayer." A young carpenter shot back, "Couldn't you at least pray that King George would drop dead?"

With large groups, the session may break up into a number of tables of 10 persons each, with a spokesman to represent each table's viewpoint in the final meeting-wide discussion. The meeting has a moderator, but his function is not to force-feed material. Instead, he tries to keep the discussion on an even keel, to draw out the shy participants and to needle the speech-makers. Moderators, all volunteers who have been given preparation by the Council, are repeatedly amazed by the fresh thinking and shrewd grasp of ideas shown by the groups. They find, for instance, that Alexander Hamilton comes off considerably better in discussion than in textbooks, despite his alleged mistrust of the people. Even laborers defend many of his policies.

One reason, the Council's directors believe, is that the fathers of the country become flesh-and-blood persons during the discussions. College students are fascinated to discover that, except for Franklin and Washington, the Revolutionary leaders were mostly young men. The heroes of folklore generally emerge with more stature than before. "Say, those guys that made America really knew what they were doing," one meat-cutter summed up this admiration recently.

Some groups limit themselves to dissecting the Declaration and the Constitution — the most basic documents. But others become fired with zeal and dip into the Monroe Doctrine, the Emancipation Proclamation, Woodrow Wilson's 14 Points. Others have carried their studies right up to the present day, attempting to measure present policies by their lessons in fundamental Americanism.

Originally, the program was not aimed at school's. But then Mrs. Dorothy Weber, who had participated in one of the early discussion groups, tried it in a history class at Lane Technical High School here. She reported back to the Council: "More genuine knowledge of history was absorbed through such discussions than by traditional methods." Her students, she said, called it "learning history the painless way."

The program spread rapidly. In one high school, students turned out at 7:30 a.m. three days a week to meet for discussions. Today, Dr. Thaddeus J. Lubera, associate superintendent of schools, is a member of the Council board, and has determined that "the American Heritage program will go into every high school in Chicago." To prepare for this across-the-board program, the Council has outlined a graduate credit program to be taught at the University of Chicago.

Had such a program been operated nation-wide in the past, the Council believes, American POWs might never have succumbed to Chinese Communist brainwashing techniques. They could have overwhelmed their questioners with knowledge and belief in America. It was for this very reason that AMVETS recently announced their country-wide program.

How far will the hot-stove approach to history spread? Barnett Hodes, the politician-lawyer who dreamed up the program and is now chairman of the board, envisions it nation-wide, with the support of PTA groups, churches, schools, unions, veterans and patriotic organizations. What's more, he believes that such a goal might be achieved within five years. Wilbur C. Munnecke, chairman of the Council executive committee and vice president of the Chicago Sun-Times, is a little more cautious. But he, too, thinks saturation is more than an idle dream.

If you'd like to participate in this movement to teach America to Americans, the box on this page can tell you how. There are no prerequisites, no requirements of education — only the requirement of an inquiring mind. The payoff, both for you and for the nation, is renewed faith in America's heritage and a surer grasp of its guiding principles.

And there's a third reward, suggested by a steel-worker during a recent red-hot discussion. "Man," he said when everyone paused for breath, "history can be a lot of fun, can't it?"

If you want to launch an "Education for Freedom" program in your community or club, the American Heritage Council (mailing address: 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago 1, Ill.) can tell you how to begin. The Council can furnish a limited number of copies of historic documents. Booklets on the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution also may be obtained from the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., Boston, Mass. A 50c paper-bound book, A Documentary History of the United States, including important documents from the Revolution to the present day, is recommended for groups wishing to go more deeply into the subject.

Five Chicagoans look at the Declaration of Independence

CHARLES SCHMITZ, PRINTER

"After all, governments aren't changed for small reasons. I don't think any free-thinking person would have hesitated to sign the Declaration—then or now."

HENRY A. COHEN, ELEVATOR OPERATOR

"I'm the world's most outstanding coward; I'd have been awfully hesitant about signing the Declaration. I'd be worried: what will happen to me and my family?"

MRS. ROSALIE HIGH, SCHOOL TEACHER

"We have to salute the men who signed the Declaration. It took terrific courage to do something like that."

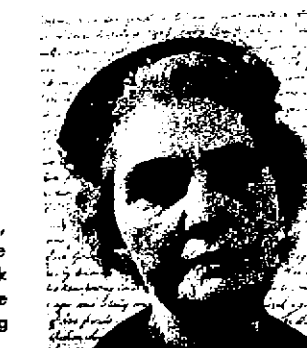

JOHN MULARSKI, LABOR LEADER

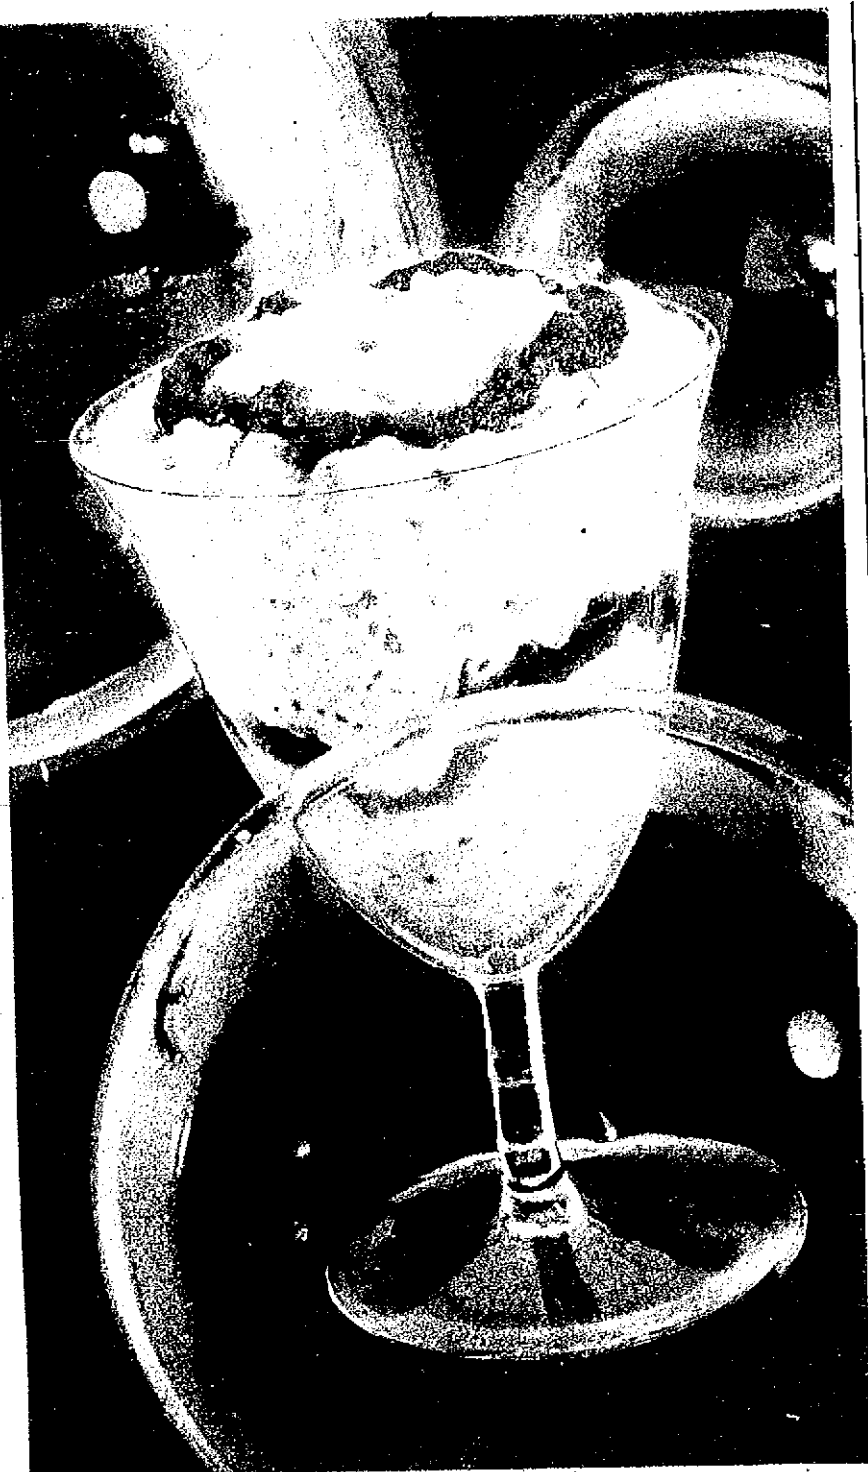

"The Declaration was a dream, a question mark at the time. But there was a spirit of revolution in the world, and it gave the movement a goal, a direction."

MRS. MARJORIE BOTTOMLEY, HOUSEWIFE

"My husband's ancestor, Thomas Stone, signed the Declaration. I don't think either of us realized the chances he took in doing so."

If your child must travel alone . . .

FAR FROM HOME, this forlorn boy is one of annual thousands "lost" traveling alone.

. . . Here's how to be sure he gets there

The 8-year-old's face was tear-stained when she was found in the station waiting room. She had a too-heavy suitcase, a comic book and 38 cents. Her name was Linda.

It took officials two hours of questioning and phone calls to find out why she was there and to rescue her from being "lost." She had been put aboard a train early that morning, in a city hundreds of miles away, to come visit Aunt Marion — who would meet the train. But Aunt Marion, in a hospital, had never received the letter. When discovered, Linda had been waiting six hours.

This summer, Linda's story — with variations — will be repeated some 4,000 times, according to the National Travelers Aid Association, whose blue-and-white globe is a beacon of help in big-city stations, bus terminals and airports. Last year, its 105 local societies and 1,000 representatives in smaller towns rescued a total of 18,000 children who had been sent on trips alone.

With 50 years of experience behind it, the Travelers Aid advises against sending children under 10 on trips by themselves. If you have to send them, this non-profit organization offers six free services, charging only for needed phone calls and telegrams. 1) It advises you if, in its judgment, a child is mature enough to travel by himself. 2) It makes sure he is expected and will be met. 3) It helps in working out travel schedules and routes. 4) It places a child aboard his bus, train or plane with a letter to the driver, conductor or hostess telling where he is to get off. 5) It arranges for his care during stopovers and en route connections. 6) It holds him for pick-up at destination.

Travelers Aid also offers these tips:

Identification: Write out in duplicate the child's name, address and phone number, and those of the person he is going to see. Place one copy in the child's pocket; pin the other to his clothing where it can be seen.

Transportation: Using up-to-date timetables, work out in detail every step of the trip, avoiding connections or arrivals early in the morning or after dark; too close connections; long stopovers; travel over holidays and week ends. Remember that it's easier to keep an eye on a child in a Pullman car or plane than in a train coach. If the child is traveling by bus whose drivers change en route, provide in writing information to be passed along.

Double-check: Be sure the person the child is going to visit has full information regarding travel schedules, particularly the exact time and place of arrival. Double-check by phone to make sure.

Clothing: Keep the child's travel wardrobe as simple as possible. A description of what the child is wearing will be helpful to the person meeting him, or will help police find him if he is lost. Be sure he doesn't change clothes during the trip.

Children Get Upset Easily

Pre-trip Briefing: Children may be upset by events — like a train stopping or backing unexpectedly — that don't bother adults. If possible, familiarize the child with the vehicle he will ride in, either through travel pictures or the vehicle itself. Teach him: a) to ask the conductor or other official — not another passenger — any questions he has; b) to remain in one seat.

Luggage: Ship or check through anything not needed on the trip. The lighter the child travels, the better.

How Much Money?: Give him enough to cover any possible contingencies. Buy all tickets in advance and give him enough cash for meals and spending money.

If you have no Travelers Aid listed in your phone book, call your Community Chest or similar organization to help you locate the nearest representative. Last year, it supervised the travels of 9,000 children in comfort and without anxiety. It would rather operate that way with your child than rescue him after he becomes stranded.

REPORT ON Youth

DATE NIGHT: Off to a party, Bob Loy proudly escorts his girl friend, pretty Marye Gott, to his car, all shined up for the event. Says Marye: "Bob's one of the best drivers I know."

A CAR TO CALL HIS OWN

For this Tennessee boy, it is a symbol of growing up

KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Today's cover, with its appealing theme of youth, is more than just a picture of a youngster with a jalopy and a group of admiring friends. It shows a typical teenager in one of the most important and exciting phases of growing up — when for the first time he comes into possession of something of value he can really call his own.

The boy in the 1940 convertible is Bob Loy, a student at Knoxville East High School here. It's the first car he ever owned, and PARADE's photos show how he makes it part of his life.

Bob recently reached his 16th birthday, but because he is big for his age (6' 2", 200 lbs.), he looks and acts somewhat more mature than most of his age group. Yet whether he realizes it or not, the status of ownership has given him a boost along the road from adolescence to manhood. It has given him a new feeling of responsibility, independence and prestige.

In getting the car, to begin with, he ran smack up against an adult responsibility — paying for it. His father, A. B. Loy, a local restaurant manager, wisely decided against giving Bob the car as a gift. Thus, shortly before Bob's 16th birthday, father and son walked up to the loan window of a Knoxville bank. The man behind the grill handed Mr. Loy $85 in cash. The latter, in turn, handed the money to Bob and said: "There you are, son. Go buy your car."

The loan, of course, was a man-to-man business deal. Mr. Loy had taken it out with the understanding that Bob was to pay him back. That is why Bob shortly began a $45-a-week pick-and-shovel job on a city construction project. Paying back at the rate of $20 a week, he figured to be in the clear in just about a month.

OVERHAUL: Array of parts means Bob is enjoying his new possession. He "souped up" car with a racing-car carburetor that cost $4.

RECIPE 1 > Carnation 3-minute Cheese Sauce in HAM AND CHEESE BISCUIT BAKE

The short-cut secret is a new, smoother Cheese Sauce that's ready in 3 minutes! Better-blending Carnation makes it possible: ordinary milk won't do. To make sauce, mix 1½ cups (large can) undiluted Carnation with 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish and 1 teaspoon dry mustard in saucepan. Simmer to just below boiling (2 mins.). Add 2 cups grated process American cheese. Stir over low heat until cheese melts (1 min.). Alternately layer 3 cups diced cooked ham and 2 cups well-drained cooked green beans in 2-qt. casserole. Pour sauce over casserole. Top with biscuits. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 15-20 minutes. 4-6 servings.

RECIPE 3 > Carnation 3-minute Cheese Sauce in TWO-WAY TUNA AND MACARONI CHEESE LOAF

Serve it hot one day—cold the next! Start with 3-Minute Cheese Sauce from recipe above. Mix 2 beaten eggs, ¼ cup diced green pepper, ¼ cup diced pimiento, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 2 cups well-drained flaked tuna, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 3 cups well-drained cooked macaroni, ½ teaspoon salt together in bowl. Blend Cheese Sauce with macaroni mixture. Place in paper-lined loaf pan (9 x 5 x 3). Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 25-30 minutes. Turn out on platter; remove paper. Slice loaf and serve at once, or chill and serve cold. Makes 8-10 servings.

RECIPE 2 > Carnation lump-free Cream Sauce in ASPARAGUS, CHEESE AND EGG CASSEROLE

You get a headstart with an easy-to-make, always lump-free Cream Sauce, thanks to the special blending qualities found in Carnation but in no other form of milk. To make the sauce, blend 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper in saucepan over low heat. Add 1½ cups (large can) undiluted Carnation. Stir until thickened and smooth. Alternately layer 2 cups cooked 1-inch asparagus cuts, 3 sliced hard-cooked eggs, 8 thin process American cheese slices, ¼ cup chopped toasted almonds in buttered 1-qt. casserole. Pour sauce over casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 minutes. Serves 4-6.

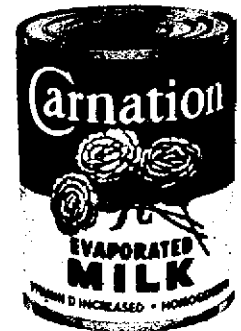

RECIPE 4 > Carnation lump-free Cream Sauce in CREAMED CHIPPED BEEF AND RICE INDIVIDUALS

It's the smooth, lump-free Cream Sauce resulting from Carnation's special blending qualities that makes this recipe easy, failure-proof, delicious. You begin with the Cream Sauce recipe above. Then mix together ¼ cup diced celery, 2 tablespoons diced green pepper, 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup cooked rice and 1½ cups chopped, dried beef. Rinse beef in hot water; drain before use. Place ¼ cup beef mixture in each of 4 small casseroles; pour the cream sauce over each casserole. Mix. Bake casseroles in moderate oven (350°F.) 15 mins. Makes 4 servings.

DRIVE-IN snack tops off double-date evening. In back seat: Bob Smallman, Glenda Morrell.

Owning a car has given Bob a regard

In making Bob pay for the car, his father was furthering the boy's education as a man. For psychologists agree that parents who allow adolescents the maximum degree of responsibility as soon as they can handle it are doing the best thing possible to encourage maturity.

Scientific theories aside, there wasn't a prouder kid in all Knoxville the day Bob turned into the driveway of his home on East Magnolia Avenue at the wheel of his convertible. On hand as a welcoming committee were his Mother and Dad; brother George, 14; sister Jane, 11, and Bootsie, his cocker spaniel. Now the Loys were a two-car family — Bob's would be put to practical use while his father used the family car for business trips.

As it happens, a car and its mechanical problems mesh perfectly with Bob's plans for his career. He wants to be an electrical engineer, and so tearing down the convertible and putting it back together again simply amount to some advance classroom work. Bob is strictly a do-it-yourself driver. As he says: "I like to do my own work. Then, if anything goes wrong, I can't blame anybody but myself."

Bob keeps his overhaul operations within strict budget limits. He does this by the simple expedient of scrounging. To date, there is scarcely a junk yard or used-car lot in town that Bob hasn't visited to pick up parts.

He gets a lot of mechanical help at the gas station not far from his home — where, incidentally, he spends most of his spare time. The station manager lets Bob use special repair tools and gas up his own car. Gas is the biggest item in Bob's running expenses. He buys a dollar's worth at a time and that lasts him three or four days, with luck.

The expense of maintaining a car has naturally made Bob acutely aware of the value of a dollar. According to his father, Bob was never too concerned about money. As one of three children in a middle-income family, his allowance has been just about average. Dates and incidentals keep him chronically broke — a common teen-age affliction. But the car, his father observes, has made a difference in Bob's financial thinking. Says Mr. Loy: "He's looking ahead more now. And he's started a bank account."

At this stage in a boy's life, economic independence is highly important. It's not merely a matter of being able to pay for the things he wants; he needs to feel that he is on his own and free, to some degree, from parental authority. Moreover, he wants to be recognized as an individual by others of his age group. Now, as a properly licensed driver and the owner of a car, Bob feels he is "somebody" in his crowd.

As young drivers go, Bob is probably

FAMILY EFFORT to wash the new car is interrupted when brother George turns the hose on Bob (right).

FOR TEEN-AGE DRIVERS...

At PARADE's suggestion, the National Safety Council has drawn up this special set of rules to guide young drivers.

- Be a "pro" — drive smoothly. Don't make jackrabbit starts or squealing stops.
- Use sportsmanship. Be courteous and give the other fellow a break.
- Adjust your speed to road, weather and traffic conditions.
- Make sure you have plenty of room to pass and to change lanes.
- Stay alert; think ahead. Keep both hands on the wheel, both eyes on the road.
- Obey the law. Don't fudge at lights, signs or rail crossings.
- Keep your car in topnotch condition.
- Don't be a bumper chaser.
- Be proud of your driving. Do your part to prove that teenagers can be the best drivers on the road.

for possessions—and other people

better than most. For one thing, he started learning at the age of 7, when he sat on his Dad's knee and steered the car. For another, he has taken the driver-training course at East High. He was considered an unusually apt learner and once represented the school in a teen-age radio panel discussion on car safety.

Like most teen-agers with sharp reflexes, Bob drives nonchalantly—though not carelessly—and is not afraid of traffic. As his father says: "Bob's really a better driver than I am. He knows the book rules and the mechanical operation of the car. And he has the proper respect for traffic laws."

Two Accidents, but...

The boy has been involved in two minor accidents, neither of which is listed on his license because he wasn't held at fault. In one, Bob hit a car that cut in front of him and crumpled his fender. Of the other accident, Bob says: "That was when a drunk tried to climb up my back. The whole front of his car was smashed. My back bumper was bent and the trunk lid was twisted out of shape.

"Neither of us was hurt. The police gave the guy a drunkometer test and it registered .28. The cops said a reading of .15 [.15 of 1 per cent] indicates that a person is intoxicated. Well, I figured this man really didn't mean any harm, and when his case came up I testified for him. I asked the judge to be lenient.

"The driver appreciated that. As it happened, he was a mechanic and he fixed up my car for nothing. Now it's better than it was in the first place."

That incident graphically illustrates how a growing youngster sometimes deals with a situation in a mature and responsible way. In Bob's case, there was no thought of revenge. His first instinct was to "give the guy a break." In thus showing tolerance and consideration, of course, he also was showing signs of maturing.

Undoubtedly the most important thing in Bob Loy's private world at the moment is his car. As with most adolescents, this personal possession is a source of keen satisfaction. It gives him stature and inspires added respect for personal property—not only that of others but his own as well.

Now he remembers, for example, to hang up some of his clothes, put away his belongings and shine his shoes. As his mother laughingly observes: "The car has done something to him. His room has always been the worst mess you can imagine. Now he's beginning to show a trend."

For the future of America, that trend is a pretty good sign that today's Bob Loy's are growing into tomorrow's responsible citizens. ■

PRACTICAL USE for the car appears as Bob takes his mother to do marketing.

FLUFFY muffins, bursting with blueberries, topped with lemon-sugar glaze; luscious blueberry pie with Lemon Freeze atop—try both while the big blues are in season.

2 new Blueberry treats

It's the season for blueberries—and lemon

Big, misty-blue and beautiful, cultivated for maximum size and sweetness, blueberries are with us again for a brief season. Make the most of them while they last. Serve them plain, with cream, of course — and try these two new recipes. You'll like them!

LEMON-GLAZED BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

- 1 cup firm, fresh blueberries
- 2 cups sifted, enriched flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg, well-beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup melted shortening

Pick over berries; wash; drain; spread on paper toweling; shake gently to dry. Mix and sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Combine egg, milk and melted shortening; add all at once to flour mixture; stir just until liquid is absorbed. (Batter will be lumpy.) Gently fold in berries. Fill greased muffin pans 2/3 full. Mix one tablespoon sugar and one teaspoon grated lemon peel; sprinkle over tops. Bake in hot oven (405°F.) 20 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 12 medium muffins.

BLUEBERRY PIE

- 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups fresh blueberries
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Pastry for 2-crust pie
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Combine first five ingredients; let stand 15 minutes. Line 9" pie pan with pastry; fill pan with berry mixture; dot with butter or margarine. Cover with top crust; press edges together. Cut slits or holes in top crust to allow steam to escape. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) about 55 minutes. Serve warm, with Lemon Freeze.

LEMON FREEZE

- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- 6 tablespoons (1/2 can) frozen lemonade concentrate
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Chill evaporated milk in freezer tray until ice crystals form around edges. Whip in chilled bowl with beater until stiff. Combine remaining ingredients; add one tablespoon at a time, continuing to whip. Freeze firm. Makes 1 quart.

Discover how Mazola® Oil makes everything
—from salad to sauce—specially delicious!

Let's have Shish Kebab! Quick marinating sauce: Take a clove of garlic, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of Mazola Oil, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup vinegar, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, $\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and a dash of cayenne. Blend. Pour over cubed meat in shallow dish. Let stand 1 to 2 hours.

Skewer chunks of beef or lamb alternately with cubes of vegetables. Brush with marinating sauce. Place on pre-heated grill or broiler. Broil 10 to 15 minutes, until tender.

Approach your barbecue with a spirit of adventure. But remember, for barbecuing... for baking... for salad dressings... nothing gives food wonderful "golden goodness" like Mazola Oil.

EASY-DO BARBECUE SAUCE

2 tbsp. Mazola Oil	$\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
$\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped onions	2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce	or vinegar
1 tsp. sugar	$\frac{1}{2}$ cup water
1 cup chili sauce

Cook Mazola and onions over low heat, stirring frequently, about 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Makes about $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups.

Barbecued chicken: Brush chicken with Mazola and place on grill or broiler rack. Cook, turning often. Baste frequently with barbecue sauce during cooking. Cook until tender. Serve with hot barbecue sauce.

Hint to remember—Brush your meat or fish with Mazola before you place it on the grill. This keeps meat from sticking. Mazola makes all meat delicious and juicy on the inside—crusty and brown on the outside.

DEANNA DURBIN?

CANDID PHOTO of Deanna today shows her (facing camera) at an outdoor market in the French village where she now lives. With her are her husband and son.

One of the greatest child stars in history
has become a tranquil French homemaker

POSED PHOTO shows Deanna, aged 16, giving Robert Stack her first screen kiss. The occasion was Universal's 1939 film appropriately entitled First Love.

by LLOYD SHEARER

PARADE WEST COAST CORRESPONDENT

NEAUPLE-LE-CHATEAU, FRANCE.

Remember Deanna Durbin, the little girl who sang like an angel?

Remember how single-handedly she lifted Universal Pictures out of the red by starring in 10 consecutive box-office hits? That series began back in 1936, with Three Smart Girls. Ten years later, at 23, Deanna was earning $200,000 a year but feeling pretty unhappy about it all. Not long after that, she was out of pictures.

You'd hardly recognize Deanna today. Matter of fact, she wouldn't give you the chance. Despite all the material gain it brought her, she wants desperately to forget her "unnatural Hollywood childhood fame."

Now 33, she lives serenely in this small village outside Paris. She lives with her third husband, film director Charles Henri David, and her two children, Jessica (by her second husband, producer Felix Jackson) and Peter, the small son of her present marriage.

Their home is an old, dilapidated farmhouse around which the grass grows uncut and the roses bloom full and thorny. Deanna does her own housework, her own shopping, once a week brings in a maid for the heavy cleaning.

She refuses to see people from Hollywood or newsmen who have driven down from Paris for a pleasant chat. The villagers have been instructed to answer all queries concerning her with, "I'm sorry, there is no Mademoiselle Durbin here." They lie with straight and convincing faces.

Does Deanna ever grow lonely?

"Hardly ever," her tall, bespectacled husband told me. "We have our close friends, and Deanna has her music teacher. Yes, she still takes singing lessons. Her voice, I think, is more beautiful than ever. She practices two, maybe three hours a day, but when she sings now, it is for the family."

"The family is really her whole life. Here in the country she is not bothered by agents, columnists, big deals. Here she has a chance to lead a normal life, something she never knew in Hollywood."

Back to Films?

Will she ever make another movie?

"That is hard to tell," M. David said. "I am sure that for a girl who has known such tremendous success there must be at least a little longing for the past."

In this quaint rural village, however, the townspeople disagree.

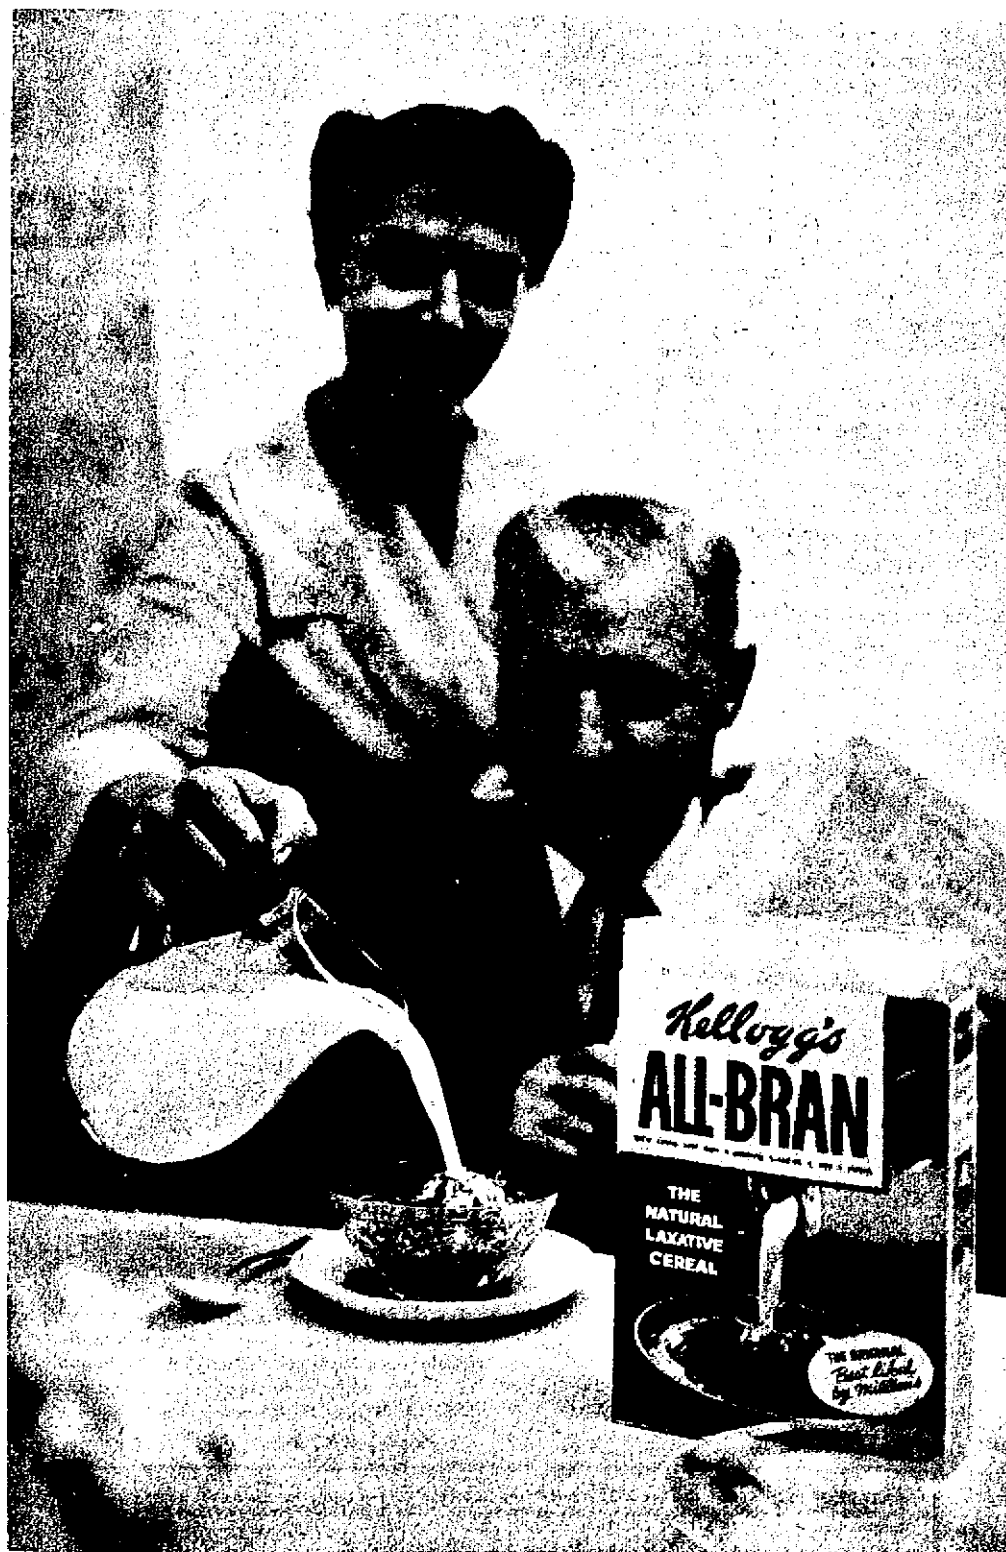

"Why should Madame David care about the past?" the baker asked. "It was not kind to her. She had two other marriages, very sour. Toward the end her movie career died. All she got from Hollywood was money and unhappiness."

"Today she is happy and gay. A little fat, perhaps, but her cheeks are red and her spirit is high. I do not blame her for wanting to forget the past."

So—if she wants it that way and is happy that way, then that is whatever happened to Deanna Durbin.

PROVED BY MILLIONS

A GENTLE NATURAL WAY TO BREAK THE LAXATIVE DRUG HABIT

Try All-Bran and Milk
nature's great food combination

for constipation due to insufficient bulk

Delicious, appetizing—solid nutritional benefits

Nature never intended that we continually prod our digestive system into action with doses of drug-type purgatives, pills and powders.

Yet many folks (perhaps even you) still think nothing else will give them relief from irregularity. But there is another way—a safe, gentle way, proved by millions.

You simply enjoy a bowl of Kellogg's All-Bran and milk every morning. Or before bedtime at night. This pleasant, delicious and inexpensive cereal supplies all the good food bulk you need daily to keep regular.

All-Bran is a natural food remedy. Eaten daily, it corrects a rather common cause of constipation—lack of bulk in the things we eat. Chemical and drug-type laxatives usually contain no bulk (since they are for temporary relief only). So you cannot expect these preparations to overcome constipation due to insufficient bulk.

The Flavor Best Liked by Millions. W. K. Kellogg originated All-Bran over 40 years ago. He aimed to improve the flavor and eating qualities of whole bran without taking away any of the effectiveness of the natural laxative bulk.

He accomplished both. On taste alone, many people prefer All-Bran to any other cereal. And because it gets at the cause of irregularity due to lack of bulk (the gentle roughage that keeps us on schedule), All-Bran has literally helped millions who have made it a part of their daily diet.

There is nothing mysterious about this. All-Bran is a good wholesome food. It is made from the outer layers of whole wheat. A serving a day with milk provides not only bulk, but valuable food essentials—including vitamins, minerals and high-quality protein.

So if you suffer from constipation caused by lack of bulk . . . if you long for freedom from the laxative drug habit, try Kellogg's All-Bran and milk every morning for 10 days. Just eat an average serving (about half a cup of All-Bran). See if you don't enjoy comfortable, natural elimination once again.

If you are not fully satisfied for any reason whatsoever, simply return the empty All-Bran carton and get twice what you paid. That's a promise from Kellogg's of Battle Creek, Mich.

PRIMER FOR AMERICANS

THROUGHOUT our history most Americans have believed that every person has certain rights and duties and responsibilities.

Americans have believed that there are certain things people should do, and things they should not do.

They have also believed in certain things that people are, and are not.

These things that people believe are called principles. This book is an attempt to state the Principles of America in simple, primer fashion so that you can understand them, learn them, and remember them.

This is important. It was because earlier Americans believed in these principles and guided their lives by them, that America has grown to be the good place it is.

If all of us learn and remember these principles—if we also guide our lives by them—then we can help to keep America growing better, and better, and better.

And if we follow these Principles of America, we can help make the world a better place to live in, too.

The Principles of America are these . . .

1. Each Person is of Importance and Value as an Individual.

2. We Believe that All Men should Enjoy Personal Freedom.

3. We Believe that All Men are Created Equal.

It is worth noting that the Declaration of Independence expressed the belief that "all men are created equal." It did not state or imply a belief that men develop equally or have equal ability, or that they should ever be forced to an exact equality of thought, speech or material possessions.

That would be equality without freedom. Americans have always believed the two should go together.

In our Constitution, and in other laws of our land, there are set down principles to protect the rights and freedoms and equality of individuals.

4. The Right to Freedom of Speech.

This includes freedom of the press, of radio, of motion pictures, of every means by which man may express his thoughts.

5. The Right to Freedom of Assembly.

As we believe in the right of individual action, so we believe that individuals should be free to act together.

6. The Right to Freedom of Worship.

Not only is the individual free to worship as he will, but religions themselves are free and equal.

7. The Right to Security of Person and Property.

Not just one, but three Amendments to the Constitution (4th, 5th and 14th) protect against illegal search and seizure, or loss of life, liberty, or property, without "due process of law."

8. The Right to Equal Protection before the Law.

As individuals are equally important, so laws must apply equally to all, without special privileges for any group.

9. The Right to Freedom from Slavery.

This includes "the right to quit," for no individual may be forced to work for another.

10. The Right to Petition the Government.

The right of the individual to "petition the government for redress of grievances" is evidence of the American belief that government is the servant, not the master, of the people.

11. The Right to Vote for people of your choice.

This is the individual's most potent weapon in the protection of his rights and freedoms . . . a weapon that to be effective must be constantly and wisely used.

Other Principles hold that every man has . . .

12. The Right to a Good Education.

13. The Right to Live where he pleases.

14. The Right to Work where he wants to.

15. The Right to Belong to an Organization.

16. The Right to Own Property.

17. The Right to Start his Own Business.

18. The Right to Manage his Own Affairs.

19. The Right to Make a Profit or to Fail, depending on his Own Ability.

There are other, similar rights of individual action which are Principles of America, but all of these individual rights may be combined in these two broad principles . . .

20. Every Man is entitled to Freedom and Equality of Opportunity.

21. Every Man may Earn his Living When, Where, and How he wants to.

There are also Limiting Principles . . .

Principles of individual freedom sometimes clash with those of individual equality. Therefore our rights as individuals must be limited, and those limitations are principles.

22. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with those of Other Individuals.

Your right to swing your arms stops where the other fellow's nose starts.

23. The Rights of any Individual shall not Interfere with the Welfare of the People.

Freedom of speech does not give the individual the right to shout "fire" in a crowded theatre.

24. Every Individual owes Obedience to the Laws under which he Lives.

The individual has the right to talk against a law, to work and vote to change that law, but NOT to disobey that law.

Principles that are Patterns of Behavior . . .

Many of our principles of individual freedom and equality are guaranteed to us by law. But we have other beliefs, other general rules of action and conduct that have grown to the status of principles. And these too, are foundations of Americanism.

25. A Man shall be Judged by his Own Record.

A man's family background, his race or his religion, is not as important as what that man himself can do, for Americans believe a man must stand on his own feet.

26. A Man is Free to Achieve as much as he can.

We believe that where any boy may become President, where any man may achieve greatness, there is the greatest incentive for every man to do his best.

27. To Achieve anything, a Man should be Willing to Work.

Americans have always known that "you don't get something for nothing," that to get anything takes a willingness to work.

28. Achievement also Depends upon the Ability to do a Good Job.

Add to "willingness to work" the ability to produce results and the combination is the basis for most individual achievement in our country.

29. Every Man has the Right to a Fair Share of the Results of his Work and his Ability.

Because of this belief, America has not only produced more goods, but they have been more fairly and more widely shared by more people than in any other country.

30. Security is the Ability of a Man to Provide for himself.

The only true security for any individual is the opportunity, the ability, and the determination to work and plan and save for his own present and future. Self-reliance is vital to individual independence and personal freedom. No man can be "proud and free" who depends on others for his security.

31. When an Individual cannot Provide his own Security, the Responsibility should be Assumed by Others.

We believe that no one should starve, or be without adequate clothing and shelter, so those who have more than their basic needs share the responsibility of providing the essentials of security for those who need help.

32. Each Individual must Deal Fairly with others, Honesty, fairness, and personal integrity are virtues that help free and independent individuals get along with each other without losing their independence.

33. Fair and Free Competition is a Good Thing. Americans have always believed that competition among individuals or groups encourages greater effort which in turn brings greater benefits to all.

34. Cooperation among Individuals is Vital.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has said: "The freedom to compete vigorously accompanied by a readiness to cooperate wholeheartedly for the performance of community and national functions, together make our system the most productive on earth."

Principles of Individual Responsibility . . .

Freedom for individuals carries with it an equal responsibility to use that freedom wisely. If we wish to remain free, we must faithfully fulfill this responsibility.

35. The Individual is Responsible for himself and his Family.

He must protect them and provide for their present and future well-being.

36. The Individual has Responsibilities to the Groups of which he is a Part.

He must give of his best to his community, his church, his employer, his union, and to every group in which individuals cooperate for their mutual benefit.

37. The Individual has Responsibilities to his Country.

He must be an active citizen, interesting himself in local, state, and national government, voting wisely, thinking and speaking and acting to preserve and strengthen freedom, equality and opportunity for every individual.

38. The Individual has Responsibilities to the World.

Man's horizons have expanded. What happens in the world affects him, and his actions can affect the world. Today, therefore, each man has a responsibility to act—and to encourage his country to act—so that freedom and cooperation will be encouraged among the people and the nations of the world.

For America's Future

If we, the people of the United States, want to have more material benefits, we must believe in and follow these two principles:

39. The only way we can Have More is to Produce More; and

40. As we Produce More, we must make it possible for More and More People to Enjoy that which we Produce.

If we, the people of the United States, want to have a better life, spiritually as well as materially . . .

41. We must stand firmly for our Beliefs, our Rights, our Principles.

There are those who would chip away our confidence so that their special brand of tyranny might creep into America. They must not succeed. So, let us ask of every plan, or act, or idea . . .

Is it With or Against the Principles of America?

About 55 calories per 12-oz. serving

You can save a lot of calories
by sweetening with Sucaryl
and you can't taste the difference

Sucaryl makes it easy for you to watch your weight . . . by giving you all sugar's sweetness, without a single calorie . . . and no bitterness or aftertaste.

This is Sucaryl: The first non-caloric sweetener that tastes just like sugar in ordinary use. Use it to sweeten your drinks, your cereal, your fruit. Cook with it—boiling and baking don't affect it at all. You can even use it in freezing. The fact is, you can use Sucaryl practically anywhere you would sugar, and you simply can't taste the difference. A point to remember, too, when you're buying dietetic foods and beverages: Sucaryl-sweetened products don't taste like "diet" foods.

Naturally, Sucaryl is for dieters and diabetics. Sugar has its place in normal diets as a source of quick energy. But where calories must be cut, Sucaryl lets you do it and still keep sweetness in your diet. If you're in doubt about your diet, ask your doctor. Your pharmacist has Sucaryl in tablets or solution; also Sucaryl Calcium for low-salt diets. Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, Ill. and Montreal.

TEEN-AGE TOPICS

The members of the Junior Girl Scout Troop #751 of Silver Spring, Md., were required to submit questions to my column in order to pass their final badge tests. Here are the most frequently asked questions and my replies:

Q. What should I wear when invited to a boy's home to dinner?

A. If you are invited to a boy's home for dinner on Sunday, wear ordinary church-going clothes. If you're invited to dinner after school, perhaps school clothes will be all that is expected. It all depends on the custom of the household to which you are invited. Talk it over with the boy.

Q. What should I do if a boy tries to kiss me?

A. Never let a boy kiss you if you find the idea distasteful. It isn't a matter of manners. A brief goodnight kiss from the middle teens on is quite usual, but certainly not necessary. To ward off an unwanted kiss, merely extend your hand to bid your escort goodnight.

Q. When should I start wearing make-up?

A. I see some 12-year-olds wearing make-up more suited to their mothers. A 13-year-old can be allowed light lipstick, light nail polish and a dusting of powder, at least for parties. The first year of high school is plenty of time for real make-up; even then, the application should be conservative.

Q. If two boys ask you to dance at the same time, which one should you dance with?

A. You can just say, "I'd like to dance with both of you. You settle it between yourselves as to who dances with me first."

Q. How long is it proper to talk on the phone?

A. The matter of phone conversation is something to work out with your family. If you want to use the phone for more than five minutes, ask the others in the family whether this is convenient. Try to limit your telephoning to times when the phone is not needed by others. Remember, too, that it is irritating for those trying to get the house to find the wire constantly busy.

Q. Should I pay for my fare on a bus, lunch, movie, refreshments, etc., when a boy invites me to go out? Is it ever correct to go "Dutch"?

A. I like "Dutch treating" to be limited to groups where perhaps one person is in charge of the whole "kitty." Usually when a girl and boy go Dutch, the boy feels rather inferior and the girl feels neglected. It is always better to choose something in the way of entertainment that the boy can manage by himself.

DR. GUY BENNETT

By Dr. B. C. Douglas

FRANK PARKER, STILL UNABLE TO GET A JOB BECAUSE OF EPILEPSY, WAITS TO HEAR FROM DR. BENNETT WHO IS AT A SENATE COMMITTEE HEARING...

AND, GENTLEMEN, WE HAVE A VAST LABOR FORCE IN THIS COUNTRY WHICH LIES IDLE IN MANY STATES BECAUSE OF THE LACK OF CORRECTIVE LEGISLATION.

YOU PROPOSE, DR. BENNETT, THAT ACCIDENTS RESULTING PRIMARILY FROM A PERSON'S HANDICAP BE NOT COUNTED IN THE COMPANY'S ACCIDENT RATE SO THAT THE COMPANY'S PREMIUMS WILL NOT BE RAISED BY THESE ACCIDENTS?

EXACTLY! THE FIRM WILL THEN BE MUCH LESS RELUCTANT TO HIRE THESE HANDICAPPED PEOPLE, MANY OF WHOM ARE QUITE CAPABLE AND PRODUCTIVE.

ONE MORE QUESTION, DR. BENNETT! SINCE THE STATE WILL NO LONGER COLLECT FOR THE HANDICAPPED PERSON'S ACCIDENT, HOW ARE WE GOING TO COMPENSATE HIM AFTER AN ACCIDENT?

FRANK PARKER 7-1-56

SET ASIDE A CERTAIN PRE-DETERMINED PERCENTAGE OF THE REGULAR PREMIUMS AND PLACE IT IN A FUND FOR THE HANDICAPPED.

DR. BENNETT, WE ADMIRE YOUR CONCERN FOR THESE PEOPLE AND THE CLARITY WITH WHICH YOU MADE YOUR PROPOSAL, BUT WE'LL HAVE TO STUDY IT FURTHER.

LATER... DR. BENNETT, DO YOU HAVE ANY NEWS FOR US?

NOT YET, AND I DON'T KNOW IF IT WILL BE GOOD NEWS.

OH, WHAT'S THE USE, DR. BENNETT? I'VE GOT EPILEPSY AND MY FAMILY AND I HAVE TO SUFFER THE CONSEQUENCES. LET'S FACE IT.

VEL[®]

MAKES DISHES SHINE

WITHOUT WASHING OR WIPING!

"VEL SOAKS DISHES CLEAN—saves you all the hard work!"

Don't Wash—JUST SOAK
Dishes soak grease-free in seconds! No washing is needed. If food clings, a touch of the dishcloth gets it off. No greasy dishwater with Vel.

Don't Wipe—JUST RINSE
Just soak and rinse. Dishes dry without wiping! Even grease in pots and pans is so completely dissolved no hard scouring is needed.

Package for package—VEL CUTS GREASE BETTER

- * Better than liquid detergents* Better than soap
- * Better than the leading washday detergent —and yet NO 'DETERGENT BURN' to hands!

PROVE IT YOURSELF!
"Hand-Heat Test" shows why:

Dip hands in water. Then put a tablespoonful of any leading washday detergent in one hand — put a tablespoonful of VEL in the other.

FEEL THE HEAT from washday detergents, indicating irritating alkalis and harsh chemicals that cause "Detergent Burn"!

FEEL NO HEAT with Vel because Vel contains no irritating alkalis or harsh washday chemicals to cause "Detergent Burn"!

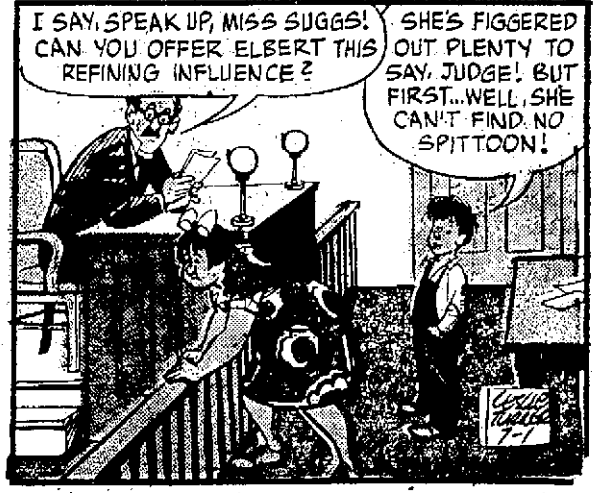

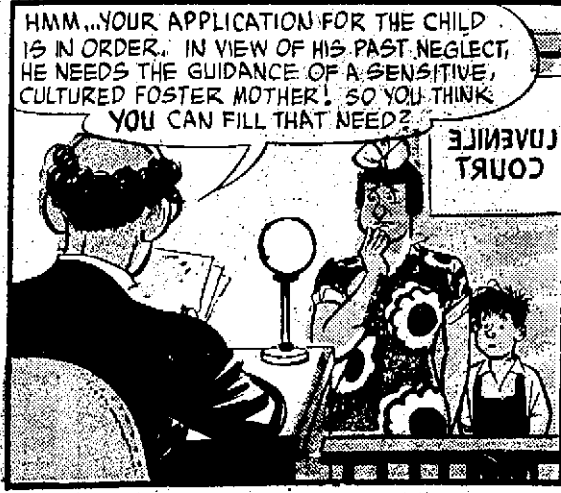

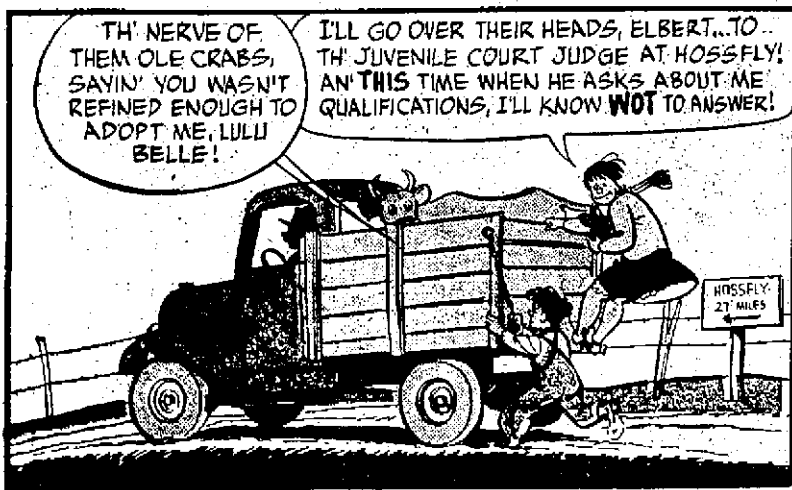

Vel is a miracle of mildness! Vel helps you avoid rough, red hands—causes no "Detergent Burn"!

MarVELous for dishes and finest fabrics.

2. YOUNG MANHOOD

HEAD OF LANCE LAY EIGHT LONG YEARS OF SCHOOLING! THIS SEEMED PRETTY GRIM TO AN ADVENTUROUS LAD OF 14, FOR MEANWHILE THERE WAS EXCITEMENT TO BE FOUND ON THE WESTERN FRONTIER!

LATE ONE NIGHT, MAKING HIS DECISION, THE YOUTH BUCKLED ON HIS FATHER'S OLD CAVALRY SABRE AND CREPT TO THE STABLES.....

THE WAY WEST WAS LONGER THAN LANCE THOUGHT AND HIS MONEY WAS SOON GONE. THEN HE WOULD APPROACH A LONELY FARMHOUSE AND SAY, "GOOD EVENING, SIR. DO YOU HAVE WORK IN RETURN FOR A NIGHT'S FOOD AND LODGING?"

THE FARMERS ALWAYS GOT A BARGAIN AND THIS MADE THEM SHAKE THEIR HEADS IN WONDER. WHO WAS THIS TIRELESS YOUTH WHO DRESSED LIKE A PRINCE AND SPLIT RAILS LIKE A BACKWOODSMAN?

TWICE ON THE ROAD LANCE'S FINE HORSE BECAME A TARGET FOR THIEVES. AFTER ALL, WHAT FIGHT COULD THEY EXPECT FROM A BOY!

AT LONG LAST, LOOKING LESS LIKE A PRINCE, LANCE REACHED A PLACE CALLED OLD FRANKLIN. HE PAUSED TO WATCH, WIDE-EYED, AS A HUGE FREIGHT CARAVAN LUMBERED OUT OF TOWN.....

"WHERE ARE THEY GOING?" HE ASKED A YOUTH NEAR HIS OWN AGE. "SANTA FE," CAME THE REPLY. "WHAR Y'FROM?" "VIRGINIA. MY NAME'S LANCE SAINT-LORNE." "I'M KIT CARSON." GRINNING, THE BOYS SHOOK HANDS AND THEN RETURNED THEIR GAZE TO THE BIG WAGONS. SANTA FE WAS WEST, AND WEST WAS ADVENTURE AND EXCITEMENT.....

STRUCK DOWN, SUDDENLY, TERRIBLY, AS A SOLDIER IS FELLED... BUT IN THE SKILLED CARE OF MEN OF WAR, ANNIE HAS A FIGHTING CHANCE...

YOU SAVED A LOT OF THEM, DOC...

AND SOMETIMES IT COMES TO A CHILD! SHE'S NOT A SOLDIER! WHY SHOULD IT COME FOR HER?

YOU'RE WRONG, DOC! SHE IS A SOLDIER... JUST A LITTLE ONE, MAYBE...

NO UNIFORM... BAND... MEDALS... BUT AS HARD AND BRAVE A FIGHTER AS YOU OR I EVER KNEW... FIGHTING FOR RIGHT, AND DECENCY AND FREEDOM FOR ALL!

THAT'S A LOT, COMING FROM YOU, COLONEL!

NOT "COLONEL" ANY MORE, DOC! I SAID, LET'S GET OUT OF MEMORY LANE! I'M COLLAR JOHN...

I KNOW... COMMANDO! YOU KILLED TO PRESERVE WHAT WE ALL BELIEVE IN... THAT WAS WAR...

AND NOW? NOW, AS I GET IT, YOU WANT TO HELP MEN TO LIVE... WITH THEIR NEIGHBORS...

... WITH THEMSELVES, DOC... THAT IS THE SECRET OF LIVING...

YES... AND IF I'VE FAILED... I'LL SEE HER FACE ALWAYS!

IT WOULDN'T BE YOUR FAULT... ANYWAY, WHY BORROW WORRY?

I HAVE FAITH SHE'LL LIVE, DOC! WE'VE BOTH BEEN THROUGH FIRE! WE'VE SEEN FAITH WORK BEFORE!

YOU NEVER WOULD GIVE UP... WELL, NEITHER WILL I, JOHN!

C'MON... C'MON! GIT IT UP... IT'S FOR TH' 'OSPITAL!

SO, WE'RE ALL BUMS... OFFICIALLY! GIT IT UP TH' FOLDIN' STUFF!

HO-KAY! HERE'S A FIN...

Y'PIKER! HERE'S A SAWBUCK!

WHAT IF TH' POOR KID DOESN'T MAKE IT?

WHY, YOU...! WHO SAID THAT?

WHY, ANNIE CAN'T DIE!

A FEW MONTHS AGO WE'D NEVER HEARD OF HER... BUT NOW? NO DAUGHTER COULD BE DEARER...

THEY WON'T TELL US ANYTHING AT THE HOSPITAL! IF ONLY THEY'D TELL US!

I DON'T BLAME YOU FOR NOT EATIN'! I GOT NO APPETITE, EITHER... BUT SHE'LL MAKE IT, SANDY... SHE'S GOTTA FOR ALL OF US!

Spending The Holiday

BY HARRY WEINERT

THE TRAFFIC COP SPENDS THE DAY WATCHING THEM PASS THE RED LIGHT—AND CALLING THEIR ATTENTION TO THE MATTER.

IT'S A GOOD IDEA TO VISIT HISTORIC SPOTS—LIKE THE PLACE WHERE SOMEONE ONCE FOUND A PEARL IN AN OYSTER.

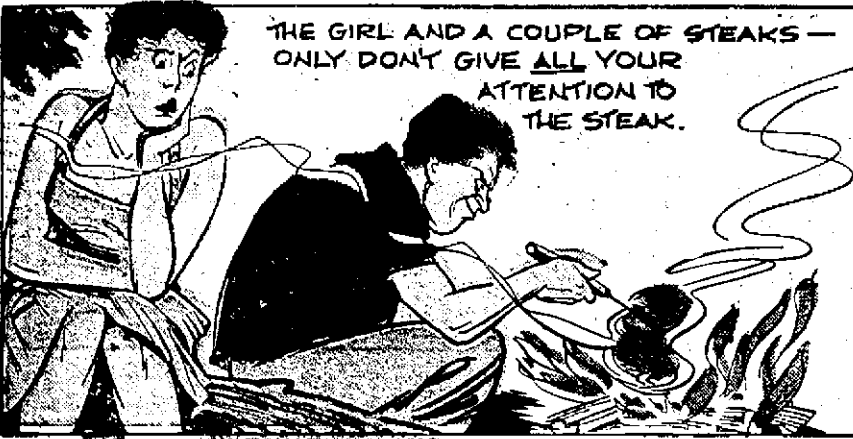

FOR THOSE WHO HATE CROWDS, THERE'S THE VAST AND ROLLING OCEAN—IF YOU CAN FIND IT.

IT'S A GREAT DAY FOR NATURE LOVERS TO HELP THEMSELVES TO SHRUBS, FLOWERS AND YOUNG TREES—ANYTHING THAT ISN'T NAILED DOWN.

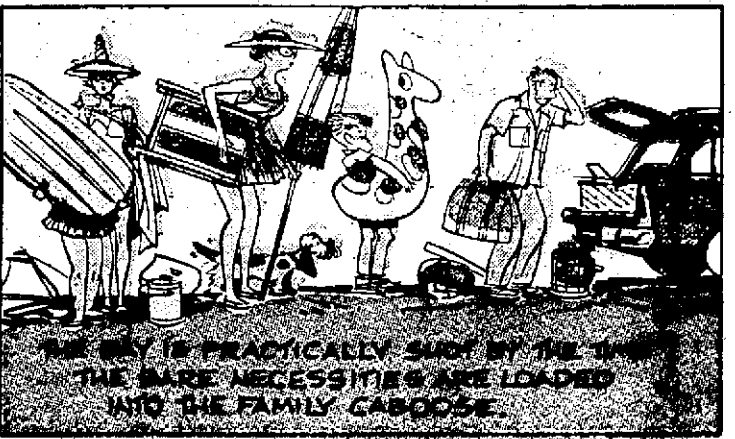

AN EXPERIENCED POOCH KNOWS THAT THE BEST PLACE TO SPEND THE HOLIDAY IS AT HOME—UNDER A BED.

THE GIRL AND A COUPLE OF STEAKS—ONLY DON'T GIVE ALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE STEAK.

THERE IS ONLY ONE THING YOU CAN DO WHEN SHE ISN'T INTERESTED IN FISHING—AND THAT'S GO FISHING—AFTER ALL, IT IS INDEPENDENCE DAY.

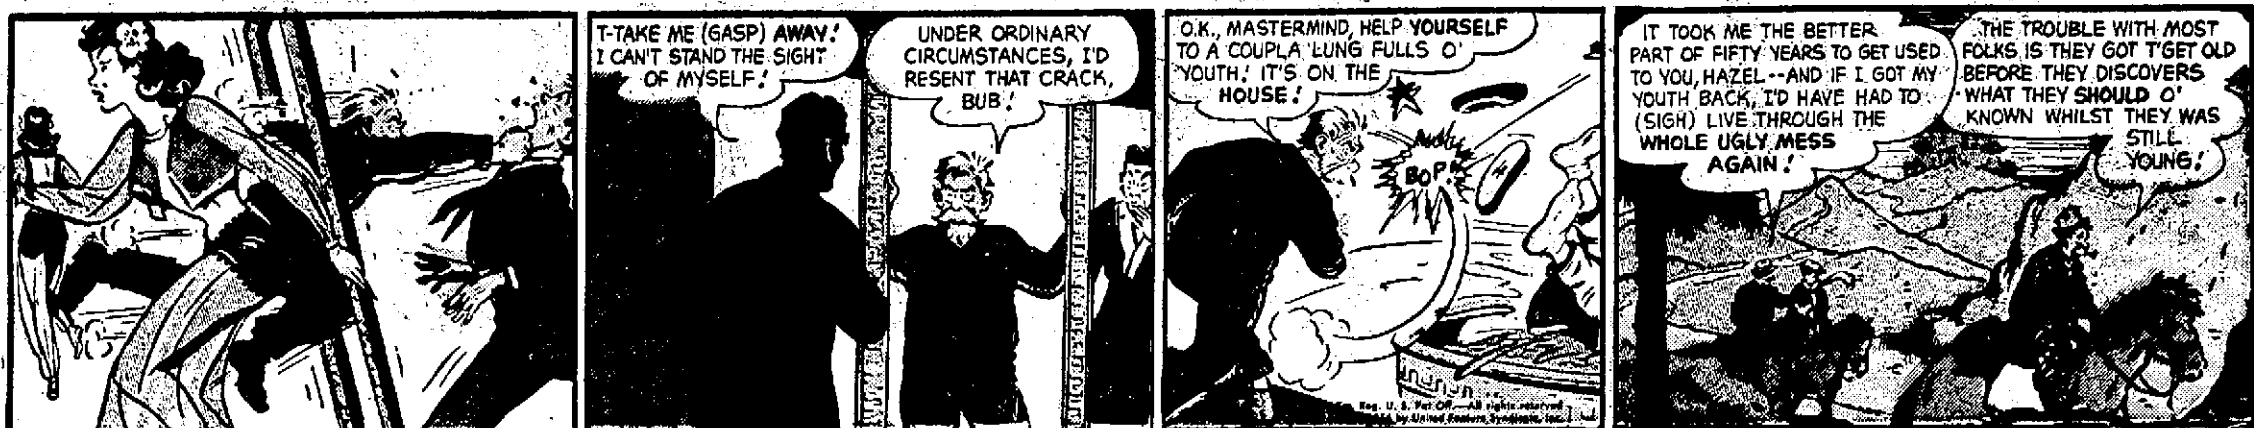

THE BUY IS PRACTICALLY SURE BY THE TIME THE PURE NECESSITIES ARE LOADED INTO THE FAMILY CABOOSE.
